MT. ST. MARY'S ALUMNAE

Annual Election at Mountain College Marked by Day of Festivity.

Marked by elaborate exercise of a celebratory nature, the annual meeting of the alumnae of Mount Saint Mary's College, attended by seventy graduates of St. Joseph's Academy at Bordentown and Saint Gabriel's Academy, was held at the new college yesterday, when the members of the class of 1909, who will receive their diplomas June 17, were made members of the association and new officers were elected. The visiting alumnae came from all parts of the State, and were entertained at the mountain college during the entire day.

The guest of honor of the occasion was the Right Rev. Mons. Connolly, of Phillipsburg, who has been for twenty-five years pastor of the church at Bordentown and has showed a lively interest in the formation and growth of the college. Other guests were the Hon. Michael W. Burns, of New York city, and the Hon. William S. Clare, of New York city. These were called upon for addresses, as was David T. Kenney, who spoke in praise of the work done by the Mother Superior and others in charge at the college since its foundation.

At the annual business meeting of the organization held at the college in the afternoon, new association officers were chosen, who will serve for a term of twelve years. Miss Tilly Gregory, of Newark, was chosen to head the alumnae, and Mrs. John Stiles, of Brooklyn, was chosen as vice-president. Miss Irene Duchesne, of this city, was elected secretary, and Miss Margaret Grey was elected for a second term as treasurer.

The alumnae arrived from all trains, and were taken to the coltrains, and were taken to the college in automobiles, after an inspection tour of the city. An elaborate dinner was served in the college dining room at mid-day, when there were speeches by Mons. Connolly and the retiring officers of the alumnae association. In connection with the annual meeting of the association held in the afternoon, a movement was started to raise a scholarship fund of $500 by subscription among the alumnae. The subscription blanks will be distributed on Thanksgiving eve; a committee was appointed to arrange for the scholarship subscription. At the conclusion of the alumnae meeting, which followed a special assembly held in the morning, when there were educational addresses by the two guests from New York, a group photograph was taken on the campus.

In connection with the meeting, and in accordance with an annual custom of the association, the members of the class of 1909 were introduced in the alumnae and made members of the association. The graduates, who will receive their diplomas on June 17, are Miss Annabel Jones, of Goldsboro, North Carolina; Miss Grace Rafferty, of Sandford avenue; Miss Irene Smith, of New York city; Miss Marie O'Hara, of New York city; Miss Marguerite McDonough, of South Plainfield, and Miss Edna Kahny, of Princeton.

MEMORIAL DAY AT BERKELEY HEIGHTS.

Memorial Day services were conducted in the Lyceum at Berkeley Heights on Sunday by the Township Society of "Our Men." Stirring addresses were made by William Jeffery, president of the society, and Squire S. P. Debbie. The members and friends, numbering about 200 in all, then asembled on the street and under the escort of the Holy Name Society, marched to St. Mary's church yard on the hill and decorated the grave of Michael Laurino, who was one of the charter members of the society.

Services were afterwards held in the church which was filled to overflowing. The pastor, Rev. Linecs Schwartz, delivered an inspiring sermon pointing out the noble example that such observation of Decoration Day sets to the young and growing generation.

Fought About Painters' Union.

Because John Peterson is a union painter, and John Marcus, a brush-flapper who carries no "card," the two took occasion to quarrel and fight when they met in a Front street saloon Saturday night, and Patrolman Vanderweg broke up an exchange of epithets and blows by arresting the pair. Both acknowledged that they had taken sundry drinks when they faced Judge Runyon at the city court session yesterday morning, and Peterson paid a fine of $5, while sentence was suspended on Marcus.

MISS HYATT'S WEDDING

Charming Young Society Woman Becomes Wife of Dr. J. B. Hawes, 2d.

Miss Cornelia Lawrence Hyatt, daughter of Mrs. Edgar S. Hyatt, of East Ninth street, and granddaughter of the late Louis Hyatt, of New Brunswick, and Dr. John Bromham Hawes, 2nd, of Boston, were married at Grace church this afternoon before a large and fashionable congregation. Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, the rector, officiated. Following the ceremony a reception for relatives and intimate friends took place at the Hyatt home.

Rev. Oscar B. Hawes, of Germantown, Philadelphia, a brother of the groom, was best man at the wedding. The bride was unattended. The flower girls and pages were Margaret, Beatrice and Theodore B. Starr, all of New York, and Volney Foster Righter, of this city. The ushers were Rev. William R. Jelliffe, Dr. Henry Dunning and Francis J. Danforth, all of New York; Dr. Beth Vincent, Arthur Drinkwater and E. Howard George, all of Boston; Dr. John Homans, of Baltimore, and Frederick W. Goddard, of this city. George Henry Danforth, of Summit, a cousin of the bride, gave her in marriage. The edifice was profusely decorated with palms, white roses and white carnations. S. Frederick Smith, the church organist, played the wedding march and the choir sang several selections. The bride was gowned in duchesse lace embroidered with satin. Her tulle veil was caught up with orange blossoms.

Mrs. Hawes was educated abroad where Mr. and Mrs. Hyatt spent many years. She is a favorite in local society. Dr. Hawes, who is a Harvard man, gave his bachelor dinner at the Harvard Club, in New York, on Saturday night. A large dinner was given for the bridal party by Mrs. William B. Tyler at her home on Evergreen avenue yesterday afternoon and following a reception Mrs. Walter B. Righter gave a supper for the party at the Watchung Hunt Club.

Following an extended honeymoon trip, Dr. and Mrs. Hawes will reside in Boston.

HIGH SCHOOL PUPILS TO SING "TRIAL BY JURY"

The first local presentation of Gilbert and Sullivan's tuneful comic opera, "Trial By Jury," will be given by pupils of the Plainfield High School at the school auditorium on Saturday night, June 5. The pupils, who have been carefully coached by Charles L. Lewis, singing instructor of the city schools, comprise the most talented of the boys and girls, and the members of the P. H. S. quartet will all have parts.

The part of the Judge will be sung by Samuel B. Howe, Jr., instructor in history at the school. Miss Olive Lockwood will take the part of the plaintiff, and Guion H. Fountain will be the plaintiff's counsel. F. Clyde Doane has been assigned the role of defendant; Charles E. Prior, Jr., will be the foreman of the jury in the play, and LeRoy Titsworth will be the court usher. The parts of the bridesmaids will be sung by the Misses Brown, Pennock, Eckert, Bristol, Phillips, Brower, Bird and Waldron. Other pupils will take part as jurymen, spectators, etc. Frank J. Smith will be at the piano.

Because of the shortness of the opera, a miscellaneous concert will be given in connection with it, and various vocal and instrumental numbers will make up the first part of the program. Mrs. George Milton Sellick, a noted New York soprano, will render several selections, among which will be the famous Gounod-Bach "Ave Maria," to be sung with accompaniment by violin and piano. Mrs. Violet Truell-Johnston will play several violin solos, and there will be choruses by the school glee club

Miss Goddard in College Burlesque.

Miss Elsie Goddard, of East Ninth street, took the part of "Freshie Rogers," one of the two principal characters in the musical burlesque, "The Rogers Sisters at Wellesley," presented on the Wellesley College campus Saturday afternoon and evening. Written by a Wellesley girl, the play, which depicted the doings of "Freshie" and "Greenie" Rogers at the college was enthusiastically received by large audiences of alumnae at both performances. Miss Goddard's appearance was a decided hit, and she had a part in the arrangement of several of the musical numbers of the laughable burlesque. Miss Goddard graduated from Wellesley with the class of 1906.

THE PLAINFIELD POLICE FORCE

Clad in their new summer uniforms, and wearing for the first time their new white French military caps identical to those worn by the New York city police, the twenty-one patrolmen of the Plainfield police force were marched and counter-marched in various manoeuvres at police headquarters Saturday afternoon, and were finally inspected by Mayor C. J. Fisk and members of the Councilmanc police board on the occasion of the annual police drill and inspection. The drill was conducted by Captain Christian Frederickson, who later turned over the command to Chief of Police P. S. Kielv.

The members of the Councilmanic police board were all present and each had some good things to say about the efficiency and fine appearance of the local peace guardians. Mayor Fisk, who made the announcements of the new summer schedule of duty, also expressed himself as well pleased with the showing in the drill and the conscientious work while on duty.

It was the first chance that Councilman George S. Clay, the new member of the police board, had had to see all the "finest" together, and he congratulated them on their splendid appearance. Councilman Frank Randolph, chairman of the board, addressed the men, as did Councilman W. L. Gloak, who declared that they were equal, if not superior, to the police of cities of larger size, as seen by him on similar occasions in other parts of the State. At the conclusion of the inspection, the entire force was photographed.

BETTER HOURS FOR THE LOCAL POLICEMEN

The shortening of the hours of duty for the night men of the police force and the assignment of day men for night duty in alternating shifts of four weeks each during the summer months, was announced in connection with the annual police review held at police headquarters Saturday afternoon. The day men, however, will be on duty for a longer time than heretofore, for the ten hour assignment, with one hour for dinner at noon, has been changed to a twelve hour assignment with an hour and a half at noon.

The ruling shortening the hours of night duty has been made at the petition of the Patrolmen's Association. During the summer months, the police force will work in day and night shifts, and at the end of four weeks from today, the men assigned to day duty this morning will go on night duty, and their places will be taken by the men now on night duty. The night "beats" are considerably longer than the day "beats." The new schedule of hours was announced by Mayor C. J. Fisk at the review.

MANY BIG ENTRIES FOR THE HORSE SHOW

On Saturday a special train left Jersey City over the New Jersey Central with seventy horses for the Philadelphia horse show. These horses will come to Plainfield for the local horse show on June 10, 11 and 12. A special innovation has been inaugurated by the Plainfield Riding and Driving Club. Special shipments of horses will be made not only to Plainfield from New York, but also to Philadelphia, then to Plainfield and back to New York upon round trip rates made by the Plainfield Riding and Driving Club itself.

The Plainfield show this year will be up to the usual high standard. Among the new exhibitors will be Julian Morris, of Kesswick, Va., who will be here with his prize hunters, in place of the Westchester Farm entries; E. H. Weatherbee, of New York, with his saddle horses, and Mrs. Sophie Gummey, of Philadelphia, who has an exceptional string of thoroughbreds.

Of course, Miss Emily Bedford will be here to defend the challenge cup which she won with Hildred. Among the other exhibitors who will be here will be Reginald C. Vanderbilt, George W. Watson, J. T. Spratley, R. L. Patterson, Otto Kahn, J. W. Harriman, Tonzo Sauvage, Paul Sorg, while Edwin S. Hooley, W. J. Butterfield and C. W. Mutchen will have entries, together with other local exhibitors.

He Must Pay for the Hat.

Ejected from the New Plainfield theatre by Special Officer King last night for raising a rumpus with a champion, Edward Kiely, of Steiner place, got scrappy and smashed the special's new straw hat. Facing City Judge Runyon at court today, Kiely said he was drunk at the time and had not meant to be so destructive. Asked to pay for the hat, the prisoner said he had no money. Unless he can earn the necessary two dollars to reimburse the special for his fractured headgear, Kiely will go to Elizabeth for a thirty days' term, according to sentence imposed by the Judge.

MOUNT SAINT MARY'S COLLEGE CHAPLAIN DEAD

The death of Rev. Michael J. Brennan, chaplain of Mount St. Mary's College, occurred at St. Michael's Hospital, Newark, on Sunday night, after an illness of four months. Father Brennan's desire while alive was that his death might occur in that hospital, where he had been a chaplain over thirty years ago.

The dead priest was a son of Daniel Brennan, a well-known contractor of Orange. He was borne in Ireland fifty-nine years ago, and was brought to this country when only two years old. He received his early education in St. John's Parochial School, entered Seton Hall College, from where he was graduated in 1872. Three years later he was ordainted to the priesthood at the American College, Rome, where he studied with the present Bishop O'Connor. At Seton Hall he was a class-mate of the Rev. Isaac P. Whelan, rector of St. Patrick's Cathedral; Monsignor John A. Sheppard and Dean Bernard J. Mulligan, of Camden.

The body of the priest was removed to the home of his sisters, where the funeral will be held on receipt of instructions from Bishop McFaul, of the Trenton Diocese.

Local Juniors at the Unveiling.

Members of the four local lodges of the Jr. O. U. A. M., went to Newark yesterday to attend the unveiling ceremonies of the monument to Past State Councilor Albert J. Adams council, of Newark, and as a State official. Cornelius D. Taylor, of Dunellen, a member of the Newark council, attended the ceremonies with a party of the Dunellen lodgemen.

MRS. SCHOONMAKER DEAD

Her Father, Rev. Jos. Stockton, a Pioneer Presbyterian Minister.

The funeral services of Mrs. Mary Stockton Schoonmaker, whose death occurred Sunday night at her home on Central avenue, were held this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. In the absence of Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, who is in Denver, Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, of the First Baptist church, officiated. During the service, Miss Grace Carroll and Miss Bertha van Nuis Willis, sang "I'm a Pilgrim," "Softly Now the Light of Day," and "Asleep in Jesus." The interment will be in Pittsburg, Pa.

In the death of Mrs. Schoonmaker, who was in the ninety-first year of her age, a large circle of friends and acquaintances are left to mourn her loss. Hers was a bright and helpful Christian life. Even though so far advanced in years she was exceptionally young in spirit and was deeply interested in everything that went on about her, and was an inspiration to all with whom she came in contact. She retained all her faculties until the end and played many old Scotch songs on the piano for her friends.

Mrs. Schoonmaker was the daughter of Rev. Joseph Stockton, one of the first Presbyterian ministers west of the Alleghany mountains, and the widow of James Schoonmaker, both of Pittsburg. She was born August 17, 1818, in Pittsburg, where she lived until a number of years ago, when she came to Plainfield to make her home with her daughter, Mrs. Frederic Hamlin Andrews on Central avenue.

At the recent centennial celebration in Pittsburg Mrs. Schoonmaker was the guest of honor as the oldest native morn resident. She leaves four sons, Col. James M. Schoonmaker, of Pittsburg; George B. Schoonmaker and S. L. Schoonmaker, of New York, and Frederick W. Schoonmaker, of Montclair; three daughters, Mrs. Frederic Hamlin Andrews, of this city; Mrs. Jas. J. Brown, of Asheville, N. C., and Mrs. William P. Wood, of Pittsburg. She lost a son, J. Stockton Schoonmaker, of this city, and one daughter, Mrs. Esther C. MacLean.

HOPE'S ORGAN FUND CAUSE FOR REJOICING

A special service arranged in celebration of the completion of the organ fund, was held at Hope chapel Sunday night. This included an attractive program of music and a short address by the pastor, Rev. L. R. Howard. An organ loft, the gife of Judge W. N. Runyon's Bible class and the Ladies' Aid Society, was used for the first time by the choir. The platform was decorated with flowers, palms and ferns, and a large American flag.

Instead of the usual sermon, Mr. Howard gave a short talk, a summary of the work in raising the money for the organ. He stated that the sum paid for the organ, including motor, was $1,700, with an additional expense of $200 for installation. By an arrangement with the trustees of the Crescent Avenue church, the original plan of payment was $700 cash on completion, one note for $300 payable in six months, one note for $300 payable in twelve months, and one note for $300, payable in eighteen months.

Instead of this plan, however, through the efforts of the Ladies' Aid Society and other members of the chapel, a successful fair was held in October, so that when the organ was ready for use, it was possible to pay, besides the expenses for installation, $1,400 cash on the instrument, leaving only one note due, May 1, 1909. The Ladies' Aid Society then pledged to raise $50 by September 1, and the members were so successful that they doubled the amount, leaving a balance of $224, including interest. Since that time the Ladies' Aid Society, with the assistance of the Junior Boys' Club, the Young Men's Club and the Easter offering steadily decreased the amount to be raised, and then as a final and appreciated gift, Judge Runyon's class turned over $100, making it possible to liquidate the indebtedness on Tuesday.

Mr. Howard then delivered a short sermon on "The Power of Music in Strengthening and Inspiring the Religious Life," after which a fine musical program was rendered by the choir under the direction of Mrs. Howard, organist. Charles Prior also assisted in the choir. Several musicals will be given during the coming season on Sunday nights.

HUNT CLUB STEEPLECHASE

Some Exciting Events and Few Spills at the Annual Race Meeting.

Ideal weather conditions, a full list of entries and a big society crowd combined to make the fifth annual race meeting of the Watchung Hunt Club, on Saturday, the most successful in the history of the organization. There were fully two thousand people on the grounds, including well-known personages from Morristown, Bernardsville, New York, Brooklyn, Allenhurst, Lenox, Mass., Philadelphia and this city. At one time there were ninety-two automobiles in the parking spaces.

The card comprised six races in all, two steeplechase, two flat, a hurdle and the farmer's race, and all were run off in good time, without a hitch. There were a few spills, but nothing that proved serious. Perhaps, the worse was the one which occurred to H. I. Goodwin, up on Essex B, Peter Hauck's entry in the second race for the Middlesex cup. At the time of the accident Essex B was going easy and led the field by several lengths, and looked to be an easy winner.

Goodwin had carried his mount successfully over the early jumps, but at the last but one from home the horse ran into the jump and stumbled over it, throwing the jockey. He was assisted to the clubhouse, where it was thought his arm was broken. Later it was found to be only thrown out of place, similar to an accident Goodwin had at Cedarhurst in April. A physician was summoned to set the bone.

There was a series of accidents in the race for the Watchung cup, when Fred Alpers up on H. S. Farlee's Samurai, and C. E. S. Bellows up on his own mount, Mechanic, came to grief at the third and fifth jumps. Both riders escaped with a few injuries. Alpers was unable to finish, but Bellows did and he took third money. Jay Coogan, Jr., who rode Jack Wilmerding's Mystery, was thrown in the second race, but was able to finish.

The many friends of Miss Mabel B. Hooley were disappointed over the performance of her entry, Sue, in the race for the Watchung cup, which was won by C. W. Fisk's Apple Jack for the second time and becomes his property. Sue was an equal favorite with Apple Jack, but on the first time round the horse cut the flag and was disqualified, much to the chagrin of its rider, Eckerson, who was unable to prevent the break.

As usual, a "ringer" appeared in the farmers' race, but the keen-eyed judges detected the horse in time. The entry was gray mare "Rose," and the owner said to be Peter Lath. As soon as the horse appeared on the track everyone was sure that it was out of its class, and the owner was summoned before the judges. Lath could not explain the horse's pedigree satisfactorily, and the animal was barred. One of the officials said that the entry ran at Whippany a week ago.

F. M. Suydam's Harry, Gretter up, won the farmers' race handily, the horse maintaining a safe lead throughout. There were five entries and all showed up well.

There were a number of bookmakers on the grounds, but they kept well under cover throughout the meet. They did not fare very well. During the early part of the afternoon they did business on the oral system, but losers failed to make good. After that the system was changed and the money was put up in a quiet way. A deputy sheriff and a number of assistants from Middlesex county were on hand and their vigilance kept the bookies in line.

After the races the club entertained a company of ninety, comprising the farmers and their families, while more than 150 dinners were served at the clubhouse. The farmers' dinner was served in a large tent on the grounds, Timbo being the caterer.

Reginald C. Vanderbilt, upon the invitation of Lewis E. Waring, whose guest he was, acted as one of the stewards of the meet in place of J. Searle Barclay, Jr. The other stewards were Edwin S. Hooley, Frederic Bull, Charles S. Pfizer, H. L. Herbert; W. C. Cammann and Willard Parker, Jr., were judges; Frederick W. Jones, Jr., paddock judge; Harvey Fisk, patrol judge; John Shields, starter, while E. C. Smith was clerk of the course and scales. The race committee composed C. E. S. Bellows, chairman; Rufus C. Finch, Charles F. Wilder, Jr., Charles W. Fisk and Lewis E. Waring.

The summaries:

First race—Union cup for hacks and hunters; to carry 167 pounds, half-breds allowed 12 pounds; one mile and a half on the flat; purse $100. First, O. K. Leonce Fuller

IN A GARRET.

The home of a toiler is Everywhere—
On the stone-hard street—up the rickety stair
I tread when Night the broad day bars
That leads—thank God—to a gleam of Stars!
The Stair that creaks in the darkness lone
Like the ghosts were coming to claim their own!
For who toils in a garret for bread—for gold—
Is one with the singers they starved of old!

My friends are ghosts: for the human died
In the world where my heart was crucified—
Where a place of Skulls for their hate sufficed—
Dark as the Calvary of the Christ!
But singers the wide world o'er have known
Death where the Darkness makes its moan!
And I am even as they—long dead:
With a crust of Love and a crust of bread!

Here, with my ghost-friends standing by
I shall toil till I die—I shall toil till I die,
With a song to the stars and a song to the sky—
A smile in a tear, and a laugh in a sigh!
The world, my masters, the world—it knows
Where to plant the thorn and reap the rose!
But the toiler for bread in a garret high—
Well, the stars and the ghosts are his friends:
Good-by!

—Frank L. Stanton in Home Magazine.

A Deferred Reward.

A little boy in Trenton, who has but recently mastered his catechism, confessed his disappointment therin in the following terms:

"Say, dad, I obey the Fifth Commandment and honor my father and mother, yet my days are not a bit longer in the land, for I'm put to bed every night at 7 o'clock just the same."—Lippincott's.

Mary Jane—What makes you so black, Tilda?

Tilda—You'd be black, too, if you was born at midnight, in a dark room, and had a black fadder and a black mammy!—Puck.

Novelty Bird Act at the Plainfield.

The bird act introduced at the New Plainfield theatre, last ight, together with a number of other high-grade vaudeville numbers, is doubtless one of the best seen in this city. It comprises Montague's cockatoes, and the birds take part in a Roman chariot parade, butterfly dance and other difficult feats, concluding with "Fighting the Flames." The other acts include May Craney, comedienne; Morris and Daly, comedy pair; E. P. Sullivan & Co., in "Taming a Barbarian;" Guy Bartlett & Co., in "A Welsh Rarebit Dream," and Crowley and Crowley, singers and dancers. The same big bill is offered today.

Wife Had Hensey Arrested.

Upon the complaint of his wife, who charged him with brutality, verbal abuse and almost perpetual drunkenness, John Hensey, of West Second street, was arrested on the woman's warrant Saturday by Patrolman Sweeney. At court yesterday morning, the woman had some startling things to testify about John's behavior toward her, but her manner showed that perhaps both had been at fault on some occasions and City Judge Runyon suspended sentence on the man, with the suggestion that he do his part to keep the peace in the home.

OBSERVE MEMORIAL DAY

Veterans Attend Church Services and Decorate Graves of Comrades.

In memory of the soldiers who lost their lives in the Civil War, impressive services attended by the members of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, and the Women's Relief Corps, Auxiliary No. 2, were held Sunday, when Rev. C. M. Anderson, pastor of the First M. E. church, spoke at the meeting held in Reform Hall in the afternoon and preached a Memorial Day sermon at the church in the evening. In the afternoon, elaborate Memorial Day exercises were held at the Scotch Plains Baptist church, when Rev. Franklin K. Mathiews, the pastor, preached to a large congregation, including delegations from the G. A. R., the Women's Relief Corps, the Scotch Plains fire department and public school children. The graves of the dead veterans were in the local cemeteries decorated with flags and flowers yesterday afternoon, when the members of the G. A. R. were accompanied by Company K. The veterans' graves in the Scotch Plains cemetery were decorated by a detail of the local Post members Sunday afternoon.

The principal memorial service of the day was at the First M. E. church Sunday night, when about 120 members of the local Post and Relief Corps attended. Rev. C. M. Anderson, pastor of the church, delivered the address, and spoke on the topic, "Is There a Cause?" His remarks were relative to the Civil War, and he cited four principal causes, as follows: the publication of sectional books, a difference in the interpretation of parts of the Constitution, the contention of Southerners that capital should control labor, and the belief by the Southerners that the sovereign rights of the people rested with the individual states and not with the nation.

Dr. Anderson spoke of the fall of Fort Sumpter, stating that Lieutenant Winfield Scott, after whom the local Post is named, received his promotion to General because of bravery there. In connection with the reference to President Lincoln's two calls for volunteers during the war, the speaker took occasion to comment upon the great sacrifices made by the Union volunteers, many of whom lost all their fortunes as well as undergoing terrible hardship during the various campaigns.

In conclusion, Rev. Dr. Anderson said that there were three important national issues to be met and settled today. These are the differences between capital and labor, the regulation of the liquor traffic and the maintainance of the public school system. The church was decorated with the national colors and patriotic music was rendered by the choir.

Sunday afternoon, Rev. Dr. Anderson conducted an impressive devotional service at Reform Hall, where there was a large attendance. The principal speaker was Charles Burroughs, of Rutherford, formerly national quartermaster of the Union forces. During his stay in town, the speaker was entertained at the home of Captain W. C. Smith, of Grandview avenue.

Addressing a congregation which taxed to its utmost the seating capacity of the Scotch Plains Baptist church, Rev. Franklin K. Mathiews preached an excellent Memorial Day sermon Sunday afternoon, when members of Winfield Scott Post and the Women's Relief Corps attended in a body, making the trip by special trolley cars. The speaker referred to the privation and suffering of the Union soldiers and spoke of the fact that Captain John Hand, the first New Jersey volunteer to fall in the cause of the Union, lay buried in the Scotch Plains cemetery. The invocation was by Rev. E. C. Gisriel, pastor of the Methodist church, the Scripture lesson by S. D. Townsend, principal of the public schools and the prayer by Rev. W. R. Mulford, rector of the Episcopal church. During the services, several patriotic hymns were sung by the congregation, led by a chorus choir. The songs included three composed by Dr. Abraham Coles, "Our Country's Banner," "My Native Land," and "Columbia, the Land of the Free." Following the service, the entire congregation adjourned to the church-yard, where the graves of the veterans were decorated by the school children. Attending the service with the veterans were delegations from the Excelsior Hook and Ladder Company and the Bucket and Engine Company. The firemen met the veterans at the trolley terminal and marched with them to the church, headed by the Independent Fife and Drum Corps.

JUDGMENT OF HUMAN NATURE.

But One Infallible Way by Which Test Can Be Made, According to One Writer.

Some people claim to make a study of human nature. They will tell you they can read character at sight—know faces and what they index. Let us grant all this to be so—maybe they can. Then again, maybe they can't—they only think they can. Faces don't always tell the whole story. Behind the frown and the knitted brow may lurk a big heart and a soul full of healing humor. Behind the easy smile may skulk the worst old wolf of a temper you ever saw. Often you will face a face so closed up you wouldn't ask it for a cent, itching to subscribe heavily to your half-dozen benevolent schemes in your inside pocket. Then again a face so bland you think you could say "Brickelbrit" to it, and see it cough up specie, like the donkey in the fairy tale, will cough up nothing. A man tells me that to study human nature in the wood you need to be a person of little influence, and to go around with a subscription paper for some religious or charitable object. Then you find out. Because you have no personal influence the cause looks the giver (or the non-giver) right smack in the face, and the nature of the person concerned will be as evident as an open-faced watch. Whether much, little or nothing be given matters little, but the spirit matters a whole lot—so the informant tells us.

TOUCHES THEIR TENDER SPOT.

Most Men Have Weakness for Being Photographed on Horseback, Says Observant Photographer.

A young man went out with a camera one morning not long ago and took seven snap shots of early morning horseback riders. He sent proofs of the pictures that turned out well to the men who were photographed and every one of the men sent him an order to finish up a few of the pictures.

"Of course they did," said a more experienced amateur photographer when he heard about it. "A man will always buy a picture of himself on a horse—unless he's an unusually poor rider and looks bad on a horse. No matter how modest a man is, you catch him at the one time when you may appeal to his vanity, when he's mounted on a good riding horse."

The Characteristic National Meal.

It is not only in Scotland that breakfast is the characteristic national meal, says the London Chronicle. Travel where you may, the first meal of the day is the one that strikes the foreign note, luncheon and dinner having gradually absorbed cosmopolitan qualities that are not even confined to hotels. But you never feel so much of an Englishman as when Switzerland gives you rolls and butter and honey, and nothing more, with your coffee, or when France makes this into one exquisite crumbling "croissant," with an inch or two from a yard long loaf, or when Denmark adds cream instead of milk to the coffee and a dangerous piece of pastry to the black bread and round white roll.

Yet our English breakfast became an institution only in the eighteenth century. Before that only royalty breakfasted off meat, bread and cheese and ale. The commoner, such such as Pepys, took merely a morning draught of buttered ale.

Married Women Must Work.

As long as women workers stop work at marriage they will continue to be, as a class, low-paid, over-worked unskilled, looking only to the day and never to the future, entering industry casually without training, retiring from it unexpectedly without warning, hard to organize into trade unions, hard to interest in technical improvements, hard to inspire with financial ambition, behaving, in every respect, with the utmost good sense, just exactly in the manner in which any class of admittedly and consciously temporary workers should behave. It is hard to believe that such a situation can be right either for women or for industry. The women lose opportunities. Industry loses abilities.—Everybody's.

His Business Ability.

In the Adirondacks lives a man too lazy to work, but evidently of great business ability. One winter, when he was sitting around smoking, his family came so near starving that some of his neighbors, who could ill afford to help him, took up a collection and bought for the suffering family a barrel of flour, a barrel of pork and a load of wood. They were not considerate enough to cut the wood, but the business man knew how to manage. He hired some of his neighbors who had not contributed to his donation to cut the wood, and paid them with half of the pork and half the flour.—Lippincott's.

How the "Toast" Originated.

The drinking to one's health is a very old custom, dating way down the ages. In the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries the favorite drinks were sack, canary, claret, sherry—to which were added honey, sugar, ginger and other spices. On the top of this mixture a piece of toasted bread was always floated. It was supposed to give the necessary flavor. Hence the idea of drinking a "toast." The word is used in reference to any sentiment proposed for a speech at a social gathering or banquet. In fact, the making of "toasts" is a very graceful art, worthy of cultivation.

Future Precautions.

Burr-r-r-r! Boom!

"Hello! What?" exclaimed Dawson, waking up from his "gas." "Of course! Is it out?"

"It'll never trouble you any more," reassured the dentist. "Now, rinse the mouth, and you'll feel as fit as a fiddle."

Dawson rinsed.

"How much?" he asked, rising.

"Two dollars, please."

"Two dollars!" roared Dawson.

"Yes, sir," said the dentist. "It was an unusally hard job getting that tooth out, and required twice the ordinary amount of gas."

"Huhph!" growled Dawson, as he stumped up. "Here's your money; but I tell you right now, the next time I take gas from you, you've got to put a meter on me!"—Philadelphia Inquirer.

GET RIGHT KIND OF DUSTER

Subject of More Importance Than is Generally Considered—Cheesecloth the Best.

Not all housekeepers realize the importance of having the right kind of duster. They will get stiff calico or linty fabrics and rub them over wooden furniture, totally unconscious that they are not doing their work.

Cheesecloth makes the best general duster for wood, silk for fine ornaments or polished surface and heavy canton flannel for floors.

The chief objection to the cheesecloth duster is that it must be hemmed, soils easily and soon gets slinky. A substitute that is quite as good, little more expensive and saves much time is to buy a supply of red bandana handkerchiefs for use as dusters. If these are bought at wholesale they are cheaper and can be disposed of among one's friends.

Men's old silk handkerchiefs should never be thrown away when worn and thin. They are just the thing for dusting the polished surface of the piano, ivory ornaments and fine china and glass bric-a-brac.

The Home.

Embroideries and colored garments should be ironed on the wrong side.

Marble should be washed with ammonia and water rather than with soap and water.

Dried lemon peel sprinkled over coals will destroy any disagreeable odor about the house.

Combs soon warp and break if washed with water. A good stiff nailbrush cleans them well.

The bureau drawer can be made to open easily and noiselessly by rubbing it with common soap.

To cool an oven while baking never leave the door open, but cool it by the drafts or removing one of the plates over the oven.

An india-rubber hot-water bottle is easily cleaned. Wash it well with luke-warm water and soap, rubbing on the soap with a piece of flannel.

Remove grease stains by saturating the spots with alcohol rather than benzine. Alcohol does not leave a ring around the spot afterward. Wash with cold water.

Boston Baked Beans.

Wash one pint of little white beans and cover them with warm water. Soak over night, in the morning drain and cover with slightly salted water; cook until tender, but not broken; drain and stir into them salt to taste, two teaspoonfuls of dry mustard and a quarter cup of molasses and a quarter of a cup of brown sugar; put into a bean pot and in the center of the beans put half a pound of fat salt pork deeply gashed in several places; pour slowly into the beans a pint of boiling water and add a little more as they need it. Put the pot, closely covered, into the oven and bake slowly for at least four or six hours—longer if possible.

Stewed Rabbit.

To prepare the rabbits for stewing, remove the internal organs, separating the liver from them. Rinse in cold water, cut in pieces and season with a tablespoonful of salt and one-half teaspoonful of pepper. Put a quarter pound larding pork, cut fine, in a kettle over the fire and fry to a light brown. Add a finely chopped onion and the rabbit pieces and cook for half an hour over a slow fire, stirring often. Sprinkle with a tablespoonful of flour, mix with the meat and gravy, pour in a pint of boiling water, cover and simmer until done. Just before serving add the juice of one-half a lemon.

Uncooked French Cream Candy.

Break into a bowl the whites of as many eggs as you think you will need for the amount of candy you wish to make. Add as much cold water as you have egg whites, then stir in XXX powdered or confectioners' sugar until the mixture is stiff enough to mold into shape with the fingers. Flavor with vanilla to taste and form into balls, cubes or lozenges, as you wish. Lay on plates or waxed paper to dry. Do not use ordinary powdered sugar or candy will be a failure if you do.

Hot-Milk Sponge Cake.

Two eggs well beaten, one cup sugar, one cup flour, pinch of salt, two level teaspoons baking powder. This makes a rather stiff dough, and must be beaten till creamy, then add gradually one-half cup hot milk, not boiling, simply hot, and one teaspoon lemon extract. Bake in a moderate oven, in a loaf tin. This is fine and quite cheap also.

How to Boil Turnips.

Turnips, carrots, onions and cabbage should be boiled in a great deal of water, taken off immediately and drained.

Lamb Chops.

A remedy for woolly taste of lamb chops. Rub chop thoroughly with a preparation of lemon juice and butter in the proportion of one teaspoonful of butter to two of lemon juice. Broil them; they are delicious.

Drop Biscuit.

Take one quart flour, two heaping teaspoons baking powder, two tablespoons melted butter or lard. Stir in enough sweet milk to make stiff batter, drop in hot gem pans and bake in quick oven.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

A Long Legal Contest Ahead.

It is becoming apparent that the question raised in Camden, Plainfield and Jersey City, with reference to department store liquor sales, was not raised accidentally, and that a long legal contest is almost certain to ensue before it is settled, and settled right. At the first it was suspected that a few local liquor dealers in the cities named were determined to protect their licensed privileges, but they were, it seems, only the first complainants in a large scheme.

The brewers were next suspected of having a hand in the proceedings, and it is not improbable that they were directly interested but the latest information goes far toward indicating that some State officials occupying very high places are determined that the question whether department stores in New York State shall be permitted to sell and deliver liquor in New Jersey shall be pressed to an issue and carried to the highest local or federal tribunal for final adjudication.

Camden has, by direction of the court, indicted Pennsylvania department store agents for this offense. Union County's grand jury has not yet made known its action if it has taken any, but the court plainly directed that indictments should be found in the Plainfield cases. Jersey City has decided to joined in the crusade. Meanwhile, and before any indictments have been tried, the department stores have applied to the United States Court for an injunction, restraining the State courts from interfering with their business, under the provisions of the interstate commerce act.

Thus far the United States Supreme Court has, as a rule, refused to interfere with any State in the enforcement and execution of its criminal laws, great or small, though it has recently rendered a decision to the effect that liquor bought in one State can be legally transported to and delivered in another State which has prohibitory laws.

If the license system in this State does not protect the licenses from competition with foreign department stores that are not licensed to carry on the liqor business here, then the whole license system might as well be abolished, for it affords no special privileges to dealers, and gives them no protection against unlicensed competition. This is a part of the question to be thrashed out in the courts.—Newark News.

H. LAUDER'S LONDON DEBUT.

In "MyReminiscences," by Harry Lauder, in The Strand Magazine, the Scotch comedian tells the story of how he made his first appearance in London. He had been singing in the provinces for several years, but had always desired to appear in the big metropolis. So on Monday morning, March 19, 1900, he arrived in London, and called on his agent to ask him to obtain a hearing with some of the big managers. The agent shook his head.

"No good, Harry, my boy," he said. "Scotch comics are not wanted here; no manager would take you on, and if he did his audience would howl you down."

Lauder was not discouraged. He got an introduction to a Mr. Munroe, who introduced him to Tom Tinsley, of Gatti's, a music hall in the Westminster Bridge road. Tinsley held up his hands in horror when Lauder proposed giving a "turn" at his hall. "I really couldn't risk it," he said. "We've had some Scotch comedians before in London, and—well, they're no good to us." However, Tinsley told him to call on the following morning, and when Lauder arrived he greeted him with "You're in luck, Scottie. I'm a turn short tonight and if you bring down your 'props' about 10 o'clock you can have a show."

I was at Gatti's long before 10 o'clock, eagerly yet nervously waiting by number—Mr. Extra Turn. Beyond the fact that I sang "Tobermory," "Calligan" and "The Lass o' Killiecrankie," and that I had the greatest difficulty in getting off the stage, so many were the recals I got, I remember very little about my first performance in London. The stage seemed to be going round and round, while, for all I knew, the house might have been empty, but I threw my whole heart into my work and on getting to the dressing-room I nearly collapsed through sheer nervousness and fatigue. From that date to this I have never been long out of London.

Her Name Was Not Polly Ticks.

During the late campaign an Illinois candidate for the Legislature was driving through the country seeking votes among the farmers, when he met a young man in farmer's garb, walking by the roadside.

Having in his mind a prospective vote, he stopped his horse, and saluting him in a familiar manner, inquired:

"Are you paying any attention to politics nowadays?"

The young man stopped, looked at him suspiciously, and drawled out:

"No, stranger; that don't happen to be my gal's name; but if it was, I wouln't think it was any of your darned business."

This ended the interview, as well as the prospect.—Judge.

Plainfield in .... The Olden Days.

Re-printed from The Weekly Constitutionalist

July 21, 1870.

A young lad named Willie Laing, nephew of John W. Laing, Esq., fell and broke his leg, while running, on Sunday evening last, in this City. Dr. Sutphin attended him, and he is doing as well as can be expected.

The Elizabeth Herald says: Rev. Chas. M. Fox, formerly rector of Grace Church, Plainfield, has accepted the rectorship of St. Paul, Brooklyn, E. D.

The excursion to Allentown Tuesday, July 19th, under the supervision of the Centre Street Methodist Church, was a complete success. All who were fortunate enough to obtain tickets, express themselves delighted with the admirable manner in which the program was carried out.

We learn that our worthy friend, Expressman I. E. Parker, came near meeting with a serious injury at the depot on Saturday evening last, the cars striking and knocking him down, as he was attempting to get on the express car just as the train was about to stop, which came very near throwing him under the train.

In answer to the query: "Have the boys come home?" we would answer they have. They arrived last Friday night from New Providence; did not walk either. "Tear 'em up."

A man in Rhode Island has been sent to jail for ten days for sleeping in church. Nothing was done to the clergyman who put him to sleep.—Editorial.

In Warren county there are three candidates for Sheriff, all named Brown. Warren county is emphatically doing the thing "up brown."

Base Ball—On Saturday, July 16, the Haymaker Base Ball Club of this City made a visit to Dunellen to play the Dunellen Club. The game was well played. Although Dunellen won the game, they had to work to do it, the playing of the Haymakers on the last four innings was very good, they keeping their opponents score down to two runs, while they ran up a score of 17 runs. A noticeable feature of the game was Simmon's fine fielding, he taking 11 fly balls in the left field.

WITHIN A ROYAL PALACE.

Perhaps you would like to go with me into these homes of their Majestics—or, as a woman's home is always more interesting than the den of a man, let me take you through the private apartments of the greatest woman of her race—the late (Chinese) Empress Dowager, writes Isaac T. Headland, in the Metropolitan Magazine. She occupied three of these rows of buildings. The first was her drawing-room and library, the second her dining-room and sleeping apartments, and the third her kitchen.

One was strangely impressed by what he saw there. There was no gorgeous display of Oriental coloring, but there was beauty of a peculiarly penetrating quality— and yet a homelike beauty. No description that can be written of it will ever do it justice. Not until one can see and appreciate the paintings of the old Chinese masters of five hundred years ago hanging upon the walls, the beautiful pieces of the best porcelain of the time of K'ang Hsi and Ch'ien Lung, made especially for the palace, arranged in their natural surroundings on exquisitely carved Chinese tables and brackets, the gorgeously embroidered silk parteres over the doorways, and the matchless tapestries which only the Chinese could weave for their greatest rulers, can we appreciate the beauty, the richness, and the refined elegance of the private apartments of the great Dowager.

I went into her sleeping apartments. Others also entered there, sat upon her couch, and had their friends photograph them. I could not allow myself to do so. I stood silent, with head uncovered as I gazed with wonder and admiration.

THOUGHTLETS.

Beauty is only skin deep, but few look beneath the skin.

If you want your friends to keep an eye on you, run a bill with them.

If we could see ourselves as others see us, we should probably have to enlarge the cemeteries.

If the drunkard only could see himself as others see him.

The road to wealth is like trying to climb a high mountain; many attempt it, but few reach the top.

Never argue with a woman—you will always get the worst of it.

Profited Somebody.

"Gwimjle, how have you invested your profits in that little wheat deal?"

"'Profits!' Huh! Huggles, the profits in that transaction are invested in a neat but not gaudy promissory note, secured by mortgages, on which I am paying interest at 6 per cent."—Chicago Tribune.

TRINITY DEFEATED BY NEW MARKET'S NINE

One of the prettiest and cleanest baseball games seen in New Market this season, took place Saturday afternoon, when the home team narrowly escaped a defeat. For eight innings the Trinity players held their opponents scoreless and had it not been for a lucky bounce of a ground ball hitting a stone and getting away from Left Fielder Hodge, the home team would have been shut out. After this misfortune Wahl and Pervis hit in succession, each being good for a tally.

Both teams played fast ball and more than once the spectators were brought to their feet by their fast fielding. Percy Haberle did some good stick work, his three bagger in the fifth inning was a corker but the fatal mistake came when he tried to stretch it into a home run and was caught at the plate. Harriman and Vail pitched fine games and kept their hits well scattered.

Trinity made its lone score in the seventh inning, when Honeyman hit to center for one base, he was sent to third on Coyle's two sacker and scored on Trotter's single to right. Coyle made the first out for the inning trying to steal home. The next two men popped up easy flies to the infield and the last chance for scoring for the Trinity boys had vanished.

Hunt Club Defeats South Orange.

The Watchung Hunt Club played its first game of baseball of the season on the local grounds, yesterday afternoon, with a pick team from the South Orange Field Club. The pick was not very good and the Plainfielders won by a score of 17 to 4. Duncan Bulkley and Morris Dumont formed the battery for the home team, and they were invincible, Bulkley pitching a fine game, while Dumont caught him in faultless style. After the game, the visiting team was entertained at dinner at the clubhouse.

HOLIDAY GOLF RESULTS

An exceptionally large holiday crowd visited the Plainfield Country Club, yesterday, the delightful weather having a tendency to attract the members and friends. The clubhouse, although the improvements are not completed, was the scene of a charming tea in the afternoon and a dinner-dance at night.

The chief event of interest on the course was a thirty-six hole handicap foursome, which was won by D. H. Rowland and C. Ames Brooks, with a net score of 135. This event was for both classes A and B. These scores were returned:

D. H. Rowland and C. Ames Brooks, 171, 36-135; Howard Lapsley and H. F. Fox, 180, 40-140; G. S. Clay and A. W. Kleinecke, 190, 50-140; A. A. Tilney and Roger F. There was also a large field out at the Park Golf Club, yesterday, when several attractive events were scheduled, including the qualifying round for the championship cup, the first round of which will be played on Saturday. These sixteen players qualified: Dr. H. K. Carroll, 94; W. C. McNaughton, 96; W. R. Faber, 96; C. W. McCutchen, 101; Rev. C. L. Goodrich, 101; Samuel Townsend, 103; W. V. BROOKLYNITE WON RACE

Peter Sorenson, of the Empire City Wheel Club, Brooklyn, won the twenty-five mile bicycle race held yesterday morning, completing the two-lap course to Mountainside in 1 hour and 11 minutes. He came down the stretch to the finish line neck and neck with G. W. Haney, of Brooklyn, beating out his oponent by a few feet at the tape. Haney's time was 1 hour, 11 minutes and 5 seconds. Robert Guttridge, a Plainfield Cycle Club rider, finished third, George Adams, another local club rider, fourth; John Bicht, fifth, and James Dean, sixth.

Because of a protest entered by E. S. Burd, a Plainfield Cicle club rider, the time prize has not yet been awarded. Burd was thrown on the last lap, and claims his accident was due to a trick pulled off by P. C. Heidrick, and Carl Erickson, two Brooklyn cyclists, who, he says, back-pedalled at the last turn and caused him to take a header. The protest has been allowed by Referee D. M. Adee, of Brooklyn, and will be considered at a meeting of the principals tonight. Heidrick made the best time, covering the twenty-five miles in 1 hour, 6 minutes and 45 seconds; Erickson was a close second in time, finishing 5 seconds behind Heidrick.

The race, which was witnessed by enthusiastic bike fans all along the road between the starting point at Mountain and Watchung avenue and Mountainside, was an hour late in starting, and although the course was in excellent condition and well policed, the winner's time was eight seconds behind the record time. The first three to finish got bicycles as prizes, and the fourth and fifth to finish got tires as prizes. Burd and Dunham were spilled, but neither dropped out of the race. There were few punctures. Of the fifty-eight entries, forty-seven riders finished.

Warren Chapel Victorious.

The Warren chapel baseball club defeated the St. May's nine at Berkeley Heights Saturday afternoon by the score of 6 to 4. Eddie Montross, pitcher for the local team, allowed but few hits, which were well scattered. Johnson, a former Scotch Plains player, pitched for St. Mary's nine and was hit hard. The features of the contest were two running catches in centre field by A. E. Galloway and the heavy hitting of Warren chapel. On Saturday the chapel team will play Trinity club here.

"I haven't been looking for you seven years," replied the stranger, hastily; and his eyes again roamed the room.

The men seemed reluctant to approach the business that lay between them, and Holbrook wore an air of indifference, as though the impending interview did not concern him particularly. The eyes of the older man fell upon the beribboned work-basket. He nodded toward it, his eyes lighting unpleasantly.

"There seems to be a woman," he remarked with a sneer of implication.

"Yes," replied Holbrook, calmly, "there is; that belongs to my daughter."

"Where is she?" demanded the other, glancing anxiously about.

"In bed, I fancy. You need have no fear of her."

Silence fell upon them again. Their affairs were difficult, and Holbrook, waiting patiently for the other to broach his errand, drew out his tobacco pounch and pipe and began to smoke.

"Yes, we are all here, it seems," remarked Holbrook, dryly. "It's a nice family gathering."

"I suppose you haven't seen them?" demanded the visitor.

"Yes and no. I have no wish to meet them; but I've had several narrow escapes. They have cut me off from my walks; but I shall leave here shortly."

"Yes, you are going, you are going—" began the visitor, eagerly.

"I am going, but not until after you have gone," said Holbrook. "By some strange fate we are all here, and it is best for certain things to be settled before we separate again. I have tried to keep out of your way; I have sunk my identity; I have relinquished the things of life that men hold dear—honor, friends, ambition, and now you and I have got to have a settlement."

"You seem rather sure of yourself," sneered the older, turning uneasily in his chair.

"I am altogether sure of myself. I have been a fool, but I see the error of my ways and I propose to settle matters with you now and here. You have got to drop your game of annoying Patricia; you've got to stop using your own daughter as a spy—"

"You lie, you lie!" roared the other, leaping to his feet. "You cannot insinuate that my daughter is not acting honorably toward Patricia."

My mind had slowly begun to grasp the situation and to identify the men before me. Holbrook, alias Hartridge, the boat-maker of the Tippecanoe, was not Henry Holbrook, but Henry's brother, Arthur! and I sought at once to recollect what I knew of him. An instant before I had half turned to go, ashamed of eavesdropping upon matters that did not concern me; but the Voice that had sent me held to the window. It was some such meeting as this that Helen must have feared when she sent me to the houseboat, and everything else must await the issue of this meeting.

"You had better sit down, Henry," said Arthur Holbrook, quietly. "And I suggest that you make less noise. This is a lonely place, but there are human beings within a hundred miles."

Henry Holbrook paced the floor a moment and then flung himself into a chair again, but he bent forward angrily, nervously beating his hands together. Arthur went on speaking, his voice shaking with passion.

"I want to say to you that you have deteriorated until you are a common damned blackguard, Henry Holbrook! You are a blackguard and a gambler. And you have made murderous attempts on the life of your sister; you drove her from Stamford and you tried to smash her boat out here in the lake. I saw the whole transaction that afternoon, and understood it all—how you hung off there in the Stiletto and sent that beast to do your dirty work."

"I didn't follow her here; I didn't follow her here!" raged the other.

"No; but you watched and waited until you traced me here. You were not satisfied with what I had done for you. You wanted to kill me before I could tell Pat the truth; and if it hadn't been for that man Donovan your assassin would have stabbed me at my door." Arthur Holbrook rose and flung down his pipe so that the coals leaped from it. "But it's all over now—this long exile of mine, this pursuit of Pat, this hideous use of your daughter to pluck your chestnuts from the fire. By God, you've got to quit—you've got to go!"

"But I want my money—I want my money!" roared Henry, as though insisting upon a right; but Arthur ignored him, and went on.

"You were the one who was strong; and great things were expected of you, to add to the traditions of family honor; but our name is only mentioned with a sneer where men remember it at all. You were spoiled and pampered; you have never from your early boyhood had a thought that was not for yourself alone. You were always envious and jealous of anybody that came near you, and not least of me; and when I saved you, when I gave you your chance to become a man at last, to regain the respect you had flung away so shamefully, you did not realize it, you could not realize it; you took it as a matter of course, as though I had handed you a cigar. I ask you now, here in this place, where I am known and respected—I ask you here, where I have toiled with my hands, whether you forget why I am here?"

"I must have my money; Patricia must make the division," replied Henry, doggedly.

"Certainly! Certainly! I devoutly hope she will give it to you; you need fear no interference from me. The sooner you get it and fling it away the better. Patricia has been animated by the best motives in withholding it; she regarded it as a sacred trust to administer for your own good, but now I want you to have your money."

"If I can have my share, if you will persuade her to give it, I will pay you all I owe you—" Henry began, eagerly.

"What you owe me—what you owe me!" and Arthur bent toward his brother and laughed—a laugh that was not good to hear. "You would give me money—money—you would pay me money for priceless things!"

He broke off suddenly, dropping his arms at his sides helplessly.

"There is no use in trying to talk to you; we use a different vocabulary, Henry."

"But that trouble with Gillespie—if Patricia knew—"

"Yes; if she knew the truth! And you never understood, you are incapable of understanding, that it meant something to me to lose my sister out of my life. When Helen died"—and his voice fell and he paused for a moment, as a priest falters sometimes, gripped by some phrase in the office that touches hidden depths in his own experience, "then when Helen died there was still Patricia, the noblest sister men ever had; but you robbed me of her—you robbed me of her!"

He was deeply moved and, as he controlled himself, he walked to the little table and fingered the ribbons of the work-basket.

"I haven't those notes, if that's what you're after—I never had them," he said. "Gillespie kept tight hold of them."

"Yes; the vindictive old devil!"

"Men who have been swindled are usually vindictive," replied Arthur, grimly. "Gillespie is dead. I suppose the executor of his estate has those papers; and the executor is his son."

"The fool. I've never been able to get anything out of him."

"If he's a fool it ought to be all the easier to get your pretty playthings away from him. Old Gillespie really acted pretty decently about the whole business. Your daughter may be able to get them away from the boy; he's infatuated with her; he wants to marry her, it seems."

"My daughter is not in this matter," said Henry, coldly, and then anger mastered him again. "I don't believe he has them; you have them, and that's why I have followed you here. I'm going to Patricia to throw myself on her mercy, and that ghost must not rise up against me. I want them; I have come to get those notes."

I was aroused by a shadow-like touch on my arm, and I knew without seeing who it was that stood beside me. A faint hint as of violets stole upon the air; her breath touched my cheek as she bent close to the little window, and she sighed deeply as in relief at beholding a scene of peace. Arthur Holbrook still stood with bowed head by the table, his back to his brother, and I felt suddenly the girl's hand clutch my wrist. She with her fresher eyes upon the scene saw, before I grasped it, what now occurred. Henry Holbrook had drawn a revolver from his pocket and pointed it full at his brother's back. We two at the window saw the weapon flash menacingly; but suddenly Arthur Holbrook flung round as his brother cried:

"I think you are lying to me, and I want those notes—I want those notes, I want them now! You must have them, and I can't go to Patricia until I know they're safe."

He advanced several steps and his manner grew confident as he saw that he held the situation in his own grasp. I would have rushed in upon them but the girl held me back.

"Wait! Wait!" she whispered.

Arthur thrust his hands into the side pockets of his flannel jacket and nodded his head once or twice.

"Why don't you shoot, Henry?"

"I want those notes," said Henry Holbrook. "You lied to me about them. They were to have been destroyed. I want them now, to-night."

"If you shoot me you will undoubtedly get them much easier," said Arthur; and he lounged away toward the wall, half turning his back, while the point of the pistol followed him. "But the fact is, I never had them; Gillespie kept them."

Threats cool quickly, and I really had not much fear that Henry Holbrook meant to kill his brother; and Arthur's indifference to his danger was having its disconcerting effect on Henry. The pistol barrel wavered; but Henry steadied himself and his clutch tightened on the butt. I again turned toward the door, but the girl's hand held me back.

"Wait," she whispered again. "That man is a coward. He will not shoot."

The canoe-maker had been calmly talking, discussing the disagreeable consequences of murder in a tone of half-banter, and he now stood directly under the foils. Then in a flash he snatched one of them, hung it up with an accustomed hand, and snapped it across his brother's knuckles. At the window we heard the slim steel hiss through the air, followed by the rattle of the revolver as it struck the ground. The canoe-maker's foot was on it instantly; he still held the foil.

"Henry," he said in the tone of one rebuking a child, "you are bad enough, but I do not intend that you shall be a murderer. And now I want you to go; I will not treat with you; I want nothing more to do with you! I repeat that I haven't got the notes."

He pointed to the door with the foil. The blood surged angrily in his face; but his voice was in complete control as he went on.

"Your visit has awakened me to a sense of neglected duty, Henry. I have allowed you to persecute our sister without raising a hand! I have no other business now but to protect her. Go back to your stupid sailor and tell him that if I catch him in any mischief on the lake or here I shall certainly kill him."

I lost any further words that passed between them, as Henry, crazily threatening, walked out upon the deck to his boat; then from the creek came the threshing of oars that died away in a moment. When I gazed into the room again Arthur Holbrook was blowing out the lights.

"I am grateful; I am so grateful," faltered the girl's voice; "but you must not be seen here. Please go now!" I had taken her hands, feeling that I was about to lose her; but she freed them and stood away from me in the shadow.

"We are going away—we must leave here! I can never see you again," she whispered.

In the starlight she was Helen, by every test my senses could make; but by something deeper I knew that she was not the girl I had seen in the window at St. Agatha's. She was more dependent, less confident and poised; she stifled a sob and came close. Through the window I saw Arthur Holbrook climbing up to blow out the last light.

"I could have watched myself, but I was afraid that sailor might come; and it was he that fired at you in the road. He had gone to Glenarm to watch you and keep you away from here. Uncle Henry came back to-day and sent word that he wanted to see my father, and I asked you to come to help us."

"I thank you for that."

"And there was another man—a stranger, back there near the road; I could not make him out, but you will be careful—please!" You must think very ill of me for bringing you into all this danger and trouble."

"I am grateful to you. Please turn all your trouble over to me."

"You did what I asked you to do," she said, "when I had no right to ask, but I was afraid of what might happen here. It is all right now and we are going away; we must leave this place."

"But I shall see you again."

"No! You have—you have—Helen. You don't know me at all! You will find your mistake to-morrow."

She was urging me toward the steps that led up to the house. The sob was still in her throat, but she was laughing, a little hysterically, in her relief that her father had come off unscathed.

"Then you must let me find it out to-morrow; I will come to-morrow before you go."

"No! No! This is good-by," she said. "You would not be so unkind as to stay, when I am so troubled, and there is so much to do!"

We were at the foot of the stairway, and I heard the shop door snap shut.

"Good-night, Rosalind!"

"Good-by; and thank you!" she whispered.

CHAPTER XVII.

How the Night Ended.

As my horse whinnied and I turned into the wood a man walked boldly toward me.

"My dear Donovan, I have been consoling your horse during your absence. It's a bad habit we have fallen into of wandering about at night. I liked your dinner, but you were rather too anxious to get rid of me. I came by boat myself!"

Gillespie knocked the ashes from his pipe and thrust it into his pocket. I was in no frame of mind for talk with him, a fact which he seemed to surmise.

"It's late, for a fact," he continued; "and we both ought to be in bed; but our various affairs require diligence."

"What are you doing over here?" I demanded.

"Well, to tell the truth—"

"You'd better!"

"To tell the truth, my dear Donovan, since I left your hospitable board I have been deeply perplexed over some important questions of human conduct. Are you interested in human types? Have you ever noticed the man who summons all porters and waiters by the pleasing name of George? The name in itself is respectable enough; nor is its generic use pernicious—a matter of taste only. But the same man may be identified otherwise by his proneness to consume the cabinet pudding, the chocolate ice-cream and the fruit in season from the chastening American bill of fare, after partaking impartially of the preliminary fish, flesh and fowl. He is confidential with hotel clerks, affectionate with chambermaids and all telephone girls are Nellie to him. Types, my dear Donovan—"

"That's enough! I want to know what you are doing!" and in my anger I shook him by the shoulders.

"Well, if you must have it, after I started to the village I changed my mind about going, and I was anxious to see whether Holbrook was really here; so I got a launch and came over. I stopped at the island but saw no one there, and I came up the creek until I grounded; then I struck inland, looking for the road. It might save us both embarrassment, Irishman, if we give notice of each other's intentions, particularly at night. I hung about, thinking you might appear, and—"

"What Are You Doing Over Here?" I Demanded.

"You are a poor liar, Buttons. You didn't come here alone!"—and I drove my weary wits hard in an effort to account for his unexpected appearance.

"All is lost; I am discovered," he mocked.

He had himself freed my horse; I now took the rein and refastened it to the tree.

"Well, inexplicable Donovan!"

I laughed, pleased to find that my delay annoyed him. I was confident that he was not abroad at this hour for nothing, and it again occurred to me that we were on different sides of the matter. My weariness fell from me like a cloak, as the events of the past hour flashed fresh in my mind.

"Now," I said, dropping the rein and patting the horse's nose for a moment, "you may go with me or you may sit here; but if you would avoid trouble don't try to interfere with me."

I did not doubt that he had been sent to watch me; and his immediate purpose seemed to be to detain me.

"I had hoped you would sit down and talk over the Monroe Doctrine, or the partition of Africa, or something equally interesting, he remarked. "You disappoint me, my dear benefactor."

"And you make me very tired at the end of a tiresome day, Gillespie. Please continue to watch my horse; I'm off."

He kept at my elbow, as I expected he would, babbling away with his usual volubility in an effort, now frank enough, to hold me back; but I ignored his talk and plunged on through the wood toward the creek. Henry Holbrook must, I argued, have had time enough to get out of the creek and back to the island; but what mischief Gillespie was furthering in his behalf I could not imagine.

There was a gradual rise toward the creek and we were obliged to cling to the bushes in making our ascent. Suddenly, as I paused for breath, Gillespie grasped my arm.

"For God's sake, stop! This is no affair of yours. On my honor there's nothing that affects you here."

By A. T. ATCHISON.

McCloskey's boy rose early and ate a hearty breakfast, his mother, who had provided for the occasion a new-laid egg, standing by while he was disposing of it, accompanied by slices of buttered toast, and declaring "the b'y ain't atin' enough to feed a chicken."

The "b'y" enjoyed the experience of being coddled—as what boy would not?—and did not hasten his repast. When it could be protracted no longer he wiped his mouth on the back of his hand, stretched himself, and crushing his almost brimless hat over his tangled hair, started off down street, his mother standing in the door, with her hand ov[illegible] watching him.

He had not passed out of her sight when little Rose Murray, whom he had rescued from drowning, attired as usual in dainty befrilled garments, espied him, and at once flew to meet him.

The big boy gasped for breath when he felt the touch of the soft fingers, and glanced down sheepishly from his coarse blue jeans to her dainty garments. But Rose felt perfectly at ease, and was evidently proud of accompanying her hero down street. "When you was drownded my mamma said you was a wonderful boy," she said. "There will never be such another boy in the village," she said.

"An' my papa, he said, when you was drownded, he wouldn't 'a' been s'prised to see you in parli'ment—that Irishmen have gone from the cabin to the house afore this, an' you had just the stuff in you for that. An' the schoolmaster, when you was drownded, said there was a glint in your eye, which meant somethin' and the dust wouldn't stick to your heels at school when you liked.

"And the Sunday school teacher, when you was drownded, said he could not keep from takin' more than a common interest in you, you was so bright. An' when you was drownded, Mrs. McShane said she loved you like her own son. An' all the women said you was a favorite of theirs, when you was drownded. An' all the little girls cried when you was drownded. Isn't it nice to be drownded an' have people love you?"

"Yes," replied McCloskey's boy, dreamily, and after he had left Rose he thus addressed himself:

"So they were after thinkin' I wus good fur somethin' whin they tho't I wus drownded.

"Well, it would be a cryin' shame to disappoint 'em all," he said, when he had recovered breath. "I'll hav' to see what I kin do."

"I told you so," said the schoolmaster, wagging his head, when it became an established fact that McCloskey's boy was "goin' ahead of 'em all" at the village school.

"No more than we expected," averred the united head of the Murray family.

"Ye needn't 'a' told us that," cried a chorus of villagers delighted with their own astuteness.

After a while McCloskey's boy got to where the village school could carry him no further, and the schoolmaster grew deeply concerned as to the lad's future.

What occurred during the summer did not become known to everyone, but in the early part of October the boy set off for a higher institution of learning.

The day he started, if he had been some great potentate taking his leave, the village could not have shown a livelier interest. Mrs. Murray sat in her bay window, and waved her handkerchief as he passed. The schoolmaster gave an extra recess to the children, and stood in the door of the schoolhouse, shading his eyes with one hand and swinging the other over his head. The men came out of their shops and shouted a cheery word and Mrs. Brady, Mrs. McShane and the other women made some excuse to get down to the train.

One summer early in May the train drew into the usually quiet depot.

As a tall young man stepped out of a car cheer after cheer rent the air, and a dozen hands were reached out to clasp his, but the old gray schoolmaster got the first shake.

The brass band struck up "The Maple Leaf Forever," and a procession, headed by the schoolmaster and the young man, marched off up the main street.

"What is this all about?" asked a stranger.

"The new mimber—McCloskey's boy," replied Mrs. Brady, who, because of her exuberantly excited interest, was the one accosted.

Provokes Lightning Strokes.

At the beginning of September some of the petroleum wells fired by a violent thunderstorm near the end of June at Boryslaw, Galicia, were still burning, like torch flames 40 or 50 feet in height. It is said that not fewer than five wells are struck by lightning every year at Boryslaw, the cause being ascribed to the obligatory use of sheet iron coverings for all the installations. The iron surfaces communicate with the system of metallic tubes, thus forming, during a thunderstorm, a sort of Leyden jar, which provokes lightning strokes.

A Logical Connection.

"Why do they call a tipsy man's brain foggy?"

"I suppose because fogs are more or less dissipated."—Baltimore American.

BUILDINGS TELL THEIR STORY.

Unwittingly They Reveal Secrets of the Hearts of Those Who Constructed Them.

The observer of buildings may read with ease many a secret of the builder's heart, whether it be pride, ambition, hypocrisy or solid worth. The apartment building that is "built to sell" is easier to read than some structures which are the expression of composite thought. There is a good exterior appearance, halls heavy with "style," with tiled floors, marble walls, and massive chandeliers. But inside the apartments, on every hand, there are evidences of a conscious intention to skimp and neglect even ordinary standards of good carpenter work.

How unwittingly does the builder rear this projection of his inmost character! Would it restrain him to know that others regarded his work as an open confession of the very things he would prefer to hide? It might not change his character, but it could cause him to make such a building as he would like to be thought of as corresponding to in character. If this method of interpreting builders were to be popularized it might raise the standards of the industry. Our contribution to this end would be a proverb, to pass current wherever buildings are contemplated: "A building is a confession in stone."—Collier's.

JUST CASE OF WANDERLUST.

Family Starting to Git Were Properly Sure They Must Land Up Somewhere Eventually.

In the smoking car on a southern railroad, where they had sat up all night, was a family consisting of husband, wife and five children. They were rubbing sleep from their eyes and wrangling with each other when a man entered the car and espied them and advanced to say to the man:

"Howdy, Joe—I'm s'prised to see you."

"Howdy, Tom?"

"Where you-all gwine?"

"Down to Harbor Pint, I reckon."

"But I thought you-all lived up at Cherry Hill?"

"We did."

"What you-all totin' away from there fur?"

"Dunno."

"What you-all gwine to Harbor Pint fur?"

"Dunno. Jest thought we'd go."

"Oh, I see. You-all thought to get?"

"I reckon. Yes, thought we'd git, and we pulled up and started a-gittin', and if we keep on long 'nuff we sure 'nuff must git sumwhar' or other."

"Yes, sure. Been a-gittin' myse'f and always got there some day. It's heaps better than never gittin' 'tall."

Hellish Fashions.

His satanic majesty touched a button and summoned his head imp. "What is all that noise in Factory street?"

"Your imperial majesty, it is the women mobbing the new corset factory. They are all demanding one of those new redhot, electric-charged corsets."

"Sufferin' souls!" gasped his majesty, "and I thought I had invented a new torment."

"The mistake was in forcing that French girl to wear one first. She made 'em all believe they are the very latest style."

"Saints above! and I thought I understood women. Well, well, now that I think of it, the plan works out better than I thought. Take 'em away from all the ladies but a few; see that they are advertised as the very latest fashion and I guess that will make those women who can't get 'em suffer all right, all right."—Puck.

Built to the Memory of a Dog.

Of the memorials to dogs the most imposing of modern date is "Tell's Tower," a structure on the seashore near West Kirby, Cheshire, Eng. It is in honor of the great St. Bernard dog, Tell, "ancestor of most of the rough-coated champions of England, and himself winner of every prize in the kingdom. He was majestic in appearance, noble in character, and of undaunted courage." Built by the late Mr. J. Cumming Macdona, the tower is a sort of summer house, in the base of which is a vault containing Tell's remains, guarded by an effigy of that remarkable animal.—Wide World Magazine.

Lightning's Antics in a Church.

Lightning struck the steeple of the little village church of Gassin, near Toulon, France, the other day. The electrical fluid, it is stated, followed the iron cable which is used to ring the church bell and set the bell ringing. Then it tore the door off a cupboard containing a number of candlesticks and lit all the candles as though by enchantment.

It completed its antics by ripping up the floor of the sacristy, but, so it is said, previously rolled up the carpet with perfect symmetry.

Strange Growth of Olive Trees.

Attention is seldom called to a remarkable and curious characteristic of the olive tree. After many years of growth the different large branches of the trees separate gradually from the trunk until they are quite divided from one another down into the root. These then slowly move apart, and in some instances six or seven distinct trees stand in the area which before surrounded the main tree, and they will sometimes be as much as 20 feet apart.

QUEER TRAITS OF CRIMINALS.

Sentenced to Prison Terms, They Frequently Mourn for Pets They Are Leaving Behind Them.

The New York central office detective had just sent one of the worst criminals in the city away for a long, long rest.

"Did he give you any trouble?" asked a friend.

"No, he did a good deal of crying though."

"For some woman, I suppose?"

"Woman? Rather not! They never cry for human beings. This fellow had a wife who had stuck by him through the trial, and who, before he was caught, worked her fingers off for him. Then there were two children. But he never mentioned them. He was crying about his flight, his pigeons, you know. He had about 60 fancy ones, and whenever he thought of what would become of them while he was away tears would spring to his eyes. A lot of the worst crooks and gangsters in the city are fanciers, and a kid couldn't be more sentimental than they are. Sometimes, too, they are sorry for dogs. I knew one who was more anxious about his ferret than anything else. At the same time I never knew a criminal, man or woman, who had a cat among the things they were sorry to leave behind."

PUMP AIR INTO DEAD WHALE.

Hunter's Prize Made Sufficiently Buoyant to Float, Marked with Buoy and Set Adrift.

Then began the work of bringing the whale to the surface and blowing it up so that it would float. Taking a hitch about a convenient post, the rope was slacked and run through a pulley block at the mast head to relieve the strain of raising the great body. The winch was set in motion and for 15 minutes nothing was heard save the monotonous grind as fathom after fathom of line was wound in. When the body was brought alongside the lobes of the flukes were cut off and lifted to the deck. Then a long coil of small rubber hose, one end of which was attached to a pump and the other to a hollow, spear-pointed tube of steel with perforations along its entire length, was brought into play. The spear was jabbed well down into the whale's side, the air pump started and the body slowly filled with air. When inflated sufficiently to keep it afloat the tube was withdrawn, the incision plugged with oakum and the chains cast off. A buoy with a flag was then attached to the carcass and the whole set adrift to be picked up at the end of the day's hunting.—Popular Magazine.

An Instantaneous Cure.

During the cattle plague of 1866 in England a farmer who had lost a number of his cows grew so depressed that he fully persuaded himself he had also contracted the disease. The medical man whom he consulted tried in vain to laugh him out of his fears, but subsequently, being fond of a joke, pretended to agree with the patient's views, and solemnly told him if he would attend to his instructions he would be cured. He then gave the farmer a prescription, which he directed should be taken to a neighboring druggist, but when the latter opened the envelope and read the contents he was as much startled as the farmer. For the prescription was as follows: "This man has the cattle plague. Take him into the backyard and shoot him, according to act of parliament." Needless to say, the cure was instantaneous.

Investing in Nature.

A man must invest himself near at hand, and in common things, and be content with a steady and moderate return, if he would know the blessedness of a cheerful heart and the sweetness of a walk over the round earth. This is a lesson the American has yet to learn—capability of amusement on a low key. He expects rapid and extraordinary returns. He would make the very elemental laws pay usury. He has nothing to invest in a walk; it is too slow, too cheap. We crave the astonishing, the exciting, the far away, and do not know the highways of the gods when we see them—always a sign of the decay of faith and simplicity of man.—John Burroughs.

Worldly Wisdom.

As there is a worldly happiness which God perceives to be no more than disguised misery; as there are worldly honors which in his estimation are reproach, so there is a worldly wisdom which in his sight is foolishness. Of this worldly wisdom the characters are given in the Scriptures, and placed in contrast with those of the wisdom which is from above. The one is the wisdom of the crafty, the other that of the upright; the one terminates in selfishness, the other in charity; the one is full of strife and bitter envyings, the other of mercy and of good fruits.—Blair.

Bean Milk.

"Pigeon milk is a myth," said a milkman, "but there actually is a bean milk. It is drunk, put in tea and coffee, and even frozen for ice cream. The Japs are its inventors. This milk is made of the Soja bean. The bean is first soaked, then boiled in water. After the liquid turns white sugar and phosphate of potash are added, and the boiling is kept up till a substance of the thickness of molasses is obtained. Nobody could tell this bean milk from condensed milk, and when water is added it can't be told from the fresh. The Japanese poor use nothing else."

A. E. BEALS A BENEDICT

Newspaperman Weds Miss Bessie W. Bond at Her Parent's Home.

TWO MINISTERS OFFICIATE.

Former Daily Press Staff Man Now Editor of Real Estate Record—To Reside Here.

Miss Bessie Wright Bond, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence E. Bond, of this city, and Allen Edward Beals, son of Mrs. William J. Francke, of Highland Park, New Brunswick, were married at 6:45 o'clock last evening at the home of the bride's parents, in the presence of the relatives of the couple. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Charles E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, of which the bride and groom are members; assisted by Rev. Lewis Bond, an uncle of the bride.

The bride had for her attendants, Mrs. Francis Ketcham Anderson, of this city, as matron-of-honor; John Cramer Francke, brother of the groom, as page; Miss Helen A. Davis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. V. P. Davis, of Providence, R. I., as flower girl, and the following as ribbon bearers:

Miss Eleanor Louise Spencer, of Naugatuck, Conn.; Miss Janet Katherine Linnett, of Newark; Miss Irene Donaldson, of Elizabeth; Miss Leonora King Brokaw, of New York; Miss Mary Harriet Dunham and the Misses Sue and Helen Farland, of Plainfield, and Mrs. Richard Griffen Savoye, of Westfield. The best man was Clarence Leslie Bond, brother of the bride. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

The bride's gown was of ivory satin over taffeta with yoke of point applique and point applique and pearl trimmings. She wore a veil of tulle caught up with orange blossoms and carried a bower bouqut of lilies-of-the-valley. The matron-of-honor's gown was a white lace robe over white satin and she carried pink roses. The flower girl's dress was of white messaline and lace and she carried a basket of pink sweet peas, while the page, dressed in white, and the flower girl, preceded the bridal party as it entered the parlor, where the ceremony was performed.

The wedding march and the music for the reception and the dancing which followed was furnished by an orchestra of three pieces, with Miss Mabel Maxson at the piano; Arthur Mosher, violinist, and Herbert Smith, 'cellist. The program of classical and popular selections were enjoyed greatly.

The house was elaborately decorated for the event with palms, ferns and cut-flowers, and especially attractive was the arrangement in the parlor and dining-room. Following the ceremony at 7:30 o'clock a reception was held, which was largely attended by the many friends of the couple. During the reception supper was served, and the bride and groom received the congratulations of all, after which the handsome collection of useful and costly gifts were admired.

The groom's gift to the bride was a diamond pendant; that of the bride to the matron-of-honor a pearl brooch, while the groom presented the best man with gold cuff links. The bride's gifts to the page and flower girl were signet rings.

Later in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Beals left on an extended wedding trip to Nova Scotia. Upon their return they will reside in Plainfield. The couple was given a great send-off by their many friends.

Mr. Beals was formerly employed on the reportorial staff of The Daily Press, later holding positions of responsibility with The Evening Times, Elizabeth; The Morning Star, Newark, and afterward as New Jersey Editor of The New York Tribune. He is now editor and manager of the Building Construction department of the New York Real Estate Record and Guide.

The bride is a most estimable young woman, having a large circle of friends and acquaintances. She is a graduate of the Plainfield High School, and is popular with her many friends. She has been prominent in the social affairs of the First Presbyterian church, especially among the younger set. Both Mr. and Mrs. Beals are very popular and they begin married life with the best wishes of a host of friends for continued happiness and success.

E. S. BIRD'S PROTEST IS NOT SUSTAINED

Because the protest entered by E. S. Bird, of the Plainfield Cycle Club, who claimed that he was fouled in the last lap of the twenty-five mile bicycle road race held Monday, was not sustained by Refree Justus H. Cooley last night, the first time prize in the race has been formally awarded to P. C. Heidrick, a Dobbs Ferry rider, who finished in 1 hour, 6¾ seconds. Carl Erickson, of Brooklyn, who took five seconds longer to complete the course, will receive the second time prize, and the third prize will go to J. Schuster, of Brooklyn, who rode the distance in an hour and seven minutes, flat.

Bird, who was thrown by colliding with G. W. Haney, the Brooklyn rider who finished second in the race, claimed that the accident was caused by Haney, who back-pedalled as he rode in front of him and caused his fall. He registered a protest with Refree D. M. Adee, and the matter was referred to Dr. Cooley for decision. Bird will receive a pair of cycle tires as his prize for finishing seventh. He rode the course in 1 hour, 10½ minutes.

HEAR GIFTED PUPILS AT A MUSICAL RECITAL

Miss Helen Smalley, soprano; Mrs. Harry R. Moyer, contralto, and Harry R. Moyer, baritone, gave the second of the series of recitals at the studio of J. Edmund Skiff in the Babcock building, last night. There was a large attendance of friends and relatives of the pupils.

The program, a classical one, comprised many difficult numbers, all of which were rendered in a pleasing manner. Miss Smalley, Mr. and Mrs. Moyer each sang eight numbers, and in addition Mr. and Mrs. Moyer sang a duet, "O! That We Two Were Maying."

Tomorrow night Miss Florence Conroy, soprano; Miss Helen Hall, soprano; Joseph S. Dunham, tenor, and Fred C. Kreidler, bass, will present the program at the same place, and on Friday night the recital will be given by Mrs. Joseph S. Dunham, soprano; Mrs. Arthur B. Price, soprano; and Miss B. Mae Rodenbaugh, contralto.

ALEXANDER MILLAR OFF WITH "RAILROAD KING"

E. H. Harriman, the "railroad king," who left yesterday on a three months' trip abroad, was accompanied by Alexander Millar, of Madison avenue, secretary of the Union Pacific, and one of Mr. Harriman's faithful lieutenants. Before going away, Mr. Harriman gave the newspapermen an interesting review regarding the future of the country.

For Mr. Harriman three months is a long vacation, the longest he will have taken in several years. He is going to Paris and Vienna, but further than that the details of the trip have not been arranged. He admitted that he would seek advice abroad in regard to his health. It is possible that he will spend part of the summer at an Austrian health resort. He will not, however, take an American physician with him as on another trip.

"Millar has been stiff with rheumatism lately, and I'm taking the trip as much on his account as anything," said the little railroad man, with a smile at Millar.

The Plainfielder is known as Harriman's right-hand man, and has been in his employ for many years. He has frequently taken trips over the Harriman lines and always keeps in close touch with the executive department. He is a Scotchman by birth and doubtless will visit his native home while abroad.

MAKING PLANS FOR THE C. E. CONVENTION

There will be a meeting of the general committee of the State Christian Endeavor convention committee tomorrow night at the Y. M. C. A. rooms. Plans for the convention are well underway. The prospects are that this gathering will be the best held in several years. State President J. T. Sproull is planning for one thousand delegates and this number will doubtless be exceeded owing to the fact that the Endeavorers will have a chance to hear Rev. Dr. Clark.

President Purdy F. Benedict of the Union County Endeavor Union has called a meeting of the executive committee to be held tomorrow night in the First Baptist church, Roselle. The executive committee consists of the officers of the Union and the presidents, Junior superintendents and elected representatives from the thirty-six societies in the county.

The adoption of a new constitution will be the chief business. The constitution provides for the following committee: Lookout and prayer-meeting, missionary, temperance, Sabbath observance and fresh air. A large representation from the Plainfield societies is desired and the delegates are requested to meet at the North avenue station for the 7:37 train tomorrow night.

Land Company Sells Property.

F. W. Morse, manager here for the Central New Jersey Land Improvement Company, has just closed a large deal in this city, whereby Jacob Sachar becomes the owner of sixteen houses located on Prescott place, Pond place, Monroe avenue, Manson place and South Second street. These properties were owned by the Central New Jersey Land Improvement Company, and it is now closing up its business all along the line of the railroad.

"Oh, Those Exams!"

Cyclists Collide on Park Avenue.

Ray Hulbert, of Somerset street, and Joseph Sutphen, who lives in Elizabeth, crashed into each other on Park avenue yesterday afternoon as they were bicycling, and both hit the pavement hard. Hulbert's front wheel crumbled, but neither rider was injured aside from bumps and scratches. The collision was so clearly unavoidable that neither cherishes hard feelings.

A. E. La Porte Elected a Delegate.

Alfred E. La Porte, of the local postoffice, was elected a delegate to the national convention at the ninth annual convention of the National Association of Post Office Clerks of New Jersey, in Passaic, on Monday. Newark was selected as the convention city for next year and a Newarker, Edward A. Sweeney, unanimously chosen as president for the ensuing term.

N. DOUGLAS DRAKE DEAD

Bright and Popular Young Plainfielder Succumbs After Long Illness.

MADE HEROIC FIGHT FOR LIFE.

Local Lawyer Passes Away at Saranac Lake, N. Y.—Wife Survives Him.

Newton Douglas Drake, son of P. Newton Drake and the late Carrie Baldwin Drake, died yesterday at 3 o'clock, at Saranac Lake, New York, where he had been living for the past two years and a half. Death was due to pulmonary trouble with which Mr. Drake had been afflicted for the past three years. Struggling bravely against great odds, Mr. Drake fought to the very last to regain his health. Everything possible in the way of medical skill and treatment was given, but to no purpose.

Mr. Drake was born in Brooklyn, April 3, 1880, and came to this city when a boy, and spent the greater part of his life here. He was graduated from the North Plainfield High School and later from the law department of the New York University, after completing his studies in the law offices of John H. Van Winkle & Son. He was then admitted to the New Jersey Bar as an attorney, after passing a highly creditable examination. He practiced law successfully until taken ill.

Mr. Drake was married a year ago last September to Miss Katherine Venn, of Yonkers, N. Y. Shortly afterward they made their home at Saranac Lake, where Mr. Drake built a bungalow. For a time he was superintendent of the Industrial Settlement at that place and then he acquired a farm and engaged in the grocery business, being very successful.

For many years Mr. Drake was a faithful and active member of the First Baptist church, and was an officer of the Young People's Association and worked earnestly for its success. He enjoyed the friendship of a large number of people both here and at Saranac, and all mourn his untimely end. He possessed excellent qualities which won friends for him.

Besides a wife, Mr. Drake is survived by a father, P. Newton Drake, a sister, Miss Caroline P. Drake and a brother, Henry Baldwin Drake, of this city. The body will leave Saranac tonight and arrangements will be made for the funeral upon its arrival here.

TROLLEY HITS STONE WAGON; PASSENGERS SHAKEN UP.

Struck by a west-bound main line trolley car near Washington avenue, Dunellen, at about noon today, a heavily loaded stone wagon belonging to the Dunellen Lumber and Stone Company, was wrecked and the load of stone spilled all over the road. The driver, Ephraim Johnson, escaped without injury, and the horses were unhurt.

Passengers in the trolley car were roughly jolted by the collision, but no one was injured. The car was in charge of Motorman Frank Doyle, of Dunellen, and Conductor William Oleson, of this city. The accident happened when Johnson turned across the trolley tracks on North avenue, near the company's office. The front axle of the stone wagon was broken.

Surprised Pastor and Wife.

Rev. and Mrs. J. W. Musson, who have just taken possession of their new home at 339 East Second street, were given a pleasing surprise last night by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Temple Baptist church, of which Mr. Musson is the pastor. The guests brought with them many gifts to fill the larder, and one that was particularly appreciated was a purse of $100 in gold. The presentation was made by L. W. Randolph, superintendent of the Sunday-school at the church. A social time followed and refreshments were served.

MISS ELEANOR CONWAY JAS. F. DEVINE'S BRIDE

Miss Eleanor Elizabeth Conway, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel D. Conway, of 754 East Second street, and James Francis Devine, of Fanwood, were married at St. Mary's church at 9 o'clock this morning, in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends. The nuptial mass was performed by Father Hogan, the assistant pastor.

The bride, who is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Conway, was gowned in white crepe de chine, trimmed with Irish lace. She was attended by her sister, Miss Margaret Conway, who wore a gown of shell pink. Both carried shower bouquets. The best man was John W. Desmond, of this city.

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at noon at the home of the bride's parents, and at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon a reception was held, which was attended by many friends. Later the couple left on a wedding trip to the Thousand Islands. Upon their return they will reside at Fanwood. The bride received a large collection of handsome and costly gifts.

The elaborate musical program at the church was in charge of Miss Mary Smith, organist, and included several classical numbers, in addition to the wedding marches. The chancel was attractively decorated for the wedding with flowers, ferns and palms.

YOUNG FRIENDS HOLD SEASON'S FINAL SESSION

The Plainfield Young Friends' Association held its final meeting for the season last night at the home of C. E. Vail on Norwood avenue. The "Conservation of Our Natural Resources" with special reference to the forestry conditions, the work of the fish commission and the preservation of the beauty of Niagara Falls, thanks to the commercial needs for deep water in Lake Erie, provided a full program.

Good attendance, renewed enthusiasm and the acquisition of four new members have been interesting features of the winter's work. The season's programs have included short papers and discussions on the political parties and their platforms, athletics, why we should or should not maintain a large navy, Fletcherism, Mormonism, the Emmanuel Movement, a lecture on Socialism and a review of the little book, "A Song of the Syrian Guest," the explanation of the 23d Psalm. Plans for summer outings were also discussed and the association adjourned until the autumn.

GAVE HOLIDAY TO THE CHURCH

Jersey Men Parishioners Dig Cellar for a New Structure.

To expedite construction work on the new church, which is to be erected for the Parish of St. Rose of Lima, at Short Hills, the men parishioners fell to work early Monday morning digging the cellar. They stuck to it, though new at the work, until 5 o'clock in the afternoon, and as they straightened their bent and aching backs gazed on a completed task.

Wagons belonging to some of the parishioners carried away the earth as fast as it could be loaded into them. The women of the parish served a picnic luncheon at noon. The suggestion that the men devote their holiday to the task came from the Rev. James T. Brown, pastor. The new building will cost $30,000.

Colored Cabmen in Court.

William Williams and Joseph Parsons, two colored cabmen, were in city court today to answer for a violation of the hack ordinance last week, when they left their horses' heads to solicit fares. The arrests were made by Detective Sergeant Flynn. The cabbies said that they were excited at the time because a party of nine got off one of the trains and wanted carriages. Each thought he had been signalled for by other cabmen, who had been hired and couldn't accommodate the entire party. City Judge Runyon dismissed the case with a warning to the men.

Committees from two classes of Trinity Reformed church Sunday-school, the class taught by Henry Seader, and known as the "Loyal Band," and the class of Horace J. YOUTH WHEN ARRESTED CONFESSES TO A THEFT

George Martial, who although only fourteen years old has the name of "bad boy" with the North Plainfield police, was arrested by Marshal Pope at his home on Somerset street and is held in a borough lock-up cell, charged with stealing cigars and tobacco from a show-case at the New Jersey Bottling Company's plant, on Madison avenue. No one has volunteered to provide bail for the prisoner. The "smoke" is the property of Oscar C. Schweitzer, manager of the store, and was stolen Monday afternoon.

Mr. Schweitzer did not discover the loss until Monday evening, when he went to the place and saw that the show-case where a quantity of cigars and tobacco was customarily kept, had been ransacked. The manager suspected the Martial boy, for he had noticed him loafing around the place with several of his companions. He notified the borough police, and the lad was arrested yesterday. The youth acknowledged that he had looted the case, and will be arraigned for a hearing before Recorder Dolliver at the session of borough court tonight.

DUNELLEN'S NEW P. O. OPEN FOR BUSINESS

The new Dunellen postoffice, in the Runyon building, which was opened yesterday morning about half a block distant from the old office, is a well appointed place. Postmaster Henry S. Garrison said "ever since he had been in charge of the office it had been his intention of getting a new and modern office for the people of Dunellen. The town is growing all the time and the citizens need an up-to-date place for getting and sending their mail."

The new office is furnished attractively with a metal ceiling and sidewalls. All the woodwork is of golden oak. There are one hundred and fifty lock and three hundred and fifty calls boxes in the office. The place is lit by electricity and will be heated with steam. The new office is no doubt a great improvement to the city and is one of the most modern offices in a town its size.

SACHER AND SACHER RECEIVER APPOINTED.

Isaac P. Runyon, as attorney for the New York Linoleum Company and others, today filed an involuntary petition against Sachar & Sachar, the East Front street furniture dealers, to have them adjudged bankrupts. At that meeting the firm gave three, six, nine and twelve months' notes; the first of which fell due yesterday and was not met.

The firm has recently been offering its creditors twenty-five cents on the dollar. Today Judge William Newcorn was appointed receiver by Judge Cross.

"Democracy and Its Future."

James E. Martine delivered a rattling good speech on "Democracy and Its Future" at a banquet given by the Jeffersonian Club of Newark, last night. It really marked the opening gun of the Democratic campaign of 1909. Assemblyman Joseph Tumnity, of Hudson, also spoke. The New Idea Republican Assemblymen were loudly praised by Mr. Kenny.

Men's Class Entertained.

Members of the men's class of the First Baptist church Sunday-school were entertained last night at the home of Henry W. Herman, of Rockview avenue. Parker, secretary of the Y. M. C. A. Mr. Parker spoke briefly on the "Boy Problem." John McLaughlin, Fred Armstrong and Henry W. Herman followed with short talks.

SOMERVILLE A BOROUGH

Mayor and Council Succeed Board of Commissioners as Government.

CHARLES C. KENYON, MAYOR.

Mr. Schwed One of the City Fathers—Freeholder, Assessor, Collector.

By the election of a Mayor and six Councilmen at Somerville yesterday Somerville relinquishes its old form of government by a Board of Commissioners after forty years and assumes that of a borough. The Mayor, Charles C. Kenyon, had served as president of the Board of Commissioners for the last three years, and the men elected as Councilmen, with two exceptions, are those who had been conducting the affairs of the town for many years. The election was tame, as there practically was no contest. This was all decided two weeks ago, when Mr. Kenyon defeated the only other candidate for Mayor, Alexander W. Mack, at the citizens' meeting, when the nominations were made. An effort was made last week to induce other citizens to run for Mayor, but without success.

The new Mayor is a prominent woollen mill machinery manufacturer, having succeeded his father in a business that had been established at Raritan, near this place, fifty years ago by his grandfather. The Councilmen are representative business men of the place. Of these Mr. Durling had been a Commissioner since 1902. He is a conductor on the New Jersey Central and has been the Chief of Police of the town for five years.

Mr. Schwed is a prominent merchant of the place and a large real estate owner. He had been a member of the commission since 1905, during which time he has been treasurer of the Board. Mr. Bellis and Mr. Barras were each elected as Commissioners in 1907. The former conducts a large carriage business in the place, besides being a practical horseshoer. Mr. Barras is a contractor, during the last few years doing much work for J. B. Duke and William Bradley on their large country estates near Somerville. The two new persons in the government are Mr. Maxwell and Mr. Cline, both young men, the former being the only bachelor member. He is connected with one of the oldest families of Somerset county, his grandfather, the late John Amerman, having amassed a fortune in a general store at South Branch near Somerville. His father, the late John Maxwell, was the founder of Somerville Engine Company, the oldest fire company there, and its first foreman. Mr. Cline is a plumber.

Despite the fact that Somerville has been governed peculiarly it has made rapid strides in the last few years. It is the county seat of Somerset county and has a population of more than six thousand. The attempts of the Board of Commissioners to make permanent public improvements in the place brought to light the fact that the government of the town, while assuming all the powers possessed by other municipalities ,really had no power beyond that of road overseers, and it was even asserted that all its acts for the last thirty years were illegal. This included the establishment of a sewer system for the place when Supreme Court Judge James J. Bergen was at the head of the town as president of the Board of Commissioners.

Several suits brought by the town officials to compel certain action by property owners resulted in the suits being thrown out of court on the ground that the town of Somerville as such did not exist and brought about tgitation which resulted in the change to a borough.

Other officers elected were: Freeholder, Joseph Fitzga; assessor, Bogart T. Conkling; collector, Jacob K. Brokaw. The new officials meet next Monday for organization.

She "Braced" School Teachers.

Daisy Sprague, who lives on Elm place, ran short of money a few days ago and successfully "braced" two teachers of the city schools, securing funds amounting to $3. She told the teachers she was in want and penniless, and framed up a good story. One of the educators reasoned that the woman could have appeaped to a local charity organization and telephoned police headquarteds about the "brace." Daisy was arrested by Detective Sergeant Flynn and at court today said that she would pay back the money as soon as she could get it, from "papa," on Saturday. The woman has a weakness for such "bracing," but City Judge Runyon suspended sentence on condition that she would make good with the $3.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

A thing the town needs badly is a Town Improvement Society. Many things could be accomplished by an organized effort. A strong and steady pull instead of spasmodic attempts for improvements would eventually accomplish something. One of the first things the society could do would be to find out why the town name does not appear on the guide boards on the main line trolley cars of the Public Service Corporation. The same corporation could be touched up on the poor electric light service. These are only two things; many others could be found and the society could keep the town busy for a time getting things where they should be.

The local ball team are putting up a great game of baseball. Manager Frentz is booking only the fastest of the teams in this section and the metropolitan district. Among the teams so far that have been put away are the Kearny A. C., champions of Hudson county; the Cranford A. C., All-Americans, of Newark, and Flemington, Decoration Day. Montross, who is doing the box work, was never in better form and the support back of him is as good as any of the boxmen are getting.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard P. Robison, of Roselle, have been visiting Mr. Robison's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Robison, of Forest avenue.

Miss Elizabeth Riley, of New York, was the guest over Sunday and Monday of Mrs. Ferdinand Schmidt, of Forest avenue.

Rev. and Mrs. Franklin K. Mathiews have been entertaining relatives from Massachusetts over Decoration Day.

Miss Ruth Hatfield has returned from a visit with friends at Glen Gardner, N. J.

SEATTLE'S FAIR OPENS

JAPS JOIN IN A SALUTE.

Wheels Start at Spark From White House—Coast City Is Rejoicing.

President Taft, in the White House, at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, pressed a telegraph key of Alaska gold and sent a spark across the continent that put in motion the wheels of the Alaska-Yukon Pacific Exposition at Seattle, Washington.

He loosed the waters of its fountains, unfurled its banner, started its bands playing, released showers of daylight fireworks, called upon the saluting guns of the American and Japanese fleets, set all the steamers in the harbor and all the locomotives in the railroad yards bellowing and shrieking and brought forth rejoicing from all Seattle, which has toiled for years to bring about this day.

The exercises at the World's Fair grounds preceding the President's signal were carried out with military precision. The exposition gates were opened at 8:30 o'clock. At 9:30 troops from the United States army and navy, the Japanese cruisers Aso and Soya and the State militia paraded through the grounds, under the command of Col. T. C. Woodbury, U. S. A., and the column was reviewed from a stand at the head of the court of honor by exposition officials, visiting Governors and the Japanese admirals.

The exercises were held in a vast natural amphitheatre sloping to Lake Washington. The program consisted of music, invocation bk Bishop O'Day, of the Catholic church; a brief address by Director General I. A. Nadeau and President J. F. Chilberg; the main address by James J. Hill, chairman of the Great Northern board, and a benediction by Bishop Frederick W. Keller, of the Episcopal church.

Every building is fully completed and all the exhibits installed.

Two hundred and fifty acres of the picturesque grounds of the University of Washington form the site of the exposition. Scenically no finer location could have been selected. Lying between two beautiful fresh water lakes—Washington and Union—the grounds present attractive stretches of water front.

The principal thoroughfare, Rainier avenue, lies in a direct line with Mt. Rainier, looming over 14,000 feet high in the distance. The snow-covered Olympics and Mt. Baker, high above the Cascade range, are also in plain sight from the grounds.

The focal point of the exposition is the court of honor, about which is an assemblage of artistic buildings and grounds, ornamented by statues, fountains, electric displays, trees, shrubs and flowers. At the northern end of the court of honor stand the government buildings—Federal, Alaskan, Hawaiian, Philippines and Fisheries.

In the centre of the court is a circular lake 260 feet in diameter, from which plays a reproduction of "Old Faithful Geyser" tossing its waters 150 feet in the air.

Three of the largest buildings on the University of Washington grounds are permanent structures of stone, cement, brick and steel. For the rest, the exposition buildings are those usually found at world's fairs—the Manufacturers building, located on the left, and east of Geyser Fountain; the Palace of Agriculture, on the opposite side of the fountain; Machinery Hall, a permanent brick structure designed after the style of Old Mission architecture, fronting on Pacific avenue, and the Forestry building, which will be the largest log house ever built, composed entirely of huge trunks in their rough state.

Then there are the Palace of Fine Arts, just inside the main entrance, an imposing fireproof building of buff brick and terra cotta; the Mines building, standing on the eastern side of Cascade Court; the Fisheries building, a twin structure on the west side of Cascade Court; Foreign Exhibits building, west of the Palace of Agriculture; Transportation building, occupying the site east of the Manufacture building; and the Auditiroum, one of the handsomest buildings on the exposition grounds. This structure will accommodate comfortably about 2,500 people.

Washington, Oregon, California, New York, Missouri, Utah, Pennsylvania and Nebraska have their own buildings, but many other States will make prominent displays. In all about $10,000,000 has been spent on the exposition grounds and buildings.

For the amusement street of the exposition a novel name and many novel features have been found. What was the "midway" at Chicago, the "pike" at St. Louis, the "trail" at the Portland Exposition and the "warpath" at Jamestown will be called the "pay streak" at Seattle.

CHARGED WITH HIDING A CASE OF SMALLPOX.

Emil Kamanski, a silk manufacturer, who owns a plant in the Essex mills on Mills street, and who resides at 181 Ellison street, Paterson, was arraigned before Recorder James A. Carroll in police court yesterday morning, on a charge of violating Section 14 of the sanitary code of the Board of Health, in concealing a case of smallpox.

The complaint was entered Saturday by Dr. W. S. Green, of the Board of Health, and the warrant was served yesterday morning by Detective William Elvin. When the defendant was arraigned he pleaded not guilty to the charge against him, and demaned a hearing in the case. His case will be heard by Recorder Carroll on June 16. The complainant asserts that a month ago Kamanski's sister was taken with small pox and was removed to the Isolation Hospital. A few days later a rash appeared on Kamanski, and realizing that he had smallpox, he went to a sanitarium on Upper Main street. He was spirited away from there to a sanitarium in Newark, and in turn was hurried from there to another hospital, leading the health officials a lively chase through the State.

He returned to this city bout two weeks ago, and stopped at the home of a friend. While there he gave the disease to two small children, the complainant avers, and later skipped from there. Dr. Green learned he was in Paterson on Saturday, and entered complaint.

CURRENCY CROOK GETS FIVE YEARS IN PRISON.

Newark Swindler Raised Small Bills to "Twenties" and Reaped a Harvest.

Judge Cross, of the United States Court, yesterday at Trenton sentenced the following:

George Smith, of Newark, five years in Atlanta penitentiary. He was charged with passing small bills altered so as to resemble $20 bills. He operated in several cafes in Market street, Newark.

Carmello De Vito, of Newark, two years and six months in the Federal Prison at Atlanta. He was charged with passing counterfeit half dollars.

Frank Maufra, of Passaic, five years in Atlanta penitentiary. He was charged with passing counterfeit money.

Thomas Wynnykm, of Paterson, one month in Atlanta prison and $100 fine, on the charge of passing counterfeit money.

Vincent Daly, of Haskell, must serve one year and six months in Atlanta, and pay a fine of $100, he having been convicted of entering a postoffice.

TWO SUSPECTS HELD FOR P. O. ROBBERY.

John Wilson and William Hopkins Arrested at Union Township and Put in Essex Jail.

Charged with being implicated in the robebry of the postoffice in Union Township, John Wilson and William Hopkins were arrested yesterday by Deputy United States Marshal Louis G. Beekman and late last night were taken to Newark, where they were lodged in the Essex county jail.

The robbery of the postoffice occurred Saturday night, and a large number of stamps were taken.

On the men are said to have been found several tools similar to those used by yeggmen. They had an examination before United States Commissioner S. Howell Jones in Newark, and each was held in default of $2,000 bail. They will have a further examination next week. Pinkerton and other detectives have been on the trail of the yeggmen, and will visit the jail today to see if they can identify them.

SOLDIERS TO BUILD THEIR OWN TENTS.

New Orders to the State Guard Sent Out by Quartermaster-General Murray.

Quartermaster-General Murray, of Trenton, yesterday sent out to the National Guard circulars saying that this year the soldiers will be required to build their own tents at Sea Girt and take them in again. Floors will be set in place by the superintendent at Sea Girt, but the troopers will have to put up the State tents when they arrive on the grounds. The last regiment out of camp will be compelled to strike and store away the tents.

This is in line with the department effort to improve the abilities of the men to care for themselves in the field. Already the cooks from civil life have been abolished by order of the quartermaster-general, and this year they will have to depend on their own cooks recruited for that service.

GOVERNOR NAMES "REGULAR."

Worrall F. Mountain, of East Orange, who was campaign manager for Judge Thomas L. Raymond when the latter ran for the Republican Senatorial nomination in Essex county last fall, was yesterday named by Governor Fort as District Court Judge for East Orange.

Mr. Mountain's selection was a surprise to the political wiseacres. He was graduated from the East Orange High School, Princeton University and the New York Law School. Following the stand Governor Fort took with the "new idea" faction recently, his selection of Mr. Mountain, who is a "regular," has the politicians mystified.

SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS

Catching his hand on the bayonet of a gun carried by a fellow-militiaman in the Memorial Day parade at Mt. Holly Monday, Roy Robertson, of Company E, had a hole pierced through his right hand.

Harry Schwartz, an employe at the Beverly Knitting Mills, Monday caught his hand in a "mangler," a huge red hot cylinder arrangement, and it crushed it and burned it to the elbow. It was a quarter of an hour before the arm could be released.

During a quarrel Monday Frank Radvon, thirty-five years old, of 1108 South Tenth street, Camden, was badly cut across the face and back. He was taken to Cooper Hospital. Michael Radvon, who says he is not a relative of the injured man, was arrested on a charge of doing the slashing and will have a hearing. Hazelton, colored, forty-two years old, of 1053 Philip street, Camden, was knocked down and severely injured Monday. The autoists placed her aboard the machine and took her to the Cooper Hospital, where it was found she had several fractured ribs and probable internal injuries.

Leon Schultz, the six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Schultz, of 26 East Hanover street, Trenton, will probably lose the sight of one of his eyes as a result of an attack made upon him by Leon Clark, the seven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. HIS CHECKS LEAD TO BIGAMY CHARGE.

William Newton Hoff was committed to the Essex county jail Sunday night by Justice of the Peace Henry Bosset, charged with bigamy. Until recently Hoff was a conductor on the Springfield avenue trolley line in Newark. His bigamous marriage was contracted with Emma Symes, the daughter of Henry Symes, of 50 Herman street, Newark. Hoff's excuse for his second marriage is that he believed his first wife was dead. Hoff married Viola Snyder in 1893 in Three Bridges. Two children, Margaret, 11, and Oscar, 7 years old, are a result of that union. In 1897 he went to another part of the State, and when he returned to Three Bridges he says that he couldn't find his wife or his children. He then went to Newark.

About two years ago he met Emma Symes at Electric Park, Newark. They were married in 1907, and one child, Louise, 10 months old, is the result of this marriage. The couple went to live with Mr. Symes, Emma's father, in Newark. When Hoff left the employ of the street railway company his father-in-law let him have $20 to buy a horse and wagon and engage in the peddling business. When the father made a demand for this money Hoff said that he would pay him, and that he had $1,600 in the Flemington National Bank in Flemington. When his father-in-law became importunate Hoff is said to have given him two checks on this bank. These checks led to Hoff's undoing. When they were presented at the Flemington bank it was stated that there was $1,600 to Hoff's credit there; and it had been left by his mother as a trust fund, and that all he is entitled to is the interest, and that the principal was to revert to his two children upon his death.

Mr. Symes then began an investigation, and it was learned that Mrs. Hoff No. 1 is living with her two children in Trenton, and the two wives and father-in-law No. 2 joined forces and swore out a warrant for Hoff's arrest on a charge of bigamy.

Hoff was arrested Sunday in Metuchen by Chief Borax, of Metuchen, and Justice of the Peace Bosset and taken to Newark.

FOUND DEAD MAN IN CHAIR IN HER YARD.

Tillie Brazinski, a young woman, reported to the police shortly after midnight that there was a dead man in her back yard, 81 Pine street, Elizabethport.

Charles Grumbila was found sitting dead in a chair. There were no marks of violence on the body. Morgue-keeper John A. Engel was notified, and the body was removed to the morgue. Grumblie was middle-aged and unmarried. He boarded in the same house, and had been in poor health for several months.

Blames Flies for Typhoid.

Trenton, June 2.—Typhoid fever is spreading in Trenton and Dr. Alton S. Fell, the city health officer, blames house flies for the disease. A case has developed at the State prison for the first time in twenty years, and inmates at the State Asylum and the State Home for Girls have also been stricken.

ROSALIND AT RED GATE

By MEREDITH NICHOLSON

Illustrations by RAY WALTERS

Copyright, 1907, by Bobbs-Merrill Company

I will see whether there is or not!" I exclaimed, throwing him off, but he kept close beside me.

We gained the trail that ran along the creek, and I paused to listen.

"Where's your launch?"

"Find it," he replied, succinctly.

I had my bearings pretty well, and set off toward the lake, Gillespie trudging behind in the narrow path. When we had gone about 20 yards a lantern glimmered below and I heard voices raised in excited colloquy. Gillespie started forward at a run.

"Keep back! This is my affair!"

"I'm making it mine," I replied, and flung in ahead of him.

I ran forward rapidly, the voices growing louder, and soon heard men stumbling and falling about in conflict. A woman's voice now rose in a sharp cry:

"Let go of him! Let go of him!"

Gillespie flashed by me down the bank to the water's edge, where the struggle ended abruptly. I was not far behind, and I saw Henry Holbrook in the grasp of the Italian, who was explaining to the woman, who held the lantern high above her head, that he was only protecting himself. Gillespie had caught hold of the sailor, who continued to protest his innocence of any wish to injure Holbrook; and for a moment we peered through the dark, taking account of one another.

"So it's you, is it?" said Henry Holbrook as the Italian freed him and his eyes fell on me. "I should like to know what you mean by meddling in my affairs. By God, I've enough to do with my own flesh and blood without dealing with outsiders."

Helen Holbrook turned swiftly and held the lantern toward me, and when she saw me shrugged her shoulders.

"You really give yourself a great deal of unnecessary concern, Mr. Donovan."

"You are a damned impudent meddler!" blurted Henry Holbrook. "I have had you watched. You—you—"

He darted toward me, but the Italian again caught and held him, and another altercation began between them. Holbrook was wrought to a high pitch of excitement and cursed everybody who had in any way interfered with him.

"Come, Helen," said Gillespie, stepping to the girl's side; and at this Henry Holbrook turned upon him viciously.

"You are another meddlesome outsider. Your father was a pig—a pig, do you understand? If it hadn't been for him I shouldn't be here to-night, camping out like an outlaw. And you've got to stop annoying my daughter!"

Helen turned to the Italian and spoke to him rapidly in his own tongue.

"You must take him away. He is not himself. Tell him I have done the best I could. Tell him—"

She lowered her voice so that I heard no more. Holbrook was still heaping abuse upon Gillespie, who stood submissively by; but Helen ran up the bank, the lantern light flashing eerily about her.

The Italian drew Holbrook toward the boat that lay at the edge of the lake. He seemed to forget me in his anger against Gillespie, and he kept turning toward the path down which the girl's lantern faintly twinkled. Gillespie kept on after the girl, the lantern flashing more rarely through the turn in the path, until I caught the threshing of his launch as it swung out into the lake.

I drew back, seeing nothing to gain by appealing to Holbrook in his present overwrought state. The Italian had his hands full, and was glad, I judged, to let me alone. A moment later he had pushed off his boat, and I heard the sound of oars receding toward the island.

I found my horse, led him deeper into the wood and threw off the saddle. Then I walked down the road until I found a barn, and crawled into the loft and slept.

CHAPTER XVIII.

The Lady of the White Butterflies.

The twitter of swallows in the eaves wakened me to the first light of day, and after I had taken a dip in the creek I still seemed to be sole proprietor of the world, so quiet lay field and woodland. I followed the lake shore to a fishermen's camp, where in the good comradeship of outdoor men the world over I got bread and coffee and no questions asked. I smoked a pipe with the fishermen to kill time, and it was still but a trifle after six o'clock when I started for Red Gate. A line of sycamores 200 yards to my right marked the bed of the Tippecanoe; and on my left hand, beyond a walnut grove, a little filmy dust-cloud hung above the hidden highway. I thrust my cap into my jacket pocket and stood watching the wind crisp the flowers. Then my attention wandered to the mad antics of a squirrel that ran along the fence.

When I turned to the field again I saw Rosalind coming toward me along the path, clad in white, hatless, and her hands lightly brushing the lush grass that seemed to leap up to touch them. She had not seen me, and I drew back a little for love of the picture she made.

She paused abruptly midway of the daisies, and I walked toward her slowly—it must have been slowly—and I think we were both glad of a moment's respite in which to study each other. Then she spoke at once, as though our meeting had been prearranged.

"I hoped I should see you," she said, gravely.

"I had every intention of seeing you! I was killing time until I felt I might decently lift the latch of Red Gate."

She inspected me with her hands clasped behind her.

"Please don't look at me like that!" I laughed. "I camped in a barn last night for fear I shouldn't get here in time."

"I wish to speak to you for a few minutes—to tell you what you may have guessed about us—my father and me."

"Yes; if you like; but only to help you if I can. It is not necessary for you to tell me anything."

She turned and led the way across the daisy field. She walked swiftly, holding back her skirts from the crowding flowers, traversed the garden of Red Gate, and continued down to the houseboat.

"We can be quiet here," she said, throwing open the door. "My father is at Tippecanoe village, shipping one of his canoes. We are early risers, you see!"

She grew grave again.

"I have important things to say to you, but it's just as well for you to see me in the broadest of of daylight, so that"—she pondered a moment, as though to be sure of expressing herself clearly—"so that when you see Helen Holbrook in an hour or so in that pretty garden by the lake you will understand that it was not really Rosalind after all that—that—amused you!"

"But the daylight is not helping that idea. Your are marvelously alike, and yet—" I floundered miserably in my uncertainty.

"Then"—and she smiled at my discomfiture, "if you can't tell us apart, it makes no difference whether you ever see me again or not. You see, Mr.—but did you ever tell me what your name is? Well, I know it, anyhow, Mr. Donovan."

The little work-table was between us, and on it lay the foil which her father had snatched from the wall the night before. I still stood, gazing down at Rosalind. Fashion, I saw, had done something for the amazing resemblance. She wore her hair in the pompadour of the day, with exactly Helen's sweep; and her white gown was identical with that worn that year by thousands of young women. She had even the same gestures, the same little way of resting her cheek against her hand that Helen had; and before she spoke she moved her head a trifle to one side, with a pretty suggestion of just having been startled from a reverie, that was Helen's trick precisely.

She forgot for a moment our serious affairs, to which I was not in the least anxious to turn, in her amusement at my perplexity.

"It must be even more extraordinary than I imagined. I have not seen Helen for seven years. She is my cousin; and when we were children together at Stamford our mothers used to dress us alike to further the resemblance. Our mothers, you may not know, were not only sisters; they were twin sisters! But Helen is, I think, a trifle taller than I am. This little mark"—she touched the peak—"is really very curious. But our mothers and our grandmothers had it. And you see that I speak a little more rapidly than she does—at least that used to be the case. I don't know my grown-up cousin at all. We probably have different tastes, temperaments, and all that."

"I am positive of it!" I exclaimed; yet I was really sure of nothing, save that I was talking to an exceedingly pretty girl, who was amazingly like another very pretty girl whom I knew much better.

DEVOE PROPHESIES A TORRID JULY 4.

Hackensack Weather Seer Says Next Day Will Be Thunderstormy, Too.

Weather Prophet A. T. Devoe, of Hackensack, stakes his reputation on the statement that this month of June will be noted for its torridity. He says that this section of the country will be visited by a succession of hot waves, while he predicts a season of floods in the Western States. Incidentally, Devoe says that July 4 will be very hot and that July 5, the day which will generally be observed as the Fourth, because of the holiday falling on Sunday, will be remarkable for heavy thunderstorms.

Devoe, after sending forth his prediction for June, was asked to give a reliable line on the weather for the Fourth.

In a very brief time the Hackensack prophet made the announcement of a hot day, with thunderstorms on the 5th.

So that those who are already laying plans for the Glorious Fourth may not place too much faith in Prophet Devoe's forecast, it may be well to say that he was way off the mark in his May prediction, being correct, or nearly correct, only eight times out of thirty-one.

Jack Martin, the popular shortstop of the Clinton Avenue Baseball Club, has signed with Dave Driscoll's New Brunswick team for the balance of the season. PLAINFIELD BOWLERS BEATEN AT SOMERVILLE

Campbell and Miller, two of Plainfield crack bowlers, journeyed to Somerville last night where they were defeated by Matthews and Schaub in an eight-game series. The home team won five of the eight games in the most handy fashion, getting the first three in succession. Matthews was in fine form and on two occasions passed the two hundred mark. In the third game he scored 237 points, the highest individual tally of the series. Miller ran up 234 in his fourth game. The highest double score was 417 made by the Somerville bowlers in the sixth game.

GOLF.

It was C. C. Burke and not C. A. Brooks who competed in the thirty-six hole handicap golf tournament at the Plainfield Country Club, on Monday.

The annual invitation golf tournament of the Wykagyl Country Club, June 10, 11 and 12, for which programs are out, will begin with a thirty-six-hole medal play qualifying round. As if anticipating a large field, the tournament committee—consisting of Louis C. Goetting, chairman; T. V. Bermingham and V. R. Delnoce—has arranged for five sixteens. The trophies, in their order of merit, will be known as the Wykagyl cup, New Rochelle cup, Quaker Ridge cup, Huguenot cup and Davenport Neck cup.

Throughout the first day there will also be a club team competition of four players from any club. All match rounds will consist of eighteen holes, and there will be the usual eighteen-hole medal play handicap on the last day. This is one of the clubs in the metropolitan district that has come to the front rapidly in recent years. During the last few weeks considerable time and money have been expended on improvements to the course and the enlargement of the clubhouse. Members are enthusiastic; so much so, in fact, that Alec Smith, the professional, is kept busy teaching pretty much all the time.

The annual meeting of the Eastern Professional Golfers' Association will be held at the Astor House on Monday, when the following ticket will be presented for election: President, George Strath; vice-president, Jack Hobens; secretary, H. H. Barker or Charles Kirchner; treasurer, David Hunter or Jack Jolly; executive committee, George Low (chairman); Herbert Strong, A. Finlay, J. S. Pearson, Dave Ogilvie, Tom Anderson and J. G. Jones.

Nearly every course in the district has been offered to the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association for practice or other matches. A card of membership from Miss Marie L. Harrison, secretary of the organization, is all that is needed to gain the visting privileges. The privileges of the courses have been offered in this order:

First Monday in each month—Hackensack and Shinnecock Hills.

Second Monday in each month—Garden City.

Third Monday in each month—Brooklawn and Fox Hills.

Fourth Monday in each month—Montclair.

Second Tuesday in each month—Morris County.

Fourth Tuesday in each month—Richmond County and Greenwich Country.

First Thursday in each month—Dyker Meadow.

Second Thursday in each month—Englewood.

Third Thursday in each month—Nassau.

Fourth Thursday in each month—Baltusrol and North Jersey.

First Friday in each month—Essex County.

Second Friday in each month—Plainfield.

Third Friday in each month—Apawamis.

Fourth Friday in each month—Powelton.

Any day but Saturdays, Sundays and holidays—St. Andrews and Ridgewood.

Dr. D. C. Adams and R. F. R. Huntsman went to Budd's Lake, Friday afternoon, where they were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Honeyman at their summer cottage on the banks of the lake. They returned home Monday night, having had an enjoyable rest.

509 Dog Licenses Issued.

Thus far 509 dog licenses have been issued by City Clerk MacMurray, and this does not include the kennel licenses. During the past few days Miss Mary Dunham, the assistant in the clerk's office, has been kept busy issuing licenses and taking down the full history and description of each dog of the applicant. In many cases the owner brings his dog along and this adds merriment and excitement to the occasion.

Broke His Arm Playing Tag.

While engaged in a game of tag with a party of his playmates near his home on Farley street, Sunday morning, David Jacot, the fourteen-year-old son of Joseph Jacot, tripped on the curbstone and fell heavily, breaking his left arm. FATHER BRENNAN BURIED

IN ST. PATRICK'S CATHEDRAL.

Bishop McFaul and Four Monsignors Take Part in Solemn Service.

Nearly sixty clergymen from all parts of the State were in attendance at the mass of requiem celebrated for the repose of the soul of the Rev. Michael Brennan, chaplain of Mount St. Mary's College, North Plainfield, in St. Patrick's Cathedral, Newark yesterday morning.

The body was brought to the cathedral at 9 o'clock yesterday morning, followed by coaches containing relatives and friends. Half an hour later the chanting of the divine office for the dead was begun by a score of priests. The funeral arrangements were in charge of the Rev. Dr. James A. McFaul, bishop of the Trenton diocese, to which diocese Father Brennan belonged.

It was after 10 o'clock when the solemn high mass of requiem was begun. The Rev. William Miller, rector of St. Joseph's church, North Plainfield, with whom Father Brennan lived, sang the mass. Very Rev. Dean Bernard J. Mulligan, of Camden, was deacon and the Rev. D. J. Duggan, of Bordentown, sub-deacon. The Rev. Dr. E. C. Griffin, of Trenton, secretary of Bishop McFaul, was master of ceremonies. The quartet of the cathedral choir sang the music of the mass.

The Rt. Rev. John J. O'Connor, bishop of the diocese of Newark, was seated in the sanctuary on his throne. Bishop McFaul was opposite him. Four monsignors from the Trenton diocese were in the sanctuary. They were Mgr. John F. Brady, South Amboy; Mgr. John A. O'Grady, New Brunswick; Mgr. P. F. Connolly, Phillipsburg, and Mgr. A. Pozzi, Trenton.

Among those at the mass who studied with Father Brennan at Seton Hall College or in the Seminary of the Immaculate Conception there were Monsignor Brady, the Rev. Maurice P. O'Connor, of Holy Cross church, Harrison; the Rev. Isaac P. Whelan, rector of St. Patrick's Cathedral, Newark, and the Rev. John Callaghan, of East Orange.

In pews reserved for them in the body of the church were prieses of the diocese of Trenton and the diocese of Newark. All wore white surplices.

The interment was made in St. John's cemetery, Orange, where the parents of Father Brennan were buried in the Brennan plot.

Father Brennan was curate of St. Patrick's Cathedral under the late Monsignor Doone thirty-three years ago and served as chaplain of St. Michael's Hospital.

Among the clergy from the Trenton diocese present besides the four monsignors named above and the Very Rev. Dean Bernard J. Mulligan were the Rev. William P. Cantwell, Long Branch; Father Lyons, Spring Lake; the Rev. P. J. Petri, Atlantic City; the Rev. William F. Dittrich, Bound Brook; the Rev. Joseph J. Zimmer, Raritan; the Rev. Martin A. Bogaard, Somerville; the Rev. Michael C. O'Donnell, Keyport; the Rev. Dennis J. Duggan, Bordentown; the Rev. William H. Miller, North Plainfield; the Rev. John B. McCloskey, Atlantic City.

There was not a large representation of priests of the Newark diocese, as many of the associates of Father Brennan years ago are dead. Among those in the cathedral were the Rev. Eugene P. MISS CAROLINE DILLERT, P. J. HICKEY'S BRIDE

Miss Caroline Dillert and Patrick J. Hickey, both of North Plainfield, were married yesterday in the presence of the relatives of the two families. The cermony was performed by Rev. William H. Miller, pastor of St. Joseph's church, at the rectory. Miss Nora McCarthy acted as bridesmaid and John Hickey was best man.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the groom's sister, Mrs. Thomas Leary, on West Fifth street. Owing to a recent death in the family, only the immediate relatives were present. The bride received a numbr of handsome and useful gifts, among them being a silver service. Following the reception, the couple departed on a wedding trip. Upon their return they will reside in their newly-furnished home in the borough.

WATER WAGON SPRINKLER SOON TO BE ABANDONED

The Councilmanic street committee met last night and devoted most of the time to a discussion of treating the macadam streets of the city with an oil preparation as a dust preventitive. Several applications were received from property-owners and others asking that this work be extended throughout the city during the summer, and the committee practically agreed to comply with the request.

At present the street department is spreading Texas oil on West Front street, while Tarvia will be used again on Park avenue, this preparation having given satisfaction last year when spread on the avenue, between Seventh street and Randolph road. It will now be extended to Fourth street.

Satisfactory reports were received from residents of West Seventh street, where the oil has been used. It has proved effective in keeping the dust down, and the committee hopes through the general application of oil to overcome the nuisance and at the same time cut down the bill for street sprinkling.

The contract of Mobus & Burke, for furnishing the city with crushed stone, was presented last night, and is now ready to receive the approval of the Common Council at its meeting Monday night.

Miss Margaret Kenney a Graduate.

Miss Margaret Frances Kenney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Kenney, of East Second street, was graduated from Barnard College, New York, yesterday, with a degree of A. B., having completed the four years' course with credit. She was graduated from the Plainfield High School five years ago, taking a year's rest before entering Barnard.

Miss Kenney's parents and a number of relatives from this city and Bound Brook, attended the commencement exercises.

August Ciocci.

August Ciocci, a shoemaker, forty-eight years of age, residing on Chatham street, died at Muhlenberg Hospital yesterday from a complication of diseases. The funeral will be held this afternoon at 3 o'clock from the St. Joseph church. Father Miller will officiate. Interment will be made in St. Mary's cemetery. Ciocci leaves a wife and four children.

COLUMBUS KNIGHTS CARNIVAL SATURDAY

Under the auspices of Watchung Council, Knights of Columbus, the annual carnival will be held at West Front street and Grant avenue for a week, June 5-12, and as usual it will be a big affair. The council has engaged W. S. Miller, who conducted two carnivals for the benefit of Muhlenberg Hospital, and he has arrived here with all his attractions.

There will be the Ladies' Auxiliary tent as one of the big attractions, and the largest merry-go-round, known as the ten thousand electric light machine, will be here.

In addition there will be a vaudeville show, the circus, swings, moving pictures, and in fact everything that goes with a first-class carnival.

Theodore J. Shirley is chairman of the general committee; J. J. Varley is the secretary, and A. A. Cannon the treasurer. The general committee is a large one and all of the members of the council, with the assistance of the women, will be in charge.

AFTER FORTY YEARS HOTEL MAN RETIRES

Jacob Blimm, Sr., after being engaged in the hotel business for forty years, has decided to retire and has sold out to his son, Jacob Blimm, Jr. The new proprietor will take charge on Monday, following a transfer of the license by the Common Council. The Farmers' Hotel on Somerset street, of which Mr. Blimm has been the proprietor for twenty-six years, has long been one of the best known hostelries in this part of the State for a long time.

Mr. Blimm formerly lived in New York, where he was a member of the old volunteer fire department, and later of the Exempts of that city. After leaving New York he located at Mt. Bethel, where he conducted a hotel from 1870 to 1883. He then purchased the business at the Farmers' Hotel from his brother-in-law, Werner Heidloff. At that time the property was said to be valued at $10,000. It has tripled in value since. A few years ago Mrs. Lena Hoerster purchased the property and is now the owner.

Mr. and Mrs. Blimm have leased apartments in the New Madison and will remove there after the change in the business is completed.

J. F. HUGHES MARRIES MISS CHARLOTTE COCKLEY

Miss Charlotte Blanche Cockley, formerly of this city, but now of Flatbush, L. I., and Joseph F. Hughes, of North Plainfield, were married at 7 o'clock last night at Holy Innocents' church, 17th street and Beverly road, Flatbush, in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends from New York, Brooklyn, Elizabeth, Garwood, Roselle and this city. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Harry W. Burns, of 1016 Beverly road, Flatbush.

The bride wore a princess gown of white satin, en train, with a veil and orange blossoms and carried a shower bouquet of white roses. She was attended by Miss Anna Weigmann, of West Front street, as bridesmaid, and she wore an empire gown of white batiste over pink silk. She carried a bouquet of pink roses. The best man was John Cockley, of Garwood, a nephew of the bride, and the ushers were Clarence Waldron and John Sharp, of Flatbush.

The church was elaborately decorated for the affair with cut flowers, palms and smilax. The home where the reception was held was also decorated attractively. Mr. and Mrs. Hughes were the recipient of a large number of handsome gifts. They left at 11 o'clock last night on an extended trip through New York State and upon their return they will reside in Plainfield. Among the Plainfielders at the wedding were Mrs. Philip Maag and daughter; Miss May Hughes, the Misses Anna and Olga Weigmann, Mrs. Elvaine VanName and Miss Kathryn Cooley.

PLANS FOR CHARTER DAY

Citizens Committee Appoints More Chairmen for Three Days' Festivities.

KNIGHTS TEMPLAR ACCEPTS.

Mounted Police to Be Feature of Parade—Many More Contributions Reported.

Mayor Charles J. Fisk, chairman of the citizens' committee for the Charter Day celebration, announced his appointments for various subcommittees at the meeting held last night in the Council chambers. William R. Cock has been named as chairman of the committee to secure speakers, and in this connection it was announced that Former Mayor L. V. F. Randolph has accepted the invitation of the committee to make the principal address at the city park Monday afternoon. James E. Martine will also make an address. The open air meeting will begin at 4 o'clock.

W. T. W. Maxwell was appointed to head the music committee, and he will chose his own assistants. Former Sheriff W. T. Kirk will be in charge of the committee of arrangements for the Monday afternoon meeting at the city park, and J. P. Emmons, Daniel Runkle and W. J. Conroy, with others to be appointed, will constitute the committee. Mayor Samuel Townsend, of North Plainfield, will act as chairman of the entertainment committee. All the committees appointed were instructed to meet with the general committee of arrangements and report upon arrangements at Charter Day headquarters Tuesday night.

With a view to making the celebration commence on Independence Day, which falls this year on a Sunday, Warren Travell, chairman of the organization committee, today sent out letters to the pastors of all the churches of city and borough, urging them to preach special sermons on national and civic growth in connection with the morning services on July 4. The letter also suggests special music appropriate to the day, and it is thought that some of the churches will be decorated.

Mr. Travell has also notified all the local fraternal organizations that his committee is now ready to hear from the various lodge committees regarding what part each will take in the celebration. Many will take part in the parades and mummers' celebration, others will have floats in the parade July 6, some will build arches in the business sections and all will probably contribute to the Charter Day fun.

At its conclave last night, Trinity Commandery, No. 17, Knights Templar, took action upon the celebration and decided to parade in full uniform. The members of the order will hold the position on the right of line in the parade Monday, July 5, and will probably be accompanied by a delegation from Damascus Commandery, of Newark, and commanderies of New York and Brooklyn.

Jack Horner, the bike race promoter, who will have charge of the bicycle races during the celebration, has announced a series of races to be held Monday, July 6. The principal event, to be known as the "Diamond Handicap," will draw some of the fastest cyclists in this part of the country, he has been assured. Eight prizes will be awarded, including a time prize. A feature event will be the race for boys between 8 and 16 years of age.

FREEHOLDERS CONDEMN WASHINGTON AVE. BRIDGE

At the monthly meeting of the Union County Board of Freeholders today, a resolution offered by Freeholder J. Hervey Doane was adopted, condemning the Washington avenue bridge. It was stated that it would cost $4,500 to properly repair the bridge and it was not considered worth the expense. The Somerset County Board of Freeholders, it was said, has done nothing of late toward repairing its half of the structure and now it is desired to build a new one.

The present bridge, which was built in 1875, has outlived its usefulness and a new one is considered an absolute necessity. The span is 103 feet. It is proposed to erect a modern bridge of concrete, the expense of which will be about $10,000. A copy of the resolution adopted by the Union County Board of Freeholders today will be sent to the Somerset county board which meets on Tuesday.

LOCAL LICENSES FREE DURING CELEBRATION

Plainfielders who want to sell refreshments or souvenirs either at booths or on the streets during the Charter Day celebration may secure licenses free of charge for the celebration days, according to an announcement made by Mayor C. J. Fisk today. If, however, any out-of-town vendors or basket merchants want to work in town during the days of the celebration, they will have to pay the regular license rates.

This arrangement is a concession to the local merchants which shows that the authorities are going to take good care of home enterprise, and it is probable that many will take advantage of the city's offer to furnish licenses free. The police will insist upon street merchants of all sorts having licenses, and will be on the watch to see that all out-of-town street merchants are steered to the city clerk's office to secure them, whether they operate here for the entire celebration or mrely for a part of a single day.

DISTRICT COURT JUDGE RECEIVES A BOUQUET

Today marked the third anniversary of the District court, and the occasion was marked by the presentation of a handsome bouquet of flowers to Judge William Newcorn by Sergeant Hezekiah Hand. During the three years that the court has been established, 746 civil cases have been tried and 358 landlord and tenant cases, while there are forty-seven cases pending.

That the court has been conducted by Judge Newcorn and his assistants in a creditable manner, there seems to be no doubt, and the presiding officer was complimented today upon his fairness in rendering decisions in all cases that have been brought before him. Horace G. Adams, the clerk, was also congratulated upon the accuracy of the records as kept by him.

An interesting fact in connection with the establishment of the court, was that V. W. Nash, Jr., tried the first case in this court, that of the International Text Book Company against H. C. Randolph, and won it, and he also was counsel for the plaintiff in the last case tried today, that of Neuman Bros. against W. A. Shoemaker.

LAWYERS MOURN FOR N. DOUGLAS DRAKE

Gathering to take appropriate action on the death of their fellow member, N. Douglas Drake, members of the Plainfield Bar Association held a special session at the law offices of Codington & Swackhamer, last night, when committees were appointed to draft a resolution of condolence, to attend the funeral of Mr. Drake, and to arrange for sending flowers. Former Assemblyman S. S. Swackhamer was made chairman of the meeting, and William Stillman acted as secretary.

The chairman named John H. Van Winkle, A. F. Randolph and Borough Recorder C. M. Dolliver as the committee to draft the resolutions of condolence, a copy of which is to be sent to the bereaved family and spread on the minutes of the association. John H. Van Winkle, Jr., J. Henry Crane and Mr. Dolliver will represent the association at the funeral, and H. C. Runyon, W. G. DeMeza and V. W. Nash, Jr., will arrange for floral tributes from the lawyers.

At the District Court today, V. W. Nash, Jr., offered a motion to the effect that mention of the death of Mr. Drake be made on the court records, and that the minutes of the Bar Assosciation meeting, held last night, be copied there. Mr. Nash spoke in eulogy of the deceased lawyer, who had been a popular member of the organization for several years, and speeches in tribute were made by Mr. Swackhamer, Assemblyman R. V. P. Von Minden and J. Henry Crane. Judge Newcorn ordered that the record be made, and took occasion to speak briefly of Mr. Drake as a lawyer and as a man.

The body of Mr. Drake, who died at Saranac Lake, N. Y., on Tuesday, will be brought to this city. The funeral will be from the home of his aunt, Mrs. Dodge, of 34 Duer street, North Plainfield.

Mrs. E. J. Mattice's Funeral.

The funeral service of Mrs. Leanor J. Mattice (nee Terry), widow of the Rev. Henry Mattice, will be held from the residence, 37 Prospect place, tonight at 7 o'clock.

CARNIVAL RECEIPTS FOR BIG BALL FIELD

The Clinton Avenue Baseball Club carnival which closed Monday night, was a success, considering the bad weather experienced on several days. In the voting contest for the most popular fraternal organization, Somerset Council, No. 104, Jr. O. U. A. M., received the greatest number of votes, 2,665, and received the handsome American flag. The Plainfield Cycle Club was second with 1,737 votes, the Knights of Columbus third with 1,433, the Elks fourth with 1,361, the Y. W. C. A. next with 327, the Knights of the Golden Eagle next with 320, while Plainfield Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., was last with 318 votes.

Andrew Dino, of this city, was presented with the bicycle. The net proceeds from the carnival will be used as a fund with which to purchase suitable grounds as a ball field. The carnival was in charge of a committee, of which D. B. Martin was the chairman. The attractions were furnished by the Graybill Amusement Company, of Philadelphia.

GROCER CAN'T RECOVER; WIFE OWNS FURNITURE

V. W. Nash, Jr., counsel for Neuman Bros., in the District Court, this morning, sought to recover $150 through an execution on a judgment for that amount against W. A. Shoemaker, of Berkeley avenue. J. Henry Crane, counsel for Mrs. Mary Johnson Shoemaker, the defendant's wife, proved to the satisfaction of the court and jury of six men that the goods levied upon were her property, and that Mr. Shoemaker had never paid one penny in the purchase of them.

At the direction of Judge William Newcorn, the jury rendered a verdict in favor of Mrs. Shoemaker. The jury comprised C. W. Runyon, foreman; Archie Davies, Karl M. Ball, Frank Dencklau, Edward Pierce and David Bodine.

MOUNTED POLICE FOR CHARTER DAY PARADES

There's going to be a squad of mounted police in line in the Charter Day parades. Eight of "the finest" will mount horses and ride along the line of march with the organizations celebrating the city's birthday, and Chief of Police Kiely will lead them.

Arrangements for securing the mounts were completed yesterday by the head of the police force, and nine riding horses from Hugh Gormley's stables will carry the cops. The names of the patrolmen who are to be "up" have not yet been announced, for the Chief is making a canvass of the men in an effort to find out who are the best appearing riders. Chief Kiely has arranged for a real "charger," the pick of the stable, to carry him at the head of the line, and says he will be glad to get in the saddle again. The Chief is some rider, according to report, but says that he hasn't been on a horse but a couple of times in the past twenty years. "We've secured the finest horses obtainable," said the Chief today, "and the one I'm going to ride is the liveliest of the lot. I am confident that I can manage any horse in town, but I hope I'll have a chance to get a couple of practise rides before I start out in the parades. I think it will be an easy matter to select eight members of the force who can manage horses, for there are that mony of the men who are accustomed to riding."

Boy Thief Sent to Somerville.

George Martial, the borough boy who confessed to the theft of a quantity of cigars and tobacco from the New Jersey Bottling Company's plant on Madison avenue, Monday, was remanded to appear before Judge Schenck of the Somerset county court at his hearing before Borough Recorder Charles M. Dolliver this morning. The boy, who is but fourteen years of age, was taken to Somerville this afternoon by Chief Marshal Weiss. He will be arraigned at the Somerset county court tomorrow morning.

Boy Ball-Player Fined.

Graham Giddes, a Duer street boy, who was arrested with two companions yesterday for playing ball among vegetable gardens on Gavin place, was fined $1 at his hearing before Borough Recorder Dolliver at the session of the borough court this morning. The other two ball-players arrested, Wilbur Warnock and Edward Brower, were released with a warning.

WANT CAMP INDEPENDENT

Anti-Tuberculosis League Members are Against Hospital Supervision.

PRESIDENT STEVENSON'S VIEWS.

Committee to Consider Site For Tuberculosis Camp Appointed at League Meeting.

Declaring that the proposed local tuberculosis camp, sites for which are now under consideration by the Plainfield Anti-Tuberculosis League, should not be under the control of the hospital directors, nor too closely identified with that institution, Rev. E. Vicar Stevenson, president of the League, spoke in favor of an independent camp to be controlled by the league at the meeting of the anti-tuberculosis organization held last night at Grace church parish house. This idea, which is not a new one, was endorsed in remarks by Walter Nolting, Leighton Calkins, F. D. Lounsbury, R. Henry Depew and several physicians. The reason is primarily one of simplification of the work for it is believed that inasmuch as the agitation for the camp has been made through the League, it will be easier to raise money for the construction of the camp and secure financial endorsement for its suport if it is an independent institution. Many local people are interested in the establishment of such a tuberculosis camp, and an officer of the League has stated that offers of funds for its construction and maintainance have been made, with the condition that it be an independent institution.

While the plans for this camp are as yet but incomplete, it is probable that it will include tuberculosis pavilions and it is the desire of the League officers to secure the cooperation of Muhlenberg Hospital by the use of the operating room for the surgical cases and perhaps the services of some of the pupil nurses. The interest of several local lodges and fraternal orders has been aroused by the League's agitation of the need of such a tuberculosis camp, and one such organization has agreed to supply a pavillion if the camp is maintained independent of the hospital. Similar provisional subscriptions have been promised, both by organizations and individuals.

The question of a site for the camp was discussed informally at last night's meeting, and the consensus of opinion seemed to be in favor of a location somewhere near the hospital. A site on the Watchung mountains is also under consideration. President Stevenson appointed a committee to consider this question of location and report at the next meeting of the League, to be held within two weeks. The committee is headed by Duncan W. Taylor, and serving with him are State Senator Ernest R. Ackerman, Dr. W. H. Murray, Dr. B. Van D. Hodges, William Dutcher and R. Henry Depew.

The membership committee reported twenty-two new members to the League. Dr. W. H. Murray, who has been acting as treasurer of the League since the resignation of Health Officer Leon Thurlow, resigned the office, and his brother, James P. Murray was elected.

DOCTORS DISCUSS THE FATAL NEW MALADY.

It Is Called "Pellagra" and Is Prevalent Among Negroes of the South.

Atlantic City, June 3.—Doctors attending the convention of the Medico-Psychological Association spent most of the day discussing the threatened scourge of a new disease called "Pellagra," which is prevalent among the negroes of the South. It is only a little less loathsome than leprosy and it is said to be the result of the rust of harvesting corn in which the germ of disease is left. One of the peculiarities of the disease is that at least 10 per cent. of those who become infected with the germ are driven insane. Dr. J. W. Babcock, superintendent of the State Hospital for the Insane of South Carolina, gave a history of the disease before the convention yesterday, and said it was due to the use of moldy corn which has become infected with fatal fungus.

Both Dr. Britton D. Evans and Dr. John B. Chapin, expert alienists, placed themselves on record as against the average medical expert testimony used in murder trials. Both said the long technical terms used had confused the jurymen and given them scientific indigestion. Dr. Chapin declared that expert lawyers for the defense have called many alienists for the sole purpose of beclouding the jurymen and causing a disagreement.

W. H. REES INHERITS A SECOND FORTUNE.

Double Good Luck Comes to Him Because of Kindness Done Years Ago.

Jersey City, June 3.—Several years ago when Athole Church, a planter in Porto Rico, died, he bequeathed $50,000 or more to William H. Rees, a local lawyer, and the latter's daughter, Eleanor Irene Rees. He also left considerable money to another friend, Edward Waugh, of Porto Rico.

On May 20 last Waugh died. His will, probated here yesterday in the office of Surrogate John P. Egan, provides that William H. Rees shall receive the sum of $10,000; his daughter, Eleanor Irene Rees, $2,500, and his son, Athole Church Rees, named after Athole Church, $7,500.

Rees formed an acquaintance with Church and Waugh in this city, went hunting with them and when they became ill cared for them and saw that they were properly nursed.

Public Service Taxes Tell Story of Growth.

TWO facts stand out conspicuously in the talk published last week about the amount of taxes PUBLIC SERVICE has paid since 1903.

The first is that the six years' payments used up an amazingly large sum of money.

The second is that PUBLIC SERVICE tax bills have been growing very much larger with each succeeding year.

Just to refresh your mind—it is very easy for the busy reader to forget figures—PUBLIC SERVICE will repeat that the sum expended by it for real, personal, franchise and special local taxes in 1903 was $723,203.25, while the payments for similar purposes in 1908 aggregated $1,064,631.01.

This shows an increase for 1908 over 1903 of $341,427.76, or about forty-seven per cent.

Let's see what these figures mean. For one thing they demonstrate that PUBLIC SERVICE has been putting a lot of money into the various plants and systems which go to make up its taxable property and by means of which it is enabled to serve the people. Nor does the mere mention of the increased amount of tax convey an adequate idea of what this investment has amounted to. One must consider, as well, that the tax rates generally throughout the State were much lower last year than they were six years ago, or than they are likely to be this year.

Other factors, and most important ones, which have figured in increasing the taxes paid by PUBLIC SERVICE are the requirements of the franchise tax acts and the payments exacted by municipal ordinances for one privilege or another.

These taxes, which were not based on tangible property values, but had to be met out of the company's gross receipts, have increased seventy-seven per cent. in the six years of PUBLIC SERVICE'S existence.

And every dollar of this tax money was paid directly to the municipalities in which PUBLIC SERVICE operates. No part went to the State.

Truly, the PUBLIC SERVICE tax bills tell a story of phenomenal growth. And the benefits accruing to the public have kept pace with that growth.

DENOUNCED ENGLAND IN MEMORIAL DAY SPEECH.

Rev. Monsignor John F. Brady, rector of St. Mary's Roman Catholic church, South Amboy, stirred many of his hearers Monday by taking occasion, in the course of a Memorial Day address, to denounce England, and warn his audience against trusting that nation.

Monsignor Brady spoke at the gathering in Christ church cemetery, South Amboy, under the direction of William T. Traux Post, G. A. R. He followed Rev. George Kane, pastor of the Presbyterian church.

After speaking in general terms of the valor of American soldiers and of the debt this nation owes its defenders he dwelt particularly upon the prowess of the nation's adopted sons of Irish parentage. Warning his hearers to beware of English chicanery he asserted that he had once been a member of the Fenian army and was proud of the fact, and that his oath, taken then, bound him always to avoid having anything to do with England.

The priest's remarks have been widely discussed since Monday. South Amboy has a number of residents of English ancestry and they resent the speaker's comments.

Elizabeth Atlantic League baseball is practically a thing of the past. The team has lost several of its players who have jumped, and despite the fact that the team has been in front throughout the season the support has been poor. The Wilmington club gave up the ghost yesterday, and the Sunbury, Pa., team is to take its place beginning today. The Allentown team was scheduled to play in Wilmington yesterday, but, of course, had no one to play against. The game scheduled to be played yesterday by the Shamokin and Elizabeth teams in Elizabeth was called off, ostensibly because of wet grounds, but it is not likely that a game could have been played under any conditions. No game is likely to be played today either. It is plain that Elizabeth was unfortunately situated and it should never have joined an aggregation made up of towns in the mining regions of Pennsylvania. Teams in such places might readily complete a successful season if contests were confined to that section. Attempting to branch out and thus increase railroad fares, etc., was fatal to the Elizabeth club.

The Clinton Avenues will play the McNulty Bros.' team on Crescent Oval Saturday afternoon.

The Clinton Avenues will surely miss Jack Martin. He and Emery were the "ginger boys" on the southside of the diamond.

MEN IN AUTO UNKNOWN TO THE VICTIM OF IT.

While speeding along Rahway avenue in Linden Township at 11 o'clock Tuesday night, Washington Merritt, twenty-five years old, who lives in Wood avenue, Linden, was run down in front of Bauer's hotel by an automobile in which were four men. Merritt was knocked unconscious, and was badly injured. He was picked up by the automobilists and carried into the hotel. They then sped away without giving their names or address. Mr. Bauer telephoned to the Elizabeth General Hospital for an ambulance, and the victim was removed to that institution. He was found to be severely bruised about the body, and to have sustained scalp wounds, and possibly a fracture of the skull.

BEN GREET PLAYERS AT MOUNT ST. MARY'S

On the afternoon and evening of June 18, the people of Plainfield and vicinity are cordially invited to embrace the rare opportunity of seeing that world famous company, the Ben Greet Woodland Players, on the Campus of Mount Saint Mary's College. The charm and delight of the comedies, played under the spreading branches of the great trees have been widely heralded throughout America. One San Francisco critic says, "Nay, but pen and ink is but poor stuff to paint a 'Taming of the Shrew,' like yesterday's. Shakespeare himself must have joyed in it; one hoped he was there, behind the waving elms that flower the lawns where the Bent Greet players walked. Mozart, only, in the morning of his genius could have sung of the freshness, the fine simplicity, the delicate, frolicsome humor of the thing. It was the very spring time of comedy—comedy in its clear-eyed joyous youth, played blythesomely by a company of gay lads and lassies."

They will present "The Taming of the Shrew" at 3 in the afternoon and "A Midsummer Night's Dream" at 8 in the evening. The afternoon performance played in the brilliant sunlight, with its green forest background, the evening performance under the stars, with the beautiful light effects, and both performances accompanied by the songs of the birds, will be occasions long remembered by the people of this city.

The company includes such distinguished artists as Miss Edith Wakemar, Frank McEntee, Arthur de Brenk, Jack O'Brien, Charles Stone, Stanley Drewitt, Mark T. Wilson, Edmund Mortimer, Walter Robinson, Leona Shepherd, Percy Waram, Frederick Macklyn, G. Brengle Hare.

This is the first dramatic performance under the auspices of the College of Mount Saint Mary. Let us hope that so many people will attend that the scholarship fund will be greatly increased.

PREFERRED SUICIDE TO SHARING NEGRO'S CELL.

Trenton, June 3.—Feeling that he was disgraced by being placed in a cell with a negro in the county jail, Cunundo Heato, alias Franz Vanilla, a Filipino, attempted suicide yesterday by hanging to the door of the cell with his suspenders.

Heato has given the local police considerable trouble of late, and is being held on several charges of larceny. He has always shown an especial dislike for negroes, and when the colored prisoner said: "You're as much of a 'nigger' as I am," Heato decided that life was not worth living. The negro gave an alarm and the Filipino was cut down before he had done himself any harm.

GET BLACK HAND LETTER.

Demand for Money Made on Paterson Lawyers.

Ward & McGinnis, a firm of criminal lawyers of Paterson, have received a letter alleged to be from the Black Hand. It is composed in the usual manner, with black borders and crossbones with skull, and demands the payment of $500. The lawyers are given three days' grace in which to place the money in a location designated in the letter.

Ward & McGinnis have had considerable work in the past defending members of the alleged secret society and they were therefor surprised to receive the missive. The attention of the police has been called to the matter.

AMONG OUR NEIGHBORS

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The Merchants' team, said to be one of Newark's fastest semi-professional teams, will be the attraction in the way of baseball for Saturday afternoon.

Charles Reick, who has been visiting his sister, Mrs. James Johnston, of Westfield avenue, has returned to his home in Orange, N. J.

Lymus Marsh, who has been seriously ill for several months, is convalescing, being able to get out of doors now for a while each day.

The monthly communion will be held Sunday morning at the Baptist church at the close of the sermon.

Mrs. Joseph Schwalbach has been entertaining relatives from Brooklyn.

Twilight Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., meet tonight in the Library rooms.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Manager Miller will try the following pitchers at Sunday's game to take the place of Soffeld: Earl Moran, William Carcuff, Herbert Terry and William Tremley. It is probable that Terry will get the place.

Bert Trimmer recently lost a valuable bulldog named "Prince." He was found dead yesterday morning, having died during the night. The dog was twelve years old and was a prize winner.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Winship have returned to their home in Staten Island, after a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Thorne, of Plainfield avenue.

Edward Norman is confined to his home on account of an injury received yesterday by running a rusty nail in his foot.

Mrs. P. F. Kaine visited relatives in Elizabeth yesterday.

"TRIAL BY JURY" TO BE SUNG BY PUPILS.

The comic opera, "Trial By Jury," which the pupils of the High School are to present on Saturday night, easily ranks with the best in the long line of operas by Gilbert and Sullivan. Their great success, "Pinafore," was followed by "Pirates of Penzance," "Patience," "Iolanthe," "The Mikado" and others but many musical critics regard the "Trial By Jury" as the most perfect work in the opera line that Sir Arthur Sullivan ever did while W. S. Gilbert quite outdid himself with the book.

C. L. Lewis has been fortunate in securing Mrs. Minnie Marshall Smith, the well known reader, to coach the pupils and it's safe to say that full value will be given the dramatic and humorous side of the opera and with Frank J. Smith at the piano the music will have all the sparkle and "go" that the composer intended. Mr. and Mrs. Smith very successful produced the opera in New York recently and its repetition was demanded to accommodate the people who desired to hear it.

Party For Monroe Nichols.

Monroe Nichols of Fairview avenue, a prominent member of the Owl Social Club, was given a "Skidoo" surprise party, last night, in honor of his twenty-third birthday. There were about forty members and friends of the club present to let Mr. Nichols know he had passed another milestone. The evening was spent in dancing and singing. SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS

More than $1,000,000 was deposited in Atlantic City banks Tuesday by jubilant hotel and business men, the result of the big throngs who were there over Memorial Day.

The Burlington County quarterly meeting of the Society of Friends was held in the historic old meeting-house of Crosswicks Tuesday. Prominent members of the society were present from Pennsylvania.

Mrs. A. P. Arnold, of Vineland, who has no children of her own, and who raises 5,000 little chicks every year to keep from getting lonesome, took a score of neighbors' children to Wildwood for an outing Tuesday.

Millville veterans of the Civil War have begun a movement to erect a soldiers' monument in Mt. Pleasant Cemetery there. At the memorial service Monday, plans were adopted and a subscription of $14 was received to start the fund.

Attacked by a dog at Second and Erie streets, Camden, Tuesday, William Mundell, of Fifth and Erie streets, and William Sipe, of Second and Erie streets, were bitten on the legs. The wounds were cauterized and the dog shot.

By the will of Mrs. Amanda Hawkins, an aged colored woman, who died in Millville last week, her estate is bequeathed to the African Methodist Episcopal church building fund. Her savings of years amount to a considerable sum.

Owing to the fact that neither side was prepared, the case of Claude Shinn against his wife, Frances Shinn, of Riverton, which was scheduled to be heard before Vice Chancellor Leaming, in Camden, Tuesday, was postponed indefinitely. While Mrs. Shinn is accused of infidelity, she avers her husband tried to compel her to subject herself to indignities in order that he might secure money to study for the ministry.

Fire Tuesday destroyed the two-story frame building at 139 Second street, Passaic, occupied on the lower floor as a saloon and on the second as a dwelling. There were two families living on the second floor. Patrolman Kennedy rescued two children. He found them half suffocated in a bedroom and carried them out. They were revived with difficulty. Three men of the Alert Hook and Ladder Company were almost overcome by smoke. The loss is $6,000.

Because of numerous complaints to the authorities of vile odors said to emanate from the plant of Mechling Brothers, phosphate manufacturers, at Cooper's Creek and Pine street, Camden, County Detective Carroll appeared before Justice of the Peace Thompson Tuesday and made complaint against B. S. Mechling, of Riverside; William H. Mechling, of Philadelphia, and William Sketahling, of New York, members of the corporation, charging them with maintaining a nuisance. They were notified to appear and enter bail.

INVENTOR MAKES NEW MOVE ON $1,500 CLAIM.

One of the first cases to be argued before Judge Reilstab in the United States District Court at Trenton Tuesday was the application of Henry R. Heyl, of Philadelphia, who seeks to have set aside o disallowance of a claim of $1,500 against the defunct Union Paper Cup Company, of Trenton.

Heyl was the inventor of the machines which make paper cups. He was employed by the Union company as manager of construction at a salary of $2,600 a year. He was also given the office of vice president. After a few months' service with the company Heyl was dismissed for alleged incompetency. The company paid him all of his salary due as manager of construction. When bankruptcy proceedings were started Heyl filed a claim for $1,500 for salary as vice president. This was disallowed by the referee, the proofs submitted contending that the $2,600 paid Heyl as manager of construction also covered his services as vice president. Edwin C. Long, counsellor, of Trenton, appeared for the trustees. Decision was reserved.

MUST ENLARGE AMBOY CUT.

Pennsylvania Road Ordered to Widen "the Hole in the Wall."

Vice Chancellor Stevenson, in the New Jersey Chancery Court Tuesday, filed a decision ordering the Pennsylvania Railroad Company to widen the "hole-in-the-wall" at South Amboy. This is an improvement for which the automobilists of New Jersey have been fighting for five years.

The hole in the wall is a twelve-foot roadway under the railway yards at South Amboy. Oroginally there was only one track oevr the road, but it gradually extended as the yards grew. Even then the situation was not acute, for the road led only down to the Raritan river meadows, but when a new wogon bridge was built across the river it was found that the only approach lay through the "hole," and that while the bridge afforded a route to the New Jersey coast resorts, fully twenty miles shorter than the old route, it could scarcely be used because of the dangerous condition of this passage.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning June 6, 1909.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—Life lessons from the gospel of Luke.—Luke vi, 20-38. (Consecration meeting.)

Little is known of Luke, the author of the book which we are now to study. He is mentioned a number of times in the New Testament and was an associate of the Apostle Paul (Col. iv, 14; II Tim. iv, 11; Phil. xxiv). That Luke was not a Jew is assured from Col. iv, 14, when the evangelist, "the beloved physician," is distinguished from "those of the circumcision." Luke came into prominence as the companion of Paul in his later journeyings. Though the author of the Acts of the Apostles, he modestly speaks little of himself, and this only by the change of the pronoun to "we," the first personal plural.

He was a physician and, tradition says, a painter as well. Little is known of his further history. "It is as perhaps the evangelist wishes it to be. We only know him while he stands by the side of his beloved Paul. When the Master departs the history of the follower becomes confusion and fable."

Luke's gospel was written to the gentiles, whose great apostle Paul was. One of its peculiar characteristics is the number of Christ's best parables which it records that are not found in any other gospel. Among these are the good Samaritan, the lost coin, the lost sheep, the prodigal son and the Pharisee and publican. The parable of Dives and Lazarus is also found only in Luke.

In a general way the gospel of Luke may be divided as follows:

Preface (i, 1-4).

Prophecy, birth and childhood (i, 4; ii, 52).

Introduction to Christ's public ministry (iii, 1; iv, 13).

Various phases of Christ's Galilean ministry (iv, 14; xiii, 9).

Jericho to Jerusalem (xviii, 31; xix, 48).

Burial, resurrection and ascension of Christ (xxiii, 50; xxiv, 53).

The lessons of Luke's gospel suggested in the Scriptural reference consist of those found in the sermon on the mount. The reference itself consists of Luke's account of this address, much abbreviated from that of Matthew. In these we find the beatitudes, woes pronounced upon the rich, commands to love your enemies, the Golden Rule, judge not, be liberal with the promise of returning gifts—"good measure, pressed down, shaken together and running over."

The great lesson of Luke's gospel is that salvation is offered freely to all men.

BIBLE READINGS.

Luke ii, 1-20, 40-52; iv, 1-14; vi, 47-49; xi, 1-4; xii, 24-28; xvi, 1-10; xxi, 25-37; Col. iv, 14; II Tim. iv, 11; Phil. xxiv; Acts i, 1.

Vermont's C. E. President.

The newly chosen president of the Vermont Christian Endeavor union is Rev. Benjamin Swift, pastor of the Congregational church in Woodstock, Vt. Mr. Swift after his graduation in 1886 from the University of Vermont spent four successful years as Y. M. C. A. secretary in Burlington. He graduated from the Union Theological seminary, New York city, in 1893. For several years he has been chairman of the committee on benevolence of Congregational churches in Vermont, and he has also been a corporate member of the American board.

REV. BENJAMIN SWIFT.

Mr. Swift joined the Christian Endeavor society as far back as 1882 and has been conected with the movement almost continually since. For four years he has been missionary vice president of the Vermont union, and he has attended five international Christian Endeavor conventions. The Christian Endeavor work in the Green Mountain State is sure to prosper in his hands.

Living Links.

The Grace United Brethren church of Columbus, O., in order to raise funds to continue the support of a native pastor in China, whom they have been supporting for several years, have this year adopted the "living link" plan. A chain made of red and white paper links was draped across the Christian Endeavor room. At one end of the chain is a picture of the church and at the other a photograph of the native pastor. The chain contains 102 links, the exact amount of dollars needed. Each person pledges to take care of one or more links, and when the pledge is paid his or her name is written on as many links as dollars have been paid. The plan has proved a stimulus to the society.

"You are her guardian, so to speak, Mr. Donovan. You are taking care of my Aunt Pat and my cousin. Just how that came about I don't know."

"They were sent to St. Agatha's by Father Stoddard, an old friend of mine. They had suffered many annoyances, to put it mildly, and came here to get away from their troubles."

"Yes;" I understand. Uncle Henry has acted outrageously. I have not ranged the country at night for nothing. I have even learned a few things from you," she laughed. "And you must continue to serve Aunt Patricia and my cousin. You see"—and she smiled her grave smile—"my father and I are an antagonistic element."

"No; not as between you and Miss Patricia! I'm sure of that. It is Henry Holbrook that I am to protect her from. You and your father do not enter into it."

"If you don't mind telling me, Mr. Donovan, I should like to know whether Aunt Pat has mentioned us."

"Only once, when I first saw her and she explained why she had come. She seemed greatly moved when she spoke of your father. Since then she has never referred to him. But the day we cruised up to Battle Orchard and Henry Holbrook's man tried to smash our launch, she was shaken out of herself, and she declared war when we got home. Then I was on the lake with her the night of the carnival. Helen did not go with us. And when you paddled by us, Miss Pat was quite disturbed at the sight of you; but she thought it was an illusion, and—I thought it was Helen!"

"I Must Ask You Not to Leave Here."

"I have been home only a few weeks, but I came just in time to be with father in his troubles. My uncle's enmity is very bitter, as you have seen. I do not understand it. Father has told me little of their difficulties; but I know, she said, lifting her head proudly, "I know that my father has done nothing dishonorable. He has told me so, and I am content with that."

I bowed, not knowing what to say.

"I have been here only once or twice before, and for short visits only. Most of the time I have been at a convent in Canada, where I was known as Rosalind Hartridge. Rosalind, you know, is really my name; I was named for Helen's mother. The sisters took pity on my loneliness, and were very kind to me. But now I am never going to leave my father again."

She spoke with no unkindness or bitterness, but with a gravity born of deep feeling. I marked now the lighter timbre of her voice, that was quite different from her cousin's; and she spoke more rapidly, as she had said, her naturally quick speech catching at times the cadence of cultivated French. And she was a simpler nature—I felt that; she was really very unlike Helen.

"You manage a canoe pretty well," I ventured, still studying her face, her voice, her ways, eagerly.

"That was very foolish, wasn't it?—my running in behind the procession that way!" and she laughed softly at the recollection. "But that was professional pride! That was one of my father's best canoes, and he helped me to decorate it. He takes a great delight in his work; it's all he has left! And I wanted to show those people at Port Annandale what a really fine canoe—a genuine Hartridge—was like. I did not expect to run into you or Aunt Pat."

"You should have gone on and claimed the prize. It was yours of right. When your star vanished I thought the world had come to an end."

"It hadn't, you see! I put out the lights so that I could get home unseen."

"You gave us a shock. Please don't do it again; and please, if you and your cousin are to meet, kindly let it be on solid ground. I'm a little afraid, even now, that you are a lady of dreams."

"Not a bit of it! I enjoy a sound appetite; I can carry a canoe like a Canadian guide; I am as good a fencer as my father; and I'm not afraid of the dark. You see how very highly accomplished I am! Now, my cousin Helen—"

"Well—?" and I was glad to hear her happy laugh. Sorrow and loneliness had not stifled the spirit of mischief in her, and she enjoyed vexing me with references to her cousin.

I walked the length of the room and looked out upon the creek that ran singingly through the little vale. They were a strange family, these Holbrooks, and the perplexities of their affairs multiplied. How to prevent further injury and heartache and disaster; how to restore this girl and her exiled father to the life from which they had vanished; and how to save Miss Pat and Helen—these things possessed my mind and heart. I sat down and faced Rosalind across the table. She had taken up a bright bit of ribbon from the work-basket and was slipping it back and forth through her fingers.

"The name Gillespie was mentioned here last night. Can you tell me just how he was concerned in your father's affairs?" I asked.

"He was the largest creditor of the Holbrook bank. He lived at Stamford, where we all used to live."

"This Gillespie had a son. I suppose he inherits his father's claims."

She laughed outright.

"I have heard of him. He is a remarkable character, it seems, who does ridiculous things. He did as a child. I remember him very well as a droll boy at Stamford, who was always in mischief. I had forgotten all about him until I saw an amusing account of him in a newspaper a few months ago. He had been arrested for fast driving in Central park; and the next day he went back to the park with with a boy's toy wagon and team of goats, as a joke on the policeman."

"I can well believe it! The fellow's here, staying at the inn at Annandale."

"So I understand. To be frank, I have seen him and talked with him. We have had, in fact, several interesting interviews"—and she laughed merdily.

"Where did all this happen?"

"Once, out on the lake, when we were both prowling about in canoes. I talked to him, but made him keep his distance. I dared him to race me, and finally paddled off and left him. Then another time, on the shore near St. Agatha's. I was taking an observation of the school garden from the bluff, and Mr. Gillespie came walking through the woods and made love to me. He came so suddenly that I couldn't run, but I saw that he took me for Helen, in broad daylight, and I—I—"

"Well, of course you scorned him—you told him to be gone. You did that much for her."

"No, I didn't. I liked his love-making; it was unaffected and simple."

"Oh, yes! It would naturally be simple!"

"That is brutal. He's clever, and earnest, and amusing. But—" and her brow contracted, "but if he is seeking my father—"

"Rest assured he is not. He is in love with your cousin—that's the reason for his being here."

"But that does not help my father's case any."

"We will see about that. You are right about him; he's really a most amusing person, and not a fool, except for his own amusement. He is shrewd enough to keep clear of Miss Pat, who dislikes him intensely on his father's account. She feels that the senior Gillespie was the cause of all her troubles, but I don't know just why. She's strongly prejudiced against the young man, and his whimsicalities do not appeal to her."

"I suppose Helen cares nothing for him; he acted toward me as though he'd been crushed, and I—I tried to be nice to him to make up for it."

"That was nice of you, very nice of you, Rosalind. I hope you will keep right on the way you've begun. Now I must ask you not to leave here, and not allow your father to leave unless I know it."

"But you have your hands full without us. Your first obligation is to Aunt Pat and Helen. My father and I have merely stumbled in where we were not invited. You and I had better say good-by now."

"I am not anxious to say good-by," I answered, lamely, and she laughed at me.

"We met under the star-r-rs, Mr. Donovan" (this was impudent; my own r's trill, they say), "at the stone seat, and by the boathouse, and we talked Shakespeare and had a beautiful time—all because you thought I was Helen. In your anxiety to be with her you couldn't see that I haven't quite her noble height—I'm an inch shorter. I gave you every chance there at the boathouse, to see your mistake; but you wouldn't have it so. And you let me leave you there while I went back alone across the lake to Red Gate, right by Battle Orchard, which is haunted by Indian ghosts. You are a most gallant gentleman!"

"When you are quite done, Rosalind!"

"I don't know when I shall have a chance again, Mr. Donovan," she went on, provokingly. "I learned a good deal from you in those interviews, but I did have to do a lot of guessing. That was a real inspiration of mine, to insist on playing that Helen by night and Helen by day were different personalities, and that you must not speak to the one of the other. That saved complications, because you did keep to the compact, didn't you?"

The Bride's Piano Should Be a Fine One

No one will question the declaration that the Piano is the best of all bridal gifts—and when one desires to reach the topmost heights in the estimation of the bride-to-be they will naturally select a Piano for the wedding gift.

Of course the Piano should be a fine one—a thing of beauty—a work of art—something to be proud of. A highly polished, gingery-looking box will not suffice to do the donor proud or to delight the bride-to-be. There must be more to the instrument than the fancy case—the soul of the Piano is on the inside, whence comes the music.

You can combine every attribute of the perfect gift if you desire, in any one of a number of the Pianos we sell—beauty, art, tone, durability, intrinsic worth and a name that carries with it dignity and distinction.

Here you can choose from such magnificent makes as

—all standing high in their respective classes—all equal, if not superior, to any at their price—all pianos the owner can be proud of.

Hardman, Harrington, Hensel Autotones

—the best of all self-players—perfect, practical pianos, with which is combined the self-playing feature—are presented for your consideration.

Any Piano We Sell May Be Bought on the Easiest Terms—a little down, then small weekly or monthly payments.

MATTHEWS AND BROWN WIN ALL THREE GAMES

Matthews and Brown, the Somerville bowlers, added another bowling victory to their long list last night by defeating Burcher and Meyers in three straight games on Campbell's alleys. BASEBALL.

Dave Driscoll's New Brunswick team is making good and putting up a fast game in the Middlesex county burg.

Howard Craig, playing for the Y. M. C. A. nine on Monday, received a rather painful injury to his right hand, which will keep him out of the game for a time.

Jack Peacock will be used frequently in the box by Y. M. C. A. during the season. He is in good condition and should be able to hold down opposing teams.

"Fozzy" Firstbrook, who is traveling with the Yankees for the New York Evening Mail, is back in New York again with the team and for two or three weeks will be seen at American League Park.

"Red" Waller has found his way back to Jersey City, where he recently was bumped hard by the Newark club.

Clifford Randolph has returned to Binghamton, of the New York State League. His work for the future seems uncertain. With a fair trial he should be able to make good.

The supporters of the Scotch Plains team who favor Sunday ball, say that if the Elizabeth city authorities permit Sunday games they can see no reason why it should be denied at the 'Plains.

The "White Socks," a new baseball team just organized, is now ready to meet all teams in this section who average 17 years of age. For full particulars regarding games address William Matthews, 140 North avenue, Plainfield, N. J.

The Holy Cross A. C. will play a double header with the fast Hamilton A. C., of Rahway, on the cricket field Saturday afternoon. The church boys are playing fast ball now and a fine contest is expected.

GOLF.

John Hilton, the popular steward of the Plainfield Country Club, is now serving lunches and dinners at the club. On Monday night there were about seventy-five guests at a dinner-dance given at the club, and all were delighted with the service. These dinner-dances will be a feature during the season.

The Park Golf Club has issued a neat schedule for the season, being in book form of a small and convenient size to be carried in the pocket. The events are very attractive.

The tennis court at the Park Golf Club promises to be very popular this season. There are a number of tennis enthusiasts who are members of the club and several private tournaments will be planned.

The weekly competitions for the Spring Handicap cups at the Plainfield Country Club and for the President's and golf club cups at the Park Golf Club, are among the most popular events at these clubs. They are open to all members and under an excellent system of handicapping, afford an excellent inducement to members to become proficient in the game.

Clinton Avenue's Game.

The Clinton Avenue and the McNulty Brothers baseball teams will cross bats for the second time this season on Saturday afternoon on the Crescent Oval. The McNulty nine is one of the strongest teams seen in Plainfield for a number of seasons and they always put up a good clean exhibition of baseball. During the past two years they have lost but two games and so far this season have a clean record.

Miss Agnes Cooley, of Westervelt avenue, will leave for New Haven, Conn., tomorrow where she will witness the Yale-Princeton baseball game on Saturday.

Mrs. J. Ringle, of Westervelt avenue, has gone to Asbury Park for the summer, and her daughter, Mrs. Minnie Hille, is spending the summer in the Berkshire Hills.

—Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Caleen will remove to 26 Mariners place the latter part of the month.

CITY TROUNCES BOROUGH

Plainfield High Defeats North Plainfield High on Crescent Oval.

THE SCORE IS SIX TO TWO.

Smith, in the Box, Gets Poor Support—Lyness Makes a Two Bagger.

Had the North Plainfield High School team supported their pitcher, Carlton Smith, in the game against the Plainfield High School, at Crescent Oval, yesterday afternoon, the score of 6 to 2 would never have been registered against him. As it was, Smith's teammates put up a somewhat ragged exhibition of baseball behind him, making in all ten errors. Bailey, the short stop, made two in the first inning that let in two runs. Smith pitched a great game despite the fact of his poor support. He allowed but two scattered hits, one a two bagger by Lyness, passed but two batters and struck out ten men. On the other side "Wiggy" VanZandt couldn't have received much better support, his team making but two errors, which were in no way costly. It must be said the blond haired twirler of the P. H. S. was also in fine condition, by allowing the boroughites but one clean hit, he passed but one man and made seven batters shatter the atmosphere.

Snyder put up a good game for the city boys. The fast second baseman handled some wild heaves, that had they passed would have made the score much closer. Giddes at short and Clark at third did some good stick work. Conroy was the only player for the N. P. H. S. to connect safely with "Wiggy's" slants, but it did him no good.

The P. H. S. team went to bat first, with Giddes up. After lookfield, with Giddes up. After looking over Smith's variety of shoots, he swatted a stiff one that proved too hot for Bailey to handle. Clark seeing short was a weak place followed suit and in less than five minutes Mr. Bailey had two errors against him, which netted two runs. Lidgate and VanZandt struck out and Snyder made a pop fly that retired the side. Smith showed his real ability in the fourth, after two errors that both netted runs, he retired the side practically alone by fanning three batters in succession. The Plainfield High School made two more in the fifth on Lyness' two bagger, he advanced by two more errors to short and Lidgate's single. After that the borough team pulled together and shut off the run-getting.

It was easily seen the N. P. H.S. team outside of Smith and Conroy are not of the same class with the boys from this side of the brook. Lidgate, Snyder, Clark and Giddes make a strong combination to support Van Zandt. The score:

Senseless in Synagogue.

Louis Cohn, a New Brunswick business man, was found unconscious in the Anshe Emeth Jewish Synagogue on Albany street yesterday morning. Gas was escaping from one of the burners. He was hurried to Wells Hospital, where he regained consciousness after the doctors and nurses had worked over him for some time. There was a report that he had attempted to commit suicide, but this was denied. Mr. Cohn said he returned home from New York on an early morning train, and upon passing the synagogue, found the gates had been forced open. He feared the place had been robbed and made an investigation. On entering the building he found it filled with gas. While investigating he was overcome. A woman caretaker found him. Mr. Cohn is president of the Anshe Emeth Society. He will recover.

NO MUMMERS' CARNIVAL

Charter Day Commission Decides That Proposed Event Would Be Objectionable.

PLAN BIG AUTOMOBILE PARADE

More Contributions Are Reported By the Finance Committee —$8,000 Is Needed.

Anxious to avoid the presence here of the disorderly element, the Charter Day Commission has decreed that there will be no mummers' carnival during the celebration on July 5, 6 and 7. This action has been taken in compliance with requests from many prominent residents who are enthusiastic workers for the success of the enterprise and who believe that a mummers' parade would bring to Plainfield some "undesirable citizens."

The executive committee this morning ordered 300 badges for the various committeemen. They are of ornate design and will be distributed by H. W. Marshall, president of the Board of Trade, a week before the demonstration begins. Orders have also been given for medals to be sold by the commission for the benefit of the enterprise.

Chairman Alexander Milne, the hustling head of the automobile parade committee, reported at headquarters today that he expected to have at least 1,000 cars in the second day's parade. Invitations have been sent by his direction to all auto clubs in the State.

The citizens are responding liberally to the appeal for funds. Already at least $3,008 has been raised. It is expected that the city government will add $1,000 and the borough government $200. Altogether approximately $8,000 is needed.

LADIES' AID SOCIETY HOLD SUCCESSFUL SOCIAL.

The Ladies' Aid Society of Grace M. E. church held a successful birthday social in the church, last night, each one attending bringing a small bag containing as many pennies as they had birthday anniversaries. In the guessing contest as to which month contained the greatest number of birthdays, it was found that August was the favorite month.

During the evening Austin E. Armstrong, of Rockaway, gave a number of recitations and monologues, including "Mrs. Pettibone's Dinner," "The Debating Society," and "The First Settlers' Story." There were two piano duets by Miss Jennie Nelson and Miss Elvira Hoerster, the numbers being, "La Czarine," and "Autumn Days." Mrs. George C. Nelson was chairman of the entertainment committee.

H. F. Fox Elected Secretary.

Hugh F. Fox, of this city, was elected secretary of a brewers' association, at its convention in Atlantic City, yesterday. Eastern and Western brewers attended the convention and a compact was made whereby they hope to be able to do away with the dives which have conspired to bring the brewer into disrepute. The matter was threshed out and there was a promise to join hands in an honest effort to relegate the dives.

The friends of Miss Helen Stahlberger, a teacher in the borough schools, who is soon to be married to Rev. Philip A. Parsons, gave her a fancy shower at the home of Miss Frances La Porte on Jackson avenue Thursday afternoon. There were about twelve guests. Miss La Porte and Miss Elvira Hoerster were the hostesses.

Hopton; useful articles, Mrs. L. V. F. Jones; apron, Mrs. H. J. Cochran; ice cream, Mrs. W. L. C. Glenney; candy, Mrs. E. E. Parvin; cake, Mrs. E. S. Craft; flower, Mrs. Geo. A. Beaton and Mrs. H. C. Irons. Mrs. F. S. Martin as president of the band, had general supervision of the affair, and the other members assisted at the tables and booths. In the decorative scheme, the organization color, violet, was used.

There was a large attendance at the affair and the patronage was liberal. The band will net about $150 with which to meet its pledge to the city union.

FOUR HUNDRED ATTEND STRAWBERRY FESTIVAL

Marked by an attendance of more than 400, the third annual ice cream and strawberry festival of the Epworth League of the Monroe Avenue church, held last night, proved one of the most successful social events in the history of the church. Ice cream and berries were served at prettily decorated tables, presided over by members of the League as waitresses. Practically every member of the church society had a part in the arrangement of the affair.

The special feature of the affair was the novel decoration of the church parlors. In the centre of the room was a large representation of the Atlantic City lighthouse, about twelve feet in height, and covered with red and white bunting. The foot of it was massed with large ferns, giving the effect of waves, and surmounting the large Japanese umbrella which served as a roof, electric lights had been fixed to throw forth streams of light. Directly above this "light-house" hung the Maltese cross emblem of the Epworth League, executed in buning, and suspended by streamers of bunting from the ceiling. Those who acted as waitresses were dressed in white and wore red roses.

John McCormack acted as general chairman of the committee in charge of the festival, and was assisted by N. Mansfield Smith, Miss Anna Matthews, Miss Olive Bodine and Miss Phoebe Snow. John W. Daub and John J. Praed acted as treasurers and Herbert Hand rendered several piano selections. These were the other committees: Strawberry committee, Mrs. Harry Gardener, heading a committee of eleven; decorating, John McCormack, with eleven assistants; cake, Mrs. John W. Daub with a committee of four; candy, Miss Minnie Gunzleman and committee of four; ice cream, Miss Olive Bodine and committee of four; the short-cake committee, Mrs. N. Mansfield Smith and committee of six; tickets, Lloyd Van Middlesworth and committee of twelve; Orangeade committee, Mrs. E. H. Beekman and committee of three; equipment, C. K. David and committee of twelve.

Endeavorers Gave a Lawn Party.

Members of the Christian Endeavor Society of the First Presbyterian church held a delightful lawn party at the home of James Peacock, on West Seventh street, last night. There were about forty members of the society present, and the evening was spent in playing various games on the lawn, which was lighted by dainty Japanese lanterns strung between the trees. Rev. C. E. Herring was the society's guest at the affair. The chairman of the committee in charge of the party was Charles Line, and he was assisted by Miss Beatrice Miner and Miss Barbara Peacock. Light refreshments were served before the Endeavorers dispersed.

ALUMNI COMMITTE PLANS FOR COMMENCEMENT DANCE

Arrangements for the commencement dance of the Plainfield High School were completed at a meeting of the alumni committees of the classes of 1907 and 1908, held last night at the home of Miss Sara Sanderson. The dance this year, to be held Thursday night, June 24, will be at the school auditorium, and the music will be by Suhr's orchestra. There will be twenty-four dances on the card, and the dancing will begin at about 10:30 o'clock, immediately following the graduation exercises at the New Plainfield theatre.

The alumni committee comprises C. Bertram Leggett, Rollin Williams and Miss Florence Prior from the class of 1907, and Arthur Titsworth, Miss Elsa Cook and Chauncey Murphy from 1908. Percy Mygrant will be chairman of the floor committee, and the decorating committee will be headed by Miss Sara Sanderson.

MELLICK-WARING WEDDING TO BE A CHURCH AFFAIR

Arrangements for the approaching wedding of Miss Eleanor Waring, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Orville T. Waring, of Park avenue, and J. Hartley Mellick, son of Mr. and Mrs. George P. Mellick, of East Seventh street, have been changed, and instead of its being a home affair, as planned, there will be a large church wedding, the invitations for which were issued today. The ceremony will take place at Grace church, Monday afternoon, June 14, at 4 o'clock.

A reception will follow at the home of the bride's parents for the relatives and few intimate young friends of the couple. No invitations will be issued for the reception, owing to the ill-health of the bride's mother, and the affair will be very informal in consequence.

Miss Waring will have for her attendants Miss Helen W. Timpson, as maid-of-honor, and these bridesmaids: Miss Margaret Lowe and Miss Pauline Bolton, of New York; Miss Leslie Gordon, of Rochester, N. Y.; Miss Edith Mellick, Miss Florence Stauart and Miss Annie Grey Fisk, of this city. Miss Louisa F. Waring, niece of the bride, will be the flower girl.

Gordon W. Abbott will be the best man, and the ushers will be John B. Payne and Louis M. Ream, of New York; Harvey Fisk, Edward J. Waring, Jose L. Tweedy and Lawrence L. Tweedy.

Both Miss Waring and Mr. Mellick are prominent in the younger society set, being members of the Plainfield Country Club, while Mr. Mellick is a member of the Plainfield Riding and Driving Club and the Watchung Hunt Club.

MRS. S. W. VAN HOESEN DIES IN HER 75TH YEAR

Mrs. Sophena Wilcox Van Hoesen, aged seventy-four years, died last night at her home, 447 West Sixth street, following a long illness from a cancerous growth. Mrs. Van Hoesen was born at Syracuse, N. Y., and had been a resident of this city about twenty-five years. She lived with her mother, Mrs. F. Wilcox, who still survives, and who is ninety-nine years of age, and considering her advanced years is remarkably well preserved. The latter was born in 1810.

Mrs. Van Hoesen was the mother of twin daughters, one of whom was the first wife of Arthur L. Titsworth, and the other the wife of his brother, the late George Titsworth. Beside a mother, Mrs. Van Hoesen is survived by one brother, who conducts a hotel in the Catskills. She was an attendant at the Seventh-Day Baptist church. The funeral will be held from the late residence Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

PUPILS ANNUAL RECITAL

EXCEPTIONAL PERFORMANCE.

Many Interesting Numbers On the Well Varied Program at the Auditorium.

An appreciative audience of nearly seven hundred people attended the annual musicale by pupils of Miss May Vincent Whitney, at the Plainfield High School auditorium, last night, and thoroughly enjoyed the program. The pupils were assisted by William N. Searles, Jr., basso cantante, of Newark, who delighted the audience with four numbers, sung in a manner that enthused everyone.

The recital afforded an excellent opportunity for the young pupils to display the careful training by their teacher, and their interpretation of the many difficult numbers, all classical, was quite remarkable. Their technique and expression were all that could be desired and would do credit to older pupils. Their mastery of the most difficult passages showed a thoroughness that was greatly appreciated by music lovers.

Perhaps, the most difficult number and one that called forth the greatest applause, was the "Intermezzo in G," for twelve hands, two pianos. This was rendered by the Misses Elizabeth Martin, Dorothy Stelle, Helen Weseman, Julia Rowley, Mildred Burnett and Grace Hall. Another notable rendition was that by Miss Marguerite Van Zandt, who played "Minuet in E," Boccherini-Joseffy, and "Mazurka," by Leschetisky, in a finished manner.

Miss Muriel Collins, one of the older pupils, delighted all with two numbers, "Prelude in A Op. 28, No. 17," Chopin, and Fantasie from "Rigoletto," Verdi-Liszt, in which she displayed unusual talent.

Others who contributed largely to the success of the recital were Miss Martine Weeks, Miss Edith Hamilton, Miss Elizabeth Martin, Miss Julia Rowley and Miss Helen George. It would be difficult to criticize the work of these young pupils, all was so uniformly good. Those who have followed these young people were impressed with the marked improvement and progress made during the past year.

Interesting numbers for eight hands were Serenade from "Don Giovanni," and "Minuet and Trio from The Symphony in E," Mozart, by Miss Anna Warnock, Miss Ethel Neumann, Russell Conroy and Egbert Fountain, and the rendition of Valse from "Eugene Oneguine," for two pianos, Tschaikowsky, by Miss Muriel Collins and Miss May Vincent Whitney, proved a delight to all.

In part two, Mr. Searles sang "The Mighty Deep," Jude, and "A Winter Lullaby," Reginald de Koven, and in part two his numbers were "Voices of the Woods," Rubinstein-Watson, and "Vulcan's Song from Philemon et Baucis," Gounod. The program concluded with a selection for eight hands, "Rhapsodie Hungroise No. 2," Liszt, by Miss Muriel Collins, Miss Helen George, Miss Marguerite Van Zandt and Miss Edith Hamilton. During the evening the pupils were generously remembered with gifts of flowers.

Hope Chapel Lawn Fete.

A lawn fete will be held at the home of Rev. and Mrs. L. R. Howard, 446 West Fifth street, tomorrow afternoon and evening. The affair will be under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of Hope chapel. The afternoon will be given up entirely to the children, this being a feature of last year's fete. The grounds will be attractively decorated with bunting, American flags and Japanese lanterns, prettily decorated booths, where candy, lemonade, peanuts and home-made cake will be on sale. Ice cream will be served at individual tables by young women dressed in white. Lawn games will also be played. If stormy the affair will be postponed until the following Saturday.

Musical Recital.

The recital given by Harry W. Weber, assisted by Mrs. Violet Truell-Johnson, at Truell hall last night was largely attended by lovers of string music. Mr. Weber played a number of selections on the mandolin, guitar and German zither. A feature of the recital were the selections of his own composition.

Illustrated Lecture.

An illustrated lecture will be given at the Rescue Mission tonight at 8 o'clock by William Forest, of Atlanta, Ga., on "The Mountain Whites and Miners in the Camps of West Virginia."

NAME CAMP IN HONOR OF ENSIGN BAGELEY

The local camp of Spanish-American war veterans met last night at headquarters in the City National Bank building, and State Inspector George Spittlehouse, of Elizabeth, mustered in thirty-three charter members. The newly-elected officers were confirmed, but the installation was postponed until the next meeting when the department commander will be present.

Several names were suggested as a suitable one for the camp and finally all voted in favor of the following: "Bageley Camp, No. 21, United Spanish War Veterans." The name is in honor of Ensign Bageley, the first man from the navy to be killed in the Spanish-American War. The camp also includes in its membership those who served in the war in China.

The veterans are planning several "stunts," and it is possible that the members will take part in the Charter Day parade on July 5, provided the complete equipment can be secured in time. The camp will also be represented at the annual State encampment to be held at Bayonne in the near future.

ANNOUNCE ENGAGEMENTS OF THEIR 2 DAUGHTERS

Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Arthur H. Goodenough, of Bristol, Conn., announced the engagement of their two daughters at their home, this week, which is of more than ordinary interest here. Announcement of the engagement of their daughter, Miss Florence Sara, to Arthur Case Wadley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Wadley, of Central avenue, this city, was followed by that of their other daughter, Miss Marjorie Alice Goodenough, to William Kenneth Sessions, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Sessions, of Bristol. In honor of the double event, Mr. and Mrs. William E. Sessions gave a dinner party at their home this week for a number of friends.

While no date has been fixed for the wedding, it is planned to have a double event in the fall, possibly October. Arthur Case Wadley, who is engaged in the coal business here, has for his partner Arthur T. Goodenough, the son of Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Arthur H. Goodenough, of Bristol, who five years ago married Mr. Goodenough's sister at New Rochelle, N. Y.

TALKS ON GOVERNMENT

Former Mayor Randolph and Mayor Fisk Address the Board of Trade.

THEY DISCUSS CITY'S POLICIES.

Mr. Randolph Sounds a Warning—Mr. Fisk Throws Light On Administration's Work.

Referring to several of the points taken up by Former Mayor L. V. F. Randolph in his speech on "Civic Enterprise and Economy" before the meeting of the Board of Trade last night, Mayor C. J. Fisk, who arrived at the meeting shortly after Mr. Randolph had concluded his remarks and departed, took exception to several of the statements made by the city's former chief executive, and clearly and simply outlined the work, growth and needs of the several municipal departments. Mr. Fisk, who at the outset of his remarks expressed a regret that he had not been present to hear Mr. Randolph's speech, talked for fifty minutes, informally outlining the financial position of the city, and pointing out its steady growth and increasing needs since the period of thirty years ago.

In speaking of the financial condition of the city, a point alluded to by Mr. Randolph, Mayor Fisk went into considerable detail to show that the bond issues of this city are not regrettable, nor do they threaten the financial standing of the city. "The city's bonds," said Mayor Fisk, "amount to $511,000, which may be itemized as follows: Schools, $230,000; sewers, $183,000; police, $25,500; Netherwood fire house, $15,000; roads and road improvements, $31,000, and assessment bonds, $27,000. Of these assessment bonds, $10,000 has been paid off. This entire bond amounts to but 2½ per cent. of the city's real estate valuation, and from my finacial experience with municipal bonds, I am able to say that financiers do not consider a city's financial condition at all jeopardized until bonds are issued for 7 per cent. of the real estate valuation, exclusive of water debt. You see, then, Plainfield is well on the safe side."

In alluding to the steady growth of Plainfield, Mayor Fisk took occasion to review the development of the city from the year 1735, when the first frame dwelling was erected. Ox carts, he said, were the only vehicles used in Plainfield up to the last quarter of the eighteenth century. In 1770, according to the records, there were but eight dwelling houses and the population numbered between thirty-five and forty.

"The growth of the city has been a steady, conservative one," said Mr. Fisk. "Plainfield has never had a 'boom' and we don't want her to have one,—that is, the kind of a 'boom' that may have a reactionary effect. We want to do all we can to provide for the comfort and safety of our citizens; we want improvements. There has been a crying need for the new schools which are now in course of construction. We needed the fire protection in the Netherwood section, where some of the most valuable property holdings of the city are to be found. Then there is the constant necessity of refurnishing the supplies of the city departments; more horses, new apparatus, more men and new locations for the fire department have all been found absolutely necessary, and have been provided. All these things cost money. The building up of the Board of Health to its present state of efficiency has been a definite step in municipal advancement, as has been the improvement of the police system and the construction of adequate police headquarters to house the men who are protecting the citizens from those who are a detriment to a city. The city needed new roads, new sidewalks, a system of drainage to carry off the water from the streets and prevent the flooding of cellars. All these things have been done since I first went into the Council in 1892."

The Mayor then spoke of the need for a larger police force, brought about by the petition of the patrolmen for shorter hours. "The men now work on the average twelve hours a day," said Mr. iFsk, "and it is to remedy this condition that it is planned to increase the force."

"Chief of Police Kiely," continued the speaker, "has come in for a lot of unjust criticism in connection with the police department, and I want to say that if there are things to be criticised, he is not to blame. As Mayor of this city, I am at the head of the municipal departments and any complaints or criticisms about the management of any of these departments should come to

Sent "Blackhand" Letter.

Thomas M. Datello, a shoemaker at South River, received yesterday a "Black Hand" letter, written in Italian and postmarked Dearmont, Vt. The letter was written by one familiar with Datello and his shop and had his postoffice box number upon the envelope. The letter demands $400 in cash and directs Datello to produce it before June 15. He is to carry it in his upper coat pocket until some night prior to the date given, when two men, one tall and one short, will call at his shop for it. Should they not do this they will meet him on a street under the trees. Upon his failing to comply, they threaten to kill him and his family, consisting of his wife and three children, and burn his shop. Datello had a helper, who left two weeks ago, and he knows of no one else who could be so familiar with the town and his shop. He gave the letter to Mayor Joseph Mark, who notified the police to watch for the two men mentioned. The letter was handed to the postoffice authorities.

The company carries its own scenery and the play has been making a decided hit. During the past season Mr. Sherwin has been playing in all the larger cities in the West and his work has been highly praised by critics.

As was to be expected, Elizabeth is about to drop out of the Atlantic League, the patronage not being sufficient to maintain the aggregation. Wilmington has also dropped out of the league.

The local fans should see a good game tomorrow when the Clinton Avenues meet McNulty Bros.' team on Crescent Oval. That New York bunch is a fast one, and so is Clinton Avenue.

"Red" Waller, who is now pitching for Jersey City, has been advertised to pitch for several semi-professional teams of late, but of course, did not appear.

"Willie" Keeler is said to be all right again and is doing fine work for the Yankees.

The wise ones say that the Giants have struck a winning pace and are destined to make trouble for the leaders in the race within a short time. They will be in the west for a few weeks and their work will be watched with interest.

What the Plainfield High School baseball team needs, and has always needed is a first-class coach, one that will take the material available and get all that is good out of it. Not until that time will the school have a thoroughly representative team. The boys make altogether too many errors and they do not play the "hit and run" game as they should.

John Burns, formerly catcher for the Y. M. C. A. team, is still idle, and it is doubtful whether he will play much ball this season.

The Yankees are now on their own ground and for the next few weeks will furnish some great sport for the fans. Manager Stallings has certainly collected a strong aggregation this season.

GOLF.

Several local golf enthusiasts are at Montclair this week watching the progress of the New Jersey State Golf Association tournament. The event promises to be one of the best in the history of the game in this State, the list of entries being large.

The improvements are rapidly being completed at the Plainfield Country Club and it is hoped to be able to take possession of the finished clubhouse the middle of the month.

The scores being returned by the members of the Park Golf Club indicate that they are playing in mid-season form. The club is particularly fortunate in having such an excellent course, the condition of which is the best.

Several new members have joined the Park Golf Club this season and the large field of golfers out each week shows that the organization is on the high road to success.

The Plainfield Country Club course which was lengthened this season, is being negotiated by players in excellent fashion. The change has made it more difficult, but meets with the satisfaction of the members.

Expect Hot Talk from Fort.

Atlantic City political leaders are awaiting anxiously the speech of Governor Fort, who has accepted the invitation to deliver the welcoming address to the delegates attending the American Medical Association convention, which will open its sessions at Atlantic City on Tuesday next. The hot shots the Governor threw into the camps of the political machine in the upper section of the State recently, while addressing a party of banqueters, have aroused the suspicion that he may have something interesting to say about local conditions.

—Street Commissioner Gavett's men were busy yesterday making some needed repairs at West Front street and Grant avenue, filling in numerous depressions and using the steam roller with good effect.

Former Mayor Randolph's address is reproduced in full in another column. He was introduced by President H. W. Marshall of the Board, and his remarks were listened to with great interest. Professor Tucker, of Mount St. Mary's College, gave an interesting talk on the scope of the work at the institution. In her introductory remarks, the speaker declared that the prevalent idea that the college is strictly a Catholic institution is an incorrect one, and she said that there is no compulsion about the religious training of any of the students, although instruction in the Catholic faith is given those who may elect it. Professor Tucker told of the growth of the college and extended a cordial invitation to the members of the Board of Trade to attend the Ben Greet plays to be presented on the campus in the near future, distributing admission tickets.

The meeting last night was largely attended, members of the various men's clubs of the local churches being included in the gathering.

OFFICERS ELECTED BY FIST M. E. SUNDAY SCHOOL.

At the annualmeeting of the Sunday-school of the First M. E. church last night, these officers for the ensuing year were elected: Superintendent, Dr. James R. Joy; secretary, Arthur Humble; treasurer, Arthur Crone; librarian, Leslie Leland; president of the Sunday-school Missionary Society, M. E. McGrath; secretary and treasurer, Arthur Crone.

The secretary's report showed the school had a membership of 394 not counting thirty-two officers and teachers. The report of the treasurer was satisfactory. During the past year the total amount collected in the school was $615.98, and the disbursements $400.76, leaving a balance of $215.26. Each department showed an improvement over that of the previous year and it is expected more interest will be taken during the coming year and a better showing made.

To Hear Dr. Groszmann.

Dr. Maximilian P. E. Groszmann, of Watchung Crest, today left for a shtort trip to Atlantic City, where he will speak at the annual convention of the American Academy of Medicihe. The academy is devoting an entire session to the discussion of exceptional children who do not need segregation, and the discussion will be based upon the method of approach as explained in Dr. Groszmann's writings. He will open the discussion by reading a paper on "Classification of Exceptional Children As a Guide In Determining Segregation." His researches in this respect are causing a great interest in medical and educational circles.

Borough Exempts to Parade.

A delegation of North Plainfield Exempt firemen will parade at Newark Monday, June 14, when forty lical men will be in line. The local Exempts plan to take the famous Amity silver hose wagon with them. The parade will mark the cornerstone laying of the new home of the Newark Exempt Firemen's Association and will be the biggest celebration ever held by firemen in the State. There will be eleven divisions in the parade, 10,000 men in line and seventy-five bands. The borough exempts will have a place in the fifth division.

"The Prophet and Princess."

Another entire new bill will be offered at Proctor's theatre today, including an elaborate production of "The Prophet and Princess," by a company of seven people, and three other acts; also the latest new life motion pictures. The advanced vaudeville is appreciated by the people and the patronage is constantly increasing, capacity houses being the rule.

Clothes Stolen While They Swam.

Because some practical joker made away with their clothing while they were swimming in the South Plainfield pond, a dozen small boys had to sneak home 'cross lots after their swim last night.

MR. RANDOLPH'S ADDRESS

The Former Mayor's Talk on "Civic Enterprise and Economy."

BEFORE BOARD OF TRADE.

Following is the address delivered last night by former Mayor L. V. F. Randolph at the Board of Trade meeting, his subject being "Civic Enterprise and Economy:"

Perhaps the first duty of a public speaker is to assort his ideas. Confusion of thought and of expression has not infrequently created confusion and panic in action. It was, I think to that distinguished Irish parliamentarian, Sir Boyle Roche, that the speech concerning the proposed new prison at Newgate was attributed; and part of his speech is said to have run somewhat like this:—

"The gintlemin opposite has bin sayin' as how we oughtn't to be burdinin' postirity wid a heavy debt all along of this interprise. Now, Mr. Sphaker, what has postirity ever done for us that we need be so particular? An' thin, yeese will percave that it wu'd be an aisy matther to tear down the owld prisin, and to build a new one on the same sphot, an' wid the same matareals! an' as fir th' prisiners, they could remane in the owld idifice whiles the new was in process of consthruction."

Whether Sir Boyle Roche ever delivered any such speech or not, there is in the story a picture of delicious confusion mixed with a charming optimism.

Now, optimism is not criminal, nor is confusion of mind and speech a crime—though its results may often be worse than crime.

You may well be asking yourselves why your speaker has linked together in his speech two thoughts so distinct as "enterprise" and "economy." The answer is, because they are related, and should ever be regarded as akin. The two questions — Is a given proposition (which seems desirable) really practicable? and, How much will it cost to realize it? must ever belong together. Of late, the French scientist, Camille Flammarion, has repeatedly suggested that volcanic heat (or the heat confined within the earth's crust) should be utilized for great mechanical and industrial purposes. In discussing this subject with other scientific men I find them conceding the proposition that such utilization of heat would be most desirable. Some admit, also, that it is possible; but all the able men with whom I have chanced to converse on the subject believe that, even if practicable, the cost of putting into effect such a proposition would be too great to render it available, and that therefore, for the present, at least, the world must content itself with other enterprises of like usefulness but less expensive.

In a certain earlier day it was charged against an eminent teacher that much learning had made him mad. In our day many a man has gone mad from much ambition; and many a community has gone, not only mad but bankrupt, from too much ill-judged "enterprise." Making haste to be big is as foolish as making haste to be rich. Cost and worth must be always considered together. We must work for what we need—not mortgage our future for it. As writes the poet Holland—

"God gives no value unto men
Unmatched by meed of labor;
And cost of worth has ever been
The nearest neighbor."

Our public representatives would do well to look twice at a dollar before spending it once, and to avoid entirely spending dollars not yet in sight.

In our day the ease with which public indebtedness can be "floated;" or, in other words, the ease with which municipal and other public bonds can be sold, constitutes an ever present temptation to borrow not only at the "cost of posterity," but at the cost of the present day tax-payer. This being the case, it requires a good degree of judgment, courage and restraint on the part of our civic authorities to avoid incurring debt for objects seemingly desirable. Civic enterprise is a fascinating proposition. Who would not like to see progress? What citizen can have a mind so clod-like as to be content with unimproving conditions? And then, the inevitable condition of progress is cost! If the proposed enterprise is to be defeated because of its cost, how aggravating, how humiliating, how retarding is such a policy! And, if the current tax-receipts are insufficient for the enterprise, then why not anticipate the growth of the community and its means by "running in debt" for the improvement? All this seems so reasonable, and so natural!

Civic enterprises are numerous and greatly varied. It often requires great breadth of ability and long ex-

PLAINFIELD BAR ASSOCIATION.

The following resolutions of condolence have been adopted by the Plainfield Bar Association:

Whereas, it has pleased our Heavenly Father to remove from us, our brother, N. Douglas Drake, and while we bow in submission to the Divine Will, knowing that He doeth all things well, we cannot but feel a deep sense of loss in his death. His amiable and gentle disposition endeared him to all of us.

He was an honorable practitioner, and though forced by ill health to discontinue the practice of law soon after his admission to the bar, he had given much promise of arriving at disinction in his chosen profession.

He was a true friend, generous, noble, kind, and his whole life was marked by a practical observance of the principles of the Christian religion.

We shall miss him and his memory will ever be dear to us.

Resolved, That we record this expression of our esteem; and that we extend to his widow and family our sympathy in their bereavement.

EARS AND EMOTIONS.

"Unlike the eye, which chiefly informs the mind, the ear stirs the emotions," says Dr. William Hanna Thomson, in an article, "As to Ourselves," in Everybody's. "We can see a fish writhing in its death agony without pity, but no one can so listen to an animal's shrieks of pain. This is as it should be, for however wrong the head, the heart should keep right. The ear also is intensely personal. It makes no mistakes about whose voice we hear.

"Once on the deck of a Glasgow steamer I parted from a student friend, and we did not meet again for thirty-three years. I could never have known him then by sight—for time sadly spoils eye memories—but his voice told me who he was the moment he spoke. All such facts reveal why through the ear the profoundest depths of being are revealed; for some persons, indeed, music, instead of being only sounds proceeding from tongue, lips or instruments, is the speech itself of the inmost soul. Beethoven composed some of his finest symphonies after he had become stone deaf.

"Nor has that great being who is behind each sense organ failed to remedy the deficiences of the ear more wondrously than those of the eye. I was once told that a gentleman wished to speak to me by long-distance telephone, and on my asking what he wanted his voice trembled as he said that his child had pneumonia. He and his own physician, who was with him, then spoke alternately; and, though they were hundreds of miles away, I could distinguish their different voices as readily as if we were actually together.

"It was by means of an electrified wire that the ear heard personal voice and tone transmitted a thousand times farther and faster than waves of air could vibrate. But what is that marvel compared with wireless telephony? Here is a man bidding that mysterious ether which pervades the entire universe to become a human voice speaking to a human ear!"

LIFEBOATS FOR SUBMARINES.

A new lifeboat for submarines greatly minimizes the dangers of submarine navigation, says Popular Mechanics. A water-tight compartment is situated in the upper portion of the centre of the submarine.

In the upper part of the hull, or deck, of the submarine, just over the compartment, is a set of hatctes or doors which open outward. Supported on a suitable frame within the compartment is a lifeboat. The boat is entirely enclosed and water-tight, a small trap-door in the top providing admittance.

If, for any reason, the submarine fails to rise, the crew enter the compartment through a lower hatchway and close it after them. The crew then enter the lifeboat, the last man unscrewing the bolts which lock the hatches leading from the compartment to the open water. He also opens the flooding valves before pulling shut and securely locking the trap-door of the lifeboat.

The flooding of the compartment floats the lifeboat and also overcomes the pressure of the water without. The lifeboat, being filled with air, naturally rises, pushing the hinged hatches upward far enough to permit it to pass freely.

INTERNAL HARMONY.

Assured of worthiness wo do not
Competitors; we rather give them hail
And greeting in the lists where we may fail;
Must, if we bear an aim beyond the head!
My betters are my masters; purely fed
By their sustainment I likewise shall scale
Some rocky steps between the mount and vale;
Meanwhile the mark I have and I will wed.

So that I draw the breath of finer air,
Station is naught, nor footways laurel-strewn,
Nor rivals tightly belted for the race.
Good speed to them! My place is here or there;
My pride is that among them I have place;
And thus I keep this instrument in tune.

—George Meredith.

JOTTINGS ON THE FASHIONS.

Pumps, whether of bronze or patent leather, will be much worn. Tthey are cut low and adorned with a single black silk bow.

A smart tailored suit is made of white shantung. A collar and cuffs of velvet finish the coat nattily.

Belts of white linen, braided in the wash soutache, will be worn much this season.

Sleeveless coats, of silk, lace or linen, seem to be increasingly popular as the season advances.

Machine Embroideries.

Not for many years have the machine embroideries used on lingerie dresses been so beautiful as this year. They challenge admiration, both for design and workmanship.

THE STAINLESS BANNER.

Down from the highlands and off the far islands,
Out of Armenia, Finland and Spain,
Celt and Ionian, Semite, Slavonian,
Come to commingle their blood with our strain.
Why, when the Old World begs,
Why shall we take her dregs
Why give them welcome to heart and to vein?

Spawn of the peasant—uncouth and unpleasant,
Son of the pauper and child of the thief;
Bred thorough the ages of dwellers in cages,
Starved of all but starvation and grief—
Why do they grope us?
Do they bear hope to us?
What would they write us on history's leaf?

Here be a haven, but not for the craven.
Welcome each builder by brain or by hand,
Thus were the sires who lighted our fires—
God found them worthy and gave them the land.
Far will we fare with them,
All will we share with them,
But for our cause must they steadfastly stand.

Brothers, remember to nurture the ember,
Let not the glory of Lexington fade.
Sound on the clarion, honor to Marion
(He who fought starving in morass and glade),
Perry and Scott and Boone,
And what the Texas moon
Saw when the Alamo's score had been paid.

Theirs were the sorrows, and ours are the morrows;
Into our hands have they given in trust
Stainless the banners that heard their hosannas—
Flag which no heel ever ground in the dust,
They who would share its folds
Gladly must bear its folds,
This is the price they shall pay for their crust.

—Herbert Kaufman in Everybody's Magazine.

WHEN GRANT PROPOSED.

When young Grant reached the banks of the Graviose he found it a mad, muddy torrent, which had torn trees and bridges from its banks and was carrying them with a roar of waters through the valley to the river. But what was that to daunt a lover's ardor! Like the hero of the legend, "he spurred his steed and plunged in." But he plunged in over his head, with his horse under him, writes Mrs. Emma Dent Casey to The Circle Magazine.

It was a bedraggled swain that stood in the presence of his ladylove a few moments afterward. Lieutenant Grant took it all good-humoredly enough, but there was a strudy seriousness in his usually twinkling eyes that must have suggested, perhaps, to Julia that he had come on more serious business, for the teasing did not last long. John carried him off to find some dry clothes, and when he returned the usually natty soldier looked scarcely more like himself than he had when he came out of his bath.

Of course, this roused more laughter, which the soldier took in the same good part, but those rosy telltale cheeks of his reddened, as usual with him when the inward state of his feelings did not agree with his outward composure.

I think it shows something of the character of the man that Lieutenant Grant should not have allowed his rather outer appearance at the house of his sweetheart that night to have unsteadied his purpose in coming there. When he left the barracks he had it in his mind to offer the lady his hand and heart. He offered it. Nothing in the world could have prevented him, probably since he had once har it in mind. It was characteristic of the man, as his campaign of after years from Spottsylvania to Appomattox showed. Grant was often most slow and hesitating in his efforts to come to a decision, but when that decision was once made it was irrevocable and acted upon immediately.

It is, perhaps, not necessary to say that when Lieutenant Grant rode away from White Haven the morning after, he took with him what he had gone after.

ABOUT THE HOUSE.

A roast of meat which is to be served cold will keep its flavor much better if wrapped in a cloth when set away.

Black silk may be effectually cleaned by rubbing it well with a cloth dipped in hot vinegar.

A little salt sprinkled in the oven under the cake pan will prevent the cake "catching"—at least this is what an excellent cook says.

It is well to scrub a ham with a stiff brush and warm water before boiling it.

Windows and mirrors are perceptibly brightened if a little turpentine is added to the water used in washing them.

Rice braid is being used for embroiderering dresser covers, sideboard scarfs and pillow covers as well as for Dutch collars.

Mayonnaise dressing may be kept successfully for several days if it is put in an airtight jar and kept in a cool place.

THE GUEST-ROOM.

From that most helpful exchange of ideas "The Housemother's Problems," in Harper's Bazar, comes the following good suggestion:

Try sleeping in your guest-room for a week. You will probably then discover that the bed is so placed that the first rays of the morning sun fall directly in the eyes of the sleeper, that the bedclothes are too heavy, that the bureau stands so that it is impossible to get a good light on the mirror.

For 50 cents the following list can be purchased; items that will be missed in the costliest bedroom if they are lacking, and that will do much to make the plainest room grateful to the guest:

For five cents, enough lavender can be bought to make the bed-linen always deliciously fragrant; for five cents, a package of hairpins; for ten cents, a cube of fancy-headed pins; for ten cents, a paper of ordinary pins to fill the pin-cushion; for five cents a cake of really good soap in the special guest room size; for five cents, two coat-hangers; for five cents, a bottle of ink; for five cents, some needles, threaded with black and white white silk and cotton, and stuck in the pin-cushion.

It does not seem worth while to miss so much comfort, when its cost is so trifling. For another fifty cents can be added a pad of writing paper, envelopes, stamps, some ready-stamped souvenir cards of the town, a box of talcum powder, and a plain penholder with some assorted pens.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

Judge I. P. Runyon.

"So much for this new court and its business but there remains a word to be said as to the new judge.

"It is quite true that he is comparatively a young man—not having a gray beard and a bald head to testify as to his long experience, but he certainly has a certain judicial dignity about him that involuntarily commands respect and forbids any impertinence in his presence.

"He has had some years practice at the bar in which he has shown solid qualities and a broad knowledge of law and withal he seems to have a mind accustomed to analyze legal puzzles and strike at the central merit of the question presented for his consideration, and while his courtesy is shown in his treatment of both counsel and witnesses, his calm judgment is not to be influenced by any other consideration than that of strict enforcement of the law.

"We noted with pleasure that he promptly decided points made by counsel, and by so doing did not lower the dignity which belongs in a peculiar manner to the bench, nor did he follow the pernicious example of some neophytes on the bench by arguing points with counsel, thus wasting time of counsel, litigants and witnesses as well as juries.

"While a just decision is always to be desired, promptness is of equal importance and is certainly more satisfactory than any argumentative position the judge may assume.

"In this initial administration of the judicial function we can assert positively that Judge Runyon has given strong promise of a successful career on the bench and it is quite safe to predict that continued action on the line he has so far laid down and followed is building a sure reputation, which in a very few years will warrant his elevation to a still more exalted position.

"That there has been some opposition to the organization of a District court in Somerset county is well known, but if this first day's procedure is to be accepted as a precedent we feel sure that that opposition will soon be changed to unqualified satisfaction with the result, and the District court become indeed the People's Court."—Somerset Democrat.

SALOONS SET BACK BY EXCISE BOARD.

Twelve New Brunswick Thirst Parlors Refused Applications—Some Prominent Ones.

The Excise Board of New Brunswick sprung a sensation last night by refusing the license application of twelve established saloons and hotels. It received eighty-nine applications and granted seventy-seven.

In the batch refused was the application of Mrs. Frances Harding, of George and Albany streets, the centre of the town. On the other corners are the Second Reformed church, German Reformed church and postoffice building. The place was managed by Patsy Harding, and last summer he was tried for Sunday selling and acquitted, although it was shown that he had run a pipe from the barroom to an upstairs room and served drinks.

William G. Morris, of 109 Throop avenue, under indictment for Sunday selling, was also turned down. Up to a few months ago Morris' brother was a member of the Excise Board, but was ousted by Judge Booraem. Morris has not been tried, although indicted over a year ago.

Other applications refused were: Chester Fouratt, for the Old Macom's Hotel; William H. Manley, of Burnett street; Owen Donohue, of Hiram street; John Lyons, Lock avenue; Frank O. Nason, 18 Dennis street; Thomas A. Lyons, 35 Wyckoff street; Joseph Hertzog, Standard street; Thomas Tate, 182 Hamilton street; J. Frank Meyer, of 84 Albany street, and Louis Sass, of Remsen avenue.

BLATZ AND NASH MAKE HIGH SCORES

Bowling in old time form last night Blatz and Nash ran up some exceedingly high scores. The alleys were in perfect trim and the bowlers took advantage of all openings. In the second game the lawyer team ran up a total of 478, Blatz making 254. Vanderbilt and Eller were also in good form and put up a game. CLINTON AVENUE NINE TO MEET UNDEFEATED M'NULTYS

The crack McNulty Brothers' nine, of New York, will be the opponents of the Clinton Avenues on Crescent Oval tomorrow afternoon, when Manager Dorflinger announces that the game will begin promptly at 3:30 o'clock. The McNultys are unusually strong this year, and have not lost a game so far. In fact, during the two years the nine has been together, the team has been victorious in twenty-nine out of thirty-three games played. One of the few defeats was administered by the Clinton Avenue team last year.

George Ortlieb will probably be on the mound for the local nine, and it is reported that Romond, who has been playing such good ball with the Kenilworth team, will be at short-stop. Boyd, an Elizabethan, will be on hand, and will probably get a game in the outfield. Morris and Seaman will form the battery for the McNultys.

Union County Fixes Budget.

The Union county budget of estimated expenses for the coming year was fixed at Elizabeth yesterday. It was decided that $385,000, an increase of $42,000 over last year, would be the total sum needed, and of this amount $50,000 will be necessary to retire to forty-year road bonds; $1,000 for the establishment of a law library under a new act, and the court item was increased from $60,000 to $65,000. The sum of $33,000 was appropriated for roads last year, but this will be omitted this year on account of the plan to issue bonds. The lunacy account was raised $2,000.

Observed Wedding Anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Bushnell, formerly of this city, but now of Newark, celebrated the thirtieth anniversary of their marriage at their home on Thursday, by giving a pink tea to their friends. All had an enjoyable time and Mr. and Mrs. Bushnell received many congratulations.

Leslie H. Backer, of Sandford avenue, was graduated on Thursday from Stevens' Institute of Technology, receiving the degree of mechanical engineer. He is a student member of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers.

A recital of music will be given by the pupils of Miss Irene Day in Friendship Hall, New Market, tomorrow night, at 8 o'clock. Ice cream will be served at the close of the program. Stage will leave Dunellen postoffice at 7:30 o'clock.

perience to know the actual and the relative merits of the suggestions constantly arising for conservation of the public interests and for steps in the direction of advancement. The able administrator of public affairs must not only have clearness of views, so as to avoid confusion of thought and mind, but must have also the ability to compare, and to weigh, and to rate at their relative value, the suggestions looking to public policies. Such questions as these will naturally arise:—Is a given thing to be desired for the actual benefit of the public? Is it a legal and legitimate object of expenditure? How much will it cost? How about its actual importance and value to the public, compared with the actual importance and value of other things which are clearly necessary? What means are available out of the general or specific revenues of the commonalty for this purpose? If no means are available for it out of current revenues, is the proposition of so imperative or commanding a character as to necessitate the issue therefor of public indebtedness, and to justify the placing of such a mortgage upon our prosperity and properties?

Such questions as these might arise also, not only in relation to enterprises entirely new, but, to some extent, in relation to the extension of cost of maintenance of civic institutions already in existence. To be more specific—Even in cities many degrees below the rank of a Metropolis, there might be enterprises large and new (such as consolidation with a neighboring municipality, the creation or enlargement of a great sewer system, the erection of municipal buildings, the erection of a public park) and, on the other hand, in the line of maintenance of existing institutions or departments, there might be the upkeep of the fire department, and of the police department, and of the city highways, or public streets.

Now, I shall hardly be considered too conservative in declaring my view that these last occasions for expenditure ought to be entirely met out of current municipal income, and that no excuse should ever be made or found for "bunching together" a variety of deficits arising out of such expenditures and bonding the city for the excess sum.

Much judgment should be shown in regard to this character of expenditure; avoiding, for example, the tearing up, at much expense, of a good street for the purpose of experimenting with a new kind of pavement of doubtful utility or desirability, and avoiding, also, the enlargement from year to year of the kind of cost whose results add nothing to the permanent property of the city, and little, if anything, to its protection or comfort.

It is by no means the purpose of this address to attack the good faith or policy of any particular administration, much less of any particular public servant. On the other hand, mere generalities must have but little significance or usefulness; and I will venture to pause just here in my remarks (which have thus far been somewhat of a general character) to advert to one or two subjects which at this moment are somewhat alive and pressing, and to express such views as I have gained by observation and experience on one or two of these matters.

It is fair to say that, throughout our experience as a city thus far, we have been particularly fortunate in the administration of the department under the control of our street commissioner, and also in the department of municipal justice, presided over by our city judge. No breath of suspicion, no doubt of ability, or of good judgment has, in our city, ever for one moment attached to the gentlemen who have been entrusted with these matters. For every dollar expended and vouched for by them we all believe that the city has received good value. My time is too short for all that might be said on subjects of general administration, for commendations that might be given, and for some reasonable criticisms that might be made. It is at this moment strongly borne in upon my mind that errors of judgment are liable to creep into the conduct of our police department, and that, if we are exposed to such mistakes, the outcome may not lead in the direction of civic economy, nor in the direction of better protection to public and private property. I have been long convinced that our local police scheme is rather a poor and costly imitation of the metropolitan scheme. So far as I can ascertain, the point of departure from which this mistaken course started was the uniforming of the body of police. This, in itself, was probably an innocent procedure, and one intended to promote the public benefit and protection. There is ample room for doubt as to whether the purpose has thus best been served. The results have been fairly costly, and are liable to become much more so. I am one of those who believe that neither civic enterprise nor civic economy is promoted by the existing plan, and that it will be still less served by its enlargement. At this moment it is said that eight additional patrolmen are desired upon the force. My own opinion is that they are not fairly required, and that it would be much more reasonable to reduce the number of patrolmen than to increase them.

In a great city like New York, or Philadelphia, or Chicago, the requirement for a great number of patrolmen is imperative. Wherever there is activity, or bustle, or dangers peculiar to the existence of many liquor shops, there must be a fair number of strong, able, faithful policemen, and it is better for such purposes that they be in uniform. I would by no means advocate the taking of uniforms from all the policemen of our city; but I am persuaded that a number of them (one half or more) could do better service without uniforms. Under certain circumstances the uniform serves toward greater efficiency; under other circumstances it retards, or destroys, efficiency.

As Mayor of the city, I have had some experience in these matters; and during recent years I have conversed with a number of my fellow-citizens, and also with a number of the policemen of this city, and have found that the latter, as well as the former, have expressed earnest concurrence in my views. Policemen have repeatedly told me that they cannot accomplish certain lines of work whilst wearing their uniforms.

Though, as I have said, patrolling certain exposed, or active, or disorderly localities by uniformed policemen is necessary, the patrolling in uniform of most of the town is, I believe, in very large part a fruitless folly. In this connection it may fairly be remarked that there is but limited occasion throughout the town generally for a patrol—unless it is by policemen on bicycles, or otherwise mounted, to prevent dangerous speeding. On the other hand, there is, every now and then in each quarter of the town, a necessity for careful, thorough, competent and persistent detective work.

Some weeks before leaving here last winter I called upon the police force for some service in this regard. A single detective responded to my call. He began his service by explaining that he was the only detective, or "plain-clothes man," on the force; that, while he would do the best he could, he was necessarily at some disadvantage under such circumstances in trying to answer all the calls upon him. I do not know how conscientiously or how carefully he may have attended to the duty he then undertook. I was at home for some weeks afterward, but I never heard from him again. Perhaps he did his best under the existing limitations. I speak of it now to show what I consider to be a fault of the existing system.

I am taking it for granted, in the remarks I make now, that all the policemen are true and honest men. It is no purpose of this address, or of any of it, to bring personal charges against any of them. What I do say is, that I believe that they are laboring under great disadvantages, and that an increase in the patrol force, and their wandering about, or following certain rounds day and night, passing certain corners once in so many hours, ringing up the report of their progress, and all that kind of thing, whether in uniform or not, is largely useless. I do not say that no good has ever come from any of it. It may be said that good has come, from point to point, in the protection or information arising from the perambulations and personal courage of private citizens. What I do say is that, taking the greater portion of the area covered by this city, there is no more particular importance in a policeman's passing a certain point once in so many hours than there is in the passing of that point by any other reputable person once in the same number of hours. The burglar, or other evil-disposed person, is not likely, upon finding out—as he easily can—the habit of the policeman on his patrol, to commit his crime just at the moment when the policeman is passing and ready to "take him in." The evil-disposed person knows that, after the policeman has once gone on his way for five minutes, he will not have occasion to deal with him in the course of his regular travels for some hours to come, and he can then peacefully pursue his wicked work in the assurance that he will not be molested from that quarter. More than three-quarters of our city is no more exposed to depredations from evil-doers than is our neighboring borough, or than is any bit of peaceful countryside where neither burglars nor their crimes are dreaded or provided against. This whole fashion of walking up and down over town and country in uniform or without it at all hours of the day and night, on paths regular and irregular (and especially on paths regular, such as can be marked and timed) approaches in character and effect to the farcical.

It may be that some of my good friends, in or out of the municipal administration, will consider me too narrow and old-fashioned in the declaration of such views. I desire to be broad, and enterprising, and liberal also; but I think that here, as elsewhere, economy should be reasonably fitted to the enterprise, and both of these elements should be joined together under the control of the best and most experienced judgment.

Not very long since, some statistics which were published by one of your city papers indicated that about thirty years ago we had municipal requirements for police protection of a pressing character; that within the space of ten months there were not less than 6,789 cases of vagrancy. In those days I was much interested in public affairs. I cannot confirm positively the statistics given; but I know that arrests were numerous, as they were necessary. The area of our city has not increased a single inch since the days of my own mayoralty. The population has increased. It has doubled. The number of policemen now on the force is more than seven times what it was then. The cost of maintaining the police force is more than twelve times what it was then. The order and good behavior of the city was quite as good then as it is now. These may be facts worth considering. I am not bringing them forward as in any way disparaging to anybody now endeavoring to serve the city; but I say, earnestly and confidently, that a further extension of this mistaken patrolman scheme is neither enterprising nor economic, and that I believe the whole plan of the administration of police matters should be gone over and revised and thoroughly reformed by our civic authorities.

During my absence from home public attention has been at least twice attracted by leading citizens to the practical doubling of our public debt during the year 1908. At the end of the year 1907 our public indebtedness apears to have been something over a quarter of a million dollars. At the end of the year 1908 it was, (as pointed out in an article published in February by Mr. John B. Dumont) $511,500. Amongst the items of increase during the last year appear these:

Fire House	15,000
Brick pavement	31,000
Street macadamizing	14,000
Total of these 4 items	$85,500

Towards the end of Mr. Dumont's pithy paper he put the pointed question? "How long can Plainfield stand such increase in debt and maintain her credit?" and he closed with the significant remark: "Excessive bond issues bankrupted a nearby city not many years ago."

Former Mayor Gilbert, in his interesting address before this Board of Trade delivered on the eleventh of March said: "Twenty years ago no Common Council would have thought of issuing bonds without first submitting the question to the vote of the people."

But there are those who talk about starting new and expensive sewer systems, buying out waterworks, and entering into other costly plans and contracts as gayly and light-heartedly as if these were the amusements and recreations rather than the responsibilities and burdens of a municipality of moderate dimensions. If we have a public indebtedness, already existing, of half a million dollars, without as yet possessing any public park or city hall, is it not full time that we should stop the issue of public indebtedness. Is it not at least reasonable that before another dollar of public indebtedness is issued the taxpaying community should vote the authority to issue bonds? We have had an almost continuous rise for a period of years in the valuation of ratables, and in the amount of money raised by taxation. I am far from saying that all this was wrong at every point, but it has proceeded to such a point as seriously to begin to threaten our welfare and prosperity. I speak myself as one of the oldest citizens of Plainfield, and as one of the larger tax-payers. I am content to hold the properties I possess, and even to build houses, and otherwise add to my holdings, paying taxes thereupon proportionately, always providing that the value of my property is not likely to be destroyed or impaired by excessive taxes. If, on the other hand, taxes are to increase, I shall desire to sell, even at a loss, my own holdings, and hundreds of other property holders in this city will wish to do the same, and will offer their properties for sale. The purpose of your Charter Day movement is, if I understand it aright, to encourage parties to take an interest in Plainfield—those who are already here and those who may be induced to come here. If the burdens of taxation can be reasonably kept down, your arguments and your advertisements will undoubtedly be successful. Plainfield has many attractions; it is clean, healthy, beautiful, and holds a goodly number of excellent and well-to-do people. I can conscientiously say that in the course of many thousands of miles of travel I have found no city more inviting or healthful; but such advantages as it has will be lost to view by any ill-considered course of public administration, and especially by an increase of taxation or public debt.

This subject has been brought home to me of late with renewed force by remarks from a number of private citizens of modest means as well as by the increasing fears and complaints of larger property-holders. Holders of very small properties have said to me that they desired to sell what they had because they felt that they could not afford to pay the increasing taxes; and even citizens who possess no property at all, but who hold their homes under rentals, are finding it a hardship to pay the increasing rentals necessitated by the increasing taxation. There is no adequate answer

HUMAN NATURE

EVERYBODY wondered how Mrs. Slane stood it. Everybody wondered in tones ranging from high soprano to barytone and bass.

Even when she was a bride and started in housekeeping the people in the apartment building shook their heads when they saw her pass in and out.

"Poor little thing!" they said. "She is so sweet-looking and fragile—and that husband of hers certainly has a horrible disposition even if he is so good looking! You can tell it by his face!"

Strange to say, they were not wrong. Slane did have a wretched temper and moreover he had none of those graces which are supposed to attract women. He was gruff and rough and cranky and inconsiderate and selfish and several other undesirable qualities. In just what strange moment of mental aberration Mrs. Slane had decided to wed him was a popular question.

"She must have had other chances!" said the neighbors. "It couldn't have been that! He must make her perfectly miserable!"

"She looks so resigned," they said when several years had passed. "It is pitiful to see her meekly tagging along after him as if she was afraid to call her soul her own! What he needs is some one to talk back to him!"

Unfortunately Slane ran his own business downtown, so the chastening effect of knuckling to a superior there was not exercised on him. There did not seem to be any one with the power and the authority to beat some courtesy and humanity into Slane.

"The way he talks to her when they play cards!" said one of the neighbors after a whist game with the Slanes. "My dear, it is positively disgraceful! If I had been his wife I'd have thrown a chair at him! I would! Just as though she didn't have a mite of sense of her own! So embarrassing before outsiders! What on earth could she ever have seen in him?"

Through Slane other women managed their husbands beautifully. He would have been a remarkable man who could have been otherwise than amiable and liberal and attentive after his wife had voiced a sugared sentiment like this: "Henry, I thank my stars every day of my life that I am not Mrs. Slane! You are so different from him! I don't know what I'd do if you forgot to kiss me good-by every morning the way he does—and I am sure she is just as pretty and sweet as possible!"

Or the sentiment was expressed like this: "Tom, what do you think? I ran in to see Mrs. Slane this morning and heard her asking him in trembling tones for 50 cents and he said she could have a quarter! What do you think of that? I just can't comprehend a woman's enduring it, because you've always been so generous—oh, thank you! I can find good use for this $10 to-day! I'm so glad you're not like Mr. Slane!"

Or the remark was like this: "I really ought to give thanks publicly, James, that you are so good natured and kind, after hearing the way that Slane man goes on! He doesn't care a bit if all the windows on the court are open! You are so different!"

Nearly any man will be a model husband if his wife thus sings his praises to his face, insisting that he is such a paragon. He'd be ashamed not to be!

In time everybody got used to the fact that Slane was a brutal sort of person who ought by good rights to be shut up in an iron cage and that his wife was a suffering martyr over whom the looker-on must drop a tear and a sigh. If Mrs. Slane had taken all the revenges on her husband that in eight years all the other women in the neighborhood had suggested in their conferences she would have had to get her normal lease of life extended and hire an assistant at that. Her abnormally meek and lovely disposition was a constant and never-failing topic when the weather and styles failed.

She was a quiet, reserved little person, was Mrs. Slane. So there was not a hint nor rumor of impending revolution, until the deed was done. She simply packed up her belongings and left Slane for good and all without saying a word or asking anybody's advice.

After the first riotous excitement had calmed down in the neighborhood six of the women who had always most violently wondered how Mrs. Slane ever stood it and had yearned for a chance to plunge Slane into boiling oil, met in a fancy-work session and talked long.

"Well," said one of them at last, "all I've got to say is that I'm very much surprised. I'd always thought Mrs. Slane was such a nice little thing. You never can tell! Leaving that poor lonely man like that! You've got to expect some little differences when you're married! There must be a mighty strain in her somewhere!"

"I never did like these awfully quiet people who never tell you anything," said the woman in the next chair. "I'm going to ask Mr. Slane to dinner! It's a shame!"

HINTS FOR THE HANDY GIRL.

She Should Learn to Make Useful Trifles as Well as Needlework.

In this age of high schools and colleges a girl has the same advantages as her brother, and manual training is quite as popular with the gentle sex as it is with the sterner element.

The day of helpless femininity is past.

The deftness of a girl's fingers is not utilized alone in embroidery, but in the making of many useful and artistic articles, at one time considered well beyond her reach.

Any unused room that is light and well ventilated will make a capital workshop, and it is much better to have a few well-chosen tools to begin with and add to them as your needs increase than to invest in a cheap tool-chest.

A saw, a hatchet, a hammer, a sharp knife, a gimlet, a screwdriver and a rule are the first things needed.

These should all be kept each in its place. Hooks, nails, screws and tacks may be bought as required. A plain kitchen table with one or two drawers will make a good work bench.

A five o'clock tea table for the veranda may be made of an oblong box with square ends and of a convenient height when placed on end. The box may be covered with burlap, cretonne in a plain color, or with matting. Put the material on carefully and secure it with brass-headed tacks.

Make four little shelves long enough to reach across the sides of the box and from six to nine inches wide. The corners of these should be rounded off, and a brace made for each shelf. Two narrow strips of wood or cleats should be fastened two inches apart to the sides of the box at varying heights. These will make firm supports for the shelves.

Screw the braces to shelves, and paint to match covering of box. Rest the back edge of shelves on cleats and fasten braces to the box and the shelves to the cleats.

If this is done with care there should be no danger of the shelves tipping over.

A brass kettle hung from a wrought iron frame, a tray and some pretty Japanese teacups, sugar bowl and cream pitcher may be purchased for a small sum, and the girl is well equipped to serve tea to fastidious guests.

WORK-BASKET OF WICKER.

Practical Suggestions That Will Be Found of Much Use.

This sketch illustrates a novel suggestion for the arrangement of reels of cotton round the edge of a wicker work-basket, in such a manner that the thread can be drawn off without removing the reels from their places. It is, of course, a suggestion that is only practical in the case of a basket make of wickerwork, and it may be carried out in a few moments. A piece of fine silk cord is run through the reel of cotton and the ends then pushed through the wickerwork at the edge of the basket and tied in a little bow. Should the wickerwork be so closely made that there is no space through which to run the silk cord, then the point of a pair of scissors can be used to help the cord through.

The basket shown in our sketch is lined with satin, and has pockets arranged entirely round the interior, while the lid is slightly padded with cotton wool, lined with satin, and a ribbon strap sewn down the center to hold scissors, thimbles, etc., in their places.

Chairback Towel.

The careful housewife who religiously adorns the backs of the porch chairs with white crash towels may unpin these articles and transfer them to more useful ends. There is now in the shops a special little chair-back towel to protect the back of the chair from leaning heads—or the back of the head from backs of chairs, however you put it. It is a small oblong of Turkish toweling, a serviceable dark brown in color, with a gay bit of border, all finished and ready to put on the chair. They're inexpensive and so practical that even the summer boarding house row of piazza chairs might afford to equip themselves therewith.

To Thread Needle.

Although it is almost impossible to draw wool through the eye of an ordinary needle, however large the latter may be, the needle can sometimes be threaded with fine wool, if cotton is used as a "decoy." Both ends of a piece of cotton should be passed through the eye until only a short loop remains, the end of the wool being run through the loop and the whole gently pulled.

New Shirtwaist Style.

One of the best of the new shirtwaist styles is a perfectly plain tailor-made of Scotch madras in stripes or big blocks of color on a white ground, the color matching the suit.

To Clean Black Dress Goods.

Sponge black dress goods with cold tea, all spots and stains will disappear and it will be nicely cleaned. For a shiny coat rub either with turpentine or strong coffee.

SHIRT WAIST MOTIF

PEASANT EMBROIDERY ON HEAVY ECRU LINEN.

Mode That Is Extremely Good Appearing and Comparatively Inexpensive — Pronounced Colors Are the Most in Favor.

One of the leading novelties in shirt waists this spring will be the peasant embroidery done in gay colors on heavy ecru linen. It is a very inexpensive mode, for the rough Russian linen does not come very high. One of the most effective waists seen in many a day was made of kitchen toweling, the wide variety, that comes at 18 or 20 cents a yard. The texture has just that uneven, slightly roughened surface that is so artistic and suggests the hand-woven things.

One of these waists is shown in the sketch, and the motif for the embroidery is given. These heavy linens do not look well tucked, but the plain front is always becoming, for the embroidery takes away the flat look. Then, too, the plait over the sleeves prevents any appearance of "nipping" in the armhole. This plait is like the Gibson plait that was worn a while ago, and now appears on all the plain fronts.

The linen should be shrunk and then cut out. The little motif is to be traced on the linen in rows, as is shown in the sketch. The effect is of a solid piece of embroidery.

The motif may be transferred to the linen by means of carbon paper. Place the linen on a hard surface and use a sharp, hard pencil. The embroidery is extremely simple to do. Only one kind of stitch is necessary, just a plain satin stitch. One does not need to be an expert at embroidery to do this waist, and as very heavy embroidery thread is used, it does not take long to do the waist.

The colors used are barbaric red, blue and black. The parts of the design that are darkest in the pattern are to be black, the lightest ones blue and the medium value red. On these large red sections the stitches are to be brought into the center, as the lines indicate.

The waist may close in the back or front, as one wishes. If it is to close in the back, then the embroidery will be arranged in rows as first described. If it is to close in the front, then make a two-inch box plait and embroider one row of motifs on it. This makes the long center strip. The waist may fasten under this plait with hooks and snaps, or it may button with a fly. The embroidery will then be continued out each side of the plait, and the effect will be the same as in the whole front. The back of the waist has no embroidery or plait. The collar has a row of the motifs, and is finished, like the sleeves, with a frill of ecru net.

The sleeve is a small one-seam affair. This is one of the favorite models in tailored waists. Baste up the sleeves and mark for the length, then take out the threads and trace one row of motifs around the hand and another a few inches up from it. Do the embroidery before the sleeve is stitched in.

For the Convalescent.

For the convalescent nothing could make a nicer gift than a one-piece dressing sacque, made of some soft, dainty material.

There are several different patterns to be had in these one-piece garments, and any of them is so easily fashioned that but a short time is required for the making.

New Auto Coat.

The salient feature of the new automobile coat is the hidden plaits that are introduced into the skirt.

ROSALIND AT RED GATE

By MEREDITH NICHOLSON

Copyright, 1907, by Bobbs-Merrill Company

I assented, a little grudgingly; and my thoughts went back with reluctant step to those early affairs of mine, which I have already frankly disclosed in this chronicle, and I wondered, with her counterpart before me, how much Helen really meant to me. Rosalind studied me with her frank, merry eyes; then she bent forward and addressed me with something of that prescient air with which my sisters used to lecture me.

"Mr. Donovan, I fear you are a little mixed in your mind this morning, and I propose to set you straight."

"About what, if you please?"

"I can tell you exactly why it is that Helen has taken so strong hold of your imagination—why, in fact, you are in love with her."

"Not that—not that."

She snatched the foil from the table and cut the air with it several times as I started toward her. Then she stamped her foot and saluted me.

"Stand where you are, sir! Your race, Mr. Donovan, has a bad reputation in matters of the heart. For a moment you thought you were in love with me; but you are not, and you are not going to be. You see, I understand you perfectly."

"That's what my sisters used to tell me."

"Precisely? And I'm another one of your sisters—you must have scores of them!—and I expect you to be increasingly proud of me."

"Of course I admire Helen—" I began, I fear, a little sheepishly.

"And you admire most what you don't understand about her! Now that you examine me in the light of day you see what a tremendous difference there is between us. I am altogether obvious; I am not the least bit subtle. But Helen puzzles and thwarts you. You did me a great service last night, and you would serve me again, I am confident of it; and I hope, when all these troubles are over, that we shall continue—my father, and you and I—the best friends in the world."

I cannot deny that I was a good deal abashed by this declaration spoken without coquetry, and with a sincerity of tone and manner that seemed conclusive.

I began stammering some reply, but she recurred abruptly to the serious business that hung over us.

"I know you will do what you can for Aunt Pat. I wish you would tell her, if you think it wise, that father is here. They should understand each other. And Helen, my splendid, courageous, beautiful cousin—you see I don't grudge her even her better looks, or that intrepid heart that makes us so different. I am sure you can manage all these things in the best possible way. And now I must find my father and tell him that you are going to arrange a meeting with Aunt Pat, and talk to him of our future."

She led the way up to the garden, and as I struck off into the road she waved her hand to me, standing under the overhanging sign that proclaimed Hartridge, the canoe-maker, at Red Gate.

CHAPTER XIX.

Helen Takes Me to Task.

I paced the breezy terrace at Glenarm, studying my problems, and stumbling into new perplexities at every turn. My judgment has usually served me poorly in my own affairs, which I have generally confided to Good Luck, that most amiable of goddesses; and I glanced out upon the lake with some notion, perhaps, of seeing her fairy sail drifting toward me. But there, to my vexation, hung the Stiletto, scarcely moving in the indolent air of noon. There was, I felt again, something sinister in the very whiteness of its pocket-handkerchief of canvas as it stole lazily before the wind. Did Miss Pat, in the school beyond the wall, see and understand, or was the yacht hanging there as a menace or stimulus to Helen Holbrook, to keep her alert in her father's behalf?

"There are ladies to see you, sir," announced the maid, and I found Helen and Sister Margaret waiting in the library.

The sister, as though by prearrangement, went to the farther end of the room and took up a book.

"I wish to see you alone," said Helen, "and I didn't want Aunt Pat to know I came," and she glanced toward Sister Margaret, whose brown habit and nun's bonnet had merged into the shadows of a remote alcove.

The brim of Helen's white-plumed hat made a little dusk about her eyes. Pink and white became her; she put aside her parasol and folded her ungloved hands, and then, as she spoke, her head went almost imperceptibly to one side, and I found myself bending forward as I studied the differences between her and the girl on the Tippecanoe. Helen's lips were fuller and ruddier, her eyes darker, her lashes longer. But there was another difference, too subtle for my powers of analysis; something less obvious than the length of lash or the color of eyes; and I was not yet ready to give a name to it. Of one thing I was sure: My pulses quickened before her; and her glance thrilled through me as Rosalind's had not.

"Mr. Donovan, I have come to appeal to you to put an end to this miserable affair into which we have brought you. My own position has grown too difficult, too equivocal, to be borne any longer. You saw from my father's conduct last night how hopeless it is to try to reason with him. He has brooded upon his troubles until he is half mad. And I learned from him what I had not dreamed of, that my Uncle Arthur is here—here, of all places. I suppose you know that."

"Yes; but it is a mere coincidence. It was a good hiding place for him, as well as for us."

"It is very unfortunate for all of us that he should be here. I had hoped he would bury himself where he would never be heard of again!" she said, and anger burned for a moment in her face. "If he has any shame left, I should think he would leave here at once!"

"It's to be remembered, Miss Holbrook, that he came first; and I am quite satisfied that your father sought him here before you and your aunt came to Annandale. It seems to me the equity lies with your uncle—the creek as a hiding place belongs to him by right of discovery."

She smiled ready agreement to this, and I felt that she had come to win support for some plan of her own. She had never been more amiable; certainly she had never been lovelier.

"You are quite right. We had all of us better go and leave him in peace. What is it he does there—runs a ferry or manages a boathouse?"

"He is a canoe-maker," I said, dryly, "with more than a local reputation."

Her tone changed at once.

"I'm glad; I'm very glad he has escaped from his old ways; for all our sakes," she added, with a little sigh. "And poor Rosalind! You may not know that he has a daughter. She is about a year younger than I. She must have had a sad time of it. I was named for her mother and she for mine. If you should meet her, Mr. Donovan, I wish you would tell her how sorry I am not to be able to see her. But Aunt Pat must not know that Uncle Arthur is here. I think she has tried to forget him, and her troubles with my father have effaced everything else. I hope you will manage that, for me; that Aunt Pat shall not know that Uncle Arthur and Rosalind are here. It could only distress her. It would be opening a book that she believes closed forever."

Her solicitude for her aunt's peace of mind, spoken with eyes averted and in a low tone, lacked nothing.

"I have seen your cousin," I said. "I saw her, in fact, this morning."

"Rosalind? Then you can tell me whether—whether I am really so like her as they used to think!"

"You are rather like!" I replied lightly. "But I shall not attempt to tell you how. It would not do—it would involve particulars that might prove embarrassing. There are times when even I find discretion better than frankness."

"You wish to save my feelings," she laughed. "But I am really taller!"

"By an inch—she told me that!"

"Then you have seen her more than once?"

"Yes; more than twice even."

"Then you must tell me wherein we are alike; I should really like to know."

"I have told you I can't; it's beyond my poor powers. I will tell you this, though—"

"Well?"

"That I think you both delightful."

"I am disappointed in you. I thought you a man of courage, Mr. Donovan."

"Even brave men falter at the cannon's mouth!"

"You are undoubtedly an Irishman, Mr. Donovan. I am sorry we shan't have any more tennis."

"You have said so, Miss Holbrook, not I."

She laughed, and then glanced toward the brown figure of Sister Margaret, and was silent for a moment, while the old clock on the stair boomed out the half-hour and was answered cheerily by the pretty tinkle of the chapel chime. I counted four poppy leaves that fluttered free from a bowl on the book shelf above her head and lazily fell to the floor at her feet.

"I had hoped," she said, "that we were good friends, Mr. Donovan."

"I have believed that we were, Miss Holbrook."

"You must see that this situation must terminate, that we are now at a crisis. You can understand—I need not tell you—how fully my sympathies lie with my father; it could not be otherwise."

"That is only natural. I have nothing to say on that point."

"And you can understand, too, that it has not been easy for me to be dependent upon Aunt Pat. You don't know—I have no intention of talking against her—but you can't blame me for thinking her hard—a little hard on my father."

I nodded.

"I am sorry, very sorry, that you should have these troubles, Miss Holbrook."

"I know you are," she replied, eagerly, and her eyes brightened "Your sympathy has meant so much to Aunt Pat and me. And now, before worse things happen—"

"Worse things must not happen!"

"Then we must put an end to it all, Mr. Donovan. There is only one way. My father will never leave here until Aunt Pat has settled with him. And it is his right to demand it," she hurried on. "I would have you know that he is not as black as he has been painted. He has been his own worst enemy; and Uncle Arthur's ill doings must not be charged to him. But he has been wrong, terribly wrong, in his conduct toward Aunt Pat. I do not deny that, and he does not. But it is only a matter of money, and Aunt Pat has plenty of it; and there can be no question of honor between Uncle Arthur and father. It was Uncle Arthur's act that caused all this trouble; father has told me the whole story. Quite likely father would make no good use of his money—I will grant that. But think of the strain of these years on all of us; think of what it has meant to me, to have this cloud hanging over my life! It is dreadful—beyond any words it is hideous; and I can't stand it any longer, not another week—not another day! It must end now and here."

Her tear-filled eyes rested upon me pleadingly, and a sob caught her throat as she tried to go on.

"But—" I began.

"Please — please" she broke in, touching her handkerchief to her eyes and smiling appealingly. "I am asking very little of you, after all."

"Yes, it is little enough, but it seems to me a futile interference. If your father would go to her himself, if you would take him to her—that strikes me as the better strategy of the matter."

"Then am I to understand that you will not help; that you will not do this for us—for me?"

"I am sorry to have to say no, Miss Holbrook," I replied, steadily.

"Then I regret that I shall have to go further; I must appeal to you as a personal matter purely. It is not easy; but if we are really very good friends—"

She glanced toward Sister Margaret, then rose and walked out upon the terrace.

"You will hate me—" she began, smiling wanly, the tears bright in her eyes; and she knew that it was not easy to hate her. "I have taken money from Mr. Gillespie, for my father, since I came here. It is a large sum, and when my father left here he went away to spend it—to waste it. It is all gone, and worse than gone. I must pay that back—I must not be under obligations to Mr. Gillespie. It was wrong, it was very wrong of me, but I was distracted, half crazed by my father's threats of violence against Aunt Pat—against us all. I am sure that you can see how I came to do it. And now you are my friend; will you help me?" and she broke off, smiling, tearful, her back to the balustrade, her hand at her side lightly touching it.

She had confidence, I thought, in the power of tears, as she slipped her handkerchief into her sleeve and waited for me to answer.

"Of course Mr. Gillespie only loaned you the money to help you over a difficulty; in some way that must be cared for. I like him; he is a fellow of good impulses. I repeat that I believe this matter can be arranged readily enough, by yourself and your father. My intrusion would only make a worse muddle of your affairs. Send for your father and let him go to your aunt in the right spirit; and I believe that an hour's talk will settle everything."

"You seem to have misunderstood my purpose in coming here, Mr. Donovan," she answered, coldly. "I asked your help, not your advice. I have even thrown myself on your mercy, and you tell me to do what you know is impossible."

"Nothing is so impossible as the present attitude of your father. Until that is changed your aunt would be doing your father a great injury by giving him this money."

"And as for me—" and her eyes blazed—"as for me," she said, choking

"Don't Say 'Must Not' to Me, If You Please!"

with anger, "after I have opened this page of my life to you and you have given me your fatherly advice—as for me, I will show you, and Aunt Pat and all of them, that what cannot be done one way may be done in another. If I say the word and let the law takes its course with my uncle—that man who brought all these troubles upon us—you may have the joy of knowing that it was your fault—your fault, Mr. Donovan!"

"I beg of you, do nothing! If you will not bring your father to Miss Pat, please let me arrange the meeting."

"He will not listen to you. He looks upon you as a meddler; and so do I, Mr. Donovan!"

"But your uncle—you must not, you would not!" I cried, terror-struck to see how fate drew her toward the pitfall from which I hoped to save her.

"Don't say 'must not' to me, if you please!" she flung back; but when she reached the door she turned and said calmly, though her eyes still blazed:

"I suppose it is not necessary for me to ask that you consider what I have said to confidential."

"It is quite unnecessary," I said, not knowing whether I loved or pitied her most; and my wits were busy trying to devise means of saving her the heartache her ignorance held in store for her.

She called to Sister Margaret in her brightest tone, and when I had walked with them to St. Agatha's gate she bade be good-by with quite as demure and Christian an air as the sister herself.

CHAPTER XX.

The Touch of Dishonor.

I was meditating my course over a cheerless luncheon when Gillespie was announced. He lounged into the dining room, drew his chair to the table and covered a biscuit with camembert with his usual inscrutable air.

"I think it is better," he said deliberatingly, "to be an ass than a fool. Have you any views on the subject?"

"None, my dear Buttons. I have been called both by shrewd men."

"So have I, if the worst were known, and they offered proof! Ah, more and more I see that we were born for each other, Donovan. I was once so impressed with the notion that to be a fool was to be distinguished that I conceived the idea of forming a Noble Order of Serene and Incurable Fools. I elected myself the grand and most worthy master, feeling safe from competition. News of the matter having gone forth, many persons of the highest standing wrote to me, recommending their friends for membership. My correspondence soon engaged three typewriters, and I was obliged to get the post-office department to help me break the chain. A few humble souls applied on their own hook for consideration. These I elected and placed in the first class. You would be surprised to know how many people who are chronic joiners wrote in absent-mindedly for application blanks, fearing to be left out of a good thing. United States senators were rather common on the list, and there were three governors; a bishop wrote to propose a brother bishop, of whose merits he spoke in the warmest terms. Many newspapers declared that the society filled a long-felt want. I received invitations to speak on the uses and benefits of the order from many learned bodies. The thing began to bore me, and when my official stationery was exhausted I issued a farewell address to my troops and dissolved the society. But it's a great gratification to me, my dear Donovan, that we quit with a waiting list."

"There are times, Buttons, when you cease to divert me. I'm likely to be very busy for a few days. Just what can I do for you this afternoon?"

"Look here, old man, you're not angry?"

"No; I'm rarely angry; but I'm often bored."

"Then your brutal insinuation shall not go unrewarded. Let me proceed. But first, how are your ribs?"

"Sore and a trifle stiff, but I'm comfortable, thanks."

"As I understand matters, Irishman, there is no real difference between you and me except in the matter of a certain lady. Otherwise we might combine our forces in the interest of these unhappy Holbrooks."

"You are quite right. You came here to say something; go on and be done with it."

He deftly covered another biscuit with the cheese, of whose antiquity he complained sadly.

"I say, Donovan, between old soldier friends, what were you doing up there on the creek last night?"

"Studying the landscape effects by starlight. It's a habit of mine. Your own presence there might need accounting for, if you don't mind."

"I will be square about it. I met Helen quite accidentally as I left this house, and she wanted to see her father. I took her over there, and we found Henry. He was up to some mischief—you may know what it was. Something had gone wrong with him, and he was in all kinds of a bad humor. Unfortunately, you got the benefit of some of it."

"I will supply you a link in the night's affairs. Henry had been to see his brother Arthur.

Gillespie's face fell, and I saw that he was greatly surprised.

"Humph! Helen didn't tell me that."

"The reason Henry came here was to look for his brother. That's how he reached this place ahead of Miss Pat and Helen. And I have learned something—it makes no difference how, but it was not from the ladies at St. Agatha's—I learned last night that the key of this whole situation is in your own hands, Gillespie. Your father was swindled by the Holbrooks; which Holbrook?"

He was at once sane and serious, and replied, soberly:

"I never doubted that it was Arthur. It he wasn't guilty, why did he run away? It was a queer business, and father never mentioned it. Henry gave out the impression that my father had taken advantage of Holbrook Brothers and forced their failure; but father shut up and never told me anything."

"But you have the notes—"

"Yes, but I'm not to open them, yet. I can't tell you about that now." He grew red and played with his cravat.

"Where are they?" I asked.

to this difficulty in the statement that certain other cities tax their residents even more severely than does Plainfield. This in no wise touches the merit of the subject, aside from the fact that some of these cities own more in the way of permanent valuable property than does our own city. I venture to assert confidently, that if it could be known as a certainty that within the next twelve years Plainfield would pay off every cent of her public indebtedness, and would not issue another bond, and would secure the reduction of the entire rate of taxation to one per cent., in that event our vacant lots and outlying lands would be swiftly taken up by new and desirable settlers. All this is entirely possible. Effort should be made in this direction, and no step should be taken in a contrary direction.

With a view, also, to the promotion of confidence in the economy as well as the enterprise of public administration, no backward step should be taken in safeguarding our public expenditure, and the utmost carefulness should be observed at every point. Any proposition, for example, to give the chairman of a council committee power by himself to purchase supplies, or to break down any system of fair and open competition for supplies required by the city, should be entirely discountenanced. "Eternal vigilance" is the price of "safety" as well as of "liberty."

This Board of Trade is entitled to high praise for its desire and efforts to increase our civic prosperity and influence. It has manifested a spirit of enterprise, and has worked with a fair degree of success. Probably certain sorts of advertising are useful, especially those which carry to the minds of desirable persons in other places the advantages offered by our city. I have ventured to wonder in my own mind whether some forms of Charter Day celebration and of performances were of sufficiently dignified and useful a character to serve the purpose. You gentlemen of the Board of Trade can perhaps judge more correctly than I can in such matters. I have seen carnival frolics in many places and countries; for example, at New Orleans, in Cuba, in Spain, in Algiers, and in Italy. These carnival frolics appear to succeed best in countries not favored with the higher degrees of education and intelligence. I do not think that ours is a carnival country: I am inclined to hope that it will never be such. I believe in recreation and in fun in its proper place. Our American festal occasions have more significance, I think, than those of other lands, whilst at the same time there is associated with them an abundant element of recreation and joy. Let us hope it may be ever thus; and, when we are celebrating any particular thing, let us put into it a fair measure of thought as well as a good degree of enjoyment. So far as Plainfield is concerned, it may even prosper under conservative management without ever becoming a "boom" town. The Spaniards have a proverb, "Good wine needs no bush." It is better that our progress should even fail of acceleration rather than be subject to reactions, disappointments, and losses.

I think I am known in politics as a fairly consistent Republican. For fifty years I have pretty constantly voted the Republican ticket, but I am free to say that I am sorry that national party lines and principles should dominate our local affairs, and that a habit of "give and take" as amongst persons interested in politics (municipal, state and national) should sometimes interfere with wise and necessary local management. This danger and difficulty could perhaps be partly overcome with us if in Plainfield there was an opposite party of civic ambition and ability, able now and then to take the reins of administration and improve upon the record of the party whose administration was not wholly successful. Unfortunately, with us there is no such opposite party. With us the Democratic party does not exist. As yet, the Plainfield Protective Association has not organized an independent movement. When we are dissatisfied, we can only go to the Republican primary and take our chances along with those who are already fairly entrenched in a well understood position. Is it too much to hope that members of the Board of Trade, and other public spirited citizens, will in one way or another exercise such watchfulness and well-guided energy as shall secure to our city for the future the best fruits of worthy enterprise combined with the exercise of wholesome economy?

Sheridan's Spelling.

The author of "The School for Scandal" had highly original views on the rules of spelling. In his critic days, for instance, a "thing" to Sheridan was always a "think," and never by any chance did he remember that a "which" or a "where" to be really respectable must needs possess an "aitch apiece." This rule of omission he also followed sheep-like in "wether" for "whether." Moreover, he scorned the use of a double "m" or a double "s." For example, "blessedness" was always "blesedne."—London Eve. Standard.

THE OBJECTION TO JOHN.

The Gaylords and Nelsons have always been neighbors and intimate friends. So when John Gaylord, at twenty-four, as fine a fellow as ever was, began to see what an altogether charming girl Molly Nelson was, there was, naturally, no opposition, according to Youth's Companion. Indeed, as the "affair" became serious it was evident to all, including John and Molly themselves, that the parents concerned were delighted. As yet there was no formal announcement, but every one knew that it was "understood," and evening after evening John talked to Molly on the front porch, often lingering after the other Nelsons had retired.

The surprise of the two was consequently great when one evening a shuffling step was heard in the hall, and presently Mr. Nelson appeared in slippers and dressing-gown, candle in hand. Quite evidently he had gone to bed and then got up—for some purpose.

"Why, father, what is the matter?"

Molly's cheeks were burning, as her father stood there hesitating and eying John closely. John, leaning against the door-post, where he had stood for the last fifteen minutes saying good night to Molly, felt decidedly uncomfortable under Mr. Nelson's gaze.

In fact, it was embarrassing all 'round. But John is a young man who goes straight to the point.

"Is anything wrong, Mr. Nelson?" he began, directly. "Am I to infer that you object to my being here?"

"Well, no, not exactly, John," Mr. Nelson coughted, slightly hesitating. "It's only that mother and I would like to get a little sleep.'

"Father," cried Molly, quite indignant, "we couldn't have been disturbing anyone! John has been talking very low—"

"I don't doubt that, my dear." Mr. Nelson was beginning to enjoy the situation. "It's not that, nor have I any objection to John's talking to you. In fact, I haven't an objection in the world to John, nor to his conduct, except—"

Mr. Nelson is open to suspicion of having prolonged the matter unnecessarily at this point.

"Except in one thing. Mrs. Nelson and I do object seriously, my dear John, to the habit you seemed to have this evening of leaning against the bell-push. Our bedroom is next to the kitchen, and this continuous bell-ringing is not conducive to repose."

An eminent French art collector once bought at the Hotel Drouot a landscape by a noted "impressionist," which he showed, with much pride in his purchase, to an artist friend, relates an exchange.

"But I think," quoth he, "that the picture lacks animation; it wants personages. Now, if you would paint for me a man or woman on that road that runs through the middle of the lanscape it would greatly improve the picture."

"That is easily done," said the artist. So he carried off the painting and sent it back in a week or two with the figure of an old peasant woman going to market, with her basket and her red umbrella, introduced on the road in question, to the great satisfaction of the picture's proprietor. Meeting shortly after with the "impressionist" who had painted it, the artist remarked:

"I had the audacity to alter a landscape of yours belonging to M. X. the other day. I painted an old peasant woman walking down the road."

"Down the road? I remember no work of mine with a road in it. I should like to see the picture and judge of the effect of your alteration."

So the artist carried him off to M. X.'s, and they speedily stood before the landscape. The "impressionist" turned perfectly green with wrath and horror.

"Miserable man," he shouted, "what have you done? That is not a road that runs through the centre of my work.. It is a river?"

THE COLOR OF GOWNS.

A writer in the June Delineator says that the value of color is something that a clever dressmaker understands fully. She continues: "Two dresses can be cut alike, line for line, but in different shades of the same silk, and one of them will make a woman look slender, straight and supple, and the other will give her an unaccountably dumpy, round-shouldered, square-cut figure. All women ought to make a careful study of colors. It is especially important for women of small means who have so few gowns that they must live with those of their choice very intimately. A woman who can buy twenty or thirty dresses a year can afford to make an occasional mistake when her fancy for a trying color or a too daring line carries her away for a moment. She can hang an unsuccessful dress in a closet and forget about it, and it does her no harm—helps her, perhaps, in choosing more wisely in the future. She does not suffer from her folly. But a woman of small means who meets with a mishap in her choice of her one new gown must wear it weather or no—a harsh commentary on her vanity, her poor judgment or her bad taste. Yet one can only tell her to choose carefully and buy slowly."

SOMETHING HE COULD NOT FORGET.

Everything in this story except two names is vouched for as the truth by the publishers of the American Magazine.

The story concerns a rich man whom I will call Ebenezer Openhearth. He is a prosperous manufacturer of steel, well known and highly esteemed. He is said to have an excellent heart, and here and there he has done a notable public service. Since he accumulated his fortune he has been anxious to cultivate some of the graces of life. He has wanted to know people of consequence and have people of consequense know him and respect him.

Well, then, about fifteen years ago a well-known Scotchman came to this country. We will name him for convenience Donald Bannockburn. One bitterly cold day he was on a railway train which stopped at a station in Pennsylvania. The day was so cold that the piston rod of the engine became clogged with ice, and the fireman and engineer had to thaw it out. The Rt. Hon. Donald Bannockburn, M. P., got out of the train to "take the air," and while he was walking up and down the platform thumping his numbed hands against his chest a train of flat cars loaded with slag was pulled into a "siding." A crowd of trainhands that gathered at the side of one of the cars attracted the attention of the visitor to a sight that chilled his blood more than the bitter wind. On top of a pile of slag lay the mangled body of a man, the very rags and tatters of humanity so crushed and mangled that it was beyond belief in the stubbornness of human life to see that he lived and was conscious. There he lay, exposed to the withering winds on his pallet of iron cinders till the railway men carried him away.

The visitor turned to a trainhand and asked: "What has happened to that man?"

"Oh, he got busted up at the mills. It often happens. We call the mills the 'slaughter house.'"

"But why didn't they take him to a nearby hospital?"

"Ain't any. Have to fetch him down here."

"How far are the mills from here?"

"About four miles."

"Do you mean to say that they have sent that poor devil four miles on a day like this?"

"Sure thing."

The Scotchman went on his way homeward and resumed his busy life, but he never could quite shake the horror from his mind. He told me afterward that the vision of the man on the slag train came to him in his dreams for years. Long afterward, when he had become a member of the cabinet and a person of great mark in the kingdom, an English iron master and fellow M. P. came to him in the House of Commons and said: "Come out and see an American who wants very much to meet you." Bannockburn followed his friend into the lobby, where a good-looking, well-cared-for man stepped foward eagerly, thrust out his hand and cried:

"Ebenezer Openhearth is proud to grasp the hand of Donald Bannockburn!"

"Do you know," said the statesman in telling me about it afterward, "for a moment I couldn't see him. At the mention of the name the scene at the railway station rose before my eyes—the bitter day, and the thing on the slag train. And here before me was the proprietor of the 'slaughter house.' Not for the like of me could I take his hand. I looked him in the eye and said: "But Donald Bannockburn refused to grasp the hand of Ebenezer Openhearth.' And I turned away without telling him why. But I explained afterward to my friend, and I expect he told. Of course it was childish and theatrical, but I had to do it."

A RANCH QUEEN OF THE "PAN HANDLE."

Everyone in the Texas Panhandle has heard of Pauline Whitman. She is noted as a cattle expert and a ranch manager. Mrs. Whitman was compelled to take charge of the L. S. ranch by the death of her husband, and then became one of the largest stock growers in the world, having over 100,000 acres of stock yards, pastures, besides the ranch house and a score of other buildings to look after. Her yearly beef crop aggregates train loads of from 10,000 to 20,000 steers sent yearly to Kansas City and Chicago, and she gets what the beef experts call "fancy prices."

Mrs. Whitman knows every point in the business from judging the age of a calf to throwing a steer with a lasso. She is a skilled horse-woman and when on the ranch frequently visits the different herds, especially at round-up time, when the calves are separated from the older stock and branded. The ranch has doubled its income since she took charge, which shows how well she knows her business, although she finds time to make trips to New York and Europe to buy art treasures for her collection and to go to the opera.—Van Norden Magazine.

Miss Edna Antoinette Lewis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Israel Lewis, and Allen Holmes Vanderhoef, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. V. E. Vanderhoef, of Prospect place, were married this afternoon at the home of the bride's parents on Somerset street. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, pastor of the First Baptist church.

The home was prettily decorated with daisies, sweet syringa, Southern smilax and oak leaves. In a corner of the parlor, where the ceremony took place, a large wedding bell was suspended under which the young couple stood. The bride wore a gown of crepe de chine over silk trimmed with old lace and satin applique. Her traveling gown was of silk pongee, with hat and gloves to match. The maid of honor, Miss Anna Lewis, wore a gown of pink messaline and carried a bouquet of pink roses. There were no bridesmaids or ushers. Henry Clerking, of New York, was best man. The music was furnished by Prof. William Holt, of New York.

The young couple received many handsome presents, among them was a check for $100, a gift from the Colgate Co., the firm with which Mr. Vanderhoef is employed.

FUNERAL SERVICES OF A BRIGHT YOUNG MAN

The funeral services of N. Douglas Drake were held yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock from the home of his aunt, Mrs. Dodge, 34 Duer street, and were largely attended by relatives and friends, including a delegation from the Plainfield Bar Association, of which Mr. Drake was a member. There was also a large number of floral tributes, among them one from the bar association. Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, pastor of the First Baptist church, of which Mr. Drake was an earnest and active member, conducted the services.

The burial was in Evergreen cemetery on Plainfield avenue, and the pall-bearers were Asa F. Randolph, J. H. VanWinkle, Jr., Charles M. Dolliver, representing the Plainfield Bar Association, and G. Fountain, Fred Armstrong and Leslie Powlison, co-workers with Mr. Drake in the First Baptist church.

AROUSED FROM SLUMBER BY A HUNGRY ITALIAN

Entering the house of Marvin De Witt Rae, of Berkeley avenue, at about 1 o'clock this morning, Desquale de Domanio, an Italian who says his home is at Germantown, Philadelphia, climbed the stairs to the bedroom where Donald C. Rae, Mr. Rae's father, was sleeping, and waking him, asked for food. Mr. Rae got the man some crackers and held him until the arrival of the police, summoned by telephone by Mrs. Rae.

At his hearing before City Judge Runyon today Domanio, through an interpreter, told the court that he was lost, wet and hungry, and went to the house to get food. He said that he was on his way to Germantown, but had lost his ticket and was put off the train at Fanwood. He wandered around, lost, for several hours, falling into bogs and getting soaked to the skin. He entered the house through the front door, which had been left unlocked. He seems simple-minded, and carried no weapons. According to Mr. Rae's story, he asked him for money to pay the fare to Germantown. He does not seem like a desperate man, but is held at police headquarters until tomorrow morning, when Mrs. M. D. Rae will be in court to tell her story of the early morning visit.

Raid Prisoner Fined $10.

James Scott, colored, who was arrested in a recent police raid on Madison avenue, was given a hearing at the city court today before Judge William N. Runyon. Scott was represented by William G. De Meza, who showed the court that his client was a victim of circumstances as a roomer in the house. He was fined $10.

CARMON R. HETFIELD IS DEAD IN BROOKLYN

Carmon R. Hetfield, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hetfield, of Scotch Plains, died last night at his apartments in Hotel St. George, Brooklyn, where he had lived for ten years. Mr. Hetfield was born at Scotch Plains and moved to Brooklyn fifty years ago. For a great many years he was engaged in the cracker business, being a member of the well known firm of Hetfield & Decker. Later the business was purchased by the National Biscuit Company, and Mr. Hetfield retired.

Mr. Hetfield was prominent in church affairs in Brooklyn, being a member of the board of trustees of the Baptist Temple, president of the Baptist Home, in Brooklyn, and prominent in the establishment of a new orphanage under the auspices of the Baptist Temple. He contributed liberally to worthy charities. A wife survives him.

The funeral services will be held from the Baptist Temple, Monday night, and the interment will be in the Baptist cemetery, Scotch Plains, Tuesday morning upon the arrival of the 10:56 train from New York.

ASSISTANT PROSECUTOR WINS SIGNAL VICTORY

Deliberating on the evidence but ten minutes, a jury in the case of the State against Joseph Weinstein and son, Harry Weinstein, charged with assaulting Dr. Frederick Zucker, State officer of the S. P. C. A., returned a verdict in the Union county court, yesterday afternoon, finding both defendants guilty. Assistant Prosecutor Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., handled the case alone for the State and achieved a notable victory. He had but four witnesses against twenty-two for the defense, represented by former Governor Foster M. Voorhees, John Stamler and Charles Wagner.

Although opposed by brilliant array of counsel, Mr. Hetfield presented the case before the jury in a masterly way. He spoke of the contradictory evidence given by the witnesses for the defense and the witnesses failing to agree on many details.

Dr. Zucker was attacked and badly injured by a mob in Court street, Elizabeth, on March 1, while investigating a case of creulty to animals. His nose was broken in the fight. The defense claimed that Dr. Zucker was the aggressor, but Mr. Hetfield showed conclusively that the Weinsteins were wholly responsible. Charles Segolosky, one of the men indicted, turned State's evidence, while Joseph Albert, another witness, was excused, it having been shown that he knew nothing about the trouble. There was a large number of interest people in court, including Col. Edwards, one of the State officers of the S. P. C. A.

Musical Service Tomorrow.

Special vocal and instrumental music will mark the evening service at the Congregational church tomorrow, when Rev. C. L. Goodrich will give a brief address on "The Golden Song." T. Barnes at teh organ, Miss Alice L. Morgan, pianist, and Robert Heaume, violinist. A vocal quartet, composed of Charles L. Lewis, William Smith, M. C. Van Ardsdale and E. E. Runyon, will sing "Remember Now Thy Creator," and "By the Tomb Stood Mary."

NEED LIBRARY BUILDING

ANNUAL CIRCULATION 62,670.

Year's Visitors Number 70,246—The Library Contains 38,248 Volumes.

The Plainfield Library directors' annual report is about ready for transmission in regular course to the Common Council. A largely increased usefulness is growing out of better means and earnest effort, the directors will say. The reading room is more frequented, and the books owned by the institution, it is shown, are much more widely read. It must be eviden to every friend of public education in Plainfield, says the directors, that the gowing usefulness of the library will soon render absolutely necessary a new, properly constructed, fire-proof building. Already its shelves are crowded and overburdener, but its books must and should increase. This requirement cannot be met by taxation, but must be met by our generous and public-spirited citizens.

A year ago, the library had a larger circulation than ever before. It was then 53,005 for the year ending May 31, 1908. For the year closing, May 31, 1909, the circulation is 62,670. During the past year 70,426 visitors are recorded, of which 2,319 were Sunday visitors. The character of the circulation is also increasing in excellence. While fiction books lead the record, the circulation of books of biography, philosophy, religion, sociology, philology, natural science, useful arts, fine arts, literature, description, travel and history aggregates for the year 19,069 volumes.

The additions to the library during the year just closed comprised 3,237, exclusive of 286 volumes bought and 113 volumes bound in the Babcock collection, and exclusive also of seventy-five volumes added through the Mason W. Tyler fund. The splendid bequest under Col. Tyler's will is coming into active usefulness and is used for the acquirement of a high class of books. The library has now, of good, serviceable books, 38,248 volumes.

Among the important donations of the past year to the library should be counted the valuable medical periodicals received from Dr. A. E. M. Purdy, of New York, and the gift of music by Lewis G. Geary, of Belvidere avenue, comprising compositions and arrangements of the classical symphonies, in all about 900 music titles.

The "financial budget" adopted a year ago by the library trustees has been conscientiously followed and is found to be admirably adapted to the needs of the institution. A similar budget, in relation to the general fund, has now been adopted by the board for the year to come, as follows:

Receipts.

Income from City	$7,500
Income from Petty Cash	500
Total	$8,000

Disbursements.

Salaries	$3,000
Subscriptions to periodicals and binding	800
Stationery and printing	300
Fuel	300
Lights	250
Repairs, insurance and library fittings	600
Books	2,500
Sundries	250
Total	$8,000

Entertainment of Junior Band.

The Junior Mission Band of the First Baptist church, under the direction of Mrs. Reuben Knox and Mrs. H. C. Krebs, held the closing exercises for the season in the lecture room yesterday afternoon. The devotional service led by Mrs. J. A. Chambliss was followed by exercises of the children in Barmese costum consisting of singing, recitations and reading of short papers relating to Burma, the subject of their winter's study. The children exhibited the work done for the past months, dresses and scrap books to be sent to Burma. Ice cream and cake were served at the conclusion of the entertainment.

Local Classes for Counties.

The local classes for the first annual dog show to be held at the horse show grounds on Saturday, June 19, for the dogs owned in Union and Somerset counties. The entry fee in this class is $1. There will be an exceptional opportunity to win here as the large kennels in and about Plainfield have agreed not to compete in this class. The entries will close on Monday.

TOM MUIR TESTIMONIAL TO BE A BIG AFFAIR

The minstrel chorus of 150, to take part in the mammoth benefit show for "Tom" Muir at the New Plainfield theatre Friday and Saturday nights, June 18 and 19, will hold nightly rehearsals on the theatre stage next week. At the rehearsal held in the Elks' rooms last night, the big chorus went through all the songs to be used in the show, the musical program for which has been made up by City Judge William N. Runyon, who is in charge of the rehearsals.

The eight end-men have been appointed and sang their songs at last night's rehearsal. Those who are to be at the ends of the semicircle are John Todd, Harry Blimm, George Cose, George Rittenhouse, William Firstbrook and W. J. Counihan. The songs are all new, snappy stuff, and the soloists make the most of them. The big chorus is working in good shape, and the new medley promises to be a decided hit.

Window cards, talking up the benefit show, were distributed today, and the effect of this advertising was shown at the box office of the theatre, where tickets are now on sale. There are still some excellent seats to be had, but those who plan to attend are urged to get seats early.

TO INSPECT CANAL FOR CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Former Mayor William L. Saunders, president of the Ingersoll-Rand Company, is planning another visit to Panama, this time in the interest of the New York Chamber of Commerce, for the purpose of making a thorough inspection of the work and making a report. Originally it was arranged for several members of the New York chamber to make the trip, but for reasons the others who expected to go have found it impossible, and therefore Mr. Saunders has made up his mind to visit Panama alone. What the chamber desires particularly to be advised on is whether a lock or a sea level canal is preferable.

Although Mr. Saunders is one of the youngest members of the Chamber of Commerce, he has risen rapidly to a position of prominence in the body and is considered today one of the ablest experts in his line in the country, and is frequently consulted for an expert opinion on great engineering feats to be undertaken.

BLOCK NUMBER SYSTEM FOR NORTH PLAINFIELD

Because there have been a lot of complaints about the numbering system used on Watchung avenue, North Plainfield, the borough Council took action at its June meeting last night providing for a new system. Hereafter the numbers will begin at the brook and the system will be by blocks, a hundred to a block.

Upon the motion of Councilman J. J. Stahl, three new callmen were appointed for the fire department. Frank Keller will take the place of Patrick McDonough; Percy Culver will succeed John McCullough, who is now in Chicago, and Albert Camp is to be an extra man. Frank and August Anderson were appointed special police marshals.

There were thirty-seven arrests in North Plainfield during the month of May, according to Borough Recorder Dolliver's report, and the fines totalled $68.25.

The bill sent to the Council by County Clerk A. D. Anderson for the recording of various deeds was held up. Mayor Townsend said that upon checking up the items he found that there was an over-charge of twenty-five cents. The bill was referred to the finance committee for payment, with this deduction.

A permit was granted to Dr. J. Hervey Buchanan for the erection of a garage at his home on Duer street, and J. S. Bartle, of Manning avenue, was granted a permit for the erection of a three-story building on Watchung avenue.

Wreck on the Lehigh Valley.

Derailed by defective brake gear, a heavily loaded freight car made up in the middle of an east-bound freight on the Lehigh Valley Railroad was derailed at the South Plainfield freight yards last night at about 6 o'clock, blocking both passenger tracks for an hour. The dragging brake beam broke the couplings, throwing the car across the main line tracks, and tearing up the roadbed. Two other cars were derailed.

MISS M'CUTCHEON WEDS

SOCIETY ATTENDS CEREMONY.

The Bishop of Michigan and Rector Officiate—At Grace Episcopal Church.

Miss Marion Hills McCutcheon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Homer McCutcheon, of Plainfield avenue, and Lewis Alfred Williams, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Alfred Williams, of E. Seventh street, were married at Grace Episcopal church at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon in the presence of a large and fashionable assemblage of relatives and friends from this city and distant points. Bishop Charles D. Williams, of Michigan, uncle of the groom, assisted by the Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, rector of the church, officiated.

The bride had for her attendants, Miss Verna H. McCutcheon, her sister, as maid-of-honor; Mrs. Augustus Granger Porter, of Niagara Falls, as matron-of-honor, and the Misses Katherine McCutcheon, Dorothy McCutcheon, sisters of the bride; Natala Bishop, of Bridgeport, Conn., and Gladys Clark, of New York, as bridesmaids. Miss Hayward Mason Butler, of this city, was the flower girl.

The best man was Morton Atwater, of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., and the ushers were Victor H. McCutcheon, Gurth Williams, Henry E. Butler, Harvey Fisk, Owen H. Fleming and Gilbert B. Browne, of Plainfield; Walter Stevens, of Scranton, Pa., and A. Wilder Browne, of New York.

The bride's costume was of ivory satin crepe, embroidered and trimmed with Cavac-ma-Cross lace, with a veil of Brussels lace held with orange blossoms. The maid-of-honor's gown was of pale pink cloth, painted in white lilacs and wore a white lace straw hat, trimmed with white and pink lilacs and pink velvet bow. The costume of the matron of honor was of pale green chiffon cloth, painted in white lilacs, and wore a white lace straw hat trimmed with white lilacs and pale green velvet bow.

The gowns of Miss Natala Bishop and Miss Dorothy H. McCutcheon, bridesmaids, were of pale yellow chiffon cloth, painted in white lilacs, and wore white lace straw hats, trimmed with yellow and white lilacs and bows of pale yellow velvet. The other two bridesmaids, Miss Gladys Clark and Miss Katherine H. McCutcheon wore gowns of pale lavendar chiffon cloth, painted in white lilacs and wore white lace straw hats, trimmed with white and lavendar lilacs and lavendar velvet bows.

The bridal party entered the church preceded by the uushers, the flower girl, matron-of-honor, maid-of-honor, the bridesmaids and the bride, accompanied by her father, who gave her in marriage. At the chancel they met the groom and best man. S. Frederick Smith presided at the organ, rendering the wedding marches and other selections of a classical character.

The church was elaborately decorated for the affair, there being a profusion of dogwood and white lilacs banked about the chancel. At the house, where a large reception followed, the decorations consisted chiefly of pink and white roses. A novel feature in connection with the reception was the out-of-door arrangement, refreshments being served in a marquis on the spacious grounds. An orchestra furnished music during the reception. Later Mr. and Mrs. Williams left for an extended wedding journey and they will be at home after October 1, at "Oakwood Lodge," the home of the bride's parents.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Williams have been prominent in social affairs of the city and borough, especially among the younger set at the Park Club, and they are favorites in a large circle of friends. Mr. Williams is a graduate of Yale '03, and his best man, Morton Atwater, was a classmate. The bride was the recipient of a wealth of wedding gifts of great value. Mr. Williams is engaged in business in New York as a stock broker.

ASKED PRISON TERMS TO AVOID PAYING FINES.

Hackensack, June 5.—Four men were convicted in special sessions before Judge Milton Demarest Thursday afternoon on indictments charging atrocious assault upon John Schenatkin. The men said they were Seanistan Podbeskey, Kostemti Miteiviz, John Presinski and Joseph Paimiseki, all of Edgewater. The testimony adduced by the State showed that the complaining witness had been beaten and left uncoscious in Palisade avenue, Cliffside, on the night of April 14. Schenatkin swore that the trouble started when he met the men near the Warner Sugar Refinery in Edgewater and demanded money due him for board.

At the conclusion of the trial Assistant Prosecutor John S. Mackay moved for sentence. The court first fixed a fine of $150 and costs in each case. The convicted men, through an interpreter, asked if they couldn't serve time in jail instead of paying the money. The court announced that there was cash bail in the hands of the sheriff, but if they had rather serve time than pay he was agreed. He then imposed a sentence of one year each in State Prison.

When the men learned they had no choice but to go to prison they retracted their request yesterday and said they would pay the fines. The court increased the fines to $175 each and added costs, and a friend of the men, who appeared in court, paid for each prisoner and the quartet was released.

WIFE QUIT HIM BECAUSE "HIS HEAD WAS TWISTED."

Bayonne, June 5.—"Fred, your head's twisted; I'm going to take the children and get out. Yours, Mary." That is the note Frederick Kirlop, of 12 Novelty place, found fastened on the pincushion in his bedroom Thursday night when he returned from the Orford Copper Works, Constable Hook, where he is employed.

Finding the house empty, Kirlop at first supposed his wife had taken the two children, one two years old and one six, to call on some neighbor. He went to his room to change his clothing and then he discovered the note that gave the real reason for the empty home.

Kirlop could give no explanation yesterday of his wife's departure. They had had no trouble of any kind, he said, and she seemed devoted to her home and family. He believes she has gone to the home of her sister, in Philadelphia.

Mrs. Kirlop took with her all that was left of his pay, and all of her jewelry, as well as all her clothing and that of the children. Kirlop is thirty-five years old and his wife is several years younger.

PATRICK LOSES LAST PLEA.

Must Remain in Sing Sing Rest of His Life.

New York, June 5.—Albert T. Patrick, whose original sentence of death for the murder of W. M. Rice was commuted by the late Governor Higgins to life imprisonment, must remain in Sing Sing. A plea for liberty, argued recently by Patrick, was denied yesterday by the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court, Second Department, sitting in Brooklyn.

In pleading his own case, the convicted lawyer had maintained that he should either have been executed or liberated.

HITS SECRET SESSIONS

State Superintendent Baxter Opposes Star Chamber Board Meetings.

EXPRESSES VIEWS CLEARLY.

Executive Sessions Should Be Exceptional Rather Than the Usual Thing.

The agitation in Morristown resulting from the practise of the local Board of Education in holding secret sessions has resulted in a further expression of views on the subject by State Superintendent Charles J. Baxter. He declares with positiveness that a Board of Education making all its meetings private is exercising its discretion unwisely.

When first asked concerning the propriety of secret sessions, Mr. Baxter, in a letter to Morris County Superintendent J. H. Hulshart, made the following reply: "The meetings of the Board of Education may in accordance with its discretion, be either public or private. Whenever a board shall deem it advisable to hold an executive session no one outside of its membership is warranted in claiming admission."

Mr. Baxter believes that any Board of Education which makes a practise of transacting its business in secret, fails in its conception of the relations between it and the public. At the same time he holds that there are certain matters principally relating to discipline or of a personal character, which may properly be discussed in executive and behind closed doors.

In defining his attitude upon the question of secret sessions, Mr. Baxter supplemented his original decision with the following statement:

"Only the executive session is a private meeting and the inference seems to me entirely clear that it is to be regarded as the exceptional rather than the usual meeting. The public is vitally interested in certain items of business and these should be transacted at public meetings. It would, however, be a grave error of judgment to discuss in open session some of the details of school administration, particularly those into which the personal element enters.

"I have known educational sentiment to be corrupted and communities to be disrupted by sucr errors of judgment. You would not, I am sure, have your Board of Education consider at a public meeting the respective merits of the several candidates for the city superintendency or some of the perplexities connected with school discipline. A few of the meetings of a Board of Education are necessarily private and it is quite as often necessary to emphasize this as the more patent fact that the majority of said meetings should be public.

"If it is the discretion of a Board of Education to make all of its meetings private, then such discretion is not wisely exercised and if public sentiment in any municipality shall demand that they all be public then public sentiment is equally at fault. Some of the meetings of a Board of Education should be public, others should be private, and the power to determine the character of each of said meetings is necessarily vested in the board.

BIG OUTING FOR JERSEY EDITORS.

Annual Meeting This Year Will Be Held at Lake Minnewaska, Ulster Co., N. Y.

New Jersey's editors will hold their annual meeting and outing at Lake Minnewaska, Ulster county, N. Y., from June 25 to 28, inclusive.

This beautiful and well known resort is in the Shawangunk Mountains, nearly 2,000 feet above the sea and commanding a magnificent view of the valley of the Hudon, its tributaries and surroundings. There are two very large, well-conducted hotels situated upon eminences overlooking the lake. The hills are wooded with pine and hemlock, and small lakes, falls and cascades abound in very picturesque forms.

Members of the Editorial Association with their wives and friends will leave New York city on the morning of the 25th on one of the Hudson River steamers for Poughkeepsie, thence crossing the river to Highland and taking a trolley to New Paltz, from which point the journey of ten or twelve miles will be made by carriage.

The business meeting of the association will be held on Saturday morning and Friday will be given up to drives, boating, bathing and other forms of recreation. The return trip will be made on Monday, probably by the way of the New York, Ontario and Western Railroad.

Electrical Men Elect Officers.

The American Electric Light Association closed its annual convention at Atlantic City yesterday by electing the following officers: President, Frank R. Frusauf, Denver; first vice-president, W. W. Freeman, Brooklyn; second vice-president, John F. Gilchrist, Chicago; secretary and treasurer, Frank H. Tait, Dayton, Ohio.

THAW TO STAY IN INSANE ASYLUM.

New York, June 5.—The Appellate Division of the Supreme Court in Brooklyn decided yesterday that Harry K. Thaw is not entitled to a jury trial as to his sanity, and Thaw was remanded to the Matteawan Asylum for the Criminal Insane. Justice Jenks writes the prevailing opinion, upholding the constitutionality of the law under which Thaw was committed to Matteawan after a jury had acquitted him of murder on the grounds of insanity.

Justice Gaynor in a dissenting opinion says that the commitment under section 454 of the code of criminal procedure is unconstitutional in depriving the appellant of liberty without due process of law. Justice Rich writes a separate opinion in which he differs with Justice Jenks in some details, but concurs in the matter of the constitionality of the law.

FREAK $20 BILL.

Its Back Reversed but Genuine, Officials Say—Turns Up in Montclair.

A freak bill turned up in the Montclair Savings Bank at Montclair yesterday. It is a $20 gold certificate, series of 1906, check letter B, and the curious feature is that the yellow back is printed in reverse order to the usual bill. The strange note was accepted by the paying teller, Albert J. Clark, from a customer who made a deposit of $500. The bank officials say the bill is genuine. How it escaped into general circulation puzzles them, however.

The Government officials make a careful inspection of all bills issued by the Treasury Department, and when such mistakes are discovered the bill is cancelled before receiving the Treasurer's signature. This bill not only escaped inspection undetected, but has been in circulation for three years.

The bank will hold the bill until it is passed on at Washington, and should it be declared a counterfeit the bank officials say it is one of the cleverest ever perpetrated, as every detail except the reversal of the yellow back is absolutely faultless.

SHIP GIRL'S ASHES 3,000 MILES.

Died While Member of Hippodrome Chorus—Wealthy Parents in the West.

At the request of her mother, three thousand miles away, the body of Gertrude Brady, a Hippodrome chorus girl who left her parents to go on the stage, was taken from the Kensico Cemetery in New York and incinerated at the Rose Hill crematory at Elizabeth. The ashes were shipped in an urn to Mrs. Brady, in California.

Miss Brady's parents are wealthy and at the time of her death she had $40,000 in her own name. She caught cold while taking part in a spectacle clad in scanty costume. Her death followed soon after. Fifteen girls from the company attended the services which preceded the incineration.

Fire Destroys Bottling Works.

The bottling establishment of the Fieganspan Brewing Company in Newark, said to have been one of the finest plants of its kind in the country, was destroyed by fire yesterday. Much new machinery had recently been installed and the loss is placed at about $50,000. The cause of the fire is unknown, but it started in an extension where an iron worker was at work. The police say that a lighted cigarette or match might have caused the blaze.

MRS. VAN HOESEN'S FUNERAL TOMORROW

The funeral services of Mrs. John F. Van Hoesen, whose death occurred yesterday morning, will be held from the late residence, 447 West Sixth street, tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock, and Rev. Edwin Shaw, pastor of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, will be in charge. The remains will be placed in a vault at Hillside cemetery until fall, when the burial will take place at Preble, N. Y.

Mrs. Van Hoesen was born at Little York, N. Y., and had been a resident of this city twenty years. She lived with her mother, Mrs. Farozina Wilcox, who still survives, and who is ninety-six years of age, and considering her advanced years is remarkably well preserved.

Mrs. Van Hoesen was the mother of twin daughters, one of whom was the first wife of Arthur L. Titsworth, and the other the wife of his brother, the late George B. Titsworth. Besides a mother, Mrs. Van Hoesen is survived by one brother, Joseph M. Wilcox, who conducts a hotel at Larchmont, N. Y.

JOHN M. WHITON SHOWS FINE VIEWS OF JAPAN

Sharing with the members of the Congregational Sunday-school some of the pleasures of a tour of Japan from which he has but recently returned, Superintendent John M. Whiton showed about seventy beautiful steropticon slides of "Chrysanthemum Land" at the church last night, and told some interesting facts about the geography and the habits and customs of the people.

Mr. and Mrs. Whiton toured Japan at the height of the chrysanthemum season last fall, and their pictures appeared several times in the gardens and street scenes. The affair was primarily for the members of the Sunday-school, for whom special seats were reserved, and there was a large attendance. Thos. Hyland operated the lantern.

THRONGS AT LONG BRANCH.

The Thousands of Cottages Are Filling Rapidly.

Long Branch, June 5.—An unprecedented influx of cottagers here marked Memorial week. The numerous cottage colonies in the city, notably those in the Elberon and West End districts, have taken on a summer air. Practically all the summer residents who own their own cottages are occupying them, and those who lease cottages are coming in rapidly. In two weeks more probably not one of the thousands of cottages will be left on the market.

With the arrival of the cottagers the golf grounds, polo campuses and tennis courts have been opened, and yachting, boating, fishing and other outdoor sports have received an impetus. Surf bathing is very popular for so very early in the season, and early this week the beach was thronged with bathers.

Preparations for the special attractions of the season have also been stimulated. The prize list of the Long Branch open air horse show for its sixteenth annual exhibition, just issued, shows sixty classes for the five days' exhibition, with nearly $8,000 in cash prizes to be distributed. The bench show association, which numbers among its members the principal dog fanciers of the country, has added a number of special prizes.

De Boer, H. Woodley, Herman Kern, E. H. Alexander, H. Rolling, M. J. Gregory, John Manz, William May, A. C. Bode, R. Young, M. V. Stringham and J. E. Thompson.

Green insists that he is but fifteen years old, but those who know the family assert that he is nearer twenty and that he is trying to escape a State prison sentence.

The abrupt manner in which the Salem Common Council session came to a close Wednesday night by Mayor Gwynne's leaving the chamber was the talk of the town yesterday. The trouble arose over the introduction of a resolution by Mr. Steelman, a Republican from the East Ward, that no policeman be paid by council unless his appointment be confirmed by that body. The Mayor declared it out of order, but was not sustained. The policeman at whom the resolution is directed is Jacob Henderson, whose appointment has never been confirmed.

Our agency will show convincing evidence of 35 years extensive sale and highly satisfied users of the L. & M. Paint. All dealers in other paints combined cannot furnish equal evidence. When painting with L. & M. you are painting with Metal Zinc Oxide combined with White Lead. Zinc is imperishable and makes the L. & M. wear and cover like gold. Its colors remain bright and lasting. Don't need repaint for 10 to 15 years. Besides it cost one-third less for paint. Sold by Woolston & Buckle, Plainfield; H. C. Meyer, Scotch Plains; Edw. Pennock, Dunellen.

NOTICE!

CHARGES COLORED PAIR KEEPING "BABY FARM."

Hackensack, June 5.—Chief of Police Jacob Dunn yesterday arrested Rev. George Holland and his wife, Nancy, both colored, charging them with maintaining a "baby farm" in the Fairmount section of this city. The couple were sent to jail in default of bail, $750 being fixed for Mrs. Holland and $500 for her husband, who is charged with being an accomplice.

Chief Dunn said yesterday that he has damaging evidence against the couple. Mrs. Holland admitted yesterday that she was a midwife, but denied that any crimes had been committed at the home she conducted. Chief Dunn said he had located two colored girls who had been treated criminally at the home, and they have promised to testify against the Hollands. He declares he has also located a white woman who was treated at the place, and who is a resident of this city. He says he has secured much other evidence of a damaging nature.

SEARLE FOR ALLIANCE IN REFORMED CHURCH.

Rochester, N. Y., June 5.—Dr. J. Preston Searle, president of the New Brunswick, N. J., Theological Seminary, submitted a report at the afternoon session Thursday of the General Synod of the Reformed Church of America, in which he favored an alliance of the Reformed churches holding the Presbyterian system. The movement for this alliance is world-wide. Many reports of a routine character were submitted and committee work was transacted at the sessions of the synod Thursday.

At a memorial meeting tomorrow evening in Brick Presbyterian church, in celebration of the 400th birthday of John Calvin, Rev. Dr. David J. Burrell, of Marble Collegiate church, New York, will be the principal speaker.

FEW AUTOMOBILE TRAPS LEFT IN NEW JERSEY.

Traps for automobilists are rapidly disappering in New Jersey, according to J. B. R. Smith, commissioner of motor vehicles. At the present time there are less than half a dozen in the whole State, and one of those is operated in such a manner that is is welcomed by the department. The operator is now a department agent.

It is located near New Brunswick, and is at the home of Justice of the Peace Carver. The road on which he lives is one the direct route between New York and Philadelphia, and is much used by automobilists. A mile from the 'Squire's home is the beginning of a grade. The stretch is in perfect shape and tourists are apt to increase speed there to see what their machines can do.

As soon as the machine comes in sight it is just a mile from the lookout, and a knowledge of calculus is not necessary to learn whether or not teh owner has exceeded the speed there to see what their machines can do.

As soon as the machine comes in sight it is just a mile from the lookout, and a knowledge of calculus is not necessary to learn whether or not teh owner has exceeded the speed limit.

No attempt is made by the 'Squire to persecute the violators. They are simply dealt with according to the law, and in that way the squire has done much to make that road safe for team drivers.

There are several traps in South Jersey, but they are conducted in such a manner that it has not been found necessary to attempt to break them up.

Taken as a whole, Commissioner Smith has been so successful in wiping out the traps that with one or two exceptions tourists are not making complaints as they did a few years ago.

ROSALIND AT RED GATE

By MEREDITH NICHOLSON

Illustrations by RAY WALTERS

Copyright, 1907, by Bobbs-Merrill Company

"I've just had them sent to me; they're in the bank at Annandale. There's another thing you may not know. Old man Holbrook, who lived to be older than the hills, left a provision in his will that adds to the complications. Miss Pat may have mentioned that stuff in her father's will about the honor of the brothers—"

"She just mentioned it. Please tell me what you know of it."

He took out his pocket-book and read me this paragraph from a newspaper cutting:

And the said one million dollars hereinbefore specifically provided for shall, after the lapse of ten years, be divided between my said sons Henry and Arthur Holbrook, share and share alike; but if either of my said sons shall have been touched by dishonor through his own act, as honor is accounted, reckoned and valued among men, my said daughter Patricia to be the sole judge thereof, then he shall forfeit his share of said amount thus withheld, and the whole of said sum of one million dollars shall be adjudged to belong to the other son.

Gillespie lighted a cigarette and smoked quietly for several minutes, and when he spoke it was with deep feeling.

"I love that girl, Donovan. I believe she cares for me, or would if she could get out of all these entanglements. I'm almost ready to burn that packet and tell Miss Pat she's got to settle with Henry and be done with it. Let him spend his money and die in disgrace and go to the devil; anything is better than all this secrecy and mystery that enmeshes Helen. I'm going to end it; I'm going to end it!"

We had gone to the library, and he threw himself down in the chair from which she had spoken of him so short a time before that I seemed still to feel her presence in the room.

"Cheer up, lad! If we can't untie the knot we'll lose no time cutting the string. There may be some fun in this business before we get through with it."

I began telling him of some of my own experiences, and won him to a cheerier mood. When we came round to the Holbrooks again his depression had passed, and we were on the best of terms.

"But there's one thing we can't get away from, Donovan. I've got to protect Helen; don't you see? I've got to take care of her, whatever comes."

"But you can't take care of her father. He's hopeless."

"I could give him this money myself, couldn't I? I can do it, and I've about concluded that I ought to do it."

"But that would be a waste. It would be like giving whisky to a drunkard. Money has been at the bottom of all this trouble."

Gillespie threw up his hands with a gesture of helplessness.

"I shall undoubtedly lose such wits as I have if we don't get somewhere in this business pretty soon. But, Donovan, there's something I want to ask you. I don't like to speak of it, but when we were coming away from that infernal island, after our scrap with the dago, there were two people walking on the bluff—a man and a woman, and the woman was nearest us. She seemed to be purposely putting herself in the man's way so we couldn't see him. It didn't seem possible that Helen could be there—but?"

He clearly wished to be assured, and I answered at once:

"I saw them; it couldn't have been Helen. It was merely a similarity of figure. I couldn't distinguish her face at all. Very likely they were Port Annandale cottagers."

"I thought so myself," he replied, evidently relieved. It did not seem necessary to tell him of Rosalind at Red Gate; that was my secret, and I was not yet ready to share it.

"I've got to talk to somebody, and I want to tell you something, Donovan. I can't deny that there are times when Helen doesn't seem—well, all that I have thought her at other times. Sometimes she seems selfish and hard, and all that. And I know she hasn't treated Miss Pat right; it isn't square for her to take Miss Pat's bounty and then work against her. But I make allowances, Donovan."

"Of course," I acquiesced, wishing to cheer him. "So do I. She has been hard put in this business. And a man's love can't always be at par—or a woman's either! The only thing a man ought to exact of the woman he marries is that she put up a cheerful breakfast-table. Nothing else counts very much. Start the day right, hand him his gloves and a kind word at the front door as he sallies forth to the day's battle, and constancy and devotion will be her reward. I have spoken words of wisdom. Harken, O Chief Button-Maker of the World!"

Good humor mastered him again, and he grinned his delightful boyish grin.

"I'll tell you what I'll do for you, my lad," I said. "I'll arrange for you to see Helen to-night! You shall meet and talk and dance with her at Port Annandale casino, in the most conventional way in the world, with me for chaperon. By reason of being Mr Glenarm's guest here, I'm ex officio a member of the club. I'll manage everything. Miss Pat shall know nothing—all on one condition only."

"Well, name your price."

"That you shall not mention family affairs to her at all."

"God knows I shall be delighted to escape them!" His eyes brightened and he clapped his hands together. "I owe her a pair of gloves on an old wager. I have them in the village and will bring them over to-night," he said; but deception was not an easy game for him. I grinned and he colored.

"It's not money, Donovan," he said, as hurt as a misjudged child. "I won't lie to you. I was to meet her at St. Agatha's pier to-night to give her the gloves."

"You shall have your opportunity, but those meetings on piers won't do. I will hand her over to you at the casino at fine o'clock. I suppose I may have a dance or two?"

"I suppose so," he said, so grudgingly that I laughed aloud.

"Remember the compact; try to have a good time and don't talk of trouble," I enjoined, as we parted.

CHAPTER XXI.

A Blue Cloak and a Scarlet.

Miss Pat asked me to dine at St. Agatha's that night. The message came unexpectedly—a line on one of those quaint visiting-cards of hers, brought by the gardener; and when I had penned my acceptance I at once sent the following message by Ijima to the boat-maker's house at Red Gate:

"To Rosalind at Red Gate: It is important for you to appear with me at the Port Annandale casino to-night, and to meet Reginald Gillespie there. He is pledged to refer in no way to family affairs. If he should attempt to, you need only remind him of his promise. He will imagine that you are some one else, so please be careful not to tax his imagination too far. There is much at stake which I will explain later. You are to refuse nothing that he may offer you. I shall come into the creek with the launch and call for you at Red Gate.

"THE IRISHMAN AT GLENARM.

"The casino dances are very informal. A plain white gown and a few ribbons. But don't omit your emerald."

I was not sure where this project would lead me, but I committed myself to it with a fair conscience. I reached St. Agatha's just as dinner was announced and we went out at once to the small dining room used by the sister in charge during vacation, where I faced Miss Pat, with Helen on one hand and Sister Margaret on the other. They were all in good humor, even Sister Margaret proving less austere than usual, and it is not too much to say that we were a merry party. Helen led me with a particular intention to talk of Irish affairs, and avowed her own unbelief in the capacity of the Irish for self-government.

"Now, Helen!" admonished Miss Pat, as our debate waxed warm.

"Oh, do not spare me! I could not be shot to pieces in a better cause!"

"The trouble with you people," declared Helen with finality, "is that you have no staying qualities. The smashing of a few heads occasionally satisfies your islanders, then down go the necks beneath the yoke. You are incapable of prolonged war. Now, even the Cubans did better; you must admit that, Mr. Donovan!"

She met my eyes with a challenge. There was no question as to the animus of the discussion; she wished me to understand that there was war between us, and that with no great faith in my wit or powers of endurance she was setting herself confidently to the business of defeating my purpose. And I must confess that I liked it in her!

"If we had you for an advocate our flag would undoubtedly rule the seas, Miss Holbrook!"

"I dip my colors," she replied, "only to the long-enduring, not to the valiant alone!"

"A lady of high renown," I mused aloud, while Miss Pat poured the coffeet, "a lady of your own name, was once more or less responsible for a little affair that lasted ten years about the walls of a six-gated city."

"I wasn't named for her! No sugar to-night, please, Aunt Pat!"

I stood with her presently by an open window of the parlor, looking out upon the night. Sister Margaret had vanished about her household duties; Miss Pat had taken up a book with the rather obvious intention of leaving us to ourselves. I expected to start at eight for my rendezvous at Red Gate, and my ear was alert to the chiming of the chapel clock. The gardener had begun his evening rounds, and paused in the walk beneath us.

"Don't you think," asked Helen, "that the guard is rather ridiculous?"

"Yes, but it pleases my medieval instincts to imagine that you need defenders. In the absence of a moat the gardener combines in himself all the apparatus of defense. Ijima is his Asiatic ally."

"And you, I suppose, the grand strategist and field marshal."

"At least that!"

"After this morning I never expected to ask a favor of you; but if, in my humblest tone—"

"Certainly. Anything within reason."

"I want you to take me to the casino to-night to the dance. I'm tired of being cooped up here. I want to hear music and see new faces."

"Do pardon me for not having thought of it before! They dance over there every Wednesday and Saturday night. I'm sorry that to-night I have an engagement, but won't you allow me on Saturday?"

She was resting her arms on the high sill, gazing out upon the lake. I stood near, watching her, and as she sighed deeply my heart ached for her; but in a moment she turned her head swiftly with mischief laughing in her eyes.

"You have really refused! You have positively declined! You plead another engagement! This is a place where one's engagements are burdensome."

"This one happens to be important."

She turned round with her back to the window.

"We are eternal foes; we are fighting it out to a finish; and it is better that way. But, Mr. Donovan, I haven't played all my cards yet."

"I look upon you as a resourceful person and I shall be prepared for the worst. Shall we say Saturday night for the dance?"

"No!" she exclaimed, tossing her head. "And let me have the satisfaction of telling you that I could not have gone with you to-night, anyhow. Good-by."

I found Ijima ready with the launch at Glenarm pier, and, after a swift flight to the Tippecanoe, knocked at the door of Red Gate. Arthur Holbrook admitted me, and led the way to the room where, as his captive, I had first talked with him.

"I Am Tired of Being Cooped Up Here."

"We have met before," he said, smiling. "I thought you were an enemy at that time. Now I believe I may count you a friend."

"Yes; I should like to prove myself your friend, Mr. Holbrook."

"Thank you," he said, simply; and we shook hands. "You have taken an interest in my affairs, so my daughter tells me. She is very dear to me—she is all I have left; you can understand that I wish to avoid involving her in these family difficulties."

"I would cut off my right hand before I would risk injuring you or her, Mr. Holbrook," I replied, earnestly. "You have a right to know why I wish her to visit the casino with me to-night. I know what she does not know, what only two other people know; I know why you are here."

"I am very sorry; I regret it very much," he said, without surprise but with deep feeling. He would have said more, but I interrupted him.

"As far as I am concerned no one else shall ever know. The persons who know the truth about you are your brother and yourself. Strangely enough, Reginald Gillespie does not know. Your sister has not the slightest idea of it. Your daughter, I assume, has no notion of it—"

"No! no!" he exclaimed, eagerly. "She has not known; she has believed what I have told her; and now she must never know how stupid, how mad, I have been."

"To-night," I said, "your daughter and I will gain possession of the forged notes. Gillespie will give them to her; and I should like to hold them for a day or two."

He was pacing the floor and at this wheeled upon me with doubt and suspicion clearly written on his face.

"But I don't see how you can manage it!"

"Mr. Gillespie is infatuated with your niece."

"With Helen, who is with my sister at St. Agatha's."

"I have promised Gillespie that he shall see her to-night at the casino dance. Your sister is very bitter against him and he is mortally afraid of her."

"His father really acted very decently, when you know the truth. But I don't see how this is to be managed. I should like to possess myself of those papers, but not at too great a cost. More for Rosalind's sake than my own now, I should have them."

"You may not know that your daughter and her cousin are as like as two human beings can be. I am rather put to it myself to tell them apart."

"Their mothers were much alike, but they were distinguishable. If you are proposing a substitution of Rosalind for Helen, I should say to have a care of it. You may deceive a casual acquaintance, but hardly a lover."

"I have carried through worse adventures. Those documents must not get into—into—unfriendly hands! I have pledged myself that Miss Patricia shall be kept free from further trouble, and much trouble lies in those forged notes if your brother gets them. But I hope to do a little more than protect your sister; I want to get you all out of your difficulties. There is no reason for your remaining in exile. You owe it to your daughter to go back to civilization. And your sister needs you. You saved your brother once; you will pardon me for saying that you owe him no further mercy."

He thrust his hands into his pockets and paced the floor a moment, before he said:

"You are quite right. But I am sure you will be very careful of my little girl; she is all I have—quite all I have."

He went to the hall and called her and bowed with a graceful, old-fashioned courtesy that reminded me of Miss Pat as Rosalind came into the room.

"Will I do, gentlemen, all?" she asked, gayly. "Do I look the fraud I feel?"

She threw off a long scarlet cloak that fell to her heels and stood before us in white—it was as though she had stepped out of flame. She turned slowly round, with head bent, submitting herself for our inspection.

Her gown was perfectly simple, high at the throat and with sleeves that clasped her wrists. To my masculine eyes it was of the same piece and pattern as the gown in which I had left Helen at St. Agatha's an hour before.

"I think I read doubt in your mind," she laughed. "You must not tell me now that you have backed out; I shall try it myself, if you are weakening. I am anxious for the curtain to rise."

"There is only one thing: I suggest that you omit that locket. I dined with her to-night, so my memory is fresh."

She unclasped the tiny locket that hung from a slight band of velvet at her throat and threw it aside; and her father, who was not, I saw, wholly reconciled to my undertaking, held the cloak for her and led the way with a lantern through the garden and down to the waterside and along the creek to the launch where Ijima was in readiness. We quickly embarked, and the launch stole away through the narrow shores, Holbrook swinging his lantern back and forth in good-by. I had lingered longer at the boat-maker's than I intended, and as we neared the upper lake and the creek broadened Ijima sent the launch forward at full speed. When we approached Battle Orchard I bade him stop, and hiding our lantern I took an oar and guided the launch quietly by. Then we went on into the upper lake at a lively clip. Rosalind sat quietly in the bow, the hood of her cloak gathered about her head.

I was taking steering directions from Ijima, but as we neared Port Annandale I glanced over my shoulder to mark the casino pier lights when Rosalind sang out:

"Hard aport—hard!"

I obeyed, and we passed within oar's length of a sailboat, which, showing no light, but with mainsail set, was loafing leisurely before the light west wind. As we veered away I saw a man's figure at the wheel, another figure showed darkly against the cuddy.

"Hang out your lights!" I shouted, angrily. But there was no reply.

"The Stiletto," muttered Ijima, starting the engine again.

"We must look out for her going back," I said, as we watched the sloop merge into shadow.

The lights of the casino blazed cheerily as we drew up to the pier, and Rosalind stepped out in good spirits, catching up and humming the waltz that rang down upon us from the clubhouse.

"Lady," I said, "let us see what lands we shall discover."

"I ought to feel terribly wicked, but I really never felt cheerfuller in my life," she averred. "But I have one embarrassment!"

"Well?"—and we paused, while she dropped the hood upon her shoulders.

"What shall I call this gentleman?"

"What does she call him? I'm blest if I know! I call him Buttons usually; Knight of the Rueful Countenance might serve; but very likely she calls him Reggie."

"I will try them all," she said. "I think we used to call him Reggie on Strawberry Hill. Very likely he will detect the fraud at once and I shan't get very far with him."

"You shall get as far as you please. Leave it to me. He shall see you first on the veranda overlooking the water where there are shadows in plenty, and you had better keep your cloak about you until the first shock of meeting has passed. Then if he wants you to dance, I will hold the cloak, like a faithful chaperon, and you may muffle yourself in it the instant you come out; so even if he has his suspicions he will have no time to indulge them. He is undoubtedly patrolling the veranda, looking for us even now. He's a faithful knight!"

As we passed the open door the dance ceased and a throng of young people came gayly out to take the air. We joined the procession, and were accepted without remark. Several men whom I had seen in the village or met in the highway nodded amiably. Gillespie, I knew, was waiting somewhere; and I gave Rosalind final admonitions.

"Now be cheerful! Be cordial! In case of doubt grow moody, and look out upon the water, as though seeking an answer in the stars. Though I seem to disappear I shall be hanging about with an eye for danger signals. Ah! He approaches! He comes!"

Gillespie advanced eagerly, with happiness alight in his face.

"Helen!" he cried, taking her hand; and to me: "You are not so great a liar after all, Irishman."

"Oh, Mr. Donovan is the kindest person imaginable," she replied, and turned her head daringly so that the light from a window fell full upon her, and he gazed at her with frank, boyish admiration. Then she drew her wrap about her shoulders, and as I walked away her laughter followed me cheerily.

If the reader has a "bad back" or any kidney ill and is looking for relief and cure, better depend on the only remedy endorsed by people you know. Doan's Kidney Pills relieve quickly—cure permanently. Plainfield citizens testify to this. Here is a case of it:

A. C. Lazzi, 44 Elm place, Plainfield, N. J., says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills off and on for five years and from my experience feel that I cannot give them too much praise. I have to do a great deal of stooping at my work and I think that my kidneys became weakened in this way. I suffered from a dull, grinding pain in my back, and also had attacks of rheumatism. Another source of annoyance was the irregular action of the kidney secretions. While suffering from a spell of this trouble, I began using Doan's Kidney Pills, procured from Randolph's Pharmacy and shortly after I was well again. Since then hard work has brought on one or two slight attacks of backache but a few doses of Doan's Kidney Pills have never failed to give me instant relief."

BEER AT 8 A. M., YES? YOU'RE A BUM.

Judge Mahon, of Elizabeth, So Tells a Sad Arrival In His Court.

Judge Mahon, in addressing Patrick Boland, a prisoner arraigned before him at Elizabeth yesterday on a charge of being drunk and disorderly, defined a man who drinks beer at 8 o'clock in the morning as a "first-class bum." This was said by the Judge when Boland admitted going into the saloon of the mhan who complained against him at that hour in the morning.

Boland was arrested Thursday afternoon at the Alexian Hospital by Officer Colvell on a warrant. He was charged with acting disorderly in the saloon of Michael Matura.

The prisoner denied the charge and made counter allegations against the complainant, who, he said, kicked him and knocked him into a cellar eight feet deep. Boland said his injuries were so bad that he had to be taken to the hospital.

Judge Mahon allowed the prisoner his liberty with the understanding that he return to his home, which he said was Passaic street, Newark.

TO REVOKE BETZ'S AUTO CERTIFICATE.

N. J. Commissioner Charges Philadelphia With Speeding In Monmouth County.

Commissioner Smith yesterday notified John F. Betz, third, of Philadelphia, that he would revoke Mr. Betz's registration certificate, No. 12,659, on next Tuesday. He also sent Mr. Betz a notice to show cause on that day why his driver's licence, No. 15,328, should not be revoked.

Mr. Smith, in explaining the reason for this summary action, said that the car was being driven on Saturday last at a terrific rate of speed in Monmouth county; that one of the special inspectors observed the car and undertook to stop it. Upon the occupants of the Betz car observing that they were being pursued, they greatly increased their speed, and although they were followed by the inspector's car for several miles at a rate upward of fifty miles an hour, the Betz car steadily gained and finally escaped.

To Abandon Morris Canal.

A proposition having in view the ultimate abandonment of the Morris Canal was considered yesterday at a conference among Governor Fort, Attorney General Wilson, former Justice Bennett Van Sykel, of the Supreme Court; ex-Attorney General Robert H. McCarter and Chandler W. Riker. The participants decline to make public the details, but it was said that a tentative plan had been agreed upon which would be agreed to on behalf of the State.

ERIE SHOPS WILL GO TO PATERSON.

Company to Acquire the Cooke Locomotive Works for a General Repair Plant.

The Erie Railroad Company is negotiating to acquire the big Cooke Locomotive Works at Paterson, and it is said on good authority that its Jersey City shops will be transferred to that city. The deal for the Paterson plant, it is said, is all but perfected.

The Erie needs the room in the Jersey City yards for terminal facilities. These facilities will be greatly enlarged when the open cut through the Heights is completed.

Paterson is on the main line of the Erie and is also on the line of the New York, Susquehanna and Western Railroad, which the Erie controls.

The Jersey City repair shops are located on Twelfth street, east of Provost street. About 400 men are employed there, but many of these live out of town along the line of the Erie.

THREATEN ARRESTS IF BALL IS PLAYED SUNDAY.

Atlantic City, June 5.—Several ministers called on Recorder Keffer yesterday morning and asked him to sit on Sunday, prepared to issue warrants for the arrest of those who are said to intend conducting a game of baseball at the Inlet Park next Sunday. The ministers say they will do everything in their power to stop the ball games on Sunday.

The recorder told them he would not sit around and wait for them in anticipation of trouble, but that he would be back and forth between his offices and the city hall, and would be where they could find him if they wanted him. He told them they could get warrants from any of the justices of the peace and proceed against the ball people under the vice and immorality act. The game scheduled for Sunday is between the Philadelphia Athletics and the Reading team, of the Tri-State League.

Frost has purchased a valuable plot of ground on the south side of Park avenue, between Second street and the railroad, where the new home of the Courier-News Publishing Company will be located when a three-story fire proof building is erected. The structure will be built on the ground between the Stirling building and the Boice Runyon Company structure. The newspaper plant will occupy the first floor and basement.

Intercedes for Old Ball Player.

When Edward Fox was called from the prison pen in the First Criminal Court, Jersey City, yesterday to answer a charge of intoxication, the prisoner was recognized by Roundsman Sniffen, a baseball enthusiast, as the once clever shortstop who played with the St. Louis team a quarter of a century ago. He interceded with Judge Farmer for the old ball player, who was paroled.

SEEK TO OUST TEACHERS.

By a vote of 6 to 3 the Board of Education of Bayonne on Thursday night passed an amendment to its rules by which it may discharge any teacher employed by it without a hearing. All teachers formerly held their places during the good behavior and efficiency and were not dismissed without proved cause. It is believed by the State Teachers' Association that this move is an attempt to evade the new tenure of office law recently pased by the State Legislature. The association's president, Miss Elizabeth Allen, of Hoboken, learned of the intended action and endeavored to forestall it.

Trustee W. W. Anderson spoke at length against it, but without avail. The teachers will hold a meeting to protest. Miss Allen has already retained counsel to contest the move.

DROWNED AT ATLANTIC CITY.

Atlantic City, June 5.—Cards found in the clothing of a man found drowned on the beach at midnight, lead the police to believe the victim is William Parker Bonbright, aged 25 years, son of a prominent resident of Haverford, Pa., a suburb of Philadelphia.

The man hired a bathing suit Thursday morning and entered the water for a surf bath. Nothing more was seen of him until the body was found on the sands.

The bathing house reported that the man's clothing had been unclaimed, and a lookout was kept along the beach for the body.

TELLS FLAG'S HISTORY

John M. Whiton Addressess High School Pupils on Country's Emblem.

BETSY ROSS' HANDIWORK.

The American Banner Represents Freedom and Nobler Civilization, Speaker Says.

John M. Whiton, superintendent of the Congregational Sunday-school, delivered an excellent address on "The History of the Flag" in connection with the opening exercises at the Plainfield High School this morning. Tracing the history of a National flag from the days of the Roman standards, surmounted by the eagle of Rome, the speaker said that the first cloth flag was the banner carried by William the Conquerer in his invasion of England in 1066. This flag was the red cross, the symbol of St. George, on a white field, and had been blessed by the Pope at the start of the invasion. Mr. Whiton told of the various changes in the English flag made by James I and Queen Anne.

In speaking of the United States, Mr. Whiton said that at first the American colonists did not have a regular flag, but used various emblems, as in the ante-Revolutionary days when the pine tree and the serpent were used as symbols. A blue flag with a silver crescent was used by General Moultrie's forces in the Revolution. Washington adapted the first striped flag when he took command of the American forces at Cambridge. This had thirteen red and white stripes, and the emblem of St. George in the corner. Admiral John Paul Jones carried the first American flag to be used at sea on his ship in 1812. This was the "pine tree flag."

The present flag, the stars and stripes, was adapted by a committee of prominent men, including George Washington, Roger Sherman and George Ross in 1777, and was made by Betsy Ross. It had thirteen red and white stripes and thirteen stars on a blue field. The red stood for war, and white for peace and the blue for truth; the stars in a circle meant endless union. "This flag," said Mr. Whiton; "meant that the endless union of the thirteen States was founded on truth, devoted to peace, but ready to defend itselg in war." The flag first flew at Fort Stenwick in 1778, and was victorious.

In concluding his talk, Mr. Whiton said: "Our flag represents freedom for the oppressed and a nobler civilization, and there is none other flying with its history or with its mission. It stands for liberty and life and the coming dawn, and you can see written upon it our past and future history and the hopes of our great Republic."

WORLD'S STRENGTH IS WITH THE WOMAN

"The strength of the world is with woman," said the Rev. Dr. Otis A. Glazebrook in St. John's Episcopal Church at Elizabeth yesterday afternoon in addressing the baccalureate sermon to the graduating class of the Vail-Deane school. The sermon throughout voiced a glowing tribute to women and the part they have played and can play in the world's work.

The church was filled with the school faculty and friends and relatives of the graduates. Members of the junior class who acted as ushers and led the procession through the body of the church to their seats were the Misses Anna Kempshall, Marjorie Patterson, Helen Grow and Elizabeth Walls.

Dr. Glazebrook's text was Psalm 144, verse 12, "That our daughters may be as corner stones, polished after the similitude of the palace."

"Although we think that woman is the product of Christianity," he said, "I think that her character has done more for her than religion. The ideal of woman should be strength and duty; a strong woman is always safe. Woman is the corner stone of the home and the salvation of society. The glory of the home lies in the gentle wife, the loving obedient daughter and the mother. The strength of the world is with woman, not with man."

Dislikes Retired Life.

When a man devotes fifty-four years of his life to one calling it is not surprising that he does not quickly shake off the habits of a lifetime. Joseph A. Haynes, the veteran station agent of the Jersey Central at Plainfield, although retired recently, is frequently seen about the railroad station, uneasy at the restrains of the inactivity so kindly thrust upon him by the railroad company.—New York Tribune.

SMART SET TO ATTEND MISS HALL'S MARRIAGE

All those of the smart set who retain their membership of St. George's, Stuyvesant Square, New York, will assemble on Wednesday in that church for the wedding there of its rector, the Rev. Hugh Birckhead, to Miss Caroline Minturn Hall, daughter of Mrs. David Prescott Hall and dranddaughter of the venerable Mrs. Julia Ward Howe, who recently celebrated her ninetieth birthday.

Bishop Greer, assisted by the Rev. Dr. William M. Grosvenor, will perform the ceremony. Philip G. Birckhead will act as his brother's best man, and the ushers will be John and Henry M. Hall, Donald McKay Frost, Walter G. Lane, William G. Low, Jr., Dr. Reginald S. Sayre and Frank E. Hagemeyer. Miss Laura and Miss Rosalind Richards, Miss Marion and Miss Louise Clark and Miss Margery and Miss Eleanor Swan will be in attendance on the bride.

Following the ceremony there will be a reception in the Memorial House adjoining the church, and a few days later the newly married couple will sail for Europe to spend the summer abroad.

BLUE RIBBONERS HERE FOR THE HORSE SHOW

About forty thoroughbred horses, a majority of them blue ribboners, arrived here yesterday from Philadelphia, where they were shown at the show held at St. Martin's Green, last week. This will give the grooms plenty of time to get their charges in fine condition for the annual horse show to be held here Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Judging by the large entry list and the number of horses already in Plainfield, the coming show will doubtless be the best in the history of the Plainfield Riding and Driving Club. Among the horses now here are those owned by Paul S. Sorg, J. W. Harriman, Miss Emily Bedford, Mrs. Sophie D. Gummey, William Simpson, S. Taber Willets, R. P. McGrann, R. L. Patterson and a host of others.

The increased accommodations at the horse show grounds makes it possible for the owners to give their horses the best of care. There will be new arrivals of horses every day now until Thursday, when the show will begin. A large force of men has been at work putting the handsome grounds in condition for the annual affair and with favorable weather conditions there should be a record-breaking attendance of people from all parts of the Metropolitan district and throughout New Jersey, as well as Philadelphia. The horses now here were shipped yesterday by special train from Philadelphia, and under the direction of Charles English, traffic manager of the New Jersey, there was not a mishap of any kind.

Three handsome trophies to be competed for at the show, namely the "Dr. Selwonk challenge cup," offered by Reginald C. Vanderbilt; the Thomas W. Lawson and the Plainfield Riding and Driving Club cups, are now on exhibition at L. W. Randolph's drug store.

Excommunicate Her.

Mrs. Della M. Gilbert, the former reader in the Dyker Heights Church of Christ Scientist in the Bay Ridge district of Brookyln, who gave out a public statement Saturday night to all members of the Christian Science church, voicing her belief that Mrs. Mary Baker G. Eddy was at present "either dead or a helpless, mindless puppet," was dropped from the rolls of church membership last May. This statement was made yesterday by Alfred Farlow, of the Boston publication committee of the church, through the New York office of the State committee here.

Work of the Baptists in the State.

Rev. J. E. R. Folsom, field secretary for the New Jersey Baptist convention, will give an illustrated lecture in the First Baptist church, Wednesday night, devoted to a description of the work of the convention among the Baptists of the state. Admission will be free and the public is invited.

Received Twelve New Members.

Twelve new members were received at the communion service in Trinity Reformed church yesterday morning by Rev. John Y. Broek, pastor. Of the number seven were on confession, six being from the Sunday-school, and five were by letter.

Two new members were received at the communion service at the First Baptist church, yesterday.

JUNE 19 TO BE TAG DAY

Yes, Everybody May Wear a King's Daughters' Badge That Day.

HELPING A WORTHY CAUSE.

Mrs. Edward F. Feickert Chairman of Committee to Manage the Tagging Campaign.

At a meeting this morning of the Tag Day committee of the City Union of The King's Daughters, it was decided to make June 19 a "tag" day for the benefit of its various charities. The committee is composed of the following women:

Mrs. E. F. Feicket, chairman; Mrs. F. W. Butler, Mrs. D. M. Van-Vliet, Mrs. C. Frank French, Miss Dorothy Fleming, Miss Helen Timpson, Mrs. A. M. Most, Mrs. L. N. Laggren, Mrs. J. A. Peterkin, Mrs. J. C. Peck and Mrs. Frederick Ball.

Everybody in Plainfield is familiar with the work of the King's Daughters. The city nurse, who made over 1,700 visits last year to people who had no way of paying for the services of a nurse; The Day Nursery, which cares for an average of over 200 children a month, children who but for this charity would be left on the streets, or alone in their homes, while their mothers are away working during the day; also the camp on the mountain for sick babies, where over 300 small children were cared for during the summer months of last year.

The scope of all these charities could be much increased if the organization was not so handicaped by lack of funds. The Kink's Daughters have therefore decided to adopt the "tag" day method of raising funds, not asking for a great deal from anyone, but a little from everyone. It is hoped that everybody in town will wear a King's Daughters' badge before the end of the day on June 19. The tags will be offered for sale by a number of workers for whatever people choose to pay for them. People are requested not to be deterred from buying one because they cannot afford to pay much for it, but on the other hand, be as generous as possible in determining how much a tag is worth to them. No one is expected to purchase more than one tag, and if already "tagged" no more tags will be offered to such person.

The following women will act as chaperones at the various clubs on June 19, and will be assisted by committees of young women who will actively engage in the "tagging": The Watchung Hunt Club, Mrs. F. W. Butler; the Plainfield Country Club, Mrs. Frederick W. Yates; the Park Club, Mrs. Frederick Ball; the dog show, Mrs. Henry L. Hall.

FUNERAL SERVICES OF MRS. JOHN F. VAN HOESEN

The funeral service of Mrs. John F. Van Hoesen was held from the late residence on West Sixth street, yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock. There was a large attendance of relatives and friends. Rev. Edwin Shaw, pastor of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, of which Mrs. Van Hoesen was an attendant, officiated. During the service a quartet comprising Mr. and Mrs. David E. Titsworth, Mrs. William C. Hubbard and Charles P. Titsworth sang "Asleep in Jesus," and "Abide With Me."

The remains were placed in a vault in Hillside Cemetery, until fall, when they will be buried at Preble, N. Y. The pall-bearers were Joseph M. Wilcox, Arthur L. Titsworth, Fred VanHoesen, David E. Titsworth, Frank J. Hubabrd and D. VaLois St. John.

Musical Service.

The special musical program given at the Congregational church last night was greatly enjoyed by a large congregation. The numbers "Remember Now Thy Creator," and "By the Cross Stood Mary Weeping," sung by the quartet consisting of C. L. Lewis, William Smith, M. C. Van Arsdale and E. E. Runyon, were much enjoyed. Miss Marion Winant, soprano, sang the "Angles Serenade," by Braga. The instrumental music was in charge of Mrs. B. T. Barnes, organist; Miss Alice L. Morgan, pianist, and Robert Hume, violinist.

EDWARD SEADER HELD FOR MIDDLESEX OFFICERS

Edward Seader, a hackman, who lives on Race street, was arrested for vagrancy last night by Roundsman Higgins, who found him sleeping in a livery stable at Watchung avenue and Fifth street. The prisoner, who is but sixteen years of age, was questioned by Chief Kiely at police headquarters, and confessed to the theft of about $16 from a merry-go- round property at Dunellen a short time ago. The Dunellen police reported that nearly $30 was taken, but Seader said he "left some."

At his hearing before City Judge Runyon this morning, sentence was suspended on the vagrancy charge, but the young man was remanded for the Middlesex county authorities. Marshal Sliney, of Dunellen, was notified of his arrest. Seader started his police record when he was thirteen years of age, and this is the fourth time he has been in the toils.

HEART ATTACK WHEN RUNNING FOR A TRAIN

Attacked with heart trouble while running for a train Saturday afternoon, George Good, a New York architect, staggered into Armstrong's drug store at about 6 o'clock and fell to the floor. The druggist relieved the attack and Dr. T. S. Davis was summoned. The injured man was removed to the hospital, where he is considerably improved today.

Mr. Good, who had been in this city on business, gave his address as 161 West Thirty-sixth street, but inquiry there revealed the fact that he is not known at that address. He is thirty-seven years old. He stopped in this city on his return from Somerville, where he had been on business earlier in the day. Concluding his call here, he had but little time to make his train, and ran up Park avenue toward the station. Pedestrians, seeing him stagger with the attack of anginia pectoris, supported him and led him into the drug store.

VOCAL SOLOISTS FOR CHARTER DAY CONCERTS

"Could You Grow Fond of a Nice Young Blond If You Loved a Sweet Brunette?" That's the title of "Ted" Snyder's latest song, and he's going to sing it at the opening meeting of the Charter Day celebration, to be held in the city park Monday afternoon, July 5. Former Mayor L. V. F. Randolph and "Former-Orator" James E. Martine will speak.

Bandmaster "Ben" Le Vere, of the music committee in charge of the celebration, has arranged for some of the leading popular singers from New York musical houses to come to this city during the celebration and sing at the various meetings and the band concerts. In addition to that "beautiful litttle two-verse ballad" the title of which forms the first sentence of this story, Snyder will sing "Beautiful Eyes," "Let's Go Back to Babyland," and "Under the Irish Skies." The singers already secured include Ernest Ball, David Reed, John J. Nestor, "Eddie" Weston, "Bert" Fitzgibbon, "Jack" Elliott, "Billy" Murray, "Billy" Redmond, and William Fowler, music composers whose singing will be remembered as features of band concerts in past years.

PUPILS IN COMIC OPERA

Young Singers at the P. H. S. Score Success in "Trial by Jury."

AT A SCHOOL MUSICALE.

Mrs. George M. Sellick and Mrs. Violet Truell—Johnston Take Part in Program of School Choruses.

Pupils of the Plainfield High School scored decided success in the presentation of Gilbert and Sullivan's comic opera "Trial by Jury," at the school auditorium Saturday night, when the operetta was presented in connection with a musicale by the school pupils, assisted by Mrs. George Milton Sellick, of New York, soprano; Mrs. Violet Truell-Johnston, violiniste, and Frank J. Smith, pianist. The affair was arranged by Charles L. Lewis, singing instructor at the city schools, and he was assisted by Mrs. Minnie Marshall Smith and Mr. Smith.

The occasion marked the first local presentation of "Trial by Jury," one of Sir Arthur Sullivan's most noted composition, the words of which are by W. S. Gilbert. The parts were taken by pupils of the school, with the exception of the role of the Judge, which was sung by Samuel B. Howe, Jr., of the school faculty.

Miss Olive Lockwood, a soprano, sang the part of the plaintiff with great effect, and her acting was especially praiseworthy. In the opera, she is the "deserted-at-the-altar" bride of the defendant, the part of whom was taken by F. Clyde Doane, whose singing and acting won genuine aplause. Guion H. Fountain was successful as counsel for the plaintiff, and was in especially fine voice. The singing and acting of Charles E. Prier, Jr., foreman of the jury, and LeRoy Titsworth, the court usher, also won applause. The parts of the bridesmaids were taken by the Misses Bird, Bristol Brower, Brown, Eckert, Pennock, Phillips and Waldron, who appeared gowned in white and carrying ropes of roses. The stage business between the bridesmaids and the jurymen was excellent.

A chorus of pupils sang in four of the seven numbers which formed the first part of the program. The selections were the pilgrims' chorus from "Tannhauser"; "Song of the Triton," Molly; "A Merry Life," Denza; "O Captain, My Captain!" poem by Walt Whitman, music by Edgar S. Kelly; the bridal chorus from Cowan's "Rose Maiden", and two choruses from "The Redemption," by Gounod.—"Unfold, Ye Portals" and "From His Love as a Father." Mr. Lewis led the singing. Mrs. Sellick sang a soprano obligato for the last two choruses. She also sang "Parla", by Arditi, "The Autumn Song", Salter, and Gounod-Bach's "Ave Maria". The violin part in this was taken by Mrs. Violet Truell-Johnston, who won applause by her rendition of a Romanza by Svendsen and "Souvenir," by Drdle.

MRS. JANET WILSON DIED IN SEVENTY-EIGHTH YEAR

Mrs. Janet Wilson, widow of James Wilson, aged 77 years, died Saturday night at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. William H. Manning, at 521 East Third street, from a complication of diseases. She was born in Strathaven, Scotland, and came to this country eighteen years ago. She and her husband lived at Kidder, Missouri, for several years and removed to Plainfield nine years ago. She is survived by three daughters, Mrs. William H. Manning, of this city; Mrs. William McIntosh, of Hartwell, Ohio; Mrs. Nellie Davis, of Sandy, Utah and two sons, James Wilson, of Monticello, Iowa, and William Wilson, of Davenport, Iowa. EVANS INTERLOCUTOR IN "TOM" MUIR BENEFIT

Benjamin W. Evans, whose face was the white spot in the burnt-cork semi-circle at the Hope Chapel minstrel show, will be the interlocutor at the mammoth benefit minstrel performance to be given for "Tom" Muir at the New Plainfield theatre Friday and Saturday nights of next week. "Ben" will be there the "Well, Mr. Bones, tell us what it was you saw as you were walking down the street yesterday afternoon," and has been rehearsing the clever cross fire stuff with the endmen.

The first rehearsal in the theatre will be tonight, when the chorus of 150 will meet there to go over the music under the supervision of City Judge Runyon. The seats for the big black-face company are now in course of construction. They will be built on the stage in six tiers, and in front will be a row of chairs. Rehearsals will be held nightly this week at the theatre, for End-Man W. J. Counihan has no shows billed there and has turned over the use of the house to the minstrel men. Aside from the solos by the endmen, William F. Tallamy, William Holmes and J. R. Irwin, of Roselle, will sing alone for the good cause.

For a great many years she sang at Grace Episcopal church, this city, and won many honors as a soloist. She also sang at a number of private musicales. She never appeared as a public singer.

ENDS LIFE ON BIRTHDAY

While Suffering from Temporary Insanity, Frank H. Coward Kills Himself.

HELD IN HIGH ESTEEM.

Depressed by Business Reverses, Wealthy Man Commits Rash Deed—Wife and Child Survive.

Slashing throat, wrists and legs in a fit of despondency at his home, 77 Sanford avenue, yesterday afternoon at about 5 o'clock, Frank H. Coward, a retired shoe man, fatally wounded himself and died shortly afterward. He ended his life on his fifty-third birthday and it is believed that he was tempeorarily insane at the time.

To make death absolutely certain, Coward had swallowed iodine before slashing himself with a razor. He inflicted ten fatal wounds while sitting in the bath-tub, gashing his throat from ear to ear and cut both wrists and the calves of both legs. Death was due to loss of blood.

Mr. Coward, who is survived by his second wife and a daughter, Angelina, two years old, spent the early part of the afternoon on the piazza with his family. At about 4 o'clock went into the house, saying that he did not feel well. An hour later Mrs. Coward smelled the odor of iodine and going to investigate found her husband in the bath-tub bleeding profusely.

Rushing to the telephone, Mrs. Coward summoned Dr. Edward Rushmore, and afterwards notified police headquarters. Chief Kiely and Drs. Corbusier and Lufburrow arrived before Dr. Rushmore came, and stopped the bleeding by stitching up the wounds. Mr. Coward made repeated efforts to tear off the bandages. He was removed quickly to the hospital, but died before the institution was reached.

Mr. Coward, who owns considerable valuable property in both city and borough, and was held in high esteem here, was a shoe salesman for Powell Brothers & Company, of Duane street, New York city, up to about a year ago, when he retired from business. He had planed to start in business as a shoe manufacturer, but a notification from the Coward Shoe Company, it is said, that legal trouble would follow any move to use his name in the shoe manufacturing business had caused him to abandon the project. The matter caused him considerable worry and is said by some of his friends to have been the cause of the nervous breakdown which led to his suicide. Mr. Coward had been a patient at a sanatarium on two different occasions, when he was threatened with a nervous collapse, and left the sanatarium at Wernersville, Pa., a month ago. The funeral will be private.

The chairman of the carnival committee is Theodore Shirley. Mrs. Edward Fiering will have charge of women's auxiliary tent.

Musical Service at St. Stephen's.

Special music was a feature at the evening service of St. Stephen's church yesterday, when Rev. Samuel A. Chapman, of Greenwood Lake, preached an excellent sermon on "Faith." The vested choir of fifteen voices was assisted by the rector, Rev. Morgan Ashley, who sang a solo, "Just As I Am." Miss Emily Lacey sang "Now the Day is Over." The music was in charge of Choirmaster Charles M. Suhr, who was at the organ. There was a large attendance.

Will Build Modern Stables.

Work was started this morning on the foundation for the three-story modern stables to be erected on West Second street by Woolston & Buckle. It will be built directly back of the firm's North avenue building, and when completed will be occupied by The Plainfield Cab Company. Edward V. French, the architect, of North avenue, has drawn the plans for the structure, which is to be complete in every respect and fire-proof.

TOUCH-BUTTONS.

If you were an employer would you be glad to employ your present self?

Accomplish something every hour and your achievements will make history.

Tact is a mixture of sympathy, common sense an dforethought, with a little dash of make-believe.

Even punctuality may sometimes be purchased at the dear price of a flustered mentality.

Ask yourself: What sort of business would it be if every man in it were just like yourself?

A theme for a book: The etnical obligation and the commercial value of being well dressed.

What is your weakest point?

Nothing dulls the keen edge of life quicker than the spirit of "What's the use?" To appreciate the use of little things sharpens every thought.

Set a mark for yourself. It's an old story, but try it. It has been said over and over because men have found that it works.—Waldo P. Warren, Collier's.

SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS

The Vineland Country Club has elected former State Senator Philip P. Baker president.

Rt. Rev. Bishop McFaul is entertaining Rev. Dr. A. L. Lambert, editor-in-chief of the New York Freedmen's Journal.

George B. Fithian, an old resident of Camden, died Friday at his home, 527 North Third street, seventy-five years old.

Members of the senior '10 February class of the State Normal school at Trenton, presented a burlesque on "Julius Caesar," in the auditorium of that institution Saturday night.

Simon Becker, a pioneer farmer, aged seventy-two years, dropped dead on the street in Vineland, Friday. His wife has been very ill,and it is believed the worry brought on heart failure.

William Huston, the eighteen-month-old child who was struck by a train at Fish House, died at the Cooper Hospital, Camden, Friday. The baby had suffered a compound fracture of the skull.

In honor of his seventy-fifth birthday, F. F. Patterson, Sr., collector of the port of Camden, received a shower of postal cards Friday, and was surprised to find his office door at the federal building decorated with the national colors.

Atlantic City beach-front assessments already based on a valuation of $22,000 a front foot, will be given a boost as a result of the assessors discovery that recent sales have raised the value of lands along the esplanade. At least $400 a foot will be added to the valuation.

Alleged to have been one of the three men who held up and robbed members of the crew of the boat Sprinfield on the river Wednesday night, a man giving the name of John Boyle, of Coledale, Pa., was Friday committed to the county jail without bail by Mayor Gabel.

Residents of May's Landing were treated to a rare sight when a large doe walked out of the forest and leisurely strolled down Second street to the courthouse yard and entered. She played around for sometime until frightened, when she returned to the woods.

When Edward Fox was called from the prison pen in the First Criminal Court, Jersey City, to answer to a charge of intoxication, the prisoner was recognized by Roundsman Sniffen, a baseball enthusiast as the once clever shortstop who played with the St. Louis team a quarter of a century ago. He interceded with Judge Farmer for the old ball player, who was paroled.

"Harry and I were married in Atlantic City on Sunday," was the telegram received by Mrs. Frank A. Shock, of Ocean City, from her daughter, Miss Marie B. Shock. The Harry referred to is Harry L. McCullough, son of a rubber manufacturer in Philadelphia. The bride wrote to her mother that she"wanted to escape a lot of fuss," so she and Harry made up their minds to marry quietly.

A dog supposed to be suffering with rabies dashed along Kaighn avenue, Camden, and when near Third street, leaped upon Charles Shuster, aged eight years, of 281 Liberty street, and bit the boy on the face. The animal then attacked Joseph M. Meurer, aged seven years, of 271 Liberty street, and bit a piece out of the child's face. Policeman Gilbert killed the dog,whose head will be sent to the University of Pennsylvania for examination.

The authorities believe they are on the trail of the automobilist who last Saturday night ran down Miss Fannie Marlatt, seventeen-year-old daughter of Alexander Marlett, on the road between Toms River and Lakewood. The young woman was dragged twenty paces before the car was stopped. At the time the occupants of the car refused to give their names. The number of the car was taken, however, and a search of the records at Albany showed that Mozart M. Lesser, of 252 West Eighty-fifth street, New York, was the only person authorized to carry it.

ALL FURNACES IN BLAST.

More Activity in Steel Manufacture Than for Years.

Pittsburg, June 7.—The announcement is made here that by July 1 every blast furnace in the Pittsburg and the Shenango Valley districts will be running in full.

The Cambria Steel Company and other Western Pennsylvania concerns were Saturday awarded contracts aggregating $500,000 for equipment of the Inter-Ocean Steel Company's plant in Chicago Heights, Ill. The plant will occupy eighty acres of land and it is proposed to manufacture wheels for locomotives, car equipment, rolled steel sheets, etc. There are but three like works in the country, none of which is west of Pittsburg.

REPORT SEEING SEA SERPENT.

Fishermen, Residents of a "Dry" Town, Declare They Saw Reptile in the Pacific.

Guy Griffith, James Harvey and three other fishermen who were out in the launch Reta, report that when 18 miles off the coast they sighted a sea serpent 40 feet long, with a brown head as big around as a small barrel and eyes as large as a man's fist. The serpent is said to have moved its head from side to side as a snake does, and had a big dorsal fin 15 feet back of the head.

The fishermen say the same monster has been reported within the last few months near the Philippines and along the northern coast of this country.

They furthermore aver that a heavy sinker, which one of the five threw at the sea serpent as the boat was pulling away from the unsafe neighborhood, was caught in the creature's mouth and spit back with such force as to make a deep dent in the fish box on deck.

"Never saw such a spitter," said one of the men; "just like a young cannon." Long Beach is a "dry" town. —Long Beach (Cal.) Dispatch to the New York World.

HAVE PROPER SELF-RESPECT.

One of the Greatest Mistakes Possible to Make Is That of Holding Oneself Too Cheap.

Do not hold yourself too cheap. If you do not think well of yourself others are not likely to think much of you. You are usually taken at your own value. By this is not meant a foolish self-conceit, but a proper self-respect.

Have a regard for the esteem of those whose opinion is worth having. No one can be admired by all. He who has no enemies may doubt whether he has real friends. Try to win the regard of the good and the wise; if the foolish take offense pass it by.

Think too well of yourself to stoop to anything coarse, mean or untrue. However humble your station in life may be, you may think yourself worthy only of that which is good and true. To be genuine puts you on a high level. Whatever your purse, you may be rich in character. Think yourself worthy of the best to which you can attain. Aim for the highest you see, and should you fail to reach it, you will still be higher than if your aim had been low.

Dreamers.

Day dreams, castles in Spain, figments of the imagination—ah, how we laugh at them all nowadays! They are good enough for the little ones, for the boys and girls, perhaps, but as for us—we have long ago outgrown them. With what gusto we speak of So-and-So as a hard-headed chap, a money getter, while we dismiss his rival with a lift of the brows as "an impractical fellow."

Shame upon us for it, too! God give us more dreamers. I pray; more of those whose inner eye is free of cataract. We need them here in America to-day; we are too practical a people. We are young in years, but we have fought an aging battle for the supremacy of a great continent. We have come up out of the struggle with the rich trophies of victory fast clutched in our calloused hands. We have worked desperately hard for them, and they are good to look upon —but we must have a care now lest we bow down before them in abject fetish worship.—Charles Francis Read, in Smart Set.

Form Colonies for Tramps.

Perhaps most tramps have no desire to work, preferring to cling to their habits of shiftlessness, but there are doubtless many men in the ranks who would settle down to the serious task of making money and improving their condition if they had the proper training. The latter may and probably will, be rescued by a term on the "farm," but the veteran who has walked rails when no freights were available; who has shied at anything savoring of labor; who has begged or stolen what food he has obtained, cannot be reformed. He will go on until the end in his old way, a scourge to humanity and a disgrace to civilization. Usefulness was never and can never be for him. To the extent of the number constituting this class the farm colony will be a failure.

He Got None.

"What's a pun, father?"

"A pun, my son, is a play upon words. There are three kinds of puns: Good ones, which you laugh at; indifferent ones, which you take no notice of, and bad ones, which make you throw something at the punster."

"Can't you make a pun, father?"

"Of course, my son! Now, you're thinking about your supper, aren't you?"

"Yes, father."

"Well, that's uppermost in your mind at the present time. That, you see, is a play on—Here, you young rascal, what did you throw that book at me for?"

Thin Skinnedness.

"The most unpleasant kind of vanity to meet with," writes a reader, "is thin skinnedness. The thin-skinned person is always on the lookout for slights and takes every allusion to himself. His amour propre must be consulted on every occasion, thereby making every one around constrained and unnatural for fear of hurting him. He is a wet blanket everywhere, and one cannot help a feeling of relief whenever he leaves."—Home Chat.

CHANGES IN MEN'S APPAREL.

Men change the style of their dress slowly, their tendency being to develop the useful and convenient. Whether it be the robes of the church or law or civic dignataries is very largely the survival of what was once the every-day fashions for men, says the London Queen.

The tendency is not entirely to do away with the mode of dress that has become inconvenient for ordinary occasions, but to give it a sort of superlative or best-clothes place.

The usual dress for a football match formerly was a frock coat and a high hat, and high hats are always seen in engravings of ancient cricket matches. The competitors also in the Oxford and Cambridge boat race used to row in high hats! In early Victorian days every one who was any one wore a frock coat on quite ordinary occasions, and West End cheese-mongers wore high hats behind the counter.

Utility has now said that the frock coat is too cumbersome for knockabout wear. For all that, the frock coat's star is in the ascendant. The twentieth century Bachelors' Book says that "correct dress for weddings, receptions, afternoon calls and matiness is frock coat and high hat; the same applies to Sundays." Evidently the frock coat is being promoted to strictly best wear, but, although no gentleman can dispense with it, it is worn far less than it used to be.

And although the frock coat is so sacred a garment, yet for certain wear it is not good enough. There are occasions when the swallowtail coat is more esteemed still. The swallowtail coat has not only an older origin than the frock coat, but a more utilitarian one, for it is a survival of the every-day coat worn by men in the time of the Georges, and it is certainly less in the way than a "frock" for general use.

Thus it comes to pass that in one day a man often wears the fashions of three periods, and the more of state there is in the occasion the further he looks back to find the appropriate dress. He goes to his office in the morning wearing a morning, or perhaps a lounge coat; he makes a call on a lady in the afternoon properly attired in his nineteenth century frock coat. When he goes out to dinner he dons his eighteenth century evening clothes, and if he were attending a levee his knee breeches and silk stockings would be very reminiscent of the every-day dress of gentlemen of the Stuart period.

The wig, which is now associated entirely with legal state dress, was in Stuart times the ordinary wear of gentlemen. Gradually changes came, and the wig became less and less worn, until it was reserved entirely for judges, barristers and other legal dignitaries.

Mayoral robes have their origin in the ordinary styles worn in Tudor days. Ecclesiastical robes have certainly more ancient history than any other ceremonial dress, yet even these may be traced back to the usual dress worn in the very early centuries.

BRUTUS, THE FELINE HERO.

Twelve years is a long time for a cat to live, unapreciated, but Brutus never seemed to mind, says Youth's Companion. The tenor of his life had run smoothly, in spite of constant gibes and jeers from the man of the house, who had no liking for a cat that loved asparagus above all things, and refused to show the least interest in a live mouse.

"If you will insist on calling him 'brute,' I shall have to name him Brutus," the gentle mistress had remarked to her husband one day, while the peace-loving cat was still a kitten; so Brutus he was from that hour, a queer, big, unoffending creature, that not only declined to catch mice, but utterly disdained meat of all kinds, dining contentedly every noontime on a plain cold boiled potato, with perhaps a bit of lettuce, or on special feast-days a dish of asparagus.

For years he was a neighboring joke, a harmless, amusing oddity, until one morning a terrible commotion called the mistress of the house to her kitchen window. It seemed that the small kitten belonging to the neighbor on the north had scaled her fence, and the fierce little bulldog belonging to the neighbor on the south had crept under his, and now the two were met in unequal combat in the back yard where Brutus had so long held peaceful sway.

"Call your dog off! Get him away, quick!" the neighbro behind the north fence was demanding excitedly, while the neighbor behind the south fence was wringing her hands and protesting that her dog would not mind, and he would surely kill the kitten, and what in the world could they do!

Just at this point twelve-year-old vegetarian Brutus, the cat without spirit, roused from a peaceful snooze on top of a barrel, and giving a mighty leap into the midst of the fray, furnished that bulldog with a surprise.

It was a snarling, clawing, merciless surprise; it shed blood and caused howls of pain, but it was thoroughly effective, for in less than two minutes it sent the bulldog, whipped, slinking home to his own back yard, while Brutus calmly picked up the frightened kitten by the nape of the neck and carried it straight to its mistress.

This done, he resumed the barrel-top, an appreciated cat, and since that moment no silken cushion in the neighborhood has been too fine to hold Brutus, the hero.

Come Before the Best is Gone

MAY'S MANNERS.

Mistress May is cold and chilly,
Mistress May is churlish, too.
Time was when she smiled upon me,
Time was when she let me woo.
Now she freezes me completely,
And her smile is never sunny,
Mistress May, I wonder can it
Be your father's made some money?

Mistress May, I well remember,
Laughing gayly used to come,
Strewing flowers along the roadsides,
And her moods were never glum;
Now she's haughty, cold and distant,
This the thought that comes to me.
Can it be that May has butted
Into high society?

Where are all her ways so winsome?
Why this sneer and why this frown?
Aren't we good enough, I wonder?
Is that why she turns us down?
Mistress May, come, tell us truly
Is your cold and icy stare
Proof to us you're "somebody?"
Have you wed a millionaire?

PROGRESS OF THE DAY ALL OVER THE WORLD.

Although it is sixty miles from the sea, Hamburg is the greatest seaport of continental Europe.

The Chinese soya bean has been found to contain from 15 to 16 per cent. of oil suitable for soap making.

In 1908 there were organized in Australia thirty-five joint stock companies, with $15,590,000, about half the 1907 record in number and amount.

Belgian works are getting large orders for steel rails from Brazil, Sweden, the Congo and other countries, also for bolts and metal ties.

The coal fields of Columbia are well placed to take advantage of the markets which will be made available by the Panama Canal. At present they are imperfectly and crudely worked, and the means of transport are inadequate. Both these drawbacks can be remedied. There are twelve short railways, none of them over seventy miles long, all planned without regard to coal export, although several of them traverse coal fields. The navigable rivers are suitable only for vessels of light draught. The lower Magdalena is navigable for about 600 miles, and the upper river at times for about 10 0miles. The coal fields are quite numerous. See Consular Report No. 3,461.

BERGEN SAYS TRUSTS ARE NOT TO BE DREADED

Atlantic City, June 7.—Trusts and corporations fostered under the New Jersey laws are not the dangerous things the common people believe, according to Frank Bergen, counsel for the Public Service Corporation, who appeared before the National Electric Light Association at its final meeting Friday as apologist for the trust magnate and his work, the merger. In his paper, which was down on the program under the title of "The Irrepressible Conflict," the speaker insisted that the people, and not the big men who have become millionaires through development of public service and other corporations, are the greatest winners under the new game of financial and business incorporation. He made no reference to the mooted questions of the influence of powerful and wealthy corporations upon state or national politics, and his able defense of the trusts was received with applause.

It is true that individuals have profited largely by obtaining and operating under corporate franchises, he said. Yet the public in the long run has gotten the better of the bargain. A person in moderate circumstances in our time can journey across the continent or sea in railroad or steamship palaces for two or three cents a mile; one can whisper to Chicago, can turn a switch and drive darkness from his dwelling, and this is only a part of the benefits conferred on the masses by these immense public servants. The people should realize that the corporations among them is the price which we have to pay for these blessings of modern civilization.

The speaker declared that the periods before the "arrival" of the corporations that have given to the common people the blessings of modern street cars, electric lights, telephones, telegraps and other public services were practically "dark ages," and he took a fling at the recent taxation ideas that have taken root, to the effect, according to his claim, "that corporations are made to be private in paying of taxes and dividends and public in management." He also declared that "the characters of corporations cannot be changed until human nature is improved, and it would not be a wise thing for the people to annihilate our millionaires and captains of industry just as the bow of promise of better things is beginning to appear in the sky."

As a conclusion to his defens of the trusts against the attacks of the common people, Counselor Bergen took a fling at municipal ownership. "Public ownership would terminate the construction or extension of public improvements," he said, "and drive us to wasteful methods, political dangers, or even to the Socialists' wild theories of destribution of wealth."

Savings and Checking Account

"There are certain persons who can afford to have a savings bank account only, such as the laborer or the artisan. These men pay for the necessities of life—that is, rent, food and clothes with cash. The surplus they put into a savings bank for a rainy day or as a nucleus for a home.

"On the other hand, a clerk, teacher, secretary, salesman or housekeeper, who has to pay out a certain sum of money every month, can easily have a checking account. The fact that a man or woman has a checking account need not shut out the possibility of having a savings-bank account, too. One does not interfere with the other. The savings account is worth while if it only attracts a few dollars each month. Money thus put away works all the time, and is a reserve to fall back upon in case of emergency. There are many well-to-do persons who have big checking accounts who also maintain accounts in savings-banks. Some keep them for their children."—Saturday Evening Post.

ALL EMPIRE MODES

NOTHING ELSE CAN BE CONSIDERED IN STYLE.

The Latest Ideas in Bridal Costumes—Suggestion for Dainty and Inexpensive Bordering for Sleeve and Low-Cut Neck.

One point is everywhere demonstrated by the prettiest things, and that is that to be really captivating, as well as stylish, the bride of to-day will need to bend to a large extent to empire modes. For if the wedding gown is not in the shirt-waisted style, which it commonly is, three out of four evening frocks, and two out of three reception dresses will be sure to reflect it.

Everything really graceful, really suited to youth and the enchantment of the wearer's attractions, is empire. One must often forget the serious consideration of age to be in the swim, for these light-hearted and coquettish models pervade even the sacred niche of the middle-aged.

The most dainty of the empire wedding models show trimming on the bodice, and either a perfectly plain skirt or else one ornamented with a long square stole, swinging back and forth from the bodice. The superb embroideries of the waist deck these Greece-like draperies, which may start from the neck or start from the shoulder and bust.

The skirt of the empire gown being a skimpy affairt, and covering at most only a slip as scant of thin silk, or a chemise made in the same way, there are often trains, made separately, and interlined for weight, which go with such a wedding frock. The low necks and short-sleeved bodices are filled in with long-sleeved gamps of tucked net lace or tulle, the popular veil being also in the last airy textile.

Never by any possibility does good taste allow the flesh of the neck and arms to show outright, but the gamps are to a great extent transparent, which adds to looks, especially when everything is overhung by the misty veil.

There are no absolute rules for wearing the veil. It may either be draped at the back of the head from a half-wreath of orange blossoms or tiny white roses, or be allowed to fall over the face in the usual way.

A smart walking, traveling or informal visiting dress could be made after our illustration. Plain cloth, striped suitings, or Scotch suitings are correct stuffs, with braid or velvet trimmings. Seven wards of material 27 inches wide may achieve this dapper and useful dress, but with wide materials, of course, less would be needed. Tan cloth in a soft almost yellow shade, or in gray or mauve, are all good selections.

With the tan dress have the broad hat a mushroom shape, if this popular style is becoming, and trim it with black velvet and violet flowers. The headgear of the smart bride is either one thing or the other—a bewildering shape very simply trimmed, or else a bed of posies. Some imported shapes in superbly tinted straw Panama have the brims faced with black.

Collar Bag.

A collar bag for a young girl is useful. Use pink linen for the top and bottom, and for the band which goes between cream-colored linen embroidered with running design of pink rosebuds and leaves. The design may be tinted and outlined or worked solid, using three shades of green and two of pink. The cardboard base is covered on both sides with pink linen and should be about seven inches in diameter. The embroidered linen band is also lined and whipped to this. The top of the bag is turned in about two inches and the casing finished with a row of feather-stitching on both sides.

Bronze Stockings.

If you are wearing bronze slippers be sure to get the right shade of stocking. The shops now make a specialty of the bronze stocking. It is always wiser to get silk ones for evening slippers, especially when they can now be had at such reasonable prices.

WHEN HASTE MAKES WASTE.

Great Mistake to Skimp Time Needed for Proper Dressing.

Some women boast they can dress in ten minutes. They may be clothed in that time; they won't be dressed. In nothing more than in dressing does great haste make little speed.

The girl who respects her appearance never makes the attempt to do stunts in her dressing. The five-minute habit is shunned as are all half-way measures.

If only the boaster of swiftness could read the thoughts about her of the careful dresser she would cease to flaunt her celerity. "You look it!" thinks the other woman, or: "You can't be clean clear through," or: "Your room must resemble a pig pen."

One cannot give the attention to bathing, hairdressing and careful adjusting of clothes that is required in less than half an hour. The woman who says she does, either stops her clock or shirks important toilet duties.

Apart from looks, the woman who dresses in ten minutes is putting her nerves to an unnecessary strain. There is nothing so trying as dressing in a hurry. The flurry gets into pins, buttons, laces, and gloves; what does not prick or break willfully hides itself.

Hurried dressing usually means looking one's worst instead of one's best. Ten minutes leave no allowance for a careful inspection with a hand-glass or for accurate adjusting of belts and ties, Psyche angles, and hair nets.

The girl who boasts of whirlwind dressing generally looks as if she had just come through one. Straggly locks, a gaping placket, and misfit stock show her speed, while her mad haste makes for a red countenance that is not a beautifier.

One need not be such a slow dresser that some one is always on waiting orders; there is a difference between dawdling and careless haste. The ten minutes dressing habit, except in an emergency, verges closely on uncleanliness.

ADAPTED FOR THE EVENING.

Charming Costume Best Made Up in Shell-Pink Silk Voile.

Shell-pink silk voile makes up a charming dress in this style. Our model has a panel of the material finely tucked up front of skirt; at each side is a band of pearl embroidered insertion. The bodice hat a tucked front, and bretelles of the insertion edged with lace, and sleeves composed of two frills of lace. A band of the insertion edges the front and back.

Materials required: Nine yards, 44 inches wide, about 5¼ yards insertion, 7 yards lace, 1½ yards silk for bodice lining.

Boots and Shoes and Slipper.

Among well-dressed women of quiet tastes there is nothing more popular for wear with an afternoon costume than the patent leather boots with very high cloth tops.

There are black velvet shoes as well as black velvet slippers to wear with the many modish black toilettes.

For women who cannot afford to match their different gowns, slippers of patent leather, with rhinestone buckles, are a good investment.

Bronze slippers make the daintiest foot covering imaginable, especially when finished with a metal buckle and worn with silk stockings to match.

Bronze is more charming than sensible, however. It cannot be worn with all sorts of house gowns, as can the black slipper, and is likely to peel if it gets scuffed.

Bordered Silks.

There is a charming new fabric for elaborate spring frocks which is a combination of opalescent gauze with a wide border done in lovely colors. It will be used to make tunics over the one-piece slips of messaline or the silk cashmere, which is now as soft as crepe de chine.

Sewing Room Hint.

In basting the goods on the lining of jackets and waists full the lining a trifle at the waistline. Then when basting the waist together stretch the goods until the fullness in the lining is gone. This will make a snug fit and there will never be any wrinkles at the waistline.

To Protect Flowers.

Cover window plants with papers. If it is necessary to cover a stand of flowers more closely, push a heavy reed into several crocks and throw a woolen shawl over them to make a tent. Burn lamps near by and Jack Frost will not get your flowers.

ROSALIND AT RED GATE

By MEREDITH NICHOLSON

Illustrations by RAY WALTERS

Copyright, 1907, by Bobbs Merrill Company

I was promptly seized by a young man, who feigned to have meet me in some former incarnation, and introduced to a girl from Detroit whose name I shall never know in this world. I remember that she danced well, and that she asked me whether I knew people in Duluth, Fond du Lac, Paducah and a number of other towns which she recited like a geographical index. She formed, I think, a high opinion of my sense of humor, for I laughed at everything she said in my general joy of the situation. After our third dance I got her an ice and found another cavalier for her. I did not feel at all as contrite as I should have felt as I strolled round the veranda toward Rosalind and Gillespie. They were talking in low tones and did not heed me until I spoke to them.

"Oh, it's you, is it?"—and Gillespie looked up at me resentfully.

"I have been gone two years! It seem to me I am doing pretty well, all things considered! What have you been talking about?"

"—'Bout Giunts, an' Griffuns, an' Elves, An' the Squidgicum-Squees 'at swallers theirselves!

Rosalind quoted. "I hope you have been enjoying yourself."

"After a dull fashion, yes."

"I should like to tell her that! We saw you through the window. She struck us as very pretty, didn't she, Reggie?"

"I didn't notice her," Gillespie replied with so little interest that we both laughed.

"It's too bad," remarked Rosalind, "that Aunt Pat couldn't have come with us. It would have been a relief for her to get away from that dreary schoolhouse."

"I might go and fetch her," I suggested.

"If you do," said Gillespie, grinning, "you will not find us here when you get back."

Rosalind sighed, as though at the remembrance of her aunt's forlorn exile; then the music broke out in a two-step.

"I Want You to Exchange Cloaks with Me."

"Come! We must have this dance!" she exclaimed, and Gillespie rose obediently. I followed, exchanging chaff with Rosalind until we came to the door, where she threw off her cloak for the first time.

"Lord and protector, will you do me the honor?"

It all happened in a moment. I tossed the cloak across my arm carelessly and she turned to Gillespie without looking at me. He hesitated—some word faltered on his lips. I think it must have been the quick transition of her appearance effected by the change from the rich color of the cloak to the white of her dress that startled him. She realized the danger of the moment, and put her arm on his arm.

"We mustn't miss a note of it! Good-by"—and with a nod to me I next saw her far away amid the throng of dancers.

As I caught up the cloak under my arm something crackled under my fingers, and hurrying to a dark corner of the veranda I found the pocket and drew forth an envelope. My conscience, I confess, was agreeably quiescent. You may, if you wish, pronounce my conduct at several points of this narrative wholly indefensible; but I was engaged in a sincere effort to straighten out the Holbrook tangle, and Helen had openly challenged me. If I could carry this deception through successfully I believed that within a few hours I might bring Henry Holbrook to terms. As for Gillespie, he was far safer with Rosalind than with Helen. I thrust the envelope into my breast pocket and settled myself by the veranda rail, where I could look out upon the lake, and at the same time keep an eye on the ballroom. And, to be frank about it, I felt rather pleased with myself! It would do Helen no great harm to wait for Gillespie on St. Agatha's pier; the discipline of disappointment would be good for her. Vigorous hand-clapping demanded a repetition of the popular two-step of the hour, and I saw Rosalind and Gillespie swing into the dance as the music struck up again.

Somewhere beneath I heard the rumble and bang of a bowling-alley above the music. Then my eyes, roaming the lake, fell upon the casino pier below. Some one was coming toward me—a girl wrapped in a long cloak who had apparently just landed from a boat. She moved swiftly toward the casino. I saw her and lost her again as she passed in and out of the light of the pier lamps. A dozen times the shadows caught her away; a dozen times the pier lights flashed upon her; and at last I was aware that it was Helen Holbrook, walking swiftly, as though upon an urgent errand. I ran down the steps and met her luckily on a deserted stretch of board walk. I was prepared for an angry outburst, but hardly for the sword-like glitter of her first words.

"This is infamous! It is outrageous! I did not believe that even you would be guilty of this!"

The two-step was swinging on to its conclusion, and I knew that the casino entrance was not the place for a scene with an angry girl.

"I am anything you like; but please come to a place where we can talk quietly."

"I will not! I will not be tricked by you again."

"You will come along with me, at once and quietly," I said; and to my surprise she walked up the steps beside me. As we passed the ballroom door the music climbed to its climax and ended.

"Come, let us go to the farther end of the veranda."

When we had reached a quiet corner she broke out upon me again.

"If you have done what I think you have done, what I might have known you would do, I shall punish you terribly—you and her!"

"You may punish me all you like, but you shall not punish her!" I said with her own emphasis.

"Reginald promised me some papers to-night—my father had asked me to get them for him. She does not know, this cousin of mine, what they are, what her father is! It is left for you to bring the shame upon her.

"It had better be I than you, in your present frame of mind!"—and the pity welled in my heart. I must save her from the heartache that lay in the truth. If I failed in this I should fail indeed.

"Do you want her to know that her father is a forger—a felon? That is what you are telling her, if you trick Reginald into giving her those papers he was to give me for my father!"

"She hasn't those papers. I have them. They are in my pocket, quite safe from all of you. You are altogether too vindictive, you Holbrooks! I have no intention of trusting you with such high explosives."

"Reginald shall take them away from you. He is not a child to be played with—duped in this fashion."

"Reginald is a good fellow. He will always love me for this—"

"For cheating him? Don't you suppose he will resent it? Don't you think he knows me from every other girl in the world?"

"No, I do not. In fact, I have proved that he doesn't. You see, Miss Holbrook, he gave her the documents in the case without a question."

"And she dutifully passed them on to you!"

"Nothing of the kind, my dear Miss Holbrook! I took them out of her cloak pocket."

"That is quite in keeping!"

"I'm not done yet! Pardon me, but I want you to exchange cloaks with me. You shall have Reginald in a moment, and we will make sure that he is deceived by letting him take you home. You are as like as two peas—in everything except temper, humor and such trifles; but your cloaks are quite different. Please!"

"I will not!"

"Please!"

"You are despicable, despicable!"

"I am really the best friend you have in the world. Again, will you kindly exchange cloaks with me? Yours is blue, isn't it? I think Reginald knows blue from red. Ah, thank you! Now, I want you to promise to say nothing as he takes you home about papers, your father, your uncle or your aunt. You will talk to him of times when you were children at Stamford, and things like that, in a dreamy reminiscential key. If he speaks of things that you don't exactly understand, refers to what he has said to your cousin here to-night, you need only fend him off; tell him the incident is closed. When I bring him to you in ten minutes it will be with the understanding that he is to take you back to St. Agatha's at once. He has his launch at the casino pier; you needn't say anything to him when you land, only that you must get home quietly, so Miss Pat shan't know you have been out. Your exits and your entrances are your own affair. Now I hope you see the wisdom of obeying me, absolutely."

"I didn't know that I could hate you so much!" she said, quietly. "But I shall not forget this. I shall let you see before I am a day older that you are not quite the master you think you are; suppose I tell him how you have played with him."

"Then before you are three hours older I shall precipitate a crisis that you will not like, Miss Holbrook. I advise you, as your best friend, to do what I ask."

TWO-MAN TOURNEY WILL END THIS WEEK

The schedule in Campbell's two-man tourney will be completed this week but a number of postponed games yet to be rolled will carry the tourney well into next week.

Skelly and Miller look like winners but there is a bare posibility of Matthews and Brown beating them to it. Nash and Blatz have finished their schedule and are sure of third prize.

For the remaining prizes a number of teams are struggling and the competition is close.

The standing of the teams and schedule for this week is as follows:

	Won.	Lost.
Skelly and Miller	39	9
Matthews and Brown	40	14
Nash and Blatz	42	18
Radin and Schaub	38	22
Vanderbilt and Eller	38	22

"MARTY" O'LOUGHLIN MAKES FIRST HOLE IN TWO STROKES

A remarkable achievement in golf was the work of "Marty" O'Loughlin, the professional at the Plainfield Country Club on Thursday of last week, when he made the first hole, a distance of 385 yards in two. This has never been accomplished before and will likely stand as the record for this season, at least. "Marty" was playing a match with George Schoonmaker at the same, and both were putting up an unusually fine game.

O'Loughlin is now about at the top of his game and during his career has never played better. He is planning to enter the open championship tournament at Englewood the latter part of the month, where he hopes to finish among the leaders. He is practicing every day on the local course keeping in condition for the tournament.

CITY AND BOROUGH FACULTY TO CROSS BATS

A game that is creating much interest in high school baseball circles will be the faculty game between the Plainfield and North Plainfield which will be played Wednesday afternoon at Crescent oval. Each team must have at least four members of the faculty; the rest of team will be made up of high school players.

SUPREME COURT UPHOLDS BUILDING OF SEWERS

Trenton, June 7.—The Supreme Court, in an opinion by Justice Bergen, sustained Saturday the validity of two ordinances passed by the city of Elizabeth, providing for the construction of intercepting and later sewers, to prevent the further pollution o fthe Elizabeth River and the issuing of bonds in payment thereof. The ordinances were attacked by Walter F. Summerton and William F. Thiele, upon the ground that the act of 1907, giving the required authority for the new sewer system, was unconstitutional.

The complainants charged that the act embraced more than one subject; that the objects were not expressed in the title, and that the act was local or special legislation regulating the internal affairs of cities. The third ground was the one specially relied upon by counsel, who argued that the act did not embrace all cities, and that the classification of these municipalities sewering into streams within their boundaries was illusory, in that they are not substantially different from cities bounding upon a stream into which sewage is being emptied. Justice Bergen could not concur in this reasoning, holding that the classification was justifiable and not illusory. He pointed out that where a stream forms the boundary between municipalities, two or more of which may sewer into it, the construction of intercepting sewers and the alteration of the sewerage system by one municipality would be of no use, since the cleansing of one-half of a stream would not abate an existing nuisance. In such cases, he says, it would be necessary for the Legislature to provide an entirely different method from that under review.

The act of 1907 contained a preamble setting forth that many cities of the state were discharging sewage into streams passing through them to such an extent as to endanger health, and upon this statement of facts authorized certain changes in their systems. The intension of Elizabeth, is to construct all intercepting sewer, by means of which sewage will be carrie dto tidewater.

CHOSE THE WRONG GIRL.

Thinks Wife Got Through Advertisement Too Handy With Axe.

Lamenting that, after three-score years of waiting, he had made a wrongg choice when he came to marry, Constant Deroide, who owns considerable property at Columbia Heights, near Paterson, sought the advice of counsel last night in an effort to bring order out of a bad domestic tangle.

Yesterday afternoon his wife, so he said, battered her way with an axe into the apartments they had been occupying in one of his tenement houses, and wrecked the furniture and walls. Deroide only a few days ago gave bonds to answer to the grand jury upon a charge made by his wife that he had beaten her.

Some time ago M. Deroide, who is past sixty years old, advertised in a newspaper for a wife, and received a number of replies. He thought he knew what he wanted, and he sifted the replies down to two, and finally could not decide between Annie Klotz and Therese Beauvillier. He said last night that he finally wrote two letters, one to each, and dropped them into the mail box at the same moment, and made up his mind that the first of the two to reply would be the one he would ask to marry him. Annie beat out Therese by several days, and in the mean time M. Deroide not only had asked Annie to marry him, but she had accepted, and the marriage had taken place.

Last night, as he bewailed the wreck of his home, he railed at the fate that had made Annie prompt and Therese dilatory in answering.

WARREN DIXON MENACED BY HIS WIFE'S THREATS.

Mrs. Eleanor Bentley Dixon, wife of Warren Dixon, corporation counsel of Jersey City, who is being sued for divorce by her husband on statutory grounds, gave out a statement Saturday at Elizabeth in which she makes sinister threats of scandal still to be disclosed. Mrs. Dixon has been living at 350 Clinton street with her parents. Her statement today is the first she has made since the institution of the suit. The house at Elizabeth was raided some time ago by Mr. Dixon, who had been told that Thomas A. Alton, mentioned as co-respondent in his suit, was there.

Mrs. Dixon asserts that Alton intends to bring suit against Dixon for $50,000 damages and that she expects to be a witness in Aiton's behalf. She also declared a suit would be started by her based on her husband's forcible entry into the Chilton street house.

"The scandal in this case," she said Saturday, "has not begun to come out yet. I have only begun my fight. As long as I live I will continue to battle against Mr. Dixon. I assure you that there is plenty of scandal yet to come out.

"Mr. Aiton, who has been so sorely assailed by Mr. Dixon, and who is absolutely blameless, will next week begin suit for $50,000 for the damage he has sustained, and I will be a witness in the action. Furthermore, I myself will bring suit against Mr. Dixon for unlawful entry of my home."

Mrs. Dixon specifically charged her husband, against whom she has a counter suit for divorce, with acts of infidelity.

She told of stories that her sister, Mrs. Eugene Rountree, who now resides in the West, told her. Mrs. Rountree will be a principal witness for Mrs. Dixon. Mrs. Dixon declared that she would name half a dozen co-respondents in her action, some of them well known in New York and other cities.

She declared that her relations with Aiton have been entirely proper and denied the charges growing out of the raid on her home here. She gave a vivid description of the raid. She declared that she had called Aiton over, so as not to be alone in the house.

Mrs. Dixon would not say where she was going for the summer, but said she will quit the city this afternoon and not return.

HUGHES TO SEE BRIDGE SITES.

Gov. Fort Also Will Inspect Proposed Points on North River.

Gov. Hughes, of New York, and Gov. Fort, of New Jersey, will take the first definite steps looking to the erection of bridges across the North River from Manhattan to New York next Friday, when they will make an official inspection of the sites recommended by engineers. In the yacht Privateer, owned by R. A. C. Smith, of New York, the two Executives will make a special study of the suitability of sites at Forty-eighth street, 125th street, and at Fort Lee.

The inspection party will include the members of the Hudson River Bridge Commissioners of New York and New Jersey, together with their respective consulting and advisory engineers, and the personal staffs of the Governors. Several members of the Senates of New York and New Jersey also have been invited.

As to Buttonholes.

When putting buttonholes in the box plaits of a shirtwaist, always work them crosswise. Then they will not pull out of shape when any strain is put upon them. If the shirtwaist studs are used, see that the buttonholes on the two flaps are reversed. It is well to put the crosswise ones on the right hand side, and the vertical ones on the left.

Mending Lace.

A clever way of mending a piece of lace is to sew a piece of paper under the rent. Then insert the lace in the sewing machine and stitch back and forth till the paper is quite covered. Take out of the machine, remove the paper and the hole will have disappeared.

OUR CHIEF TO BE THERE

Mr. Kiely to Commune with Other Heads of Police at Convention.

TO ADVERTISE PLAINFIELD.

Will Let Him Off at Buffalo—$100 "and," Appropriated for "Helpful" Sojourn.

Chief of Police Kiely will attend the annual convention of the International Association of Police Chiefs to be held at Buffalo, June 16-19, the Common Council last night appropriating $100 for the trip, but that body also attached a string to the appropriation and Chief Kiely on his return will be required to make a detailed report to the convention to the police board; also an itemized statement of his expenses.

The question of sending Chief Kiely to Buffalo came before the Council through a resolution offered by Councilman Frank Randolph, chairman of the police board, calling for an appropriation of $100 for the trip.

Immediately afterward, Mr. Buxton took exception to the proposed action, saying, "There goes another $100 to add to the expenses of the city, while the Mayor wants additional officers in the police department." Mr. Buxton said that he would like to hear from Mr. Randolph on the subject.

The chairman of the police board explained that for the past nine years the city has been sending its chief of police to such conventions and he believed that much good to the department resulted through acquaintanceship with the chiefs of other cities and when any matter comes up of interest to Plainfield, the assistance of the police in other cities is always secured. Mr. Randolph said that perhaps it was not so much what a chief is likely to learn at these conventions as the friendships made that count.

"I use to think that these trips were mere excursions for the chiefs," said Mr. Montgomery, "but my views were changed after an experience I had at Schnectady, N. Y. While there I met the chief of the fire department; learned that he had been to a firemen's convention, met Chief Doane and knew about the advantages of Plainfield. I now believe that such trips are as much of an advertisement to Plainfield as the chiefs and that the expenditure of money is a wise one."

At this point Mr. Holt moved to amend the resolution to read that the expenditure of the $100 be under the direction of the police committee, and this led Mr. Mygatt to inquire how this could be done. Mr. Gloak suggested that it might mean that the whole police committee should take in the trip. Mr. Holt said that he did not object so much to the appropriation of the $100, but he believed that there should be a report of the convention and some accounting of the money.

Chairman Randolph of the police board wanted to know whether the Council desired an itemized accounting of the trip. This question was followed by another amendment offered by Mr. Buxton providing that $100 or so much as may be necessary be appropriated for the trip. Mr. Buxton said that if the trip is a good thing for the chief he was willing to vote for the appropriation, but he desired to give notice that if the appropriation was made he would ask for one for Chief Doane to attend a firemen's convention.

Mr. Gloak supported the resolution stating that he thought it to be a wise expenditure of money. President Tolles was one of those taking exception to the proposed action. He said that since he had been in the Council an appropriation of from $100 to $150 had been made each year for the chief's trops, and he thought it would be a good idea to cut them all out this year and see whether Plainfield suffers or not.

Another amendment to the original resolution was then offered by Mr. Clay, providing that Chief Kiely make a report to the council of the proceedings of the convention.

In speaking against the resolution, Mr. Mygatt said that the Mayor had been urging the importance of appointing more policemen, that the city is not properly protected, and he thought it would be a greater loss to have the chief out of the city for a week. If the convention was to be held nearer home it would not make so much difference, but he will be a great ways from the city for a week. He suggested that inasmuch as there had been no marked results from these annual trops it might be well to "cut out" the jaunt this year.

Speaking again on the subject,

A. E. BARLOW TO REVISE BUILDING ORDINANCES

The city building ordinance is to be revised and re-written by Alfred E. Barlow, an expert architect in such matters and the Common Council at its meeting last night, appropriated $500, Mr. Barlow's bid for doing the work. The changes are to be made under the supervision of the fire and building committee, of which Mr. Taylor is the chairman, and it was he who offered the resolution calling for the apropriation.

Many important changes are needed in the ordinance, especially to provide for the use of concrete in construction work, which was not known when the ordinance was originally drafted. Other changes are demanded to conform to the modern method of building. Mr. Barlow was largely instrumental in drafting original ordinance and was for that reason his services are desired to make the changes.

HUSBAND FARED BADLY TRAPPING WIFE'S SUITOR

Rob't Davis, proprietor of a merry-go-round at Somerset and Middough streets, Somerville, was placed in the Somerset County Jail yesterday charged with committing an atrocious assault Sunday night on Charles Phillips, of the borough street cleaning department. Phillips declared that he had become suspicious of Davis's attention to his wife. Sunday night he hid under the portico of his home at Somerset and New streets awaiting developments. Phillips said that he was in concealment but a short time, when Davis came around, and in the shadow of the porch proceeded to pay fervant attentions to Mrs. Phillips. Davis, acording to the story told by Phillips, called Mrs. Phillips so many endearing names that it worked on his nerves. He crawled out from his place of concealment and confronted the pair. Phillips says that Davis then atacked him with a club and fled. Phillips displayed a badly battered eye and other injuries about the head in court as an evidence of his encourter.

Davis, when arraigned, told a different story. The prisoner is a good-looking, well-built man, while Phillips is under-sized.

Davis, who claims a residence in Texas, stated that he was not aware that Mrs. Phillips was a married woman. She was a frequent attendant at his merry-go-round and in that way he had formed her acquaintance. He said he called on her at her residence Sunday night and was seated on the portico with her, when he was attacked by Phillips, who was a stranger to him, with a club. He took the club away from Phillips and used it with telling effect on his asailant. Mrs. Phillips also appeared in court and corroborated the story told by Davis. She said that Davis was a perfect gentleman and that her husband was a brute.

The soloists will be Mrs. Arthur B. Price, Mrs. Harry R. Moyer, Miss Helen R. Smalley, Miss Laura Gesswein, Miss Hope Irene Miller, Miss Bertha van N. Willis, Miss B. Mae Rodenbaugh, Fred C. Kreidler, Harry R. Moyer and Bertram F. Tallamy.

The second part of the program will comprise a portion of Cowen's cantata, "The Rose Maiden." Mrs. Harry N. Taylor will be the accompanist and Mr. Skiff will direct the chorus of about thirty-five voices.

MISS SMITH, P. H. S. TEACHER, DECLINES A REAPPOINTMENT

Miss Gertrude Hunter, a graduate of the Plainfield High School and a student at Barnard, is taking Miss Laura H. Smith's classes at the high school. Miss Smith, who teaches Latin an Endglish at the school, has resigned on account of ill health, and has gone to her home in Massachusetts.

Although recommended for reappointment for next year, Miss Smith, who joined the teaching staff at the local school at the beginning of the school year last fall, has pocitively declined a reappointment.

Under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society a strawberry and ice cream festival will be held on the grounds at Marcounier chapel tomorrow night.

ASK FOR APPROPRIATIONS

For Schools $107,000 is Desired and for Health "Extras" $2,734.

COMMON COUNCIL ROUTINE.

Petitions, Resignations, Resolutions and Reports are Filed.

Some Minor Matters Considered.

The Board of School Estimate certified to the Common Council, at its meeting, last night, that it had determined that $45,000 would be needed to build the new primary schol on West Front street, near Clinton avenue, and that $62,000 would be necessary for general school purposes for the coming year. Later Mr. Buxton offered resolutions, which were adopted, accepting the certification and the amounts will be incorporated in the annual tax budget. The Board of Health communicated with the Common Council relative to the exepnses incurred by the recent outbreak of smallpox here and requested that $2,734.84 be apropriated to cover the same. The matter was referred to the finance committee and will be reported upon at another meeting.

Residents of Clinton avenue and West Fourth street, petitioned to have the latter street put to grade as far as the city line, explaining that new houses are constantly being erected in that section and street improvements are desired. The matter was referred to the street committee.

The annual report of the Board of Directors of the Public Library and Reading Room, as published in The Daily Press on Saturday, was presented and filed.

The resignation of Patrolman John Kelly was presented and accepted. The action was a little belated, as Kelly left the force several weeks ago. Horace G. Adams, clerk of the District court, reported receipts for the past month of $156.90 and $40.15 was disbursed. The report was filed.

Mayor C. J. Fisk appointed William Christoffersen as a special policeman and the appointment was confirmed. Building Inspector T. O. Doane reported that thirty permits were granted during the past month, and Street Commissioner A. J. Gavett stated that fourteen permits were granted during the same time.

Overseer-of-the-Poor A. D. Ayres reported alms house expenses for the past month to be $364.65 and the outside expenses were $159.35, making the total amount $524.

The contract and bond of Mobus & Burke, whose bid was accepted for furnishing the city with crushed stone during the coming year, were presented to the Common Council, by Chairman Gloak of the street committee, and they were referred to the corporation counsel for his approval.

A resolution offered by Mr. Buxton and adopted, authorized the transfer of $2,500 from the general fund to the fire fund.

Mr. Gloak reported back the communication of the Dunellen Concrete Block Company together with an opinion from Corporation Counsel C. A. Marsh, which stated that the city legally has no right to reimburse the company for money lost on its sewer contract here, as requested. On his motion the clerk was instructed to inform the company to that effect.

The petition of the Highland Park Realty Company to vacate Raymond avenue, was denied on motion of Mr. Gloak, and when he called up the ordinance on third reading, it was killed which finally disposes of the matter.

Mr. Gloak reported back the petition of Street Comissioner Gavett regarding his inability to prevent the owner of the property at 314-316 Plainfield avenue from erecting a building outside of the building line, and on his motion Corporation Counsel C. A. Marsh was instructed to institute ejectment proceedings against the property-owner. Mr. Mygatt moved that when council adjourn it be to meet on Monday night, June 14, when in accordance with a motion of Mr. Holt, a public hearing will be granted on the ordinance providing for the installation of "cut-offs" in gas pipes, and notices will be sent to the Public Service Corporation and the Union, Middlesex and Somerset Lighting Company, who are directly intersected in the ordinance.

No Quorum Present.

Because there was no quorum present last night, the June meeting of the city Board of Education has been postponed, and the meeting will be called by President Leaner N. Lovell some time within a week.

SAFE AND SANE FOURTH

City Decides to End the Chinese Mode of Celebration.

THE ORDINANCE IS DRAFTED.

Mayor Supports Innovation Which Will Prevent Fires and Personal Injuries.

With the idea of insuring a safe and sane Fourth of July and rendering less likely the possibility of accidents, Mayor Charles J. Fisk requested the Common Council at its meeting, last night, to pass an ordinance prohibiting the discharge of fire-arms, cannons, and other highly explosive things on the public streets on that occasion, which this year will be July 5. The ordinance, which was passed on two reading and ordered advertised, does not prohibit the discharge of fireworks, cannons, sky-rockets, etc., on private property, nor the use of blank catridges pistols or any celebration by military organizations, which will probably be a part of the Charter Day celebration. The ordinance carries with it a fine of $20 for each offense.

In this connection Mayor Fisk asked for permission to swear in twenty special policemen for duty during the three days celebration; also the privilege of issuing free licenses to Plainfielders who may wish to engage in the vending business at that time, and the right to charge non-residents $2 a day as a license fee to sell anything here during the three days set apart for the celebration. The permission was granted.

The ordinance regulating the discharge of fireworks was drafted by Corporation Counsel C. A. Marsh at the request of the Mayor, and the former stated that he believed it would answer every purpose and accomplish the desired result. Mr. Marsh aded that some people might consider the ordinance unpatriotic and unreasonable, but he did not believe it to be either.

CITY GRAMMER SCHOOLS TO GRADUATE 102 PUPILS

The grammar school graduating class this year will be the biggest in the history of the Plainfield schools, for 102 pupils will receive their diplomas at the graduation exercises, to be held at the Plainfield High School auditorium, Wednesday afternoon, June 23. The class last year numbered eighty-two. The pupils all attend the Stillman School.

Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson, pastor of the First M. E. church, will deliver the commencement address to the graduates, and the pupils will receive their diplomas from President Leander N. Lovell, of the Board of Education. Various prizes are to be presented.

PHILADELPHIA GROOM WOULD SNOOZE ON WEST FRONT ST.

Plainfield booze caused the downfall of another horse show groom last night, and like Michael Morrissey, the hostler who was found drunk at the show grounds Sunday night, this second victim declare he was never drunk before. The man is Patrick McGaugh, who comes from Philadelphia, and Patrolman Saffron literally "picked him up" on West Front street last night, in a helpless condition.

Being a Philadelphian, "Jersey Lightning" effected McGaugh, in a peculiarly lethargaic way. He developed the sleeping sickness and mistook the pavement for an Ostermoor. He tried three places to live up to his civic reputation, and then the patrolman escorted him to a "waffle bed" at police headquarters. McGaugh said he had fifty cents left, and promised to go directly back to Philadelphia for a good sleep. Sentence was suspended by City Judge Runyon.

Mrs. S. H. Voorhees Re-elected.

Mrs. S. H. Voorhees was again elected president of the Parent-Teacher Association of the Franklin School at the annual meeting held at the school assembly hall last night. Miss Noel Bullock, principal of the school, was chosen as first vice-president; Mrs. A. E. Crone, second vice-president; Mrs. Warren B. Travell, secretary, and Mrs. W. H. P. Veysey, treasurer.

Tribute from Travellers.

Plainfield Council, No. 402, United Commercial Travellers, of which Frank H. Coward was a member, will send a floral piece to the funeral, which will be private.

CHARTER DAY PROGRESS

W. C. T. U. May Serve Soda Water to the Thirsty Crowds.

THE BIKE EVENT AWARDS.

Meetings of Committees Scheduled —More Contributions Reported All Workers Are Making Great Headway.

Inasmuch as the Druggists Association has decided that it does not wish to make any profit out of the Charter Day celebration, the W. C. T. U., is discussing the advisability of locating "temperance fountains" at various points in the business section to quench the thirst of the crowds during that demonstration. It has been suggested to the W. C. T. U. that soda water, ice water and soft drink stands be placed here and there in the centre of the city. The municipal authorities favor the plan as do the Board of Trade. The profits will be used for temperance work, if the plan is carried out, and the city will grant free permits to the association for its undertaking.

Tonight the parade committee will meet at Charter Day headquarters to receive reports and plan for its part in the enterprise. Tomorrow night there will be a meeting of the various chairmen of all committees at the same place.

Daniel W. Littell, former president of the State Exempt Firemen's Association, reported today that a large representation of the Exempts of New Jersey would participate in the firemen's parade on Wednesday, July 7.

A request from the citizens' committee of the Charter Day celebration was received this morning by H. C. Krebs, superintendent of the Somerset county schools, to act with the musical committee in arranging for the school children, church choirs and choral societies to unite in singing a number of patriotic songs on July 5. A meeting of musical committee will be held tonight at Charter Day headquarters.

Today, $65 additional was reported by the finance committee and the receipts now total approximately $3,500.

Diamond rings and stick-pins are to be the prizes in the ten-mile "Diamond Handicap" bicycle road race, to be run over the Decoration Day course on the afternoon of July 7, in connection with the Charter Day festivities. "Jack" Horner, of the Plainfield Cycle Club, who is chairman of the committee in charge of the cycling, has announced that there will be seven prizes of diamond rings, the first prize ring valued at $50. The eighth and ninth prizes will be stick-pins. It is reported that well known amateur cyclists from all parts of the State will compete for the prizes.

A special event in the race meet will be the mile championship race for riders of Union and Somerset counties. The first prize in this event will be a diamond-studded medal, the second, a silver medal, and the third a bronze medal. The race will be for the inter-county championship, and the entries include some of the fastest cyclists of Somerset and Union.

Because of speed rivalry between local cycle club riders, a special match race, to be ridden in heats, will be an event in the meet. The distance in the heats will be a mile, and the winners will decide upon the distance for the finals. Merchandise prizes will be offered. A two-mile road race for boys under fourteen years of age is creating lots of interest among local juvenile pedallers, some of whom show considerable speed. The prizes will be merchandise.

Harry C. Runyon, chairman of the advertising committee of the Charter Day athletic games, has announced that a prize of five dollars will be awarded to the person submitting the most acceptable design for a poster for the athletic games to be held Monday afternoon, July 5. A second prize will be awarded for the next best design. The committee will act as judges.

The announcement of the contest is creating especial interest among the pupils of the city and borough schools, and many of the pupils have signified their intention of submitting sketches.

BIG MINSTREL CHORUS REHEARSES AT THEATRE

That triple-half-hundred minstrel chorus which is to do the vocal work at the New Plainfield theatre Friday and Saturday, June 18-19, in the minstrel show for the benefit of "Tom" Muir, held its first rehearsal at the theatre last night. Bunched behind the footlights the big chorus tore off the melody in the various songs, led by William N. Runyon. William MacClymont was at the piano.

The work of arranging the show music for various orchestra instruments has been completed, and Charles M. Suhr's Imperial orchestra of eleven pieces will be in the pit. The musical conductor will be William MacClymont. Another rehearsal of the entire chorus will be held at the theatre tonight, and tomorrow night there will be a special rehearsal of the eight end-men.

There are still some excellent seats to be had for the performance on both nights, and the box office is open daily for the sale of the tickets. Have you bought yours?

CITY APPROPRIATES $1,000 FOR CELEBRATION

The question of appropriating money for the forthcoming celebration on July 5 was discussed at the June meeting of the Common Council, last night, following the receipt of communications from the finance committee of the general committee in charge of the celebration. The Council was previously informed by Corporation Counsel C. A. Marsh that it could appropriate such an amount as thought wise for the observance of July 4, and it was under this advice that the sum of $1,000 was set aside for the affair, that amount being requested by the finance committee, through the chairman, E. M. Laing.

There was a division of opinion among the councilmen as to the wisdom or right of doing this and President Tolles and Councilman Mygatt voted against the resolution, the latter explaining that he opposed the measure because it was not intended to celebrate July 4, but another occasion. In response to a question as to how the appropriation is to be expended, Mr. Clay was informed that the resolution provided that it is to be done under the direction of the Mayor and finance committee of the Common Council.

Councilman C. C. Randolph in stating that he would vote for the resolution said that he believed the people of the city would approve of such action; that the people; had shown by their willingness to subscribe to a popular fund that they are heartily in favor of the celebration. The communications from the Fourth of July and Charter Day committee were referred to the laws and ordinance committee and later reported back by Chairman Holt.

HEAR REPORT ON THE EAST END FIRE HOUSE.

Councilman Duncan W. Taylor, who is chairman of the fire and building committee, presented a brief report to the Common Council, last night, relative to the progress on the new East End fire house. He said that it had been found that $2,906.00 is the balance left after providing for the cost of the building and purchase of apparatus, which it is proposed to expend for equipment, such as hose, beds, bedding, etc., and he offered a resolution that such disposition be made of the balance. The resolution was adopted.

Mr. Taylor stated that there is now $144 due the city as interest on the original appropriation and by the time the committee is ready to spend the balance this will be increased several dollars. The resolution provides that the amount of the balance shall not be exceeded in the purchase of the equipment.

Declared Member Out of Order.

Just before the Common Council meeting adjourned last night, Councilman Bexton announced that a carnival is being held in the Fourth Ward, and all the members were invited to attend and take plenty of money. President Tolles declared the member out of order, adding that the carnival has nothing to do with the City Council.

Presented With a Bouquet.

Mrs. Freedric Goodhue Mead, president of the Y. W. C. A., at a meeting of the board of directors, yesterday morning, was presented, with a bouquet of beautiful Jack roses in honor of the anniversary of her birthday. The presentation was made by members of the board.

Mayor in Special Message Shows That Increased Force is Urgent Need.

SHORTER HOURS ARE ASKED.

He Also Suggests Again the Substitution of Sergeants for Roundsmen.

Reviewing the needs of the city relative to increased police protection, and also urging that the office of roundsman be abolished, Mayor C. J. Fisk sent the following message to the Common Council last night. No action was taken, it being decided to lay the matter over for a week:

"The city has been growing steadily and the population increasing every year. Many new dwellings have been built and new sections opened up. According to the statistics of the Board of Health the city now has a population of from 21,000 to 22,000. During the past year the records of the building department show 285 permits issued for new buildings and improvements to buildings, estimated at $854,000. The built-up section has been extended east, west and south, so that the territory required to be policed has been very much extended.

"In order to properly protect the citizens and property it is absolutely necessary to increase the police force. At present we have twenty patrolmen, sixteen at night and four in the daytime.

"The most important part of the city has been divided into sixteen sections or police beats. Six of the districts each, have nearly seven miles of streets, and there are other parts of the city opened up and occupied during the last few years that are not patroled and have no regular police protection. This is the fact in the Netherwod section, east of Belvidere avenue. All sections south of Randolph road and west of Grant avenue, and the sections east of Richmond street, south of Ninth street and west of Plainfield avenue are only partially protected, as the police beats, as explained above, cover too large a territory.

"For this reason I have asked your honorable body to authorize an increase in the force, so that there will be twenty-one men available for night duty, and seven for day duty.

"At the present time there are over eighty-five miles of streets, seventy-five of which should be patroled. Another reason for asking for the increase is, that the men now are over-worked, being called upon to do from ten to twelve and fourteen hours duty at one time.

"Although a policeman is always on duty, 24 hours a day if called upon, it is not right, and you cannot expect good duty if you give a man more than eight or nine hours straight duty at one time. I, therefore, request you to pass a resolution authorizing an increase of the force by adding eight additional men.

"I also ask, in order to better protect the system, that the office of Roundsman be dispensed with, and that the ordinance be amended so as to provide for three sergeants and one detective sergeant. This is asked and recommended as it has been found in places with a small force that it is much better for the service to have these men all of one rank.

"Should the above recommendations be concurred in, as I sincerely trust they will be, the force will then consist of the following: chief, captain, three sergeants, one detective sergeant, one driver of patrol, one doorman, and twenty-eight patrolmen, thirty-six men in all; and I feel confident I can then more fully and satisfactorily protect and patrol the city.

"The men now on the force are loyal, active, and not only ready to perform their full regular duty, but such extra or special duty as they may be called upon to do. I feel a personal responsibility to the citizens in this matter, as, while the Common Council, by resolution, fix the number of men, salaries, etc., as provided by the city charter, the mayor is the responsible executive head of this department, and, as such, is loked to, to see that the citizens and property are protected."

A HEART SONG.

Had I the voice I would sing,
Had I the touch I would play!
And oh! the beautiful world would ring
With music all the day!

Had I the gift I would write—
I would paint, had I the skill—
A world so fair and full of light
That none should know its ill!

Still—I am free to hear,
Still am I free to see;
And the cost of Life is none too dear,
For Life is good to me!

—Charles Stephens, in the People's Magazine for June.

GOLF.

Another feast is in store for golfers this week, the programme being attractive both in length and in variety. First will come the fourth annual championship tournament of the Women's Eastern Golf Association at Batusrol today and tomorrow, to be supplemented on the two following days over the same course by the inter-city matches between women's teams from Boston, Philadelphia and New York.

Partly conflicting with the women's events will be the annual invitation tournament of the Wykagyl Country Club on Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Then there is the special thirty-six hole match, for a purse of $500, between Alec Smith and Isaac Mackle. Thi will take place tomorrow at Fox Hills, Mackle's home green. The annual meeting of the Eastern Professional Golfers' Association will also claim attention in New York today.

With regard to the women's Eastern championship, it may be said that the coming tournament looks like an open affair, especially as Miss Fanny Osgood, of Brookline, will not be able to defend her title because of a recent illness. Neither is there any certainty that the Misses Curtis, of Essex County, will come on, and the same may be said of Miss Mary B. Adams, of Wollaston.

Miss Kate Hurley, of Fall River, the national champion, will probably be the favorite, although Miss Julia R. Mix, of Englewood, the metropolitan champion, and Miss Georgianna Bishop, of Brooklawn, the former title holder, will be certain to have a following. Conditions call for thirty-six holes of medal play, eighteen holes each day.

Plainfield, N. J., June 8, 1909.

COMING EVENTS.

June 10, 11 and 12—Horse Show. Sixth annual exhibition of the Plainfield Riding and Driving Club on its park. Fifty-four classes. Twenty cups, including those offered by Reginald C. Vanderbilt and Thomas W. Lawson, and many cash prizes.

June 19—Bench Show. First annual exhibition of the Plainfield Kennel Club at the Horse Show grounds. 746 classes. Over 100 trophies, including numerous cups.

July 5, 6 and 7—Charter Day. Biggest celebration of its kind ever given in New Jersey. Conducted by the Board of Trade. July 5—Industrial, civic, fraternal, benevolent, social organizations parade and athletic events; July 6—Automobile, motorcycle and bicycle parade and sports; July 7—Firemen's parade and mummers' parade. Handsome prizes offered in every event. Fireworks and band concerts nightly.

When a private citizen, and William Palmer Smith is the man in question, finds that, although he pays a large sum into the city treasury annually in the shape of taxes, he must pay out of his own pocket for such protection that any well regulated municipality should guarantee him, it is high time that the Police Board do something. Mr. Smith is a "desirable citizen," yet he is called upon to have a special policeman for his estate. Is this not a reflection on the fair name of the city which boasts that it is the most progressive in New Jersey?

Plainfield's efficient police board no doubt coincides with Mayor Fisk in the recommendation made in his special message for an increase in the police force. Any one at all familiar with the department, knows full well that the chief is seriously handicapped in properly protecting the community. This is due to the fact that he has not at his command a sufficiently large force. Thirty-six men are none to many if the city is to be properly "covered," to use a newspaper phrase. And there should be no delay on the part of the councilmen entrusted with this matter in recommending to their colleagues that the request be granted.

Exempts to Parade.

The exempt firemen of North Plainfield will leave Monday morning at 9.30 for Newark where they will take part in the New Jersey Exempt Fireman's parade. Between fifty and sixty will go from the borough. The invitation sent by Chief Doane, of the city for the exempts to parade during the Charter Day celebration was accepted.

DELIGHTFUL MUSICAL AT MRS. PIERRE MALI'S

A delightful musical by the young pupils of Miss Maud Van Boserck was given yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Pierre Mali, of East Front street, when a charming program of instrumental music was presented by fifteen of the pupils. There was a large attendance of parents and friends of the young musicians, and the playing was of a high order and showed careful training and conscientious practise.

The opening number was a piano duet by Loechou, played by the Misses Mildred and Margaret Miller with excellent effect. Following this, Master Dale Warren played "The Dance of the Marionettes," (Mrs. Crosby Adams), and this and Reinhold's Russian Dance, by Miss Catherine Ginna, won enthusiastic applause. Miss Margaret Patterson played Leibert's dainty Berceuse and Gavotte with good appreciation, and Misses Katherine Ginna's rendition of Pleyel's Tempo di Minuetto en the violin showed careful practise and appreciation.

Master Jack Martin played Nevin's "Love Song" and Miss Aline Lane rendered the dainty "Scarf Dance" from Meyer-Helmund. Master Harry Mali showed careful prahtice in his playing of "Pirez" and "The Cat," by Florence Maxine, was well rendered by Master Dale Warren, who later played "The Kangaroo," another piece by the same composer. "Sleep, Baby, Sleep," by Liebert, was played with charming expression by Miss Margaret Patterson, and Miss Margaret Miller's rendition of Schumann's Round lay showed careful practice and was well received. Miss Eva Mali rendered Bach's Gavotte, and Miss Kathryn Yates showed excellent expression in her rendition of Marcarolle by Adolph Fischer. A Gypsy Song from a serenade by Reinbold was especially well played by Miss Helen Irons and Miss Gertrude Mali won applause by her rendition of Mendelssohn's Spring Song. Two dainty selections by Miss Mildred Miller were well received, and Miss Marjory played a dainty Madrigal in pleasing style. The program concluded with an able rendition of Mendelssohn's "Consolation," by Master Jack Stevens.

PUBLISH BIOGRAPHY OF THE LATE DR. LEWIS.

Rev. Dr. T. L. Gardiner, editor of The Sabbath Recorder and successor to the late Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis, has just published an interesting biographical sketch of Dr. Lewis, which has been dedicated "to his afflicted wife who shared his burdens for more than fifty years, and to his children who found in him an ideal father."

In the preface of the volume, Dr. Gardiner says that the material for the biography was gathered from notes and memoranda left by Dr. Lewis and from such data as could be found in the files of the denominational literature.

The story includes the childhood of Dr. Lewis, his home in Wisconsin, his college life, beginning his life work, hard work and broken health, teacher, pastor and reformer, the way opening, hopes realized, labors at home, studies abroad, the new church, secretary and editor and "Crossing the Bar."

The book contains 106 pages, is handsomely gotten up in convenient size and also has a fine portrait of Dr. Lewis, making it of special interest to all the friends of this leader of the Seventh-Day Baptist church.

CO. K ENJOYS "HIKE" TO WESTFIELD AND SUPPER.

The members of Co. K to the number of fifty-five enjoyed a "hike" to Westfield last night. The boys were in charge of Captain H. B. Kitchell and en route they went through the out-post, flank and platoon movements; also did some skirmishing, and when they arrived at Westfield were surprised to find a fine supper awaiting them at Mooney's restaurant. This was furnished by the Westfield members of the company.

These weekly jaunts have been arranged to put the boys in condition for their walk to Sea Girt when they go into camp from August 7-14. The whole Second Regiment will walk to camp this year instead of going by train as formerly.

Taylor, chairman of the fire committee. There were four bids in all and Mr. Harrigan's was the lowest.

VanZandt & Voorhees bid $5.50, the Consumers' Coal Company $5.58, while George O. Stevens agreed to furnish the coal at $5.83 per ton. According to the terms of the bids, the coal is to be well screened and delivered as wanted.

THE FORUM.

Editor of The Daily Press:

In the annual report of the Board of Health, recently issued, the dreadful record of tuberculosis for the year is: "cases, 47; deaths, 42—the chief cause of death as it always has been." If the disease is preventable and often curable, as I believe, then is it not time to do something?

The city has a small-pox house, and spent $2,000 or so in fighting that plague last year. The hospital has a special building for the care of scarlet fever, diphtheria and such diseases and a great establishment for every other ail and injury.

In the year the total number of deaths from small-pox, diphtheria, scarlet fever and typhoid, all together, was but 13, and even pneumonia caused but 28 deaths, while tuberculosis claimed 42.

The facts and figures here presented must arouse the interest of every one whose attention is called to them, and they plainly indicate the need of an anti-tuberculosis society in this city. I recently learned that such a society has been already organized. Few are aware of it, I am sure. When its plans are formed an dit asks for funds a ready response will certainly be made by every one in Plainfield who is, as I am, proud to be.

A CITIZEN OF NO MEAN CITY.

(If the author of the foregoing communication would take the pains to glance at the files of recent issues of local dailies he would learn that there is an anti-tuberculosis society here which is very much alive.—Editor.)

Corporation Notice.

Notice is hereby given that the following Ordinance has been introduced before the Common Council, read the second time and ordered engrossed preparatory to its third reading, and that it is the intention of the Council to adopt the same.

J. T. MacMURRAY,
City Clerk.

Plainfield, N. J., June 7, 1909.

AN ORDINANCE

To amend an Ordinance entitled "An Ordinance Concerning Fire Arms and Other Deadly Weapons," approved April 9, 1895.

Whereas, Experience has shown that the discharge of fire arms, fire crackers, rockets, bombs and other explosives known as fire works within the streets of the City of Plainfield is fraught with danger to persons and property; and, in the judgment of the Common Council, a proper regard for the peace, good government, order and well-being of the City requires that the practice referred to should be more strictly regulated. Now, therefore,

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. That Section 1 of the ordinance to which this is an amendment be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows: "Section 1. That no person shall fire or discharge any cannon, gun, fowling piece, pistol or fire arm of any description, or set off or explode any fire cracker over three inches in length, rocket, bomb, or other explosive fire works, or other thing containing powder or other combustible or explosive material within the limits of the City of Plainfield, under a penalty of a fine not exceeding Twenty Dollars for each and every offense; provided, however, that this section shall not apply to the use of any such weapons at any military exercise or review or target practice duly authorized by the military authorities of this State, or by the Common Council or the Mayor, or in the lawful defense of the person, family or property of any citizen; and, provided further, that this section shall not apply to the discharge of blank cartridges, fire crackers, rockets, bombs, torpedoes, or other fire works on private property not within the limits of any public street, lane, highway or other public place of said City on the Fourth day of July, or on the Fifth day of July in cases in which the Fourth day of July shall fall on Sunday, the first day of the week."

AMONG OUR NEIGHBORS

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The Rev. C. W. Attlee, of this place, will move tomorrow to West End avenue, North Plainfield. Mr. Attlee is pastor of the First Baptist church and in the short time he has been here has made a host of friends who will be sorry to see him leave.

Elias Bailley has sold to a New York realty company his farm on South Plainfield avenue, together with a large tract of woodland.

The South Plainfield Juniors and the P. H. S. Freshmen clash for the first on Friday in the first series of games on Crescent Oval.

The South Plainfield A. C. and the Scotch Plains Baptist church team play next Saturday on the home grounds.

CITY FATHERS APPROVE PUBLIC PARK SCHEME

The Common Council at its June meeting, last night, put itself on record as favorable to the proposition to establish a public park in the West End of the city, as proposed by the Plainfield Park Association. The matter was discussed during a long recess, and afterward Mr. Mygatt, chairman of the public affairs committee, presented the map of the proposed park, together with the offer of the association to deed certain land for a park, free of incumbrance, and that the city agree to open up and lay out Albert street through this tract and pay one-half of the cost for macadamizing. The matter was laid on the table, simply being read for information. Each member will receive a copy of the resolution. Last night's action does not bind the city to the proposition.

Mr. Montgomery objected to the action, because he explained it would mean that the city would be paying to open up a road in North Plainfield which he did not think it had a right to do. It so happens that a portion of Albert street, which it is proposed to open up is in North Plainfield, although it was explained that it would belong to the city and be under its jurisdiction and subject to its control. There will be further consideration of the matter before a final vote is taken.

Mr. Holt said that he had heard considerable criticism about these jaunts without a full report to the council.

Chairman Frank Randolph added that Chief Kiely's stationery all has the stamp of "I. A. P. C.," International Association of Police Chiefs, and this carries weight when doing police business with other departments. This led Mr. Mygatt to ask whether it was necessary for Chief Kiely to attend the conventions to be a member. Mr. Randolph thought not.

Referring to Mayor Fisk's request for additional policemen, Mr. Montgomery said that this would take time, but he did not think the city so poor that it could not afford to appropriate $100 to send Chief Kiely to Buffalo.

In the opinion of Charles C. Randolph, the heads of all departments would be entitled to the annual excursion, if Chief Kiely is extended the privilege. He referred to Street Commissioner Gavett, who he said should be sent to a convention. He then moved to lay the resolution of Councilman Randolph on the table and Mr. Mygatt seconded the motion. On the roll call this was lost, Councilman Mygatt, C. C. Randolph, and President Tolles voting in the affirmative and Councilmen Buxton, Clay, Gloak, Holt, Montgomery, Frank Randolph, Taylor and Wilson in the negative.

Another amendment was then offered by Mr. Holt which was adopted by a vote of eight to three. This provides that the sum of $100 or so much as may be necessary be appropriated to send Chief Kiely to the convention of police chiefs in Buffalo, June 16-19, the chief to make a detailed report of the ocnvention and his expenses to the police board.

Gov. Fort to Speak.

Gov. Fort will attend the sixtieth annual convention of the American Medical Association to be held at Atlantic City beginning today. It is expected that 5,000 physicians will attend the convention and Governor Fort will make the address of welcome. There will be twelve different conventions or sections in session every day until Friday.

Manning Drops Dead.

Alexander Manning, a farmer, seventy-two years of age, dropped dead at his home in New Market about 10 o'clock this morning. The cause of death was heart failure. Mr. Manning was well known in New Market and vicinity for a number of years as a prosperous farmer.

CROWDS AT OPENING OF K. OF C. CARNIVAL

With a crowd of nearly three thousand people at the West End grounds all the evening, the carnival under the auspices of the Knights of Columbus opened last night, and the various attractions did a rushing business. The big auxiliary tent, which is in the centre of the carnival grounds at West Front street and Grant avenues, is surrounded by novelty booths, flower stalls and refreshment tables, and is in charge of Mrs. Edward Feiring, assisted by a large corps of women. The palmistry tent, in charge of Michael Regan, is situated near the entrance to the grounds, and is near the large merry-go-round, where David B. Boyle is in charge, assisted by Geo. Taylor and Francis J. Rinehart. The carnival circus is in charge of Thos. Strapp, assisted by Joseph O'Keefe, and many patronized the "bully" given there. The "Mirror of Luck," a tent of mystery, is in charge of Peter Duffie.

The Franklin Minstrels did not give their performance at the show grounds last night, but will be ready to don the burnt cork for tonight. The show includes some of the newest song hits and an exceptionally brilliant assortment of semi-circle wit. The carnival will last the entire week.

Preached to Crowd from Barrel.

John Balsat, who lives at 125 Pine street, Elizabethport, was arrested Sunday afternoon for acting in what was regarded as a peculiar manner. The man had a Bible in his hand and perched on a barrel was haranguing and preaching to a large crowd which was dispersed by the police. Balsat refused to move, so the patrol wagon had to be summoned. He resisted the officers, but was finally subdued and as he was clearly demented he was taken direct to the county jail, where he will be subjected to a medical examination.

In Borough Police Court.

Alex Zellek was arrested on Somerset street yesterday afternoon by Chief Marshal Weiss for riding his wheel on the side walk. He was fined $1 by Borough Recorder Dolliver last night. Sentence was suspended on George Rennir, of Stony Brook place, who got into a "chewing match" with a Mrs. Jardow of the same location.

—Neuman Bros. are receiving daily large shipments of Jersey strawberries, the choicest fruit in the market; also fine Jersey peas.

Savings and Checking Account

"There are certain persons who can afford to have a savings bank account only, such as the laborer or the artisan. These men pay for the necessities of life—that is, rent, food and clothes with cash. The surplus they put into a savings bank for a rainy day or as a nucleus for a home.

"On the other hand, a clerk, teacher, secretary, salesman or housekeeper, who has to pay out a certain sum of money every month, can easily have a checking account. The fact that a man or woman has a checking account need not shut out the possibility of having a savings-bank account, too. One does not interfere with the other. The savings account is worth while if it only attracts a few dollars each month. Money thus put away works all the time, and is a reserve to fall back upon in case of emergency. There are many well-to-do persons who have big checking accounts who also maintain accounts in savings-banks. Some keep them for their children."—Saturday Evening Post.

SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS

Former Governor E. C. Stokes will make the address at the first commencement of the Glassboro High School Wednesday evening.

The annual parade of the Bayonne Sunday-school, which was not held on Saturday, because of the rain, will take place next Saturday.

Falling down stairs at his home, 218 Sycamore street, Camden, yesterday, Brindley Bethel, twelve years old, was injured about the head and shoulders.

Flames destroyed the storage-house of the Salvation Army, 205 Mickle street, Camden, yesterday, causing a total loss of $16,000, of which $3,000 was in goods donated for the poor of the city.

Pall de Tarentz, 1236 Peter street, Camden, put his head out of a Haddon avenue trolley car yesterday and a car on the next track hit him. His scalp was terribly torn. He was taken to the Cooper Hospital.

Eduardo Petrosina, of 94 Lafayette street, Paterson, who is employed as a wood turner in a Paterson bobbin factory, while turning some rough material on a turning machine last Saturday, met with a serious accident. Two fingers were badly lacerated on a circular saw.

John B. Whital, president of the Gloucester County Historical Society, has received five boxes of books and one box of ancient war relics, including a flintlock musket carried at the battle of Bunker Hill, the gift of the late Colonel W. H. Snowden, of Virginia. A committee has been appointed to secure a suitable place to keep the relics.

Confused because of the conductor of the car on which she was riding did not signal to stop where she wished to get off, Pauline Yovski, a servant employed in the western part of the city, deliberately walked from the rapidly moving car late Saturday night and was seriously injured. She was unconscious when picked up and at Mercer Hospital it was feared that she is injured internally.

Lewis Silverstein, of North Clinton avenue, Trenton, had a wonderful escape from injury yesterday afternoon, when he fell from a rapidly moving car on the Lambertville division of the New Jersey and Pennsylvania Traction Company at a point just above Taylorsville. At Mercer Hospital it was found he was suffering from shock alone. Silverstein's body did not show even signs of a scratch or bruise.

Rev. M. S. Callan brought the celebration of his twenty-fifth year in the priesthood to a close yesterday by celebrating his anniversary mass yesterday morning at St. Mary's church, Paterson. Yesterday afternoon he dined with about twenty-five other priests, principally of Paterson, but among them were former priests of St. Mary's church and his classmates. Of the class of eight which graduated with Father Callan there are only three survivors besides himself.

Mrs. Barkowskie, of 560 Straight street, Paterson, while attending the services at the corner-stone laying of St. Stephen's Polish Catholic church, at Bond and Martin streets, Sunday afternoon, laid her pocketbook, containing $140, beside her on the grass. When the services were over she walked away without thinking of her pocketbook. The woman is heartbroken, as it was all the money she had in the world, and her husband has been out of work for the past six months.

J. Anderson Shinn, an inspector representing the State motor vehicle department, is investigating the accident, near Toms River, by which Miss Fannie Marlatf was struck and severely injured by a racing auto, presumably belonging to Mozart Lesser, of New York. If the statements of some of the eye-witnesses are corroborated, as to the alleged racing of this auto with a campanion car at the time the girl was hurt, it is understood that action will be taken by the State department.

Since Professor Harry J. Neal resigned the principalship of the Lakewood public schools to remove to Bridgeton, the Board of Education has had its hands full trying to find a suitable successor. At last they decided upon Professor Adrain H. Courtney, of Walden, N. Y., and offered him a salary of $2,100 a year. Professor Courtney, however, has accepted the principalship at Hempstead, Long Island, and declined the job. Now the board must make a new selection.

Jubilee services were held all day Sunday at Broadway M. E. church, Camden, in celebration of the liquidation of the church debt. Broadway is the largest church in the New Jersey Conference, and its house of worship cost $139,189.97. The morning service was of a congratulatory and social character, and at the main afternoon meeting an address was made by Dr. George H. Hemingway, pastor of the First Presbyterian church. In the early evening the Damrosch Cornet Band rendered sacred music at an open air rally, at the conclusion of which the exterior of the edifice was brilliantly illuminated. After a sermon by Rev. Dr. Robert Forbes, the exercises concluded with a jubilee procession.

With trains rushing over them scarcely a foot from where they laid, five boys were found asleep in a narrow opening of the Pennsylvania Railroad's elevated road at Twelfth and Federal streets, Camden, at 2:30 o'clock yesterday morning by Patrolmen Smith, Bakley and Eisenhardt. The entrance to the lad's rendezvous was so narrow that the policemen could not get through and they had to coax the boys out to be arrested. Three of the boys were surrendered to their parents, who accompanied the officers to the "camp." Paul Barr, sixteen years old, and Charles Rittner, sixteen years old, and Charles Rittner, thirteen years old, were arrested as runaways. Barr's home is in New Orleans and he tells the police that he was lift to shift for himself by a horseman with whom he came North.

Assault Case Postponed.

The case of Mrs. Ida F. Bruggy against Officer William McCracken for $500 damages, for an alleged assault, which was to have been called before Judge Clark McK. Whittemore, in the District Court at Elizabeth yesterday morning, was postponed for one week. McCraken will be represented by City Attorney James E. Connolly, J. P. Kelly appearing for the plaintiff.

Mrs. Frank Maslan, of New York, has been visiting Mrs. Conrad Singlinger, of Harrison avenue, the borough.

Miss Edna Swain, of the Montclair Normal School, who has been visiting her home for several days, her returned.

ROSALIND AT RED GATE

By

MEREDITH NICHOLSON

Illustrations by RAY WALTERS

Copyright, 1909, by Bobbs-Merrill Company

She shrugged her shoulders, drew the scarlet cloak more closely about her, and I left her gazing off into the strip of wood that lay close upon the inland side of the clubhouse. I was by no means sure of her, but there was not time for further parley. I dropped the blue cloak on a chair in a corner and hurried round to the door of the ballroom, meeting Rosalind and Gillespie coming out flushed with their dance.

"The hour of enchantment is almost past. I must have one turn before the princess goes back to her castle!"—and Rosalind took my arm.

"Meet me at the landing in two minutes, Gillespie! As a special favor—as a particular kindness—I shall allow you to take the princess home!" And I hurried Rosalind away, regained the blue cloak and flung it about her.

"Well," she said, drawing the hood over her head, "who am I now, anyhow!"

"Don't ask me such questions! I'm afraid to say."

"I like your air of business. You are undoubtedly a man of action!"

"I thank you for the word. I'm breathing hard. I have seen ghosts and communicated with dragons. She's here! Your alter ego is on this very veranda more angry than it is well for a woman to be."

"Oh," she faltered, "she found out and followed?"

"She did; she undoubtedly did!"

As we paused under one of the veranda lamps she looked down at the cloak and laughed.

"So this is hers! I thought it didn't feel quite right. But that pair of gloves!"

"It's in my pocket. I have stolen it!" I led the way to the lower veranda of the casino, which was now deserted. "Stay right here and appear deeply interested in the heavens above and the waters under the earth until I get back."

I ran up the stairs again and found Helen where I had left her.

"And now," I said, giving her my arm," you will not forget the rules of the game! Your fortunes and your father's are brighter to-night than they have ever been. You hate me to the point of desperation, but remember I am your friend after all."

She stopped abruptly, hesitating. I felt indecision in the lessening touch upon my arm, and I saw it in her eyes as the light from the ballroom door flooded us.

"You have taken everything away from me! You are playing Reginald against me."

"Possibly—who knows! I supposed you had more faith in your powers than that!"

"I have no faith in anything," she said, dejectedly.

"Oh, yes, you have! You have an immense amount of faith in yourself. And you know you care nothing at all about Reginald Gillespie; he's a nice boy, but that's all."

"You are contemptible and wicked!" she flared. "Let us go."

Gillespie's launch was ready when we reached the pier, and after he had handed her into it he plucked my sleeve, and held me for an instant.

"Don't you see how wrong you are! She is superb! She is not only the most beautiful girl in the world, but the dearest, the sweetest, the kindest and best. You have served me better than you know, old man, and I'm grateful!"

In a moment they were well under way and I ran back to the clubhouse and found Rosalind where I had left her.

"We must go at once," she said. "Father will be very anxious to know how it all came out."

"But what did you think of Buttons?"

"He's very nice," she said.

"Is that all? It doesn't seem conclusive, some way!"

"Oh, he's very kind and gentle, and anxious to please. But I felt like a criminal all the time."

"You seemed to be a very cheerful criminal. I suppose it was only the excitement that kept you going."

"Of course that was it! I was wondering what to call it. I'm afraid the sisters at the convent would have a less pleasant word for it."

"Well, you are not in school now; and I think we have done a good night's work for everybody concerned. But tell me, did he make love acceptably?"

"I suppose that was what he was doing, sir," she replied, demurely, averting her head.

"Suppose?" I laughed.

"Yes; you see, it was my first experience. And he is really very nice, and so honest and kind and gentle that I felt sorry for him."

"Ah! You were sorry for him! Then it's all over. I'm clear out of it. When a woman's is sorry for a man—tchk! But tell me, how did his advances compare with mine on those occasions when we met over there by St. Aka-tha's? I did my best to be entertaining."

"Oh, he is much more earnest than you ever could be. I never had any illusions about you, Mr. Donovan. You just amuse yourself with the nearest girl, and, besides, for a long time you thought I was Helen. Mr. Gillespie is terribly in earnest. When he was talking to me back there in the corner I didn't remember at all that it was he who drove a goat-team in Central park to rebuke the policeman!"

"No; I suppose with the stage properly set—with the music and the stars and the water—one might forget Mr. Gillespie's mild idiosyncrasies."

"But you haven't told me about Helen. Of course she saw through the trick at once."

"She did;" I answered, in a tone that caused Rosalind to laugh.

"Well, you wouldn't hurt poor little me if she scolded you!"

We were on the pier, and I whistled to Ijima to bring up the launch. In a moment we were skimming over the lake toward the Tippecanoe.

Arthur Holbrook was waiting for us in the creek.

"It is all right," I said. "I shall keep the papers for the present, if you don't mind, but your troubles are nearly over." And I left Rosalind laughingly explaining to her father how it came about that she had gone to the casino in a scarlet cloak but had returned in a blue one.

CHAPTER XXII.

Mr. Gillespie's Diversions.

In my own room I drew the blinds for greater security, lighted the desk-lamp and sat down before the packet Gillespie had given Rosalind. It was a brown commercial envelope, thrice sealed, and addressed: "R. Gillespie; Personal." In a corner was written "Holbrook Papers." I turned the packet over and over in my hands, reflecting upon my responsibility and duty in regard to it. Henry Holbrook, in his anxiety to secure the notes, had taken advantage of Gillespie's infatuation for Helen to make her his agent for procuring them, and now it was for me to use the forged notes as a means of restoring Arthur Holbrook to his sister's confidence. The way seemed clear enough, and I went to bed resolving that in the morning I should go to Henry Holbrook, tell him that I had the evidence of his guilt in my possession and threaten him with exposure if he did not cease his mad efforts to blackmail his sister.

I rose early and perfected my plans for the day as I breakfasted. A storm had passed round us in the night and it was bright and cool, with a sharp wind beating the lake into tiny white-caps. It was not yet eight o'clock when I left the house for my journey in search of Henry Holbrook. The envelope containing the forged notes was safely locked in the vault in which the Glenarm silver was stored. As I stepped down into the park I caught sight of Miss Pat walking in the garden beyond the wall, and as I lifted my cap she came toward the iron gate. She was rarely abroad so early and I imagined that she had been waiting for me.

"You are abroad early, my lord," she said, with the delicious quaint mockery with which she sometimes flattered me. And she repeated the lines:

Hast thou seen ghosts? Hast thou at midnight heard
In the wind's talking an articulate word?
Or art thou in the secret of the sea,
And have the twilight woods confessed to thee?

"No such pleasant things have happened to me, Miss Holbrook."

"This is my birthday. I have crowned myself; observe the cap!"

"We must celebrate! I crave the privilege of dining you to-night."

"You were starting for somewhere with an air of determination. Don't let me interfere with your plans."

"I was going to the boathouse," I answered, truthfully.

"Let me come along. I am turned 65, and I think I am entitled to do as I please; don't you?"

"I do, indeed, but that is no reason. You are no more 65 than I am. The cap, if you will pardon me, only proclaims your immunity from the blasts of Time."

"I wish I had known you at 20," she said, brightly, as we went on together.

"My subjection could not have been more complete."

"Do you make speeches like that to Helen?"

"If I do it is with less inspiration."

"You must stop chaffing me. I am not 65 for nothing and I don't think you are naturally disrespectful."

P. H. S. LEAD WHEN PINGRY LEFT THE FIELD

Because of a dispute about a decision of G. Stanley Robins, umpire in the Pingry-P. H. S. game at Elizabeth yesterday afternoon, the Pingry team left the field in the fourth inning with the score 5 to 2 in favor of the Plainfielders. As four and a half innings had been played at the time the dispute arose, the local schoolboys claim the game.

Robins, who was base umpire, called Snyder safe at the plate when the local captain tried to score on a short hit to left. The Pingry pitcher got the throw in, and swung at the base-runner, striking him with the back of his glove. The local umpire's decision was based on the fact that the Pingry man did not touch Snyder with the ball. Although the local nine decided to give the out, the Elizabethans refused to continue the game.

The Plainfielders had everything their own way at Elizabeth and had established a safe lead by hard hitting. Van Zandt was in the box, and had good control after the first, when the home team scored four runs. P. H. S. scored two in the second, three in the third and one in the fourth. The disputed steal home would have been the sixth run for P. H. S. Lyness and Giddes won the hitting honors, pushing out three-baggers in succession.

SKELLY AND MILLER BOWL IN POOR FORM

Rolling away below their form, Skelly and Miller lost three games to the O'Keefe-Shannon combination last night at Campbell's alleys.

Jimmy O'Keefe was in a high scoring mood, reaching 219 in his first game and 190 and 199 in the second and third games, respectively.

As a result of these games Skelly and Miller are now but two games ahead of Mathews and Brown for first place with both teams having six games yet to roll.

The scores:

Shannon	219	191	199
O'Keefe	170	170	170
	389	361	369
Skelly	172	153	148
Miller	153	172	176
	325	325	324

BASEBALL.

The game between the Finderne Academy and the Somerville High School should be a corker. Both teams have won one game and this afternoon's contest is the rubber. Somerville defeated the P. H. S. the early part of the season by a close score.

In spite of the fact the P. H. S. team has won more hard fought games than the borough nine. Smith, the N. P. H. S. twirler, has pitched the best ball of any high school pitcher seen in Plainfield this year.

Manager Listman, of the Y. M. C. A. team, says Titus, the High Bridge catcher, is one of the best he has ever seen outside of a league, and it was not his fault the home team won Saturday.

The man who umpires the game tomorrow want to have it all fixed up with wife and mother before he attempts to call out strikes and balls.

Plan Big Race Meet.

The Plainfield Driving Association met last night at the Hotel Iroquois to discuss matters relative to the race meeting to be held here July 5. It was decided to close the entries on June 25. The matinee race meet planned for Saturday will be held at Westfield, on account of the horse show to be held here that day.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson will address the "Frances E. Willard Service" to be held at the Park Avenue Baptist church, Friday night, under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society.

The Ladies' Aid Society of St. Peter's Lutheran church and the Young People's Society will hold an icec ream and strawberry festival in the Sunday-school room of the church the afternoon and evening of Wednesday, June 16.

Elizabeth's "Lid" Was Down.

Although there were indications Sunday that "the lid" was not down very tight in Elizabeth, the city was very orderly and no arrests were made for excise violations, nor were any drunken men to be seen on the street. The police authorities were satisfied with the way the law was being observed and so was Mayor Mravlag.

BISHOP GREER OFFICIATES.

Groom Is Rector of St. George's, New York, Where the Ceremony Takes Place.

Miss Caroline Minturn Hall, daughter of Mrs. David Prescott Hall, formerly of this city, and grandparents of Mrs. Julia Ward Howe, known to fame as the author of "The Battle Hymn of the Republic," was married this afternoon to Rev. Hugh Birckhead, rector of St. George's church, Stuyvesant Square, New York. The wedding took place in the church of which the groom is rector and was witnessed by a large and fashionable throng of people.

Bishop Greer, assisted by the Rev. Dr. William M. Grosvenor, performed the ceremony. Philip G. Birckhead, brother of the groom, was the best man, and the ushers were John and Henry M. Hall, Donald McKay Frost, Walter G. Lane, William G. Low, Jr., Dr. Reginald S. Sayre and Frank E. Hagemeyer. Miss Laura Richards and Miss Rosalind Richards, Miss Marion Clark and Miss Louise Clark and Miss Margery Swan and Miss Eleanor Swan were the bride's attendants.

The ceremony was followed by a reception in the Memorial House, adjoining thec hurch, and within a few days the newly-married couple will sail for Europe to spend the summer abroad.

The bride is an artist of distinction, having taken prizes at various foreign exhibitions, notably in Paris. Her painting, "The Oaks," was given a place of prominence in the Paris salon a few years ago.

TO ERECT MANY ARCHES

Charter Day Committee Plans for Building of Six in City and Borough.

THE LIGHTING DECORATIONS.

Public School Pupils to Form "Big Chorus for City Park Meeting—Organizations Active.

Aside from ornamental arches to be erected on the principal business streets of city and borough by fraternal organizations for the Charter Day celebration, the decorating committee, at its meeting last night, decided to erect half a dozen arches in the city and residential streets. The locations of these arches has not been decided upon, but these suggestions have been received with approval: At the county line on the bridge at Somerset street, at Fourth street and Watchung avenue, at Watchung avenue and East Front street, in front of F. L. C. Martin's auto garage on Park avenue, at Somerset street and Lincoln place, and at Watchung avenue and East Sixth street. This arch at Watchung avenue and East Sixth street is to be a double one, centered at the northern point of the park lawn in front of the Crescent Avenue church, and spanning Watchung avenue on one side and Crescent avenue on the other.

The erection of a double arch at this point is favorably considered because of the fact that this has been suggested as the starting point for the running races to be held in connection with the athletic meet, the last day of the celebration. Physical Director G. L. Listman, of the Y. M. C. A., who is chairman of the athletic sports committee, has recommended that these games be held "on this side of the brook," because the bicycle races are to start from a point on Watchung avenue in the borough. Should it be decided to have the running races start at this point, the course will be along Watchung avenue, which will be closed for traffic between East Seventh street and Woodland avenue on the afternoon of the contests.

The Public Service corporation has offered to carry out an elaborate scheme of decoration by electric lights in the streets of the business section. Wires bearing many electric lights will be looped along the curbs on both sides of the streets between the trolley poles and the transversal guys which upport the feed wires will be dotted with lights. This is the scheme of decorative lighting used at a recent civic celebration in Newark, and was suggested by President McCarter.

Pupils of the public school of city and borough will form a chorus for the rendition of patriotic songs at the open-air meeting to be held in the city Park Monday afternoon, the first day of the celebration. There will be more than a hundred pupils in this big chorus, and the singing will be conducted by Herbert Lloyd, musical instructor in the borough schools. A special stand is to be erected in the park for this chorus, which will be made up of boys and girls. Members of this chorus will ride in a float in the parade to be held in the morning.

Muhlenberg hospital will be represented by a float in the celebration parade the first day, and the float will probably be a representation of a hospital ward, with uniformed nurses in attendance. The Red Cross flag will be used in the decorations, the color scheme for which will be red and white. It has been suggested that this float may be used as an emergency hospital in case of necessity. Local physicians have offered their services during the celebration, as has the S. P. C. A., through its president, Mrs. E. S. Hyatt.

The Plainfield Veteran Exempt Firemen's Association is considering seriously of joining in the parade of the firemen in the coming Charter Day celebration. The firemen's parade is set for Tuesday, July 7, and it is hardly conceivable that that event will be a success without the ld vamps in line together with their famous silver carriage and the dozen or so silver trumpets as a side attraction. If they do turn out it will be in civilian dress and they will be seventy-five strong. Provisions will be made for those who are unable to walk to accompany the procession in stages. The sentiment is strongly in favor of this turnout among the veterans and a meeting will be held early next week to make a decision and the final arrangements. In any event the $10,000 carriage will be the show piece in the parade.

SEMINARY PERFORMANCE

A WELL WRITTEN PLAY.

Miss Louise Saunders' Latest Effort Proves Exceptionally Meritorious.

Once upon a time, in the midst of a deep wood, lived a little girl whose name was Elsa. And she was very gentle and good, but not beautiful at all. So when the Prince Minblepeg wished to marry her, the Lord High Bethrothal Maker put his foot down flat. That's where the Fairy came in with her many helpers, the sleepy popples and saucy dandelions, shy wild roses and prim forget-me-nots, Dindlebender, the dwarf, and his gnomes. All these, under Fairy's orders, changed homely good little Elsa into a beautiful Princess with golden hair from the dandelions, big blue eyes from the forget-me-nots, and pink cheeks from the wild roses. Dindlebender made the little girl's nose straight and when the Lord High Bethrothal Maker saw that he withdrew all objections and they lived happy ever after.

This was the highly satisfactory story of Miss Louise Saunders' little play which the pupils of the Seminary enacted yesterday morning to the great joy of their friends and parents. Harvey Worthington Loomis made the music for the songs in the play and it was very, very, happy. The charming musical verse and the quaint humorous dialogue proclaim Miss Saunders to be a very promising aspirant to the mantle which Robert Louis Stevenson let fall upon the shoulders of Mr. Barrie. Indeed the Wodland Princess does not suffer by comparison with that present day classic Peter Pan.

Playwright and musician were fortunate in the cast and scenery of this "first performance." The stage was a "really wood" and it was hard to feel that the flowers and fairy-folk were not really too. So stiff in her joints was Elderberry. Miss Dorothy Quick, so bright and sunny was Buttercup, Miss Elizabeth Benton. Miss Ruth Timpson was more convincing in her later part as the Beautiful Princess than in the role of a homely little girl. But it was a kind and good little Elsa always. No wonder the Prince, Miss Edith Palmer, was very determined to win such a lively princess in spite of the spirited resistence of the Lord High Betrothal Maker, Miss Marion Rocap. No wonder that even the crusty Dindlebender, Miss Katherine Overton, angry as he was at being called from his underground workshop, was ready to do his artistic best for the gentle girl. The Fairy, Miss Dorothy Leal, was sweet enough to be fairy humans as well as flowers. And the flowers—but one must not praise children and flowers. Only one must be very particulraly glad because of the Poppy, Miss Marie Boles, who sang so sweetly and the little Dandelions, Henry Mygatt and Mary Wright, who were bowled over by the breeze.

Baskets and bunches of flowers were showered upon the young artists and Miss Saunders had to reply to persistent cries of "Author." Mrs. Laurens Van Buren, who assisted at the piano and Miss Elvira Kenyon, who designed the arrangement of the stage and managed the play, were both remembered with flowers from the cast.

AUTO AND BICYCLE IN COLLISION ON FRONT STREET

Struck by an automobile driven by Chester H. Briggs, of Albert street, at Front and Somerset street, last night at about 6 o'clock, Edward McNee, fourteen years old, of Madison avenue, who was riding a bicycle, was thrown and his wheel, a brand new one, was wrecked. The lad was uninjured and there was no damage to the machine.

Briggs, who was alone in the car, was turning from Park avenue into West Front street when the accident happened. McNee, who is employed as delivery boy for a Somerset street fish market, was crossing from Somerset into Front street, and the machine struck the rear wheel of his bicycle. McNee took a sudden tumble and the wheel crumbled up, the frame also being badly bent. Briggs immediately stopped the car and when he found that the boy was uninjured, took the bicycle to a repair shop, where he left orders to have the bill for damages sent to him.

MAIL THIEF CONFESSES

John Conkling When Arrested by Inspectors Admits the Crime.

PRISONER IS ARRAIGNED.

Assistant Mailing Clerk Made a Specialty of Rifling Special Delivery Letters.

John Conkling, aged 21 years, an assistant mailing clerk at the local postoffice, was arrested at the office yesterday afternoon by Inspectors Gibbins and Butler, charged with violating section 1609 of the postal laws—stealing money from letters. The clerk made a confession before the inspectors and Postmaster E. H. Bird and later was taken to Jersey City, where today he will be arraigned before United States Commissioner Lindsly Rowe. He was detained at the Hudson County Jail, last night, in default of bail.

Although there was some surprise over the arrest of Conkling, it is said that he had been suspected of wrong-doing for the past two months. When he confessed yesterday, he said that he had been engaged in the practice since last February. It is not believed that he got more than $100 in all. Special delivery letters were his hobby, and many complaints were received from time to time about the non-delivery of such letters or that the contents had been removed.

Conkling was caught yesterday on two "test" letters, one being mailed at the local postoffice at 8.30 o'clock and the other at 9.30 o'clock in the morning. Both were addressed to New York parties. These letters should have been in the mail pouches on the 9:59 and and 12 o'clock trains from Plainfield, but when the inspectors boarded these trains at Westfield and made a search for them they could not be found, indicating that they had not left the postoffice where mailed.

Not finding the two letters the inspectors returned to Plainfield and arranged to have Conkling summoned to Postmaster Bird's office upon his return from dinner. He was accused of taking the letters and then, it is said, made a confession. Both marked letters contained money and this was recovered.

The latter part of May a similar test was made by inspectors, but it just happened that the letters went through all right, but Conkling happened to be off-duty that day. Conkling's method, it is said, was to destory some of the letters after opening them, while in other instances he would remove the contents, seal them again and forward them. Being assistant mailing clerk he helped to handle outgoing and incoming mail, and an investigation showed that most of the missing letters were taken during the morning, when Conkling was left alone for a time.

Conkling was one of the principal witnesses for the Government in the case against former Letter-carrier Daniel McNamara, who was accused and convicted on a similar charge, and it is said tht it was chiefly through his testimony that McNamara was convicted. The clerk, it is said, had been under suspicion for two months and it was at the request of Postmaster Bird that inspectors were sent to Plainfield. He took the matter up with Inspector J. T. Cortelyou, who has charge of the district included in New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania and he planned to send Inspectors Gibbins and Butler here.

Postmaster Bird was first attracted to Conkling as a boy, when he was employed as a special messenger at the office. He was bright and was quick to learn the different lines of work at the office. In October, 1906, he was appointed a sub-clerk and he also served as a sub-carrier for a time. Later he was made assistant mailing clerk, his salary being $900 a year. On July 1 his salary would have been raised to $1,000.

It is said that on his way to Jersey City yesterday, Conkling said that he had spent the money "on girls." He was known to be very popular and had a host of friends. He attracted more attention, perhaps, through his manner of dress, than in any other way. He was the "Beau Brummel" of the local postoffice staff and was always attired in the height of fashion.

Conkling is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Conkling, of Pearl street, and has always lived in this city.

In commenting on the case last night, Postmaster Bird said that he wished he could persuade people to use money orders when sending

PROFESSIONAL TALENT FOR BENEFIT SHOW

Through an invitation extended by Manager William J. Counihan, of the New Plainfield theatre, and "Sam" Cunningham, Leo Connelly, a big star among monologuists on the vaudiville stage in this country today, has consented to appear in theolic of the minstrel show to be given for the benefit of "Tom" Muir at the theatre next Friday and Saturday nights. Mr. Connelly, who is a personal friend of the local theatre men, has played all the houses on both the Orpheum and Keith circuits, and has an unusually clever act. Arrangements are also being made for the appearance of several other big vaudeville acts for the show.

William Crandon-Bevan, who has been busy on the orchestration of the chorus music, now has his work completed and those who have seen the score, arranged for an orchestra of eleven pieces, say he has been unusually successful. The local man, who is well-known in the field of music, has had charge of many of the English pantomines produced in London from year to year, and is now at work on the music for one to be given this year. He is a native of London.

The big minstrel chorus held its second rehearsal at the theatre last night, and there was a big turnout. The rehearsal was in charge of Judge Runyon, and was unusually successful. The chorus will not meet again for practise until Friday night, for tonight and tomorrow night there will be rehearsals of the principals, under the direction of Mr. Runyon.

BURGLARS RANSACKED A BOROUGH BLACKSMITH SHOP

The blacksmith shop of Horace Martin, on Somerset street, was broken into Monday night and the office ransacked. Upon finding no money in the desk the thieves turned everything upside down and when Mr. Martin opened up yesterday morning he found his things strewn all over the office. Investigaion showed that the thieves had entered from the rear. The window in the back door had been broken open and entrance obtained by the help of some empty kegs stood on end.

"It looks to me," said Mr. Martin this morning, "as though it was the work of boys who were looking for loose change. Had they been men they would have stolen a number of horse shoe pads that were in the office."

FINED A DOLLAR FOR MALICIOUS MISCHIEF

George Berry, fourteen years old, of Howard street, North Plainfield, was arrested yesterday by Chief Marshal Weiss for breaking down the fence and stoning the house of Mrs. Mary McClimont, of Duer street. He was brought before Borough Recorder Dolliver last night and was fined $1.

Bennie, his brother Willie, John Kuldosher and five other boys will appear before Recorder Dolliver tomorrow night on a charge of breaking the windows and tearing the shingles off the roof of a barn, on the corner of Dupont and Stone streets, belonging to Clifford Applegate. For the past two months many complaints have been coming to the police that young boys have been prowling around nights and disturbing people in their homes.

WAND'S 1909 DIRECTORY A VALUABLE HANDBOOK.

Wand's 1909 directory for Plainfield, North Plainfield, Westfield, Scotch Plains, Dunellen, Fanwood and Mountainside, has been published and is now being distributed throughout the different towns. It is, perhaps, one of the best and most complete yet compiled by Mr. Wand, being thoroughly up-to-date and filled with valuable information. In addition to the complete list of names in the several towns covered, there is also an excellent business directory.

Appropriate to the forthcoming Charter Day celebration, Mr. Wand has devoted space to setting forth the advantages of Plainfield and North Plainfield, which will prove of interest to all the residents. The directory is substantially bound and intended to stand plenty of hard wear.

Lawn Festival Postponed.

The lawn festival planned to be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Winfield S. Angleman on West Front street, today, under the auspices of the Ladies' Auxiliary of Trinity Commandery, No. 17, K. T., has been postponed until tomorrow on account of the weather. Mme. Carnelita, the celebrated palmist, and Signor Alvinbini, famous as a fortune-teller, have been secured as attractions, and in addition there will be a May pole dance.

Eats Canned Salmon, Dies.

Canned salmon eaten Saturday night resulted Monday night in the death of T. Wesley Blackburn, at No. 17 Lee place. A physician pronounced the case of ptomaine poisoning. Mr. Blackburn was a son of Robert Blackburn, a wealthy paper box manufacturer of Railroad avenue and Taylor street, and was associated with his father in business. He was unmarried.

J. EDMUND SKIFF GIVES FINAL MUSICAL RECITAL

There was a fair sized and sympathetic audience at the First M. E. church last night who listened to some particularly good music under the direction of J. Edmund Skiff, organist of the church. The program as a whole was well rendered, but the choruses are deserving of more than passing notice. Singularly enough the ensemble singing was not applauded notwithstanding it was the best thing on the list, being sung with a shading and expression decidedly pleasing to hear. Of the soloists of the first half of the program Miss Laura A. Gesswein and Fred C. Kreidler were, perhaps, the recipients of the most applause although every number was sung with feeling and good tonal effect. The second half was devoted to a partial rendition of Cowan's "The Rose Maiden," with a chorus of thirty and the following soloists: Miss Bertha van N. Wilis, soprano; Miss B. Mae Rodenbaugh, contralto, and Bertram F. Tallamy, barritone. Every part of this cantata was delightfully sung, particularly the duet "The Rose of Love," by Miss Willis and Mr. Tallamy and the trio "Hast Thou Wandered in the Forest." The final "Bridal Chorus" was a treat worth going miles to hear. Mrs. Harry N. Taylor, the accompanist read the score with appreciation of its meaning and contributed much to the success of the concert. Between the two parts a collection was taken up for the benefit of the choir fund which netted a considerable sum.

A Special Service.

Three will be a special service at the Salvation Army, Second street, tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock. The speaker of the evening will be Rev. C. E. Kemble, of the Monroe Avenue M. E. Church. Several workers from the church will be on hand and a profitable time is expected. A cordial welcome is extended to all.

Will Hold Final Meeting.

The Men's Association of the Church of the Heavenly Rest will hold an important meeting tomorrow night, when a new constitution and by-laws will be adopted. This will be the last meeting of the association for the season and a full attendance is desired.

Pastime A. C. Fair.

The Pastime Athletic Club will hold a fair June 19 at the corner of De Lacy and Jackson avenues. The proceeds will go towards purchasing suits for the team. The committee in charge consists of William Tullard, E. J. La Porte and John Herbert.

DISCHARGES GRAND JURY FOR THE TIME BEING

The Union county May Grand Jury was discharged yesterday, after returning eighty-eight true bills. There was no presentment.

Eighty-eight is more than the average number of indictments. It is understood that a considerable number of them are for selling liquor without a license. Some drug stores were investigated in this connection.

In dismissing the grand inquest Judge Atwater said that he was discharging them subject to the call of the court, as the next Grand Jury will not be called until October and something might arise in the meantime to make it necessary for this body to reconvene.

The members of the Grand Jury are: Foreman, Alexander Gilbert, Plainfield; James H. Alexander, Elizabeth; Captain William C. DeHart, Elizabeth; William M. Oliver, Elizabeth; Joseph J. Carter, Elizabeth; Francis Engel, Elizabeth; Walter . Timms, Elizabeth; Charles C. McBride, Elizabeth; Robert A. Shirrefs, Elizabeth; Arthur Stern, Elizabeth; John H. Cose, Plainfield; Alexander D. FUNERAL SERVICES OF MISS KATHERINE LINCOLN.

The funeral services of Miss Katherine Rutgers Lincoln was held from the home of her niece, Mrs. A. Clinton Wilmerding on Belvidere avenue, yesterday afternoon. There was a large attendance of relatives and a number of friends. Rev. Morgan Ashley, rector of St. Stephen's church, of which Miss Lincoln was a communicant, officiated. There was a large and beaautiful display of floral tributes.

Miss Lincoln was a niece of Henry Bedloe, one of the owners of Bedloe's Island, New York, and was noted as a woman of exceptional beauty. She lived in Plainfield as a young woman and for a number of years sang in Grace church. She also gave a number of private musicales. Afterward when she moved to New York she sang in one of the leading metropolitan churches. The interment was in the family plot in Evergreen cemetery, Elizabeth, which place was the birthplace of Miss Lincoln.

GOLF.

The Englewood Golf Club, over which course the national open championship tournament is to be decided on June 24 and 25, has arranged for an extra day of competitive golf. This will consist of best ball-foursomes, in which amateurs and professionals will team up. As professionals from all over the country will be on hand for practice at Englewood practically all that week, they will be certain to enter heartily into an affair of this kind. The prizes will be given by the Englewood club to the amount of about $250.

According to present plans, this money will be split up into two or three prizes, with the cash end going to the "pro," while his amateur partner will receive the equivalent in plate. No restrictions will be made as to partners—that is, a professional may get any amateur he can, irrespective of club. This competition will take place on Wednesday afternoon, June 23, and consist of eighteen holes, medal play. Added interest may be lent to this affair through the presence of Tom Vardon and George Duncan, two well-known foreign professionals, who have signified their intention of taking part in the open championship. Report has it that Vardon, who has already cabled his entry, expects to sail from the other side on June 16. This would hardly give him time to compete in the preliminary event at Englewood.

At the annual meeting of the Eastern Professional Golfers' Association in New York Monday the challenge for a team match with the Western Professional Golf Association was accepted. The match will be held at Englewood on Tuesday, June 22, and the opposing sides will consist of six or twelve players. In a challenge from the West the suggestion was for teams of six, but the sentiment among the Eastern professionals at yesterday's meeting favored twelve on a side. The exact number, however, will be determined later, or when it is found how many the Western forces can muster.

It was voted to make Alex Smith, the present Eastern champion, captain of the team, and he was also empowered to assist his associates. An effort was made to have a team selected by vote at yesterday's meeting, but it did not meet with general favor, because it is always considered proper for the captain to do the selecting.

The election resulted as follows: President, George Strath; vice-president, Jack Hobens; secretary, H. H. Barker; treasurer, Dave Hunter; executive committee, George Low, chairman; Herbert Strong, A. Finlay, Dave Ogilvie, Tom Anderson, J. G. Jones and Robert Thomson.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson, of the First M. E. church, will preach a special sermon to young people Sunday night.

Rev. J. E. R. Folsom will give an illustrated lecture at the First Baptist Church tonight, telling what the Baptists are doing in New Jersey.

Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson, who was a close personal friend of Miss Frances E. Willard, will tell of her life and character at a meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Park Avenue Baptist church Friday night.

Employes of the Goldy Ribbon Company, of Paterson, noticed seventy-five to one hundred bobbins with yellow Italian hard silk floating down stream past the company's mill. Some of the bobbins were secured, but there were no identification marks upon them.

Arrested in Trenton yesterday afternoon by Detective Brothers, George Bacon was taken to Camden last night to answer a charge of the larceny of two pair of gold eyeglasses, a revolver and several articles of clothing from Fred Simon. The two men boarded at 941 Pearl street.

Max M. Pullman, who recently had his brother-in-law, Samuel and Louis Kohn, haled to court on a charge of assault, had a notice published in the Passaic papers yesterday that he would no longer be responsible for his wife's debts, as "she has left his bed and board by ejecting him from his house."

Irresistible attraction of fine jewels was the excuse offered by fourteen-year-old Salina Richardson in the Juvenile Court before Judge Higbee in Atlantic City yesterday as the cause of her stealing several diamond rings and a gold watch from a family who employed her as nurse girl in one of the local hotels.

It was announced in Trenton yesterday that in all likelihood Dr. Thomas H. MacKenzie will run for Mayor of Trenton this fall on the Republican ticket, the Democrats taking for the second time Dr. Walter Madden. This will make the doctors run against each other, and the scalpel will likely be the campaign emblem.

Blood poisoning following the picking of a pimple on her chin last night caused the death in Cooper Hospital of Mrs. Ray Frost, twenty-three years old, of 940 Haddon avenue, Camden. Mrs. Frost pricked the pimple Friday, the malady developed Saturday and its progress was so fast that the hospital doctors were unable to check it.

Pasquale Rumaino, a resident of Germantown, tried to commit suicide near Dayton yesterday by jumping in front of a New Brunswick trolley car. The car fender hit and threw his body into the marsh, breaking his shoulder and otherwise badly bruising him. He is in St. Francis's Hospital, Trenton, now, and says: "I was sick in the head."

Alleging false arrest and contending that his practise at Collingswood has been ruined and that he has had to go elsewhere to earn a livelihood, Dr. C. Jerome Massinger yesterday instituted suit in the New Jersey Supreme Court against Richard V. Aitken for $50,000. The suit is another outcome of the troubles of the defunct Standard Trust Company of Philadelphia, of which Dr. Maesinger was vice-president.

By the will of the late Dr. W. E. Hall, of Burlington, admitted to probate yesterday, his widow, Mrs Mary E. Hall, is made sole executor and beneficiary during her lifetime, with the exception of some minor bequests. In honor of his daughter, the Isabel Minch Hall memorial fund is established to provide annual rewards of merit for pupils of the primary department of the First Baptist Sunday-school. Numerous bequests of $1,000 each are made to relatives, to be distributed after Mrs. Hall's death.

It was reported in Paterson yesterday that commuters on the Erie who have heretofore been paying $5.80 a month for their transportation between Paterson and New York and proportionate amounts between Paterson and other places, will on July 1 be given the chance to pay $1 a month more for their traveling tickets if they desire to use the McAdoo tubes to Manhattan or to Hoboken or to the Pennsylvania Depot in Jersey City. Those who would rather save the dollar can travel as before, by way of the Erie's ferryboats, it is said.

A caveat has been filed against the will of the late Sarah Jane Duryea, and the citations are returnable in court, before Judge Scott, in Paterson, when a date will be set for a hearing on the matter. William Burhans, a nephew, is contesting the document. The caveat does not set forth the reason for the contest, though it is said that Mr. Burhans is dissatisfied with the distribution of the estate, and it is said that he claims undue influence was exerted over Mrs. Duryea in disposing of a portion of her property. Mrs. Duryea left a large estate. She had only one child. She distributed her property among some of her relatives.

JERSEY CITY CAN SELL WATER.

Court Declares Municipal Plant Can Supply Pennsylvania Railroad Shops.

Jersey City's right to supply the Kearney shops of the Pennsylvania Railroad with water under a tweney-five year contract of January 1, 1908, was sustained by the Supreme Court in an opinion filed by Judge Swayze yesterday at Trenton.

The court finds authority for the contract in the act of 1897, making it lawful for any municipality owning or controlling water works to contract with an adjoining municipal corporation or private corporation therein to furnish a supply of water for a term of years. The contract was attacked by the town of Kearney and by private corporations.

STRAWBERRIES CHEAP; FIELDS ARE ABANDONED.

The strawberry-picking season of Sussex county, Delaware is nearing the end and only the later varieties are now being gathered for marketing. Notwithstanding the high prices paid for the first of the season, farmers say the financial returns have been disappointing.

Many farmers in that section have stopped picking, finding that the prices do not warrant employing pickers. Many of the largest growers have thrown open their fields to the townspeople and are allowing them to have all the berries they want for the trouble of picking them, while the growers in the districts further off are allowing the berries to lie in the fields and rot, before they will take the trouble and undergo the expense of having them picked.

He's a Strong Man.

When the Plainfield theatre reopens next Monday afternoon a feature act will be Atlas Korwelli. He allows an automobile, carrying five passengers, to run over his back, a trick never before attempted. He also lifts a cannon with his head while the car is on his back and, lighting the fuse, shoots the cannon off. He does this seemingly impossible feat twice a day and does not seem to mind it. Five other big acts will complete the bill which will be the best offered this season.

JR. O. U. A. M. FUNERAL BENEFIT ASS'N MEETS

The United States Funeral Benefit Association of the Jr. O. U. A. M., opened its twenty-eighth annual convention at Long Branch yesterday with President George H. Harris, of Philadelphia, in the chair. Of the four lodges in this city only one was represented, Somerset. This is accounted for by the fact that the delegates of Franklin lodge was unable to go and the other lodges are not members of the U. S. Funeral Benefit Association. However, New Jersey was well represented, having 136 delegates present. There were 300 delegates representing twenty States. The reading of annual reports and the settling of several disputed death claims occupied most of the time of the morning session. The Long Branch Board of Trade conducted the larger part of the visitors on an outing which included trips to Red Bank and the Highlands of Navesink, returning to Long Branch by boat and trolley. Many of the delegates were accompanied by their wives and according to all reports are having the time of their lives.

On Monday evening a public reception was held which was attended by about 500 persons. J. A. Stratton, president of the board of trade, presided, having been introduced by P. Hall Packer, of Seabright, chairman of the committee on credentials of the association. Rev. Dr. John G. Lovell, of the First Presbyterian church, made the address of welcome which was happily acknowledged by President Harris. Other addresses were made by Alexander H. De Camp and Treasurer Bacharach, of Philadelphia; Rev. Dr. F. A. De Maris, of Long Branch, and P. Hall Packer. Yesterday the women of the party were taken out for an automobile trip around the shore country. The results of the deliberations of the enventinn will be knwn after the meeting of the local lodges next Monday night.

REGIMENT PREPARES TO GO TO SEA GIRT

The local members of the Second Regiment of the National Guard are actively engaged for the present in completing arrangements for the initial hike to Sea Girt and the annual summer encampment at the shore. A party of the field officers of the regiment, in charge of Colonel Nelson Y. Dungan, yesterday went over the proposed route to be taken, and have arranged to conduct the line of march in the following manner:

The first detachment, consisting of the Trenton companies and Company F, of Lambertville, will leave Trenton on Saturday afternoon, August 7, to encamp over night near Edinburg ,where Company L, of Princeton, will join them. On Sunday morning the march will be resumed under the command of Major Horace M. Reading, to Manalapan and Freehold, where they will unite with the second detachment, consisting of Co. K, of this city, and others, in command of Major William B. Martin.

The united regiment will complete the march, from Freehold to the shore, a total distance from this city of 44 miles, arriving at Sea Girt early on the afternoon of the 10th.

The mounted officers of the regiment will make the journey on horseback, and will be accompanied by a regimental baggage train of company wagons and ambulances. The men of the regiment will march the entire distance equipped with a rifle, haversack, shelter tent and poncho.

A meeting of the field officers and company commandants will be held today to arrange the final details of the march. The officers and enlisted men are very enthusiastic over the march, and are making all necessary preparations for the journey.

GEO. VEZ, WHO KILLED HIS WIFE, MUST DIE

Slayer Who Confessed is Tried, Convicted and Sentenced at New Brunswick.

George Vez, the confessed slayer of his wife at Perth Amboy on May 17 last, was tried yesterday at New Brunswick, found guilty and sentenced to die during the week beginning July 26. His counsel, Senator George S. Silzer, offered no defense beyond stating there was no edliberation on the part of the defendant.

Justice Bergen charged the jury and they retired, returning in a short time with the verdict. Vez was sentenced to be electrocuted during the week beginning July 26. After being sentenced he told one of the court officials: "Me a good Hungarian. Me die today or tomorrow, me no care."

NINE ENDEAVORERS HAVE NOT MISSED A MEETING

The closing exercises of the junior C. E. Society of Warren chapel, were held yesterday afternoon. A lawn party was enjoyed by fifty children who played games. Late in the afternoon the junior room prizes were awarded. Those who had not missed a single meeting during the year were given prizes. The lucky ones were: Edwin Lance, Elston Lance, Letha Hoagland, Elsie Perrine and Lillian Smith. Handsome Bibles were awarded. Those who had not missed a single meeting in three years received a junior C. E. gold pin. They were Edna Gillen, Mattie Smith, Grace Wakefield and Charles Wakefield.

The honorary list, those who missed attendance not more than twice during the year, was composed of Evelyn Bacon, Florence Cornwell, Selina Cornwell, Louis Chandler, Anna Johnson, Elsie Kurzhall, Bertha Martin, Henrietta Stewart, Marie Van Winckle. The prizes were presented by Mrs. Joseph O. McKelwey, the superintendent. Refreshments were served. Mrs. McKelvey was assisted by Mrs. J. H. Snyder and others.

To Fight for Old Tutor.

Learning that the Board of Education had requested the resignation of Henry E. Harris, principal of Public School, No. 1, Bayonne, petitions protesting against his removal were circulated and signed by many of Mr. Harris's former pupils, who include numerous prominent citizens. Mr. Harris has been teaching for forty years. Recently three other veteran principals, George A. Atwater, Philip G. Vroom and Ebenezer C. Earl, were retired and young men named as their successors.

Savings and Checking Account

"There are certain persons who can afford to have a savings bank account only, such as the laborer or the artisan. These men pay for the necessities of life—that is, rent, food and clothes with cash. The surplus they put into a savings bank for a rainy day or as a nucleus for a home.

"On the other hand, a clerk, teacher, secretary, salesman or housekeeper, who has to pay out a certain sum of money every month, can easily have a checking account. The fact that a man or woman has a checking account need not shut out the possibility of having a savings-bank account, too. One does not interfere with the other. The savings account is worth while if it only attracts a few dollars each month. Money thus put away works all the time, and is a reserve to fall back upon in case of emergency. There are many well-to-do persons who have big checking accounts who also maintain accounts in savings-banks. Some keep them for their children."—Saturday Evening Post.

WILL ENGAGE EXPERT COUNSEL FOR ELIZABETH

Bond Issue Proposed Will Be Referred Before Taking Definate Action.

Expert counsel will be engaged by Elizabeth before any steps are taken for the readjustment of the city debt, according to a resolution adopted by the City Council Monday night.

It was suggested by Chairman John S. Saner, of the finance committee, that bonds be issued in the sum of $2,760,000, less the premium, at a public sale. Several reasons were given and instances were cited to show that a public sale would yield the best results, and the Mayor announced that he was opposed to that plan.

The matter was not decided last night, however, because City Attorney James C. Connolly advised the Council that it had better secure the advice of expert financial counsel before taking any steps.

The matter of toning down the Independence Day celebration here by ordinances prohibiting the sale of fire-arms, except under drastic restriction, will come up at the next meeting of the Council. Many members are said to be opposed to the measure as too sweeping in its scope.

The S. P. C. A. was given permission to erect fountains at North Broad street and Westminister avenue and at Elizabeth avenue and Third street.

BIG PASSAIC PLANT MUST BE RESOLD

Second Disposal of Steel Works to be Conducted by Former Chancellor Magie.

After hearing numerous affidavits and arguments by counsel representing the various interests involved in the Passaic steel plant litigation, Judge Lanning, in the United States Court, at Trenton, late Monday afternoon ordered a new sale of the plant to be made under the direction of former Chancellor William J. Magie.

In disposing of the case Judge Lanning said that the order was made with the understanding that the bond-holders should file a bond in the sum of $250,000, guaranteeing that they bid that amount as a first bid when the resale takes place.

In placing the sale in charge of the former chancellor of New Jersey, Judge Lanning said that it was not done with any intention of disapproving or reflecting in any manner upon the receivers who conducted the sale which was set aside yesterday.

The property brought $190,000 at the receivers' sale. This amount, the bond-holders claimed, was inadequate, and charged that the sale was conducted illegally.

MAY PLAY BALL DESPITE $200 FINE

Owner of Athletic Club at Atlantic City Has Not Yet Made Up His Mind.

Atlantic City, June 9.—Edward L. Bader, secretary and treasurer of the Athletic Club, of this city, was arrested Monday on complaint of Chief of Police Malcolm B. Woodruff, given a hearing before Recorder Keffer and fined $200 for violating the city ordinance for the suppression of vice and immorality by conducting a game of baseball in the Inlet Park Sunday.

Commodore Kuehnle, who is the real head of the Athletic Club, was asked if there would be any further games, and said he would give his final decision in the matter in the course of a couple of days.

Many of the leading men of the city attended the game, and even Recorder Keffer occupied one of the boxes. In taking the fine the recorder announced that he was averse to accepting it, but the ordinance made it mandatory that the fine should be $200 and left him no discretionary power whatever.

STATE'S TAX BOARD CUTS AN ASSESSMENT.

Central Railroad Gets Reduction on Elizabeth Property from $63,000 to $56,500.

The assessment on the strip of land owned by the Central Railroad at 1116 to 1228 East Broad street, Elizabeth, was reduced from $63,000 to $56,000 by the State Board of Equalization at its meeting Monday morning. Charles and Margaret Schmicker petitioned to have their $11,000 assessment reduced to $9,500, but later asked to withdraw the appeal.

The Prudential Insurance Company requested a cancellation of the $1,000 assessment on their office furniture at Elizabeth, because it is already taxed at the home office in Newark. City Attorney Connolly conceded this fact, and the local tax will be abolished.

Conrad Weppler claimed his farm was assessed $7,600 too much, as he was paying for a $12,000 piece of land, while the proper value, from his view-point, was $5,000. The matter will be considered July 14.

CRYING FOR HELP.

Lots of it in Plainfield but Daily Growing Less.

The kidneys cry for help.

Not an organ in the whole body so delicately constructed.

Not one so important to health.

The kidneys are the filters of the blood.

When they fail the blood becomes foul and poisonous.

There can be no health where there is poisoned blood.

Backache is one of the first indications of kidney trouble.

Doan's Kidney Pills are what is wanted.

Are just what overworked kidneys need.

They strengthen and invgorate the kidneys; help them to do their work; never fail to cure any case of kidney disease.

Read the proof from a Plainfield citizen.

Mrs. M. Newman, 532 West Fifth street, Plainfield, N. J., says: Violent headaches and a constant pain in my limbs were the pricnicapl symptoms of my kidney trouble. When I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised, I procured a box at Randolph's Pharmacy and soon after I began taking them, the pains in my head and limbs disappeared. I heartily endorse this splendid preparation."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

HER HAIR PULLED OUT BY THE ROOTS

Miss Mary McNamara, of 285 Thirteenth street, Jersey City, employed as a telephone operator in the beef packing establishment of Swift & Co., in Ninth street, met with a peculiar and painful accident Monday morning. She removed a large electric fan to her desk and started it going. The breeze unloosed a wisp of hair that was caught by the blades of the fan. In a few seconds her whole head of hair had been caught and was being pulled out by the roots.

She struggled to free herself and even tried to turn off the electrical current that kept the blades in motion. She was rendered unconscious before other employees could rescue her, and was taken immediately to St. Francis's Hospital. She was placed in a private room, where she will remain for several days.

Scenes of Indian life will be presented by moving pictures, and the great chiefs will be guests at a banquet in Woodruff Hall. Harry J. Rathbone, of Trenton, is great sachem of the great council of this State.

REPUBLICANS WANT A SPECIAL ELECTION.

Seek the Appointment of a Police Commission at Elizabeth Under New Law.

Members of the Republican city committee of Elizabeth are busily circulating a petition calling for a special election to be held in the fall.

The petition asks that in accordance with an act of Legislature approved April 14, voters be permitted to cast a vote on the question of a police commission at the fall election.

Each member of the committee is the bearer of a petition and when signed all petitions will be forwarded to City Clerk John F. Kenah.

Only 5 per cent. of the registered vote, about 700, needed sign, but the members of the committee are endeavoring to secure 1,000 names.

Deer Seek Shelter on Farm.

Five wild deer, a buck and four does, evidently driven from the mountains by some enemy, are seeking refuge on the Lone Oak Farm, near Pinkeyville, three miles from Newton. The animals appeared suddenly one morning after Charles H. Danley, who occupies the farm, heard a commotion around the barnyard during the night. Since then the deer have remained on the Danley farm, which is composed of 319 acres, 175 acres being dense woodland. Twice daily the deer approaches the house and have become so tame that it is possible to get within a few hundred feet of them. Mr. Danley has stated that he will endeavor to make them feel at home, and protect them from unscrupulous hunters. He will begin by using the "salt" method.

ROSALIND AT RED GATE

By MEREDITH NICHOLSON

Illustrations by RAY WALTERS

Copyright, 1908, by Bobbs-Merrill Company

When we reached the boathouse she took a chair on the little veranda and smiled as though something greatly amused her.

"Mr. Donovan—I am 65, as I have said before—may I call you—"

"Larry! and gladden me forever!"

"Then, Larry, what a lot of frauds we all are!"

"I suppose we are," I admitted, doubtfully, not sure where the joke lay.

"You have been trying to be very kind to me, haven't you?"

"I have accomplished nothing."

"You have tried to make my way easy here; and you have had no end of trouble. I am not as dull as I look, Larry."

"If I have deceived you it has been with an honest purpose."

"I don't question that. But Helen has been giving you a great deal of trouble, hasn't she? You don't quite make her out; isn't that true?"

"I understand her perfectly," I averred, recklessly.

"You are a daring young man, Larry, to make that statement of any woman. Helen has not always dealt honestly with you—or me!"

"She is the noblest girl in the world; she is splendid beyond any words of mine. I don't understand what you mean, Miss Holbrook."

"Larry, you dear boy, I am no more blind or deaf than I am dumb! Helen has been seeing her father and Reginald Gillespie. She has run off at night, thinking I wouldn't know it. She is an extremely clever young woman, but when she has made a feint of retiring early, only to creep out and drop down from the dining room balcony and dodge your guards, I have known it. She was away last night and came creeping in like a thief. It has amused me, Larry; it has furnished me real diversion. The only thing that puzzles me is that I don't quite see where you stand."

"I haven't always been sure myself, to be frank about it!"

"Why not tell me just how it is: Whether Helen has been amusing herself with you, or you with Helen."

"Oh!" I laughed. "When you came here you told me she was the finest girl in the world, and I accepted your word for it. I have every confidence in your judgment, and you have known your niece for a long time."

"I have, indeed."

"And I'm sure you wouldn't have deceived me!"

"But I did! I wanted to interest you in her. Something in your eye told me that you might do great things for her."

"Thank you!"

"But instead of that you have played into her hands. Why did you let her steal out at night to meet her father, when you knew that could only do her and me a grave injury? And you have aided her in seeing Gillespie, when I particularly warned you that he was most repugnant to me."

I laughed in spite of myself as I remembered the night's adventure; and Miss Pat stopped short in the path and faced me with the least glint of anger in her eyes.

"I really didn't think you capable of it! She will marry him for his money!"

"Take my word for it, she will do nothing of the kind."

"You are under her spell, and you don't know her! I think—sometimes—I think the girl has no soul!" she said at last.

The dear voice faltered, and the tears flashed into Miss Pat's eyes as she confronted me in the woodland path.

"Oh, no! It's not so bad as that!" I pleaded.

"I tell you she has no soul! You will find it out to your cost. She is made for nothing but mischief in this world!"

"I am your humble servant, Miss Holbrook."

"Then," she began, doubtfully, and meeting my eyes with careful scrutiny, "I am going to ask you to do one thing more for me, that we may settle all this disagreeable affair. I am going to pay Henry his money; but before I do so I must find my brother Arthur, if he is still alive. That may have some difficulties."

She looked at me as though for approval; then went on:

"I have been thinking of all these matters carefully since I came here. Henry has forfeited his right to further inheritance by his contemptible, cowardly treatment of me; but I am willing to forgive all that he has done. He was greatly provoked; it would not be fair for me to hold those things against him. As between him and Arthur; as between him and Arthur—"

Her gaze lay across the twinkling lake, and her voice was tremulous. She spoke softly as though to herself, and I caught phrases of the paragraph of her father's will that Gillespie had read to me: "Dishonor as it is known, accounted and reckoned among men;"—and she bowed her head and on the veranda rail a moment; then she rose suddenly and smiled bravely through her tears.

"Why can't you find Arthur for me? Ah, if you could only find him there might be peace between us all; for I am very old, Larry. Age without peace is like life without hope. I cannot believe that Arthur is dead. I must see him again. Larry, if he is alive find him and tell him to come to me."

"Yes," I said; "I know where he is!"

She started in amazement and, coming close, her hands closed upon my arm eagerly.

"It can't be possible! You know where he is and you will bring him to me?"

She was pitifully eager and the tears were bright in her eyes.

"Be assured of it, Miss Holbrook. He is near by and well; but you must not trouble about him or about anything. And now I am going to take you home. Come! There is much to do, and I must be off. But you will keep a good heart; you are near the end of your difficulties."

She was quite herself again when we reach St. Agatha's, but at the door she detained me a moment.

"I like you, Larry!" she said, taking my hand; and my own mother had not given me sweeter benediction. "I never intended that Helen should play with you. She may serve me as she likes, but I don't want her to singe your wings, Larry."

"I have been shot at in three languages, and half drowned in others, and rewards have been offered for me. Do you think I'm going down before a mere matter of beaux yeux! Think better of me than that!"

"But she is treacherous; she will deliver you to the Philistines without losing a heart-beat."

"She could, Miss Patricia, but she won't!"

"She has every intention of marrying Gillespie; he's the richest man she knows!"

"I swear to you that she shall not marry Gillespie!"

"She would do it to annoy me if for nothing else."

I took both her hands—they were like rose-leaves, those dear slightly tremulous hands!

"Now, Miss Pat—I'm going to call you Miss Pat because we're such old friends, and we're just contemporaries, anyhow—now, Miss Pat, Helen is not half so wicked as she thinks she is. Gillespie and I are on the best of terms. He's a thoroughly good fellow and not half the fool he looks. And he will never marry Helen!"

"I should like to know what's going to prevent her from marrying him!" she demanded as I stepped back and turned to go.

"Oh, I am, if you must know! I have every intention of marrying her myself!"

I ran away from the protest that was faltering upon her lips, and strode through the garden. I had just reached Glenarm gate on my way back to the boathouse when a woman's voice called softly and Sister Margaret hurried round a turn of the garden path.

"Mr. Donovan!"

There was anxiety in the voice, and more anxious still was Sister Margaret's face as she came toward me in her brown habit, her hands clasped tensely before her. She had evidently been watching for me, and drew back from the gate into a quiet recess of the garden. Her usual repose was gone and her face, under its white coif, showed plainly her distress.

"I have bad news—Miss Helen has gone! I'm afraid something has happened to her."

"She can't have gone far, Sister Margaret. When did you miss her?" I asked, quietly; but I confess that I was badly shaken. My confident talk about the girl with Miss Pat but a moment before echoed ironically in my memory.

"She did not come down for breakfast with her aunt or me, but I thought nothing of it, as I have urged both of them to breakfast upstairs. Miss Patricia went out for a walk. An hour ago I tried Helen's door and found it unlocked and her room empty. When or how she left I don't know. She seems to have taken nothing with her."

"Can you tell a lie, Sister Margaret?"

She stared at me with so shocked an air that I laughed. "A lie in a good cause, I mean? Miss Pat must not know that her niece has gone—if she has gone! She has probably taken one of the canoes for a morning paddle; or, we will assume that she has borrowed one of the Glenarm horses, as she has every right to do, for a morning gallop, and that she has lost her way or gone farther than she intended. There are a thousand explanations!"

"But they hardly touch the fact that she was gone all night; or that a strange man brought a note addressed in Helen's handwriting to her aunt only an hour ago."

"Kidnaped!"—and I laughed aloud as the meaning of her disappearance flashed upon me!

"I don't like your way of treating this matter!" said Sister Margaret icily. "The girl may die before she can be brought back."

"No, she won't—my word for it, Sister Margaret. Please give me the letter!"

"But it is not for you!"

E. C. Mertz Finds Intruder in Daughter's Room.

The timely arrival of Emil C. Mertz, of Mertz Brothers, manufacturing jewellers, of Newark, at his home in Joralemon street, Belleville, soon after midnight yesterday morning saved his house from being robbed. He was preparing to retire when he heard a noise in his daughter's room. He went to her room and as he looked behind the door was seized by a burly stranger. The two men struggled out into the hallway, where the burglar freed himself from Mr. Mertz's grasp and dashed down the stairs, followed by Mertz. The fellow ran through the lower hall and leaped through a window.

Mr. Mertz reached the window in time to see the fellow mount a bicycle, which he had concealed at the side of the house, and pedal off. Mr. Mertz then got a revolver and fired five shots at the fleeing burglar.

Matinees will be held tomorrow and Saturday afternoons, commencing at 3 o'clock, with all attractions open. Friday night the students from the Drake Business College will be in charge of the various booths.

New Jersey is to have a dustless road from Trenton to the seashore. Meetings of the representatives of Mercer, Monmouth and Middlesex counties with State Road Commissioner Gilkyson were held in Freehold on Monday and the plans were indorsed.

It is the intention of Commissioner Gilkyson, if these plans go through, to advertise for bids next Tuesday for a dustless road of sand and asphaltum or some other good dustless material.

CONTEST FOR LAWSON CUP.

Results of Afternoon Judging Applauded by Smarty Dressed Crowds at the Ringside.

Lowering clouds, threatening rain every minute, and the damp, chilly atmosphere failed to diminish the ardor and enthusiasm of lovers of blue blooded horses at the Riding and Driving Club's sixth annual horse show which opened today at one o'clock. The attendance was nearly equal to that of a year ago at the opening hour and visitors were constantly arriving in all sorts of conveyances when the judges began to pass on the merits of class 14, novices in the pairs of harness horses. The judges for this class were Walter P. Bliss, Louis Haight and Hamilton H. Salmon. Among the noted horsemen and breeders noticed in the grand stand and field were J. W. Harriman, of Avondale Farm; Chas. H., and Udo M. Fleischman, Somerset Farm; Miss Emily H Bedford, Mrs. Sophie D. Gummey, Miss Mabel B. Hooley, Joseph Larocque, C. W. Mc Cutcheon, Miss Margaret McCutcheon, Tonzo Sauvage, Paul A. Sorg, George Watson and W. J. Buttfield. Many of the prize-winners of the recent Philadelphia show are entered in various classes and the competition will be keen. Interest is centered in the judging today of the 3 pairs harness horses for the cup offered by Thos. W. Lawson and class 36—7 saddle horses ridden by women.

The judges, besides those mentioned above, are Roadsters, Theodore Frelinghuysen, Rensselaer Weston; saddle horses and ponies under saddle, R. Lawrence Smith, James S. Wadsworth; hunters and jumpers, James S. Wadsworth, Clarence F. Levin.

The club has perfected every arrangement for a successful show and all that is needed is fair weather. During the three days of the exhibition Pinkerton men will be in full charge of the grounds. This is the same force that handled affairs at the Bay Shore and Philadelphia horse shows so satisfactorily. This will insure perfect order and guarantee safety to all exhibitors.

An added attraction will be the music to be furnished by a full brass band. The daily programs will consist of all the popular airs of the day and will certainly afford enjoyment to patrons of the show.

During the days of the show the Watchung Hunt Club has planned

DORNAN PLANS LIGHTING EFFECT FOR BIG SHOW

William Dornan, chief electrician of the New Plainfield theatre, is in New York today with Manager W. J. Counihan, completing arrangements for the electrical effects to be used in the monster benefit minstrel show for "Tom" Muir to be held next Friday and Saturday nights. Dornan was chief electrician in charge of Paragon Park, Boston, for several years before coming to the local play-house, and has planned some elaborate lighting effects for the big show. Colored lighting will be a feature, and the soloists will be chased by a regular Broadway spot-light. City Judge William N. Runyon will be the official switchman.

The eight end-men who are to do the solo work in the show met for a rehearsal on the stage of the theatre last night with Mr. Runyon. Several clever dances have been introduced for the singers to use while the 150 members of the blackface chorus are singing the choruses of the songs. There will be another rehearsal of the principals at the theatre tonight, and the chorus will probably put in some more work tomorrow night on the stage.

Tickets are now on sale. Don't delay. Get yours now.

Dennis was found in a helpless condition on East Front street late last night by Patrolman Myers. He said that he had never been arrested before, and sentence was suspended by City Judge Runyon at his hearing in the city court today.

Lecture Postponed.

The illustrated lecture to have been given in the First Baptist church last night was postponed for one week owing to the inclement weather. Rev. Dr. Chambliss received notice of Rev. JOEL D. MANNING DEAD

Well known Resident, an Authority on Farming, Dies in Eighty-fifth Year.

THE FUNERAL ON SATURDAY.

He Bore a Striking Resemblance to Daniel Webster—Two Daughters Survive Him.

Joel D. Manning, one of Plainfield's oldest and most respected residents, died at his home, 518 West Front street, early this morning. Mr. Manning was in his fifty-eighth year and had been seriously ill only recently, although he was stricken with paralysis about seven years ago. He was a successful farmer and had tilled the soil at the old farm on Plainfield avenue for practically all his life. This farm has been in the possession of the family upward of three hundred years, being an original land grant.

Mr. Manning was an intellectual giant as an agriculturalist and was looked up to by his friends as an authority on all subjects pertaining to the farm. He bore a striking resemblance to Daniel Webster and was a man of keen perception and exceptional mentality. He was a life-long meber of the First Baptist church, but did not belong to any of the fraternal organizations of the city.

Mr. Manning leaves two daughters, Misses Harriet and Sarah Manning and a grand-daughter, Emaline, daughter of the late Dr Andrew Manning, also two brothers, Labeus Manning the marble worker, and Daniel Manning, a retired business man. There are also two sisters, Mrs. Catherine Randall, of this city, and Mrs. David Townsend, of Bound Brook. Funeral services will be held at his late home on Saturday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock. Rev. Dr. John A. Chambliss, pastor of the First Baptist church, will offisiate.

HAD TO PAY TAXES BEFORE HE QUIT CITY

Held up by Deputy Tax Collector John H. Cose, the safe and store fixtures of Hyman Brinker, the West Front street jeweler, blocked the sidewalk for nearly two ohurs yesterday afternoon while the jeweler, who has given up his business here, scurried around among his friends until he secured $63.33, which was due the city for back taxes. A. E. Hoagland, the mover, was restrained from moving any of the furniture until the levy had been satisfied, and the big safe stood on the sidewalk until the money has been secured.

Brinker, who is going to New York to continue his business had some of his stock moved out yesterday morning. When the moving men started to take out the last loads of furniture, somebody buzzed the 'phone in Tax Collector W. R. Townsend's office and tipped off the tax official that Brinker was "going away from here." Mr. Townsend got busy right away, and Deputy Collector Cose, accompanied by Patrolman Messler, sprang the bitter truth on the jeweler, showing him the bill. Brinker has been at the West Front street store but a short time, having moved his business from the Stirling building.

JUDGE LECTURES O'CONNOR, WIFE MAKES COMPLAINT.

Upon the complaint of his wife, Jeremiah O'Connor was arrested by Patrolman Payne at their home on Liberty street last night. The woman charged that O'Connor had been on a drunk for several days and had been abusing her. The couple are the parents of six children.

City Judge Runyon took occasion to give O'Connor an earnest talking to at his hearing at court today. The court characterized him as a "mighty poor speciman of a man," and spoke of the example he was giving his children. O'Connor was much impressed by the Judge's presentation of the conditions, and promised that he would give his wife no further cause for complaint. Sentence was suspended, and the couple left the court-room together.

Many Local Entries.

The list of local entries for the forthcoming dog show on Saturday, June 19, is unusually large, and as the kennel clubs in the vicinity of Plainfield have promised not to enter these classes, the competition will be of great interest. A brass band of twelve pieces will furnish music the day of the show.

PLAN A COURT OF HONOR

White Arches and Columns to Form it on West Eighth Street.

THERE'LL BE A MIDWAY, TOO.

Finance Committee to Issue Free Licenses to Local Vendors —The Fund Grows.

Plans for a white court of honor, to be constructed on West Eighth street between Park and Madison avenues, are under consideration by the Charter Day decorating committee, and this court will be the most elaborate of the decorations for the occasion. It is proposed to have a large arch at Park avenue, appropriately inscribed and so constructed that it can be outlined by stringsi of lights at night. At intervals along both sides of the street will be single white shafts, connected by streamers of bunting and strings of lights. The structures are to be of white.

The reviewing stand will be constructed at Truell Inn; and here the guests of the local committe will sit with them as judges in the various parades. At the city park near by, the opening meeting of the celebration will be held Monday afternoon, July 5, when there will be speeches by Former Mayor L. V. F. Randolph and James E. Martine, and patriotic music by a chorus of more than a hundred school children. Mayor Fisk and Mayor Townsend, of North Plainfield will preside at this meeting.

The decorating committee has decided to erect arches at Frant avenue and West Front street, South avenue and Richmond street, Front street at Watchung avenue, and on Somerset street at the county line. The arch at Grant avenue will be an elaborate one, for it is at this point that the automobile parade will form and near by will be the "Galachauen" of the celebration, where an amusement company will probably have booths and tents.

It is planned to have a "Midway," where all sorts of refreshments will be sold, and where there will be various attractions in stalls and booths. Local people who wish to be vendors and secure licenses for the sale of refreshments may secure free licenses by applying to E. M. Laing, chairman of the Charter Day finance committee. As the applications are received and the licenses granted, places will be assigned on the various business streets where the local vendors may sell the souvenirs, novelties and refreshments.

Fire Chiefs Doane and Woolston were at work this morning at fire headquarters on plans for the firemen's parade. Replies have been received from many of the out-of-town companies to which invitations to participate in the parade were sent, and there are many acceptances.

The finance committee met last night and discussed various matters of expense. The canvassers have been doing excellent work and a subscription of $25 is reported today from David T. Kenney. The total amount made public to date is $4,265.

MRS. H. REEVES STOCKTON PLAYS AT BALTUSROL.

Mrs. H. Reeves Stockton, of the Plainfield Country Club, finished ninth in the big handicap tuonrament for women held yesterday, the play being on the Baltusrol Club links at Short Hills. Mrs. Stockton, whose handicap was 15, had a card of 119 gross for the eighteen holes, giving her a net score of 104.

Mrs. N. Pendleton Rogers, of Baltusrol, made a gross score of 116, but her handicap being five, her card showed a net of 111. Miss Margaret Goddard, of the Country Club, returned a card of 134—15, 119.

Shows Substantial Appreciation.

"Count" John K. Van Nest is very much interested in the location of the Leland Avenue Reformed chapel in the East End of the city, and today he announced that he would not only contribute $25 towards the building fund, but that he would furnish all the sand necessary for the mason work. This is only one of the many evidences of the appreciation felt by the residents in that part of the city over the plans to establish a house of worship there.

Mangled Hand Instead of Clothes.

Mrs. Louise Smith, colored, employed at Truell Hall as a laundress, caught her hand in a mangle this morning, badly lacerating the flesh and bones. She was taken to Muhlenberg Hospital, where the injured hand was dressed. The physicians believe that it will be possible to save the hand.

WANT HIM AS FILIBUSTER

Two Cablegrams Received by Captain C. B. Humphrey Invite His Co-operation.

SHOW FAITH IN THE SCHEME.

Meantime the Secret Service is Extending Its Vigilance in the Plot Against Gomez.

Extension of its zone of vigilance by the United States Secret Service resulted yesterday in developments as to the scope of the filibustering plot which, so it is asserted, has for its ultimate object the equippment of a revolutionary force in Venezuela to attempt the overthrow of the Gomes government in the interests of Cipriano Castro.

The revolutionary scheme as established by the Secret Service men, has had its directing heads in this country, its ramifications extending through many cities, and every effort is being made, with the approval of the federal Department of State, to head off any proposed filibustering expedition from American shores.

Along the Atlantic coast close epionage is being kept on the rather mysterious movements of two vessels, one having been recently purchased in New York, which are avowedly preparing for a voyage to Venezuelan waters. Further evidences of the extent of the revolutionary movement and of the open assurance of its projectors came to light through the receipt by Captain Chauncey B. Humphrey, U. S. A., who is visiting his father-in-law, O. T. Waring, of this city, on leave of absence, of two cablegrams inviting him to participate in the revolution, and strongly intimating that the filibuster scheme "could not fail."

One of these cablegrams came from Caracas, one of Venezuela's principal ports, and the other was sent from San Juan, Puerto Rico. In 1903 Captain Humphrey, then a lieutenant of infantry, served as United States Military Attache in Venezuela. His popularity obtained for him a wide acquaintance and resulted in the formation of many strong friendships. Further, a classmate of his at West Point is the son of a man now prominent in that republic's affairs. The cablegrams, it is understood, therefore, came from former friends in the South American country who had the temerity to speak openly of their plans. When seen last night Captain Humphrey refused to discuss the matter, though not denying the receipt of the cablegrams. His wife is here with him on a furlough.

LOCAL ELKS PLAN FLAG DAY CELEBRATION

The local lodge of Elks will celebrate Flag Day at the lodge rooms next Monday night, and plans for the celebration, which will be an elaborate one, were discussed at the meeting last night. The Elks hall will be appropriately decorated and there will be religious and patriotic services.

At the conclusion of the meeting the lodgemen adjourned to the club banquet hall, where a bountiful supper was served. Feature courses were live turtle soup and soft shell crabs on toast.

Miss Schenck's Wedding.

Miss Matilda Schenck, daughter of the late Henry Schenck, and James S. McLean, son of Mrs. Sarah H. McLean, will be quietly married by Rev. John Y. Broek, at his residence on Watchung avenue tonight. The ceremony will be witnessed only by bridesmaid and best man. Miss Lillian Messerole, of Somerville, will be the bridesmaid and Herbert A. Love, of Westfield, will act as the best man. After a short wedding trip the couple will make their home at 121 Liberty street.

Strawberry and Ice Cream Festival.

Two Sunday-school classes of Trinity Reformed church, of which Horace J. Martin, Sr., and Henry R. Seader are the teachers, will hold a strawberry and ice cream festival tonight and tomorrow night at Tier's lake house, provided the weather is favorable. The members of the classes have gone to considerable pains to decorate the place for the occasion and a good time is assured all who patronize the festival, the proceeds of which will go to replenish the treasury.

Hose Company to Celebrate.

GOLF.

"Marty" O'Loughlin's notable performance at the Plainfield Country Club a few days ago in making the first hole, 385 yards, in two strokes, has been commented upon to a great extent. It is admitted that the home-bred professional is the equal of most any player in his class in this country, considering age and experience.

Plans are being perfected for a great celebration at the Plainfield Country Club on July 5, by which time all improvements will be completed and the large and handsome new dining quarters will be opened to the members and their friends. Steward John Hilton is popular among the members and he is giving excellent service.

Since Jerome D. Travers, the American title holder made such an indifferent showing in the British championship at Muirfield recently speculation has been rife as to the Montclair man's subsequent movements. A friend received word the other day, however, that "Jerum" intended to remain on the other side long enough to have a try at the open championship, which will be held today and tomorrow over the Deal course, the latest to be admitted to the championship cycle. Shortly before competing in the amateur Travers complained of the weather, which had turned cold and blustery. He always was a hot weather golfer; if it should be warm at Deal the latter part of this week, the chances are that Travers would acquit himself with credit.

James Baird is the present open champion of Great Britain. In this competition, besides the work of the regulars, such as Harry Vardon, J. H. Taylor, Alec Herd and a host of others, interest will be centred in the efforts of Tom Vardon and Geo. Duncan, both of whom are expected to arrive here in time to compete in the national open tournament of the United States Golf Association at Englewood, June 24 and 25. Vardon will be located at Onwentsia during the summer, while Duncan has been engaged for a series of exhibition matches.

CHARLES E. CHAMBERS GETS PROMOTION.

Roselle Park Man Is Made Master Mechanic of the Central R. R. Entire System.

Charles E. Chambers, a popular resident of Roselle Park, has just been appointed master mechanic of the entire system of the Central Railroad, which includes the Central, the Lehigh and Susquehanna and Southern.

For a number of years Mr. Chambers has been master mechanic of the Central division, having come to the railroad from the West. A short time ago Master Mechanic Thomas, of the Lehigh and Susquehanna division, in charge of the shops at Ashley, died. The officials of the road decided not to fill the position made vacant by his death, but place the three divisions of the road under one head. Mr. Chambers was consequently appointed to this advanced position. William Montgomery, master mechanic of the Southern division, will retain his office, but will hereafter report to Mr. Chambers. The latter as general master mechanic will report to William McIntosh, of this city, superintendent of motive power.

Mr. Chambers was a member of the May Grand Jury and is prominent in municipal affairs in Roselle Park, being a member of the Board of Education. He is also a director of the Roselle National Bank.

TROLLEYMEN WILL GET 23 CENTS PAY AN HOUR.

In fulfillment of the promise made two years ago to the effect that when business became better an increase of pay would be made, the Public Service Railway Company yesterday announced that there would be a general increase in the wages of the trolley employes of the southern division. The increase, which will take effect on July 1, was announced to the men by Superintendent of Transportation Bolen.

At present the men are getting nineteen cents an hour. The increase will be to twenty cents an hour for new men, twenty-one cents for men employed a year, twenty-two cents for men employed five years, and twenty-three cents for men employed ten years. The men of long service at present receive their uniforms. This order will cease, but they will be alloewd to buy them in open market.

AMBITION.

I know not by what name, or in what hour,
The life that dwells within me shall know power.
But this I know:—The life that in me is Shall burst forth someday, with a power
That nothing can resist.
It may be death shall come. Eternity
Shall hold me captive for a while.
Life cannot die and back to earth again
I'll fly. The power that in me is Matured, shall then hold sway.
And I shall move the world
As I long to,—today.

KILLED BY CARS ON WAY TO WORK.

Anthony Krauser, of Hoboken, Run Down in Spite of Flagman's Warning Shouts.

Jersey City, June 10.—Anthony Krauser, 60 years old, of 300 Garden street, Hoboken, was struck and killed by an eastbound train at the West Side avenue crossing of the Pennsylvania Railroad at Jersey City yesterday morning. He was on his way to work at the Brewster Cocoa Company's plant, and had just alighted from a trolley car. As he was going under the guard gates flagmen shouted to him to keep back, as a train was approaching. Apparently he heard neither the noise of the train nor the warning of the flagmen. Death was instaneous. The mutilated body was taken to Hughes' morgue pending arrangements for the funeral. Krauser leaves a widow and several children.

HUSBAND AND WIFE IN JAIL TOGETHER

Mrs. Emma Borrill, who was convicted with her husband, Dominick Borrill, on a charge of stabbing Michael Fisk in Peterstown last September, was sentenced yesterday by Judge Atwater in the Court of Special Sessions, at Elizabeth, to three months in the county jail. Her husband recently was sentenced to six months in the same institution. A plea for clemency in behalf of the woman was made by Lawyer Edward Nugent, who referred to the prisoner's sex and stated that it was her first criminal offense. The Borrill woman has been in jail for several months.

Among other prisoners arraigned yesterday was Nellie Hammond, the 20-year-old girl indicated on a charge of stealing jewelry from Miss Marie Bosler, a wealthy Albany resident. The jewelry was stolen from Miss Bosler's room in a sanatorium at Summit last fall. The prisoner was arrested by Detective-Sergeant Murphy, of the Elizabeth police, and brought to Elizabeth under extradition several weeks ago She pleaded guilty to the charge yesterday.

John O'Brien, the bellboy employed at the Van Court Inn, Roselle, arrested last week, charged with forging the signature of the Charles Feigenspan estate, pleaded guilty to the charge. He will be sentenced next Wednesday. O'Brien's home is in Paterson.

A former plea of not guilty was retracted by Timothy McCarthy, indicted on a charge of assaulting Officer Steinmetz, of Westfield. McCarthy entered a plea of non vult. He will be sentenced next week.

John Brennan, indicted for assault and battery, retracted a plea of not guilty and pleaded non vult. He will be sentenced next week.

CANNOT COLLECT PAY OF DEBTOR, COURT SAYS

The Supreme Court in an opinion handed down by Justice Voorhees holds to be invalid three assignments of wages made to Sternberg & Co. by employes of the Lehigh Valley Railroad. The results of the decisions is to reverse two judgments of the Second District Court of Newark, obtained by Sternberg & Co., against the railroad, and to affirm a third judgment in which the trial judge decided in favor of the railroad.

The three appeals differed somewhat in details but all involved the same general principle, the right of a creditor to garnishee the wages of a debtor under an assignment executed by the debtor. They were argued together. Otto A. Stierle appeared for Sternberg & Co. and McCarter & English for the railroad company

The decision bears directly upon the methods followed by many instalment houses and establishes the inability to enforce assignments in many cases in the form and under the conditions involved in the three cases at issue.

The first case concerned the assignment of Thomas F. Lynapp, a trainman receiving $3 a day wages, payable at the expiration of each month and being subject to discharge at the pleasure of the company at the expiration of any month and to immediate discharge for cause. Lynapp, in consideration of $21 worth of merchandise assigned to Sternberg & Co. "all claims and demands which I now have and all of which at any time between the date hereof and until the above amount shall have been paid, shall accrue, for all sums of money due or to become due to me for services, or for any claim whatsoever, and I hereby direct that my wages be paid to said Sternberg & Co. by my employer."

The second suit involved an assignment of $17.48 made by George W. Doyle, a deckhand on one of the railroad's boats. It differed from the assignment in the Lynapp case in directing that his wages be paid to Sternberg & Co. by the railroad "covering the months of January, Ferbuary and March, 1907."

The third suit involved an assignment of $20.50 made by John Quigley, a trainman. He was employed by the day, but received his wages monthly. Quigley's assignment covered the months of October, November and December, 1906. The company was notified of the assignment on November 7 and Quigley was dismissed on December 15 for reasons aside from any connection with the execution of the assignment.

END SLANDER SUIT OVER A PASSWORD

William H. Miers, State council secretary of the Junior Order of United American Mechanics, has won a victory in an opion filed yesterday in the Supreme Court at Trenton by Judge Parker in a suit for slander brought by Joseph L. Moore, a member of Lincoln Council, No. 1, of Trenton. Moore sought damages, alleging Miers had said he stole the password of the order from the mails. Counsel for Miers filed a demurrer to the declaration of the plaintiff and the opinion gives judgment to Miers on the demurer.

The declaration filed by Moore charged that Miers, at the State meeting and in other places, declared that if Moors had the password he got it in some other way, he did not get it through me." It was charged that Miers further said: "There is a man by the name of Smythe who gets a copy of everything I send through the mails, but I don't know how they (meaning the plaintiff and Smythe) get it."

The opinion says, in part:

"Without reference to the question whether these words would be libellous if written, we have no hesitation in saying that they are not slanderous when spoken, nor does the innundo place any meaning in them which can be regarded as slanderous so that they are actionable. The words themselves import no more than that the information was procured in some other way than from the secretary, and that Smythe obtained a copy of what the secretary sent through the mails."

The opinion goes on to say that the password might have been taken from the mails without any breach of the law, and then says:

"The mere opening of letters, whether for the gratification of idle curiosity or as an act of wantonness, does not involve the idea of moral turpitude, or render a man infamous in such a sense as the law imputes to those terms when it is setting the doctrine of slander at the common law."

PHARMACISTS DISCUSS THE LIVE TRADE ISSUES.

Mt. Arlington, June 10.—The New Jersey Pharmaceutical Association, which began its thirty-ninth annual meeting Monday night, got down to active work yesterday at the Hotel Breslin. Matters of importance to the trade will be discussed.

It had been planned that the women guests should do considerable sight-seeing today, but the rain seriously blocked that feature of the program. Last night they shared in a whist party and a dance. A reception was given George H. Horning, of Roselle Park, the president of the association, last night.

When the election of officers takes place tomorrow it is the general belief that Mr. Horning will be superseded as president by George M. Andrews, of Woodstown, who is the present first vice-president. A vacancy exists in the office of second vice-president, owing to the death of Eugene Hartnett, of Jersey City, who had acted in that capacity. There is some doubt as to who will be chosen for the vacancy. Frank C. Stutzlen, of Elizabeth, the present secretary, and James C. Field, of Plainfield, the treasurer, as well as Harry W. Crooks, of Newark, the local secretary, it is expected, will all be re-elected.

Today, it is planned, there will be a vaudeville entertainment at night given by traveling members of the druf trade. A baseball game is scheduled for tomorrow after the election, which will close the convention. The association has 700 members.

—The Public Service Corporation has arranged to place extra cars on the Arlington avenue line for the rest of the week on account of the horse show.

VERDICT AGAINST P. S. C. ABSURD SAYS COURT.

Edwards & Smith, lawyers of Jersey City representing the Public Service Company, received yesterday from the Supreme Court an opinion that the verdict of $6,000, secured against the Public Service Railway Company by Sydney L. Settlemeyer, of Hackensack, as administrator of the estate of Jacob Tshink, of Hackensack, killed at New Yor avenue and Morgan street, Union Hill, on September 18, 1907, when hit by a trolley car, should be set aside as absurd.

The opinion says that the deceased's income was $10 a week, and in three months only $40 had been given to the support of his family.

Tshink worked as a farm hand for Frederick Millner, in Hackensack. He was killed at 1 a. m. while driving a wagon across New York avenue.

During the hearing in the suit for damages Mrs. Nettie Brown, a daughter of the deceased, said her father's income was $5,000. When asked how she knew, she stated that she kept account with chalk on the cellar wall. Edwin F. Smith, who appeared for the trolley company, injected some humor in the casse by asking Mrs. Brown to bring the wall into court.

ODD FELLOWS' BIG TIME

Queen City Lodge Reception and Banquet is Attended by State Officers.

THE ADDRESSES A FEATURE.

Grand Master John E. Brown and Other Prominent Odd Fellows Make Speeches.

Entertaining eight of the leading grand lodge officers of the State, the members of Queen City Lodge, No. 206, I. O. O. F., held a successful meeting followed by a reception and addresses by the visitors at the lodge rooms last night. Nearly two hundred Odd Fellows were present, including delegations from lodges in Newark, Elizabeth, Westfield, Perth Amboy and Rahway, and a full turnout from Plainfield Lodge, No. 41. The principal address of the evening was made by Grand Master of the State lodges John E. Brown, of Hoboken. He spoke at length of the growth of the order in the State and outlined plans for its further development, telling of the new ritual.

The lodge officers present were Grand Master John E. Brown, Deputy Grand Master Thomas E. English, Grand Conductor Benjamin Ellenbergger, Grand Marshal Charles A. Woodruff, of Newark; Grand Secretary H. S. Pine, of Trenton; Supreme Representative to the Sovereign Grand Lodge August Grassman, of Hoboken; Past Grand Master Dr. Charles Crowther, of Perth Amboy, and Grand Senior Warden to the Grand Encampment S. H. Schlief, of this city. It is seldom that as many of the high officials of the order attend a meeting. Each made a short address, congratulating the local lodges on their large turnout and growth. A feature of the meeting was a roll-call of lodges, to which two hundred Odd Fellows answered.

Following the addresses a banquet was served, and there were informal speeches from members of the various visiting delegations. The committee of local lodgemen in charge of the affair comprised W. J. Harper, J. B. Huffman and George Slorah.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS CARNIVAL DRAWS CROWD

Despite the inclement weather the attendance at the Knights of Columbus carnival, being held this week on West Front street, has been large and it is the opinion of all that it is the best show of the kind given by this popular organization. There are numerous attractions, including the electric theatre, circus, moving pictures, merry-go-round and many other first-class shows that are worth double the price of admission.

The merry-go-round is proving one of the big attractions for both young and old. One day this week nearly 1,500 people enjoyed rides on the machine. The circus is one of the best yet seen here and there are many daring and clever acts to amuse the crowds. The electric theatre is also the centre of attraction to hundreds of people, the entertainment being a novel one.

At the ladies' auxiliary tent refreshments of all kinds are served and there is also a large fancy goods table, while the Drake Business College exhibit is also an attraction. The committee in charge, of which Theodore J. Shirley is the chairman, is doing all that is possible to make the carnival a great success and all that is asked is the support of the public. Announcement is made of matinees to be held this afternoon and Saturday afternoon. The carnival is kept open until after 11 o'clock each night, affording plenty of opportunity for everyone to attend.

FORT REVIEWS HAT STRIKE.

After Conference With Governor Sheriff Promises Drastic Action.

Governor Fort and Sheriff Harrigan, of Essex county, had a conference yesterday afternoon in Newark. Later Sheriff Harrigan admitted that they went over everything in connection with the Orange strike troubles.

"I assured the Governor that we have conditions in Orange in splendid control," said the Sheriff, "and that we believe we will be able to handle the situation and give the necessary protection to property and the persons of those who want to work. It seems to me that all the real trouble has been created by outsiders, who hold peculiar views about labor troubles, instead of by the strikers themselves. We will not stand for any more of it, and purpose to meet their desperate notions with drastic action whenever it is necessary."

RING LOST 20 YEARS FOUND.

Remarkable Recovery of Mrs. Sweeney's Wedding Band.

Just about twenty years ago Mrs. James Sweeney, of 9 Harvey street, New Brunswick, lost her wedding ring while she was cleaning her front stoop. She was unable to find it.

Brief Session of District Court.

The weekly session of the District court, this morning, was brief, there being no contested cases, and only a few judgments given by Judge William Newcorn in default of the appearance of the defendants.

Savings and Checking Account

"There are certain persons who can afford to have a savings bank account only, such as the laborer or the artisan. These men pay for the necessities of life—that is, rent, food and clothes with cash. The surplus they put into a savings bank for a rainy day or as a nucleus for a home.

"On the other hand, a clerk, teacher, secretary, salesman or housekeeper, who has to pay out a certain sum of money every month, can easily have a checking account. The fact that a man or woman has a checking account need not shut out the possibility of having a savings-bank account, too. One does not interfere with the other. The savings account is worth while if it only attracts a few dollars each month. Money thus put away works all the time, and is a reserve to fall back upon in case of emergency. There are many well-to-do persons who have big checking accounts who also maintain accounts in savings-banks. Some keep them for their children."—Saturday Evening Post.

SPRING LAKE IS SWEPT BY FLAMES

Fire broke out at 11 o'clock last night in the Breakers, one of the finest hotels at Spring Lake, and in a short time it was seen that the hotel was doomed. The guests to the number of about fifty, made a hasty exit, and it is believed that all escaped.

The fire leaped across to the Essex and Sussex, another large hotel next door, and soon it, too, was a mass of flames. Two private cottages were also damaged.

One of the finest beach front blocks in the State is now a mass of ruins.

At an early hour this morning the fire had burned itself out. The building and its contents were destroyed. The loss is estimated at about $75,000. The hotel is owned by a syndicate represented by John Moss. Spring Lake hasn't any fire department and when the fire was discovered calls for help were sent to Manasquan, west of Spring Lake, and to Belmar, on the north. The primitive fire fighting apparatus of these places did but little to check the flames.

The hotel was opened for the season April 15, and about a month ago it began to fill up. Last night when the fire was discovered most of the occupants had retired, but the alarm was soon sounded. It is thought that none of the guests had a chance to save anything.

The hotel was four stories high, with broad verandas, and was of brick and frame. It long has been regarded as one of the most exclusive of the coast hotels. It was situated on the beach, fronting the boardwalk.

The woman was badly injured about the face, the flesh of which is lacerated and torn and her nose is broken. She was removed to St. Joseph's Hospital.

Declaring she was despondent and did not care to live, Nellie Reed, a prepossessing young woman, who said her home is in Philadelphia, sought death beneath the wheels of an electric train at Seventh and Washington streets, Camden, Tuesday. She deliberately laid down on the tracks. Detective Hart took her into custody, and she was held by the recorder pending a further investigation.

Charles Barraban, of 6 West 112th street, New York, was arrested at Ellison and Paterson streets, Paterson, Tuesday night, on the charge of being a fugitive from justice. Havilow, assistants to Warden Smith. The men, who closed in on Schulz and disarmed him, with the assistance of Policeman Hammel, declared that he threatened to shoot them if they interfered with his dog. Schulz said that he only pointed the gun at the men to scare them.

INDORSE PLANS FOR A NEW HIGHWAY.

Mercer, Monmouth and Middlesex Favor Resurfacing From Trenton to Shore.

Preliminary to the meeting of the members of the Board of Freeholders of Mercer and Monmouth and the Commissioners of Middlesex counties with State Road Commissioner Gilkyson at Trenton Friday, when a definite plan of resurfacing the road between Trenton and the shore to the east and north will be agreed upon, representatives of the three counties held a meeting in Freehold yesterday afternoon, when the matter was gone over.

The Monmouth people were the only ones with authority to speak, and they unhesitatingly endorsed the plan for this fine highway. The State Commissioner said that he wanted a dustless highway in the interest of everybody who drove or those who walked. To this everybody agreed, and it is believed that when the full meeting is held on Friday such will be the determination.

It is the intention of Commissioner Gilkyson, if these plans go through, to advertise for bids next Tuesday for a dustless road of sand and asphaltum, or some other good material.

SHE WANTS DAMAGES FOR LOSING HER FAT

Kitty Plunkette Says P. S. C. is Responsible for Cutting Her Down 200 Pounds.

Kitty Plunkette, who once gloried in a weight of 600 pounds, has started suit in the New Jersey Supreme Court to recover $20,000 damages from the Public Service Corporation for injuries and loss of flesh as the result of being thrown from a trolley car in Elizabeth on October 8, 1908. She has retained ex-Assemblyman Randolph Perkins to try the case at the Hudson County Court House in Jersey City.

Miss Plunkette claims that the anti-fat bump which she received as the car turned as harp curve upset her nervous system and was subsequently responsible for the loss of something like 200 pounds.

She has been a museum freak for several years, and claims that the falling off in weight means the loss of many dollars to her per year.

Louis Baurvillot Arrested in Bergen County for a Killing in France.

Two New York detectives, aided by Detective-Sergeants Nugent and Rooney, of Captain Larkin's staff, Jersey City, arrested yesterday at Fairview, Bergen county, Louie Bourdillot, a Frenchman, who is accused of murder in France. He was taken to Jersey City and was held by United States Commissioner Rowe for extradition. Pending the arrival of the necessary papers, the prisoner will be held in the county jail.

Bourrillot, who is a strapping big fellow, on the night of June 19, 1906, it is alleged, was detected robbing a house in Paris and killed the owner, who attempted to prevent his escape. Soon afterward he left the country. He was traced to this country and was located on a farm in Fairview.

Past Exalted Ruler John M. Smith will respond to "Tribute to the Flag," the orchestra will play a medley of Southern airs; there will be a recitation; the children will sing another patriotic selection; Professor Monaghan will speak and the exercises will close with the singing of "America."

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning June 13, 1909.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—The noble life of Frances Willard.—Prov. xxxi, 10; xvii, 25, 26, 29-31.

The temperance cause is making great progress today. State prohibition and local option have made great inroads upon the liquor traffic, and in the providence of God it seems doomed. Public sentiment is fast being aroused against this cursed traffic, and in this country the people may have what they want if they only want it bad enough to arouse themselves from their lethargy and demand it of those elected by them to make and execute laws for them. This sentiment is rapidly growing against intemperance and the law's relation to it, and more loudly every day the people are saying to the liquor traffic, "Go!" and when the voice of the people becomes loud enough it will go.

At such a time it is pleasant and profitable to recall the great pioneers of the movement against intemperance and especially those who did so much to educate public opinion that is now beginning to manifest itself. One of these leaders, the greatest at least of all the women who have labored for this cause, was Frances E. Willard, for years the president of the Woman's Christian Temperance union and acknowledged as the leader of the temperance forces of the world, so far as women were concerned.

Under the topic "A Heroic Woman" Amos R. Wells has the following to say concerning Miss Willard:

Frances Elizabeth Willard was born in Churchville, N. Y., Sept. 28, 1839. In her childhood the family removed first to Oberlin and then to a pioneer home near Janesville, Wis.

Her education was finished at the Northwestern Female college, Evanston, Ill., where she won a host of friends, displayed great intellectual power and became valedictorian of her class.

Taking up the teacher's vocation after highly successful work in many institutions, she became dean of the Northwestern Female college and professor of aesthetics in the Northwestern university.

Miss Willard was moved to take up temperance work by the woman's crusade, that "whirlwind of the Lord which in fifty days swept the liquor traffic out of 250 towns and villages." At great financial cost she became president, in 1874, of the Chicago Woman's Christian Temperance union. In 1879 she became president of the National Woman's Christian Temperance union, until her death, Feb. 17, 1898, being the acknowledged leader of the temperance women of the United States and the world.

Among the outstanding events of her life are her pioneer work for temperance organization in the west, labors for prohibition constitutional amendments in many states, the editorship of the Union Signal, the writing of an autobiography and other books, heroic work for the Woman's temple, the National Temperance hospital and the Woman's Temperance Publishing association. The polyglot temperance petition addressed to the governments of the world and the World's Woman's Christian Temperance union were her plans. She spoke everywhere, being heard often on Christian Endeavor platforms, for she was a warm friend of our society. Rightly has she been called "the uncrowned queen of America."

BIBLE READINGS.

Gen. iii, 18-25; Ruth ii, 1-12; Prov. xx, 1; xxii, 1; xxiii, 29-31; Luke ii, 46-55; x, 38-42; John xii, 1-9; I Pet. iii, 1-6.

Stand by the Boy.

"We must stand by the boy and show the world that we have not cast him aside."

"The boy" was the younger son of an honorable family. He had committed a great wrong, and the question was what to do with regard to him. His brother, a man of high moral integrity, said, "We must stand by the boy."

This attitude was Christian. It suggests a duty to the boy in general, the boy that has gone astray. We have not always even seen the problem. It is being recognized that to save the world we must stop the awful waste of lives—we must reach and influence the young people. We must stand by the boy. It is urged against the Christian Endeavor society that it reaches twice as many girls as boys.

The same might be said of Christianity. It is an unmistakable fact that the churches draw far greater numbers of women than men. The reasons are many. But no one ever thinks of blaming Christianity or minimizing its value on this account. The fact is, take it as we will, that Christian Endeavor reaches more girls than boys, just as the churches do.

On the other hand, Christian Endeavor is elastic enough to reach and hold the boys too. What is needed is a class of workers that understand the boy and will stand by him. Such workers are rare, yet that is not the fault of Christian Endeavor. The Christian Endeavor movement has trained many workers, and it is capable of training still more. We need men that will study the boy and do something for him. Along with our study of missions and civic righteousness why may there not be committees to study the boy—to find out his needs and the way to meet them? If the boy needs boys' clubs, why may he not have them in Christian Endeavor?

A vast field of usefulness is lying fallow here. It is a new country, but it is the natural inheritance of Christian Endeavor. May many hear the call to go forward and conquer "for Christ and the church."—Ripple in Christian Endeavor World.

"Oh, yes, it is! You wouldn't have Miss Pat subjected to the shock of a demand for ransom. Worse than that, Miss Pat has little enough faith in Helen as it is; and such a move as this would be final. This kidnaping is partly designed as a punishment for me, and I propose to take care of it without letting Miss Pat know. She shall never know!"

Sister Margaret, only half convinced, drew an envelope from her girdle and gave it to me doubtfully. I glanced at the superscription and then tore it across, repeating the process until it was a mass of tiny particles, which I poured into Sister Margaret's hands.

"Burn them! Now Miss Pat will undoubtedly ask for her niece at once. I suggest that you take care that she is not distressed by Helen's absence. If it is necessary to reward your house-maid for her discretion—" I said with hesitation.

"Oh, I disarranged Helen's bed so that the maid wouldn't know!"—and Sister Margaret blushed.

"Splendid! I can teach you nothing, Sister Margaret! Please help me this much further: get one of Miss Helen's dresses—that blue one she plays tennis in, perhaps—and put it in a bag of some kind and give it to my Jap when he calls for it in ten minutes. Now listen to me carefully, Sister Margaret: I shall meet you here at 12 o'clock with a girl who shall be, to all intents and purposes, Helen Holbrook. In fact, she will be some one else. Now I expect you to carry off the situation through luncheon and until nightfall, when I expect to bring Helen—the real Helen—back here. Meanwhile, tell Miss Pat anything you like, quoting me! Good-by!"

I left her abruptly and was running toward Glenarm House to rouse Ijima, when I bumped into Gillespie, who had been told at the house that I was somewhere in the grounds.

"What's doing, Irishman?" he demanded.

"Nothing, Buttons; I'm just exercising."

His white flannels were as fresh as the morning, and he wore a little blue cap perched saucily on the side of his head.

"I was pondering," he began, "the futility of man's effort to be helpful toward his fellows."

He leaned upon his stick and eyed me with solemn vacuity.

"I suppose I'll have to hear it; go on."

"I was always told in my youth that when an opportunity to do good offered one should seize upon it at once. No hesitation, no trifling! Only a few years ago I wandered into a little church in a hill town of Massachusetts where I waited for the Boston express. It was a beautiful Sunday evening—I shall never forget it!" he sighed. "I am uncertain whether I was led thither by good impulse, or only because the pews were more comfortable than the benches at the railway station. I arrived early and an usher seated me up front near a window and gave me an armful of books and a pamphlet on foreign missions. Other people began to come in pretty soon; and then I heard a lot of giggling and a couple of church pillars began chasing a stray dog up and down the aisles. I was placing my money on the taller pillar; he had the best reach of leg, and, besides, the other chap had side whiskers, which are not good for sprinting—they offer just so much more resistance to the wind. The unseemliness of the thing offended my sense of propriety. The sound of the chase broke in harshly upon my study of Congo missions. After much pursuing the dog sought refuge between my legs. I picked him up tenderly in my arms and dropped him gently, Donovan, gently, from the window. Now wasn't that seizing an opportunity when you found it, so to speak, underfoot?"

"No doubt of it at all. Hurry with the rest of it, Buttons!"

"Well, that pup fell with a sickening yelp through a skylight into the basement where the choir was vesting itself, and hit a bishop—actually struck a young and promising bishop who had never done anything to me. They got the constable and made a horrible row, and besides paying for the skylight I had to give the church a new organ to square myself with the bishop, who was a friend of mine in Kentucky who once gave me a tip on the Derby. Since then the very thought of foreign missions makes me ill. I always hear that dog—it was the usual village mongrel of evil ancestry—crashing through the skylight. What's doing this morning, Irishman?"

I linked my arm in his and led the way toward Glenarm House. There was much to be done before I could bring together the warring members of the house of Holbrook, and Gillespie could, I felt, be relied on in emergencies. He broke forth at once.

"I want to see her—I've got to see her!"

"Who—Helen? Then you'll have to wait a while, for she's gone for a paddle or a gallop, I'm not sure which, and won't be back for a couple of hours. But you have grown too daring. Miss Pat is still here, and you can't expect me to arrange meetings for you every day in the year."

"I've got to see her," he repeated, and his tone was utterly joyless. "I don't understand her, Donovan."

"Man is not expected to understand woman, my dear Buttons. At the casino last night everything was as gay as an octogenarian's birthday cake."

He stopped in the shadow of the house and seized my arm.

"You told her something about me last night. She was all right until you took her away and talked with her at the casino. On the way home she was moody and queer—a different girl altogether. You are not on the square; you are playing on too many sides of this game."

"You're in love, that's all. These suspicions and apprehensions are leading symptoms. Up there at the casino, with the water washing beneath and the stars overhead and the band playing waltzes, a spell was upon you both. Even a hardened old sinner like me could feel it. I've had palpitations all day! Cheer up! In your own happy phrase, everything points to plus."

"I tell you she turned on me, and that you are responsible for it!"—and he glared at me, angrily.

"Now, Buttons! You're not going to take that attitude toward me, after all I have done for you! I really took some trouble to arrange that little meeting last night; and here you come with sad eye and mournful voice and rebuke me!"

"I tell you she was different. She had never been so kind to me as she was there at the casino; but as we came back she changed, and was ready to fling me aside. I asked her to leave this place and marry me today, and she only laughed at me!"

"Now, Buttons, you are letting your imagination get the better of your common sense. If you're going to take your lady's moods so hard you'd better give up trying to understand the ways of woman. It's wholly possible that Helen was tired and didn't want to be made love to. It seems to me that you are singularly lacking in consideration. But I can't talk to you all morning; I have other things to do; but if you will find a cool corner of the house and look at picture-books until I'm free I'll promise to be best man for you when you're married; and I predict your marriage before Christmas—a happy union of the ancient houses of Holbrook and Gillespie. Run along like a good boy and don't let Miss Pat catch sight of you."

"Do you keep a goat, a donkey or a mule—any of the more ruminative animals?" he asked, with his saddest intonation.

"The cook keeps a parrot, and there's a donkey in one of the pastures."

"Good. Are his powers of vocalization unimpaired?"

"First rate. I occasionally hear his vesper hymn. He's in good voice."

"Then I may speak to him, soul to soul, if I find that I bore myself."

We climbed the steps to the cool shadows of the terrace. As we stood a moment looking out on the lake we saw, far away toward the northern shore, the Stiletto, that seemed just to have slipped out from the lower lake. The humor of the situation pleased me; Helen was off there in the sloop playing at being kidnaped to harass her aunt into coming to terms with Henry Holbrook, and she was doubtless rejoicing in the fact that she had effected a combination of events that would make her father's case irresistible.

But there was no time to lose. I made Gillespie comfortable indoors and sent Ijima to get the bag I had asked for; and a few minutes later the launch was skimming over the water toward the canoe-maker's house at Red Gate.

CHAPTER XXIII.

The Rocket Signal.

Rosalind was cutting sweet peas in the garden where they climbed high upon a filmy net, humming softly to herself.

"A penny for your thoughts!" I challenged.

She snipped an imaginary flower from the air in my direction.

"Keep your money! I was not thinking of you! You wear, sir, an intent commercial air; have you thread and needles in your pack?"

"It is ordained that we continue the game of last night. To-day you are to invade the very citadel and deceive your aunt. Your cousin has left without notice and the situation demands prompt action."

I was already carrying the suit-case toward the house, explaining as we walked along together.

"But was I so successful last night? Was he really deceived, or did he just play that he was?"

"He's madly in love with you. You stole away all his senses. But he thought you changed toward him unaccountably on the way home."

"But why didn't she tell him?—she must have told him."

"Oh, I took care of that! I rather warned her against betraying us. And now she's trying to punish me by being kidnaped!"

Rosalind paused at the threshold, gathering the stems of the sweet peas in her hands.

"Do you think," she began, "do you think he really liked me—I mean the real me?"

"Like you! That is not the right word for it. He's gloomily dreaming of you—the real you—at this very moment over at Glenarm. But do hasten into these things that Sister Margaret picked out for you. I must see your father before I carry you off. We've no time to waste, I can tell you!"

The canoe-maker heard my story in silence and shook his head.

"It is impossible; we should only get into deeper trouble. I have no great faith in this resemblance. It may have worked once on young Gillespie, but women have sharper eyes."

"But it must be tried!" I pleaded. "We are approaching the end of these troubles, and nothing must be allowed to interfere. Your sister wishes to see you; this is her birthday."

"So it is! So it is!" exclaimed the canoe-maker with feeling.

"Helen must be saved from her own folly. Her aunt must not know of this latest exploit; it would ruin everything."

As we debated Rosalind joined her persuasions to mine.

"Aunt Pat must not know what Helen has done if we can help it," she said.

While she changed her clothes I talked on at the house-boat with her father.

"My sister has asked for me?"

"Yes; your sister is ready to settle with Henry; but she wishes to see you first. She has begged me to find you; but Helen must go back to her aunt. This fraudulent kidnaping must never be known to Miss Pat. And on the other hand, I hope it may not be necessary for Helen to know the truth about her father."

"I dare say she would sacrifice my own daughter quickly enough," he said.

"No; you are wrong; I do not believe it! She is making no war on you, or on her aunt! It's against me! She enjoys a contest; she's trying to beat me."

"She believes that I forged the Gillespie notes and ruined her father. Henry has undoubtedly told her so."

"Yes; and he has used her to get them away from young Gillespie. There's no question about that. But I have the notes, and I propose holding them for your protection. But I don't want to use them if I can help it."

"I appreciate what you are doing for me," he said quietly, but his eyes were still troubled and I saw that he had little faith in the outcome.

"Your sister is disposed to deal generously with Henry. She does not know where the dishonor lies."

"'We are all honorable men,'" he replied bitterly, slowly pacing the floor. His sleeves were rolled away from his sun-browned arms, his shirt was open at the throat, and though he wore the rough clothes of a mechanic he looked more the artist at work in a rural studio than the canoe-maker of the Tippecanoe. He walked to a window and looked down for a moment upon the singing creek, then came back to me and spoke in a different tone.

"I have given these years of my life to protecting my brother, and they must not be wasted. I have nothing to say against him; I shall keep silent."

"He has forfeited every right. Now is your time to punish him," I said; but Arthur Holbrook only looked at me pityingly.

"I don't want revenge, Mr. Donovan, but I am almost in a mood for justice," he said with a rueful smile; and just then Rosalind entered the shop.

"Is my fate decided?" she demanded.

The sight of her seemed to renew the canoe-maker's distress, and I led the way at once to the door. I think that in spite of my efforts to be gay and to carry the affair off lightly, we all felt that the day was momentous.

"When shall I expect you back?" asked Holbrook, when we had reached the launch.

"Early to-night," I answered.

"But if anything should happen here?" The tears flashed in Rosalind's eyes, and she clung a moment to his hand.

"He will hardly be troubled by daylight, and this evening he can send up a rocket if any one molests him. Go ahead, Ijima!"

As we cleared Battle Orchard and sped on toward Glenarm there was a sting in the wind, and Lake Annandale had fretted itself into foam. We saw the Stiletto running prettily before the wind along the Glenarm shore, and I stopped the engine before crossing her wake and let the launch jump the waves. Helen would not, I hoped, believe me capable of attempting to palm off Rosalind on Miss Pat; and I had no wish to undeceive her. My passenger had wrapped herself in my mackintosh and taken my cap, so that at the distance at which we passed she was not recognizable.

Sister Margaret was waiting for us at the Glenarm pier. I had been a little afraid of Sister Margaret. It was presuming a good deal to take her into the conspiracy, and I stood by in apprehension while she scrutinized Rosalind. She was clearly bewildered and drew close to the girl, as Rosalind threw off the wet mackintosh and flung down the dripping cap.

"Will she do, Sister Margaret?"

"I believe she will; I really believe she will!" And the sister's face brightened with relief. She had a color in her face that I had not seen before, as the joy of the situation took hold of her. She was, I realized, a woman after all, and a young woman at that, with a heart not hardened against life's daily adventures.

"It is time for luncheon. Miss Pat expects you, too."

"Then I must leave you to instruct Miss Holbrook and carry off the first meeting. Miss Holbrook has been—"

"—For a long walk"—the sister supplied—"and will enter St. Agatha's parlor a little tired from her tramp. She shall go at once to her room—with me. I have put out a white gown for her; and at luncheon we will talk only of safe things."

"And I shall have this bouquet of sweet peas," added Rosalind, "that I brought from a farmer's garden near by, as an offering for Aunt Pat's birthday. And you will both be there to keep me from making mistakes."

"Then after luncheon we shall drive until Miss Pat's birthday dinner; and the dinner shall be on the terrace at Glenarm, which is even now being decorated for a fete occasion. And before the night is old Helen shall be back. Good luck attend us all!" I said; and we parted in the best of spirits.

I had forgotten Gillespie, and was surprised to find him at the table in my room, absorbed in business papers.

"'Button, button, who's got the button?'" he chanted as he looked me over. "You appear to have been swimming in your clothes. I had my mail sent out here. I've got to shut down the factory at Ponsocket. The thought of it bores me extravagantly. What time's luncheon?"

"Whenever you ring three times. I'm lunching out."

"Ladies?" he asked, raising his brows. "You appear to be a little social favorite; couldn't you get me in on something? How about dinner?"

"I am myself entertaining at dinner; and your name isn't on the list, I'm sorry to say, Buttons. But to-morrow! Everything will be possible to-morrow. I expect Miss Pat and Helen here to-night. It's Miss Pat's birthday, and I want to make it a happy day for her. She's going to settle with Henry as soon as some preliminaries are arranged, so the war's nearly over."

"She can't settle with him until something definite is known about Arthur. If he's really dead—"

"I've promised to settle that; but I must hurry now. Will you meet me at the Glenarm boathouse at eight? If I'm not there, wait. I shall have something for you to do."

"Meanwhile I'm turned out of your house, am I? But I positively decline to go until I'm fed."

As I got into a fresh coat he played a lively tune on the electric bell, and I left him giving his orders to the butler.

I was reassured by the sound of voices as I passed under the windows of St. Agatha's, and Sister Margaret met me in the hall with a smiling face.

"Luncheon waits. We will go out at once. Everything has passed off smoothly, perfectly."

I did not dare look at Rosalind until we were seated in the dining room. Her sweet peas graced the center of the round table, and Sister Margaret had placed them in a tall vase so that Rosalind was well screened from her aunt's direct gaze. The sister had managed admirably. Rosalind's hair was swept up in exactly Helen's pomadour; and in one of Helen's white gowns, with Helen's own particular shade of scarlet ribbon at her throat and wrist, the resemblance was even more complete than I had thought it before. But we were cast at once upon deep waters.

"Helen, where did you find that article on Charles Lamb you read the other evening? I have looked for it everywhere."

Rosalind took rather more time than was necessary to help herself to the asparagus, and my heart sank; but Sister Margaret promptly saved the day.

"It was in the Round World. That article we were reading on 'The Authorship of the Collects' is in the same number."

"Yes; of course," said Rosalind, turning to me.

Art seemed a safe topic; and I steered for the open, and spoke in a large way, out of my ignorance, of Michelangelo's influence, winding up presently with a suggestion that Miss Pat should have her portrait painted. This was a successful stroke, for we all fell into a discussion of contemporaneous portrait painters about whom Sister Margaret fortunately knew something; but a cold chill went down my back a moment later when Miss Pat turned upon Rosalind and asked her a direct question:

"Helen, what was the name of the artist who did that miniature of your mother?"

Sister Margaret swallowed a glass of water, and I stooped to pick up my napkin.

"Van Arsdel, wasn't it?" asked Rosalind, instantly.

Miss Annie Pritchard, of New York, was maid of honor, and Willard A. Smith, a brother of the groom, was best man. The wedding marches were played by the church organist, S. Frederick Smith. The bride was gowned in crepe de chine with lace and wore a tuille veil caught up with orange blossoms. The maid of honor wore pink silk.

Following the ceremony, which was largely attended by friends of the couple, a reception was given in their honor by the Girls' Friendly Society of the church, of which the bride is an active member. It took place in the parish house adjoining the church edifice. On their return from a honeymoon trip, Mr. and Mrs. Smith will reside in this city.

Reports from the members of the class show this year's event will surpass anything ever held by the graduating class coming from the borough High School. One of the features will be the farewell song, the lyrics for which were written by Miss Ruth Day, and the music for which was composed by Herbert Lloyd. Mr. Lloyd has also composed the music for another song to be used by the class entitled "Why Have We Become Seniors."

The address of welcome will be made by George Parsons, the president of the class. Miss Elvira Hoerster will be class historian; Anna Daly, class poet, and Miss Ernstine Richter, class prophet.

HERE AND THERE.

In a recent discussion as to the history of illustrated song slides, provoked by correspondence in "The Moving Picture World," Harry S. Sanderson, who is associated with F. F. Proctor in the management of Proctor's theatre here, contributes some interesting facts on the subject. He says:

"In the year 1873 I suggested to Tony Pastor the idea of having tableaux or paintings of song subjects and he after some thought evolved the idea of illustration by stereopticon, and commissioned me to purchase the machine, which I did of Peck & Co., 514 Broadway, New York city, with gas bag for making the gas, the old-fashioned way. John F. Pole wrote the song and I purchased from Peck a number of portraits of historical Americans and such scenes as Washington taking leave of his army; the signing of the Declaration of Independence; Abraham Lincoln and his cabinet, etc.

"Frank Girard worked the pictures and Billy Barry, the comedian, sat on the gas bag, in the absence of sufficient weight, on the first night. Mr. Pastor took the song on the road on his annual tour and there must be many living today who can testify to this. The original pictures, I believe, are still in the possession of Mrs. Pastor." Mr. Sanderson was manager for Tony Pastor from 1872-1908.

DISCONTINUES SUNDAY BALL.

All Dates for That Day at Atlantic City Cancelled.

Sunday baseball in Atlantic City will be discontinued. The Athletic Association has cancelled the dates for the Sunday games which were scheduled, and has decided that, in view of the opposition to the Sunday sport as a whip to undesirable agitation during the summer, it will be for the best of all concerned to forego the game next Sunday and all future games under present conditions.

In a statement, Commodore Kuchnie, on behalf of the Atiletic Association, declares that the matter ought to be decided by the people in view of last Sunday's game, when the attendance was evidence that there are persons in the city who would like to see the game played on Sunday.

Mrs. Juan A. Babcock, of Clinton avenue, who is visiting her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Philips, in Brooklyn, will return home on Saturday.

CORPORATIONS PAY STATE $2,522,358.

Secretary Irvine E. Maguire, of the State Board of Assessors, has filed with the State Comptroller a preliminary schedule showing that taxes aggregating $2,522,358.67 have been assessed for the year 1909 against 6,629 miscellaneous corporations. The corresponding schedule filed in 1908 included 6,445 corporations with an aggregate tax of $2,457,771.57. This year's preliminary schedule is the largest which has ever been reported by the State Board, the increase over last year being 184 in the number of corporations and $64,587.10 in the amount of the tax assessed.

The four insurance companies included in the schedule have been taxed this year $439,269.69, as against $361,103.79 last year, an increase of $78,165.80. The tax on the insurance companies is at the rate of one per cent. on the surplus and thirty-five-one-hundredths of one per cent. on the gross premiums.

The bulk of the tax will as usual be paid by the corporations taxed upon the basis of their issued and outstanding capital stock. There are in the schedule 6,619 of those whose taxes aggregate $2,077,[illegible]0. This tax is levied on the basis of one-tenth of one per cent. of the issued capital up to $3,000,000; one-twentieth of one per cent. from $3,000,000 to $5,000,000, and fifty dollars upon each million above five million. Included in the schedule are 252 companies taxed upon an issued capital stock of more than $3,000,000; 126 taxed on a capital of $10,000,000 or more, and 7 taxed on a capital of $100,000,000 or more.

The fact that the preliminary schedule is in excess of the corresponding schedule of last year does not of necessity imply that the total amount of taxes paid by miscellaneous corporations will be greater, although the substantial increase in the tax of the insurance companies naturally leads to that supposition. The schedule includes only such companies as have already made reports to the State Board. It will be followed from time to time with supplementary schedules as reports are received, and finally the companies failing to make any returns will be assessed for the full amount of their authorized capital stock.

In addition to the corporations mentioned, one parlor car company is taxed for $3,885.59; four companies, $1,242.14, and one electric light company $44.05. The largest tax on the basis is capital stock is paid by the United States Steel Corporation which with its outstanding capital stock of $868,583,000, is taxed $47,179.18.

RETURNS TO OLD BLUE SPECIAL DELIVERY STAMP.

As a matter of imperative necessity Postmaster George Hitchcock has decided to discintinue the new green special delivery stamp and return to the familiar blue stamp showing a special delivery messenger boy mounted on a bicycle. In the great rush with which the mails must be handled many letters bearing the new stamp have escaped treatment as special delivery matter, because of its similarity in size and color to the 1 cent stamp. In some instances the delay in the delivery of such letters has caused a serious loss to the public and embarrassment to the postoffice department.

The old design with the boy on a wheel is distinctive and so well-known to postoffice and railway mail clerks that it attracts instant attention, and a letter bearing it is expedited by every employe of the postal services who handles it. The issuance of the blue stamp will begin at once.

The discarded stamp showing the winged hat of mercury entwined with an olive branch is one of the most artistic ever issued, but the stamp is smaller than the old special delivery stamp, and this fact, with its green color, caused it to be mistaken for the regular 1 cent stamp.

SEVENTEEN SENT TO JAIL FOR STEALING CAR RIDES.

Seventeen men and boys were committed to the county jail yesterday afternoon by Justice of the Peace Noah Woodruff, of Roselle, for riding on the railroad. He had fined them $10 and costs, and not being able to pay, they were sent to jail. One of the boys is only fifteen years old, and another is only sixteen years old. The others are young men. The men hail from different parts of the country, and most of them claim that they were looking for work.

For a long time the residents along the line of the railroad have complained that tramps on passing trains have thrown stones at their houses, and in many cases windows have been broken. Chickens have also been stolen from the yards, clothes off lines, and milk and other things off the stoops. So numerous were the complaints that orders were finally issued to the police to round up all of those found stealing rides on the trains that passed through Roselle. A couple of weeks ago a large number were sent to the county jail in default of payment of their fines.

By direction of Judge Heisley, a jury in the Supreme Court Circuit, yesterday afternoon eturned a verdict of $15,000 in favor of Mrs. Marcus J. Jacobs, widow of the Columbia treatre manager, who was killed by Dr. Walter H. Morris's automobile in Broad street, Newark, in September, 1907.

The machine ran amuck, and besides killing Mr. Jacobs nearly struck other citizens. Dr. Morris and his party escaped, but he later surrendered himself and was sent to the penitentiary on a charge of manslaughter for eighteen months by Judge Ten Eyck. He was released about two months ago.

Mrs. Jacobs sued for $25,000, but Samuel Schleimer, of Elizabeth, her counsel, and John R. Hardin, counsel for Dr. Morris, who is a dentist, agreed to a settlement in the amount named.

SEVEN PUPILS GRADUATED

The Scotch Plains Grammar School Pupils Receive Their Diplomas.

THE CLASS DAY EXERCISES.

President Westcott Makes Presentation and Rev. Mr. Mathiews Speaks.

Receiving their diplomas from Dr. F. W. Westcott, president of the Scotch Plains Board of Education, seven pupils of the village grammar school were graduated at the school last night, when joint class day and graduation exercises were held in the school building room. The exercises were followed by an informal dance.

The speaker of the occasion was Rev. Franklin K. Mathiews, pastor of the Scotch Plains Baptist church, who talked especially to the members of the graduating class. The assembly room was tastefully decorated for the occasion and music was furnished by the Newark High School mandolin club.

In the class day exercises, the class prophesy was given by Miss Kathryn Todd, the class history by James Smalley and the class will by Miss Elizabeth Terry. Features of the exercises were piano solos by Miss Grace Thompson and a piano duet by the Misses Margaret Patterson and Grace Thompson. Light refreshments were served in connection with the dance, which followed the exercises.

The graduates are the Misses Grace Thompson, Katheryn Todd, Evelyn Walker, Margaret Paterson and Elizabeth Terry; James Smalley and Harry Paff.

Lehigh Valley Crippled.

The Lehigh Valley passenger service was badly crippled yesterday afternoon by the derailment of seven cars loaded with cement, part of an East bound freight. The wreck occurred at South Somerville at about 2.30 and was not cleared up until 7 o'clock in the evening. A broken flange was the cause. The Central's tracks were used while the wreck was being cleared away. Nobody was injured.

CATCH YOUNG RUNAWAYS

Borough Boys Fled to New York to Escape Facing Police Judge.

TO BE BROUGHT HOME.

Willie, James and George Suydam, Jr., Must Answer Charge of Malicious Mischief.

Willie James, aged sixteen, and Geo. Suydam, Jr., aged fourteen, both of North Plainfield, are being held by the New York police on charges of vagrancy pending the arrival of a policeman from the borough. The boys were to have appeared before Recorder Dolliver to answer a charge of malicious mischief and are supposed to have jumped a freight for Jersey City in order to escape the consequences of their mischief.

Two weeks ago Suydam's father was arrested for not sending the boy to school and was fined one dollar and cautioned. The boy himself was arrested a year ago for stealing a bicycle. The James boy was sent to the reform school at Jamesburg four years ago and was allowed his freedom on parole a short time ago. The parents of the Suydam boy are held responsible for his trouble, having been lax in their home discipline. Mrs. Anna Palmomy, mother of the James boy, never has been able to control the youth.

The hearing in the boys' cases will take place this afternoon in New York.

AWARDING BLUE RIBBONS

THE VANDERBILT CUP TODAY.

List of Prize Winners for This Afternoon and Yesterday Afternoon at the Exhibition.

Despite the unfavorable weather conditions which threatened to mar the pleasure of both exhibitors and patrons, the sixth annual exhibition of the Plainfield Riding and Driving Club, at the club's handsome show grounds at Woodland avenue and Randolph road, opened auspiciously yesterday afternoon. The attendance far exceeded that on the opening day last year. In all there were sixteen classes to be judged, and everything passed off smoothly and without a hitch of any kind.

The program for today, which also includes sixteen classes, elicited a keener interest than that of yesterday. Many of the finest equine thoroughbreds in the country were shown in the ring and received the applause of admiring patrons. Of course, the chief interest was centered in the competition for the "Dr. Selwonk cup" offered by Reginald C. Vanderbilt. The afternoon program began with the judging of four pairs harness horses, local, in class 50, in which Miss Margaret W. McCutchen, Mrs. Sophie D. Gummey and Tonzo Sauvage had entries.

The results of the early afternoon judging in the prize ring follow:

Class 50—Harness horses. First, Mrs. Sophie B. Gummey's "Babette" and "Bobinette." Second, Tongo Sauvage's "Grand Duke" and "Lord Nelson;" third, Mrs. Sophie D. Gummey's "Courtesy" and "Consideration;" fourth, Miss Margaret McCutchen's "All Ablaze" and "Jeanne d'Arc."

Class 7—Harness horses. First, Mrs. H. S. Bowen's "England's Pride" and "Eastern Star;" second, George Watson's "Lady Suffolk" and "The Laird;" third, Mrs. Sophie D. Gummey's "Activity" and "Action."

The event of greatest interest yesterday afternoon was the contest for the cup offered by Thos. W. Lawson in class 22 for the best pair of horses suitable for a Demi-Mail or Stanhope phaeton driven by owners. There were only three entries in this event and one of these was scratched—Puritan Maid and Precise, owned by Paul A. Sorg. It was won by Mr. Sorg with Dignity and Respect. Thunderous applause greeted the decision of the judges. J. W. Harriman had one win to his credit having taken the blue in 1907. Had he won yesterday the cup would have become his property.

Another feature was the cup added to the money prizes in class 1 Roadsters. This handsome cup was offered by E. C. Rich and was won by M. F. and J. J. McDonald; Jos. J. Ryan's Schuyler Boy being scratched. In class 16 the judges were put to it to select the winners. After David M. Neuberger's pair, The Lady and The Lion, had been eliminated the contest narrowed down to Mrs. Sophie D. Gummey's pair and that of M. F. and J. J. McDonald and was finally won by the former.

A popular win was recorded for Mr. Harriman in class 8 when his horse, Nala, was awarded the blue in a field of eighteen harness horses. It was a vindication of the opinion that Nala should have been awarded the cup that Dr. Selwonk won at Philadelphia last week, Ben Hur, a brown gelding, owned by George Watson, driven by George Watson, Jr., got the red while Richard Delafield's Roundelay captured the yellow and John T. Spratley's Jet, the white. In class 20, tandems, Paul A. Sorg with two entries won the red and yellow ribbons and the Grand View Farms got the blue with Peter Pan and Tinker Bell. Mr. Sorg would undoubtedly have been a closer contestant in this event if the wheeler had not stepped over the leader's trace, causing a delay which spoiled the chances of the handsome pair of roans

Much interest was manifested in the contest in class 28 for ponies in harness and Avondale Farm (Mr. Harriman) scored again with Lady Eccles driven by Miss Harriman, which won the blue, and Dainty Eccles being awarded the yellow ribbon. Brookdale Sir Horace, from the Grand View Farms won the red and Miss Mabel B. Hooley's Little Corporal was given the white. Two extra trials were ordered in this Son of Major Miller Marries Miss Jean Whitlock Griscom.

AT CRESCENT AVENUE CHURCH.

Rev. Drs. Raymond and Zelie Officiate—Bride is Daughter of William Griscom.

Miss Jean Whitelock Griscom, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Griscom, of Sycamore avenue, North Plainfield, and Raymond VanVranken Miller, son of Major and Mrs. W. D. W. Miller, of East Seventh street, were married at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church at 6 o'clock last night, in the presence of a large and fashionable assemblage of relatives and friends. Rev. Dr. Andrew VanVranken Raymond, formerly pastor of Trinity Reformed church, this city, but now of the First Presbyterian church, Buffalo, N. Y., performed the ceremony, assisted by Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie.

Miss Griscom was attended by her sister, Miss Edith Griscom, as maid-of-honor, and Miss Edith Gorham, of Philadelphia; Miss Frances Van-Deventer, Mrs. Lewis Squires and Miss Emma H. Miller, of this city, as bridesmaids. The best man was Jose Tweedy, of Knickerbocker, Texas, and the ushers were Henry W. Brower, of this city; William W. Lancaster and Dr. Kenneth Bulkley, of New York, and Van Vranken Raymond, of Buffalo.

The bride's gown was of white satin, trimmed with rose point applique lace, with a veil fastened with orange blossoms. The maid-of-honor's gown was of pale yellow marquisette and she carried a large sheaf bouquet of yellow roses. The bridesmaids' gowns were of pale green radium silk and they carried old-fashioned nosegays of maidenhair fern and white moss rose buds. All the attendants of the bride wore quaint bonnets trimmed with tiny rose buds matching the gowns. The bride carried a shower bouquet of lilies-of-the-valley. She was given in marriage by her uncle West Jessup, of Woodbury.

Mr. Smith, organist of the Crescent Avenue church, presided at the organ and prior to the arrival of the bridal party he rendered a program of classical selections from Bach and Beethoven and the Lohengrin Wedding March as the party entered the edifice. The church was handsomely decorated for the affair with palms, oak boughs and daisies.

A reception followed the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents, there being many guests present from New York and Philadelphia. Later in the evening the bride and groom left for Washington on a wedding trip. About July 1 they will go to their home in Buffalo, where the groom is a member of the banking firm of Moffatt & White.

The bride was the recepient of a great many costly gifts from relatives and friends, while there was the usual exchange of handsome gifts among the members of the bridal party.

Surprised James Carroll.

A surprise party was tendered Monday night to James Carroll by his issters, the Misses Nellie and Rosa Carroll, at their home in this city. Dancing, music and games were the features of the evening. Those present were the Misses Bessie Duffie, Rose Viana, Ida Viana, Elsie Frazier, Anna Frazier, Florence Long, Minnie Smith, Mary Louden, Maud Mercier, Blanche Mercier, Tilly Morie and Mabel Collins and Frank Manhart, Jack Magarigle, Joseph Carroll, Charles Eller, Geo. Vanderbilt, William Skinner, Eugene McKenna, James McKlinten, William Collins and Frank Frazier. Refreshments were served at a late hour.

Had Fine Crop of Peaches.

Harry Campbell, of the firm of Clifton & Campbell, orange growers and dealers in fruit, will return within a few days from Crescent City, Fla., where he has been for some time, looking after his orange groves. Mr. Campbell says that he has had a highly successful season in peaches. He had about 3,000 crates and sold them as high as $4.50 per crate in all southern cities. He only shipped a few to New York and none to Plainfield, indicating that there is plenty of money in Florida peaches this season.

PRINCIPALS REHEARSE FOR THE BIG BENEFIT

The "eight real melody mixers," who comprise the double quartet to appear in the "Tom" Muir benefit minstrel show to be held at the New Plainfield theatre next Friday and Saturday nights, held a successful reeharsal with other principals of the big show at the theatre last night. The bunch of voices carry these names: Elmer D. Cutting, Joseph O. Randall, William F. Tallamy, Edmund D. Young, Louie V. Tallamy, Harry Uhler, Jr., William J. Smith and Joseph C. Martin. This vocal two-times-four is to appear in several of the songs by special soloists, and will sing the choruses. The principals have now had two rehearsals "on stage" and have rounded into fine shape.

That "triple half hundred chorus" which will be behind the burnt cork in the semi-circle will have another rehearsals "en masse" on the theatre stage tonight, when City Judge Runyon will be in charge.

And lastly, brethren, Buy your tickets now!

PLEAD TO INDICTMENTS

Local Defendants Deny Guilt When Arraigned for Illegal Selling.

ARE RELEASED IN BAIL.

Proprietors and Drivers Accused of Violating State's Excise Laws Appear.

Cited to answer to indictments for illegal selling returned against them by the Union County Grand Jury at its recent session, two borough wholesale liquor dealers, six local men who were employed as their drivers and the proprietors of an alleged "speak easy," in the West End, were brought before Judge E. E. Atwater at the Court of Oyer and Terminer, Elizabeth, this morning, when their pleas were heard, bail fixed by the court and date of trial set. Samuel Thornton, proprietor of a Watchung avenue poolroom, against whom the grand jury returnde an indictment for keeping a disorderly house, was also arraigned. He entered a plea of not guilty, and was held for trial, bail being fixed at $500. In default of a bondsman, he was locked up.

Henry Haurand, proprietor of the Central Bottling Works, on Somerset street, was indicted, together with August Hendricks, a driver in his employ. They were represented by Francis J. Blatz, who entered a plea of not guilty. Bail was fixed at $300 apiece, and was supplied by Herman Schwed as bondsman. They will come up for trial July 5.

Adolph Bohren, another borough bottler, whose place of business is on Greenbrook road, with John Hermann and James Regan, his drivers, also entered a plea of not guilty through their counsel, William G. DeMeza. The bail was $300 apiece, and was furnished by August Switzel, of Elizabeth. Trial was set for July 6. Bohren is held on two indictments.

Mrs. Lena Hoerster, the third borough bottler against whom an indictment was returned, was ill and unable to go to Elizabeth. One of the driver for her place, Thomas Trainor, was at court to answer an indictment against him, however, and entered a plea of not guilty through his counsel, William G. DeMeza. He was held under $300 bail for trial July 6. D. D. Smalley was his bondsman. Newton Kane, another indicted driver in the employ of Mrs. Hoerster, entered the same plea, with the same lawyer as counsel and was held under the same bail for hearing with his fellow-employe. Mr. Smalley was his bondsman. Michael Lyons, who drives for the New Jersey Bottling Company, entered a plea of not guilty. He was not represented by a lawyer. His bail, $300, was supplied by Michael McCarthy.

Charles Musser, the South Second street butcher against whom an indictment was returned for running a "speak-easy," was represented by Judge William Newcorn. His plea, was not guilty and his bail of $300 was furnished by Herman Schwed. He will appear for trial July 6.

The indictments were the result of four months of investigation conducted in this city by Detective Raney, of a Newark agency. The majority of the indictments were for selling liquor from the wagons, the so-called "beer ark" trade, where the firms had no retail licenses. Musser's butcher shop was raided by the local police some time ago, and its proprietor indicted for conducting a "speak-easy." The arrests on the indictments were made by Captain Christian Frederickson and Detective-Sergeant John Flynn. Chief of Police Kiely was at the hearing. There were no drug-store indictments.

Mission Club Festival.

Under the auspices of the Girls' Mission Club of the Congregational church, a strawberry and ice cream festival will be held tonight on the church lawns. If it storms, the young women have arranged to conduct the affair in thee hurch parlors. The proceeds will be used for mission work in Mexico. Miss Ethel McIntosh, chairman of the committee in charge of the affair, is assisted by the Misses Ida Dealman, Marjorie Phillips, Ethel Van Zandt, Lillian Whitall and Edna Smith.

Will Hold Festival on Tuesday.

The women in charge of the lawn fete to be given by the Ladies' Auxiliary to Trinity Commandery, No. 17, K. T., at the home of Mrs. W. S. Angleman on West Front street, have decided to postpone the affair until Tuesday afternoon and evening, by which time they hope that fair weather will be their fortune.

HE DRANK OF POISON IN HIS WIFE'S SIGHT.

Having failed in a final effort to induce his wife to give up her mode of living, Albert Ulricks, of 1126 Bloomfield street, Hoboken, took a dose of cyanide of potassium on the street in the woman's presence in Orange at 1.30 o'clock yesterday morning, and died a short time later in the Orange Memorial Hospital. The wife and Frank Garness were arrested after the husband's death, at 43 William street, as disorderly persons. Ulricks took the fatal draft in front of Kunz's morgue at North Centre and William streets, almost directly opposite the Orange Police Station.

Mrs. Ulricks and Garness have been employed as strike-breakers in F. Berg & Co.'s factory in Orange Valley.

The suicide followed an attempt made Wednesday by Mrs. Ulricks to have her husband held in Hoboken on a charge of assault. She made a complaint against him there before Recorder McGovern, and the case came up yesterday morning. At that time the woman told the court that her husband had followed her and she wanted to keep away. If he would agree to do this, she said, she would not press the complaint. The court advised the man not to bother her.

The court proceedings explain a reference in a letter found in the suicide's pocket to what "You did to me today." There was no word of reproach in the letter, but the man's thought seemed to be for his seven-year-old son, Charles, who has been living with his paternal grandparents in Hoboken.

The letter read as follows:

"This is to my dear wife: This is the last note from me. I will be dead when you read this. Be good to Charles, and I hope you will forgive me, as I forgive you, for what you did to me today. Take the things in my room. My keys you will find. I will say good-by to you and I hope you will see your mistake."

There was another note, unaddressed to any one, reading:

"Kiss me for Charles before I am put away."

ELK LADIES WILL ARRANGE A BAZAR.

Auxiliary Formed at Elizabeth for a Lively House Warming of Stags' New Home.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of Elizabeth Lodge, No. 289, B. P. O. E., met and organized at Elizabeth last night to take charge of a bazar which will be held in the new home of the Elks in the fall. The officers elected were the following: Mrs. Alfred A. Stein, chairman; Mrs. Dennis F. Collins, vice-chairman; Mrs. Joseph Kaufman, second vice-chairman, and Mrs. John Rankin, secretary. The general committee to take charge of the bazar will be composed of these officers and of committee chairmen to be named by Mrs. Stein. These committee chairmen will in turn name their colleagues.

Dennis F. Collins presided at the meeting until the election of the chairman. After the business session there was a musical program, and refreshments were served.

Announcement was made that several valuable prizes, including an automobile and a piano player, will be awarded at the bazar.

$6,000 FOR MAN'S DEATH IS ABSURD, COURT RULES.

A memorandum just filed by the Supreme Court at Trenton sets aside as excessive a verdict for $6,000 obtained against the Public Service Railway Company by Sidney L. Settlemeyer, of Hackensack, as administrator of Jacob Tschink. Tschink was killed while driving a wagon which was struck by a trolley car at Union Hill. He was fifty years old and the evidence showed that he was earning about $10 a week, although in three months preceding his death he had contributed only $40 to the support of his family.

The court called attention to the fact that Tschink's family was grown up, all but four of his children being married and having homes of their own.

"Under these circumstances," says the memorandum, "$6,000 as compensation for the pecuniary loss which the family had sustained by reason of the father's death is absurd." A new trial is ordered.

Mrs. Underwood Seeks Divorce.

Mrs. Underwood charges desertion. Mrs. Underwood is in New York and with her are their two children, Verna, age sixteen years, and Milan, aged ten years. MILK AND CREAM

Depends on Quality as well as Price.

Our Cream for instance, is worth from half again to twice as much as that of most other dealers, on the ground of richness and consequent greater cost to us.

No artificial "thickeners" or preservatives in ours either. Our cream is thicker because richer.

AN ARTICLE TEMPLE OF ICE.

Amid the bleak icy deserts of Greenland the survivors of the recent ill-fated Erichsen expedition discovered a sight of majesty that solaced them for months of darkness, tedium and suffering, says the New York Sun. They found a crystal palace of superhuman architecture, vaster than a dozen cathedrals and Egyptian temples, resplendent with jewels and endless decorations of ice.

Created by nature in a forbidding wilderness, it frightened the eyes of the explorers and awed them with unimagined magnificence. The dreams of poets and the fancies of epic bards were surpassed by this vision of colossal loveliness, which the painter, Achton Friis, a member of the expedition, endeavored to carry away for the benefit of dwellers in civilization.

More than a mile in length, the lofty nave of this arctic temple of ice was pierced at intervals with windows, through which the glancing sun rays sparkled on columns and cubes and immense clusters of stalactites like pendant jewels. An iridescent glow, as if from opals and diamonds, suffused the lighter spaces and shaded into the bluish twilight which reigned in solemn transepts.

The painter despaired of comprehending even the elusive colors that emanated from every surface and were infinitely toned by combination and reflection. Through the center of this ice palace flowed a stream of water, whose occasional ripple and plashing fall broke the majestic silence. The human voice reverberated weirdly against the massive walls and the arched roof. A tone of mystery or of giant power was repeated by invisible spirits of the North. There were echoes like chimes of bells, matching the fairy decorations of the nave.

A huge dissonance caused by the cracking of a distant floe rumbled through the cavern as if it were the beginning of a prelude on an organ, appropriate for an arctic temple. What strains of might and of brooding softness would be required in such music!

In habited latitudes the architecture of frozen water is regarded as a pleasing fantasy, something which lasts a few short moments and disappears. Far North it its possible that ice palaces and temples should endure without change longer than human structure of stone. The carcasses of prehistoric monsters have remained inviolate in arctic tombs for thousands of years, while granite pyraims have worn away and Babylonian civilizations have been buried deep in the earth. Some day the world may decide to store its most valuable records for posterity at the poles.

Miss Emma J. Mahnke, of Philadelphia, will wed Rev. Frederick Blasier, pastor of the Pitman Baptist church, Wednesday evening, June 16, in the Second German Baptist church, Philadelphia.

His arm caught in a crane, Walter Barnes, thirty-seven years old, of Westmont, had his left hand so badly crushed at the Camden Iron Works that doctors at Cooper Hospital fear amputation will be necessary.

CANOE CLUB BUSY.

Cranford Boys Working for Carnival of July 10.

The river carnival of July 10 is all the talk in and about the Cranford Canoe Club boathouse. During the past week the members of the club have removed several large snags from the river, but overlooked one, to the sorrow of Don Daggit, Louis Coudert and Juan Bargos, who upset and got a good ducking.

New canoes are arriving each day, and it is estimated that there are already more than 200 on the river. The committee soliciting funds for the carnival is meeting with a generous response, and is busy getting the necessary money together. A regular meeting of the club will be held Monday evening.

BIGGEST SHOW EVER BOOKED FOR NEXT WEEK.

For the reopening of the Plainfield theatre on Monday night, Manager Counihan has secured another immense show. The bill will be headed by Kleen, the hypnotist, who is conceded by the western papers to give a better performance than either Pauline or Prescelle. His performance lasts nearly an hour and is a laugh from start to finish. Another act on the bill will be Dennis Mullen & Co., who will be remembered here for his work with the big vaudeville show in which May Ward and her eight Dresden dolls appeared. The sketch is called "The Janitor" and is a scream from start to finish. Caites Brothers follow with their eccentric dancing specialty.

Others on the bill are Palmer and Lewis in "Spangles," and La Petite a Parisian dancer. This is by far the best vaudeville show yet booked for the Plainfield theatre

C. P. Titsworth to Sing.

Charles Potter Titsworth will sing at the vesper service to be held at the Seventh-Day Baptist church tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock. Mrs. W. C. Hubbard will be at the organ. At this meeting, Miss Sara Curry will speak in the interests of the Netherwood Fresh Air Camp, and an offering will be received for the work.

event. The hunters and jumpers class 47 furnished lots of thrills and not a little fun as well as a surprise to many who had not expected to see Perfection, a 13 hand horse, jump himself into instant favor and recognition. The little fellow took the hedge and bars as cleverly as any of the larger animals and the only wonder was that he was not awarded the blue instead of the red mark of approval. In this event, as in others, several extra trials were ordered by the judges who finally decided that Clarence E. Sherin's Interpreter was the best jumper. The Elmwood Farm's Knight of Elway unseated his rider after having refused the bars the first time around. Miss Hooley was also unfortunate in the jumps, both the mares she rode refusing to go over the bars in spite of unlimited coaxing. Rupert W. K. Anderson's Rollo also balked at the bars and was counted out.

Class 49, harness horses of local owners, driven by amateurs, gave the judges a serious twenty minutes. The handsome turnouts handled by Miss Helen Cruikshank and Mrs. H. Reeve Stockton being the closest of rivals. Mrs. Stockton held the ribbons over Tonzo Sauvage's Bluebell while Miss Crulkshank did a like service for Mrs. Stockton's Ruby. The final awards were a blue for Ruby and a red for Bluebell. These awards elicted round after round of applause.

The last exhibit of the day was class 53, combination harness and saddle horses with five entries. The horses were first shown to wagon, unharnessed in the ring and shown under saddle. Andrew Morrison's Sonia was adjudged the best in this event, but was closely pressed for first honors by Mayo, owned by the Somerset Farm which took the red ribbon.

A capital musical program was rendered during the afternoon by La. Vere's band and did much to dispel the gloom that followed the frequent light showers. Notwithstanding the threatening weather a crowd estimated at a thousand or more was on hand to enjoy the show and, as one man put it, "No amendment to the Constitution, no act of Parliament or decree of King can change man's (or woman's for that matter) love for a horse." The winners of the ribbons seemed to be conscious of the honors they had won for their owners and pranced and danced to the music of the band after the manner of humans. Announcement was made by secretary L. G. Timpson that the boxes and all the other seating capacity on the grounds had been sold out, even the places reserved for the judges and exhibitors having been encroached upon. So it looks as though the grounds will be taxed to their utmost before the show closes tomorrow. Among the notables present yesterday were Richard Delafield, President of the National Park Bank, New York; William J. Buttfield, Simeon A. Cruikshank, Charles W. McCutcheon, Edward R. Finch, O. T. Waring, Francis DeL. Hyde and Tonzo Sauvage. Mrs. Belle Beach-Bain and Miss Mabele B. Hooley were prominent as successful riders and drivers. Today's feature will be the contest for "The Dr. Selwonk" challenge cup for single harness horses, driven by their bonafide owners. The cup is valued at $250, and must be won twice by the same owner before it becomes his property. In the meantime it remains in the custody of the Plainfield Riding and Driving Club. The summary follows:

Class 14—Novice harness horses. Pair of horses 14.2 hands and not exceeding 15 hands. First, Richard Delafield's ch. g. Energy and Buster Brown; second, George D. King's blk. g. Little King and Kentucky Prince; third, David N. Neuberger's bay g. The Tiger and The Mouse.

Savings and Checking Account

"There are certain persons who can afford to have a savings bank account only, such as the laborer or the artisan. These men pay for the necessities of life—that is, rent, food and clothes with cash. The surplus they put into a savings bank for a rainy day or as a nucleus for a home.

"On the other hand, a clerk, teacher, secretary, salesman or housekeeper, who has to pay out a certain sum of money every month, can easily have a checking account. The fact that a man or woman has a checking account need not shut out the possibility of having a savings-bank account, too. One does not interfere with the other. The savings account is worth while if it only attracts a few dollars each month. Money thus put away works all the time, and is a reserve to fall back upon in case of emergency. There are many well-to-do persons who have big checking accounts who also maintain accounts in savings-banks. Some keep them for their children."—Saturday Evening Post.

Society people attending the opening session of the horse show, yesterday, did not have an opportunity to display their finery. The threatening weather to some extent had its effect on the display of gowns, usually a big feature of the show. However, there were many handsome gowns, but they were covered with rain-coats and heavy wraps, while the many fine hats were swathed in large veils. It was a disappointment to many women that they were not able to appear in their best, but better things were hoped for in the way of weather today and tomorrow.

Among some of the striking cossumes noticed about the grounds were these:

Miss Eleanor Waring, blue tailor-made suit, very large natural straw hat trimmed with white wings and black velvet.

Mrs. George P. Mellick, heliotrope cheviot, tailor-made; straw braid hat of same color.

Mrs. Edwin S. Holey, terra-cotta coat suit, black straw hat, trimmed with blue velvet and pink roses.

Mrs. Harry M. Stockton, covert suit and black hat.

Mrs. Charles Joel Fisk, amethyist coat suit, braided in black, and satin braid hat of same color.

Miss Louise Saunders, gun metal satin gown with net guimpe of same color; large military cape of cadet blue, black hat trimmed with fine flowers of pastel shades.

Mrs. Henry A. McGee, pale shade of violet cloth.

Mrs. Harry Butler, all white suit with white hat, trimmed with black and white satin rain-coat.

Told of Bible Animals.

The Salvation Army Hall was well filled last night at the special services. Rev. Charles S. Kemble, pastor of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, preached a sermon on "The Animals of the Bible." Martin A. Korff rendered several violin selections.

FOR LACK OF MANHOOD 'DRUNK' GOT 60 DAYS

"There's no manhood about you, O'Connor. Yesterday morning I gave you all the chance in the world to brace up and be decent, and you went out of this court-room and deliberately got beastly drunk before going home. I'll just make it sixty days now."

So said City Judge Runyon to Jeremiah O'Connor at the session of city court today when the iLberty street man faced him on his wife's complaint. The man, who is the father of six children, has been in the habit of taking on a big cargo of liquor daily and abusing his wife and making a disgrace of himself in the home upon his return.

O'Connor made all sorts of promises to the Judge yesterday morning, and went out with his wife. It is said that as soon as they were outside, he left her and made a bee-line for a saloon, where he developed a belligerent jag. He was feeling very scrappy when arrested, but this morning had a new lot of promises and resolutions ready to offer the court. It didn't work.

Children's Day Service.

A special Children's Day service will be held at the Seventh-Day Baptist church tomorrow morning in connection with the regular morning service, at 10:30 o'clock. A program of songs and recitations by the children of the Sabbath Day school has been arranged and there will be special music by the choir and an address by Rev. Edwin Shaw, pastor of the church. Orra S. Rogers, superintendent of the Sabbath school, will preside and the collection will be devoted to the work of the Junior and Young People's societies of Christian Endeavor. The regular session of Sabbath school will be held at the conclusion of this Children's Day service.

Miss Mary E. Holton.

Miss Mary E. Holton, of 80 Grove street, died yesterday at her home after an illness of seven months. Death followed a complication of diseases. Miss Holton was the daughter of the late Joseph and Sarah E. Holton, and was a member of the First Baptist church. The funeral services will be Monday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock at her late residence.

Rev. Dr. and Mrs. C. E. Herring, of Watchung avenue, will leave July 1 for a two months' trip abroad.

Mrs. Emil G. Larson, of Rockview avenue, is spending a few weeks with friends at Pittsburg, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. Archibald Davis, of Lakewood, are visiting at the home of Mrs. Davis' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry E. Bowen, of Watchung avenue.

POINTS ON PREACHING.

Where there is no (re)vision the people perish.

The subject of the sermon depends on its object.

Some texts are only pretexts. They are too apt to be the "points of departure" for a sermon.

A sermon that comes from the heart of the preacher will go to the hearts of his hearers.

It is better to begin back of the text and work up to it, than to begin with the text and work away from it.

The secret of a successful sermon, as of Sam Weller's valentine, is in making one "wish there was more."

Sermons should never be measured, they should be weighed. Not length but strength is the true test of a sermon.

The business of the preacher is not to preach to men and women who are not at church, but to preach to those who are there.

The preacher of the old theology preached "as a dying man to dying man." The preacher of the new theology must preach as a living man to living men.

Do not serve your sermons up a second time, cold and stale. Warm them over in the growing fervor of the imagination and emotions in which they are created.

Some preachers are like boys swimming under water. You see them when they dive off the text, and you see them again when they bob up at the "Amen;" but all through the sermon you lose sight of them because they may have gone in over their heads.—Homiletic Review.

CHURCH AND CLERGY.

The late Mary C. Reid of Clarion, Pa., left a bequest to the American Society for Visiting Catholic Prisoners.

The twenty-fifth anniversary of the Calvary Methodist Episcopal church of New York was celebrated December 27.

Rev. Felix Ward, vice-rector of the Passionists' monastery at Scranton, Pa., probably will be consecrated bishop of the Philippines.

The annual convention of the Confraternity of Christian Doctrine was held in the Catholic College hall, New York, December 28. Archbishop Farley presided.

The venerable Joan of Arc will, in April or May, have solemn beatification in St. Peter's, Rome, in the presence of almost the entire hierarchy of France and many French Catholics.

FROM THE PENCIL'S POINT.

He's an active candidate who runs ahead of his ticket.

Laugh at yourself and the world will join in the laugh.

Anyway, the rolling stone doesn't break into the mossback class.

A man and a woman can never agree as to the charms of another woman.

A man seldom tries to belittle other men unless they are bigger than himself.

Instead of speaking his mind, many a married man speaks pieces of his wife's mind.

Don't try to judge a woman's sense of humor by her laughs at her husband's jokes.

We have more respect for women who want to vote than we have for men who try to break into society.

WRINKLES AND BEAUTY.

"Imitation on the face of it"—the other girl's complexion.

An old fashion is old, but an ancient fashion is always modern.

A woman's smile must cover a multitude of sins, for that's all Eve wore.

Any woman will adopt the latest wrinkles—to efface them.

To preserve your complexion—keep it in a cold place securely corked.

The average woman would rather own to a "double life" than a double chin.

"A plague on my lover's jealousy!" cried the pretty shop girl. "Why wasn't I born plain, like the society beauties?"

MUSINGS.

Can we trust the sincerity of those people who "make up" their minds?

Throw worry to the winds. The next breeze will waft it back to you.

A California peach under pink mosquito netting—that is painting the lily!

The Lady Who Speaketh Not

More to Be Feared Than the Conversational Wife, Says Uncle Henry.

"Woman is the limit," sighed Uncle Henry after listening intently for a few moments to be sure, she was not in any dangerous proximity. "Yes, sir, if you go in to use the regular highbrow literary style of invective, you might call her a paradox. And if you don't know, a paradox is something which is what it never was and looks like what it never will be. Fierce things, son; simply fierce.

"It's like this. When she's mad she spurts conversation with a static head of 280 pounds. The madder she gets the harder it is for her to talk. And when she gets clean plumb petulant you can't get a word out of her with a cold chisel.

"Get me right, though. However, otherwise and nevertheless, a silent woman is the gosh blamedest work of an otherwise beneficent Providence.

"That silent treatment effect is what brings the silver threads among the gold. That's what makes married men learn to beguile the thing they are by seeming otherwise, as the poet so aptly expresses it. I'm going to tell you, son, a conversational woman wife is a sore trial, and offense and a stumbling block. But you take it from me, when you frame her up alongside of the silent sister sort of simple sorrow she is five aces to the deck. Yes, sir, she is that.

"I tell you, son, this silent grouch business is a problem. It's a study. I put it down that any man who can invent an antidote is going to be rich, famous and happy all at the same time. And listen, I've got a great scheme. There's a sure way to beat it and your crafty Uncle Henry had thought it out all for himself. And tried it too, by gracious. Be not as dumb, driven cattle, be a hero.

"All right. I comes home the other night and found that I was persona non grata with little wife. She could not see me with a Yerkes telescope. I had to go look in the glass to find out if I was really home. I don't know what was the matter with her but whatever it was it was my fault, of course.

"'Ah,' I says, 'posterity never did anything for me, so you could notice it,' I says, 'but,' I says: 'I am certainly built on the general ground plan of a public benefactor. I will try this little scheme out and put the double cross on a lowering futurity,' I says.

"All right. When I got sort of braced I sings out: 'Huh,' I says, 'I dunno what this house would be if some one didn't come in once and a while and pay some attention to something. That front door bell won't ring. It's busted,' like that, I says. Of course I knew it wasn't busted, but I just wanted to start her off.

"'The bell rings perfectly well,' she says.

"See? I had her from the start. Oh, this is a bang up idea of mine. All right. Then I comes back at her sort of mean.

"'Nothing of the sort,' I says. 'It don't ring because it's busted. I guess I ought to know. Seems like everything is busted around here,' I says, leading her out to make another crack. Catch the idea?

"'The front door bell,' she says, cool, calm and collected and the icicles hanging on every word, 'is in excellent condition. There is nothing the matter with it. It is not broken. It rings. The front door bell rings,' she says, like that certainly settled it and me at the same time.

"Then I decides to spring it. 'All right,' I says, 'since you are so sure,' I says, 'I'll go out and push the button,' I says, 'and then we will see whether you know so much or not,' I says, just as tart and brazen as any old bachelor. 'Huh,' she says. Only that and nothing more.

"Then I knew I had her. I was some sot up over it too. So I goes out on the front steps and gives the thing a push good and strong so there wouldn't be any mistake.

"Well, sir, you can just see me out on that stoop with the light of victory in my eyes, just dippy with excitement like a boy spinning his first top. I sort of figured it out I was qualifying to have a national holiday named after me too.

"So I gives it a good push. Then I listens. I didn't hear anything. I gives it another shove. Still nothing doing. Probably something the matter with the button. I unscrews that in a hurry and touches the ends of the wires. Still no ring. I screws on the button again, and then who comes moseying out but wife.

"'Well,' she says, 'ring it,' she says. 'Don't be standing there like a fool,' she says.

"I didn't say one single little word. I was thinking, I was. Then she gives a hitch and a huff and she gives the button a push. Silence reigned. She gives it some more pushes and no ring. 'Huh,' she says and goes off.

"Well, son, that was some days ago and she hasn't seen me yet. Fact is I'm not so all fired anxious for her to see me, because when she does come around at last there's going to be some doings at our house. You see the longer she does the silence sketch the worse the result will be; but I ain't exactly out looking for trouble just for the sake of having it over.

"Still it's a bully idea. The idea was perfectly all right. It was the bell that was out of order. I'm going to try it again some time. That is, when she gets over what's the matter with her, gives it to me good and then is all cooled down again. That'll take some time. But anyhow it's a swell scheme, what? If it works right, that is."

HIS ITALIAN TOUR.

The Bridge Fiend Speaks.

The trip across was rather slow;
I recollect the boat rolled so,
Really, we were scarcely able
To keep cards upon the table.

Naples? Like fools we showed our packs
And had to pay a custom tax.
The light was poor at the hotel—
One couldn't see the dummy well.

I don't remember Rome. Oh, yes,
That's where I took that Club finesse
When playing with Lord What's-his-name;
It saved two tricks and won the game.

Florence was marvelous. 'Twas there
I held that combination rare,
One hundred aces, in my hand;
It was my deal—I made a "Grand."

The railroads? Say, don't talk to me
Of railroading in Italy!
It's quite impossible to play;
You run through tunnels all the way.

Venice is nice—but damp, you know,
The cards all stick together so.
At Genoa we took the ship
And ended our Italian trip.

Travel, of course, improves the mind,
But, just the same, I am inclined
To think you find as many dubs
Playing abroad as in our clubs.

"PAUPER" PATIENT HAS CASH AND REAL ESTATE

Morristown, June 11.—Following up his declaration last month that there were patients in the State Hospital at Morris Plains supported by the county who were well able to pay for their own care, Freeholder Edward D. Neighbour, of Dover, called the board's attention to the case of Garret C Smith, a county patient, at a meeting of the Board of Freeholders yesterday. This man, Mr. Neighbour said, had money now in the hands of his guardian which was enough to pay for his treatment at the institution without any help from the county.

"I have examined the court records" said Mr. Neighbour, "and find that in the Surrogate's office a final accounting is to be made by his guardian and that he has between $500 and $600 coming to him. Besides this Smith draws a pension of $6, and has property, the rents of which amount to $800 a year. I also learned that the man has no near relatives, but a few distant ones are now trying to get hold of the old man's money. The board, I think, should have Counsel Runyon present a bill to the guardian for the money it has expended in caring for the man in the State Hospital."

On motion this was ordered done, and Counsel Runyon will prepare a statement showing the amount of money the county has paid out for Smith's care and maintenance at the Morris Plains Hospital and demand its payment.

Director Becker reported that the Lackawanna Railroad was about to abolish three grade crossings at Montville and wanted permission from the board to change the grade in the streets where the crossings are to be taken out. The company, Mr. Becker said, agreed to make all changes and repairs at its own expense. The proposition was referred to the Road Committee with power to direct the director and the clerk of the board to sign an agreement to that effect.

Freeholder Francher wanted to know why the Traction Company didn't finish the work on a fill along the Landing road. He did not get any response to his query so he moved that the company be notified to "get busy." It was unanimously carried.

County Collector MacLean presented a bond as such official for approval, the old one having expired. The amount is $100,000 and bondsmen are J. F. MacLean, Frederick R. Castin, Alexander Gillam, Henry C. Pitney and Lewis D. Kay.

The Almshouse Committee reported 110 in the institution and eighty inmates in the Children's Home. The Road Committee had bills amounting to $1,903.32 for repairs.

"BREAKERS" WILL NOT BE REBUILT.

The Breakers, the hotel that was burned at Spring Lake Wednesday night, will not be rebuilt. Senator Oliver H. Brown, who held 90 per cent. of the stock in the company owning the hostelry, is authority for the statement. Instead, the Senator will erect next fall a handsome cottage on the site. Mr. Brown didn't seem to feel his loss particularly in talking last night. He said he was very sorry for Louis Moss, the proprietor, and his wife, who, with Mr. Brown, constituted the hotel company, but whose total loss was but $5,000. The Senator's loss was $45,000, two-thirds of which was covered by insurance. The Senator discussed the effect that the fire will have upon Spring Lake, and declared he believed it wouldn't hurt the season.

Spring Lakers are today thanking their stars that the whole hotel section of the resort was not wiped out. The heat was so intense and the gale so stiff that the roof of the New Monmouth Hotel, 700 or 800 feet away, was covered with firebrands, some the size of a man's hand. This hotel and the Essex and Sussex, a cottage which was damaged to the extent of $5,000, barely escaped.

Miss Beulah Duncan.

Miss Beulah Duncan, the new lyric soprano at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, is one of the youngest and most promising pupils of Prof. Parsons, the well-known New York singing teacher. She is a native of Waco, Texas, has been singing in many of the largest churches in her native State, since a child. She was a student at the Baylor University for two years, prior to coming to New York where she hopes to complete her musical education. Her voice is that of a pure lyric soprano both in quality and tone, she sings with perfect ease and freedom, her upper and lower register being at all times clear. Miss Duncan has a bright future before her and all those who heard her are of one opinion, she is a young singer with a voice that can be made much of.

WOMAN BATTLES WITH A DOG AND SAVES CHILD.

Mrs. Freda Batch and her four-year-old daughter Bertha, had a lively encourter with a big black dog in their home, 612 Court street, at Hoboken, yesterday morning. The animal, which did not belong in the household, and got there in some unaccountable manner, first attacked the child and turned its attention to Mrs. Batch when the latter attacked it with a clothes stick in saving her daughter.

After several minutes fighting off the maddened animal and caring for her terrified child, Mrs. Batch managed to beat the canine into a room, the door of which she closed until the police arrived. Patrolman Schaeffer, at Sixth and Washington streets, a block away, in that city, was summoned. After trying in vain to shoot the dog, the officer resorted to his club and succeeded in beating the animal to death, but not before his uniform had been torn and his hands clawed.

Mrs. Batch knew nothing of the dog's presence in the house until it ran from under a table in the kitchen and knocked the child down, as the latter was walking toward a door leading to another room. Mrs. Batch at the time was pounding clothes in a boiler on the kitchen range. It is believed the dog got into the apartments yesterday while the family was absent.

The matter of decorations was discussed and it was decided to hold another meeting of the class on Thursday night and have samples displayed.

On next Tuesday night, a meeting of all former students of the school will be held and definite arrangements for the part the entire school will take in the 5th of July parade, will be decided. Following the regular business meeting on Tuesday night, there will be a short entertainment for the benefit of those who attend.

SEN. JOHNSON EXPLAINS HIS "ANTI-HAMILTONISM."

United States Senator M. N. Johnson, of North Dakota, in a letter to General J. Madison Drake, of Elizabeth, attacks the moral character and the political beliefs of Alexander Hamilton, and declares that it is because of them he is now fighting the proposition to have a monument erected to the Federalist in Washington

The communication, which indirectly stigmatizes all those in favor of the statue project as "blamed fools," is in reply to one from General Drake, who, in his letter, managed to speak even more harshly of the nation's first Secretary of the Treasury than does Senator Johnson.

There is a local interest in the controversy here because Hamilton spent several years of his life in Elizabeth, coming in contact to a considerable extent with Colonel Francis K. Barber.

UNION COUNTY FREEHOLDERS.

Offical Record of the Proceedings of the Board at Last Session.

Regular meeting of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union, held on Thursday, May 5, 1909, at 2.30 P. M.

Roll call showed the following members present:

Absent—Freeholder Adams—1.

On motion of Freholder Cady it was ordered that the reading of the minutes of the previous meeting be disposed with, and that the same be approved as per printed copies on the members' desks.

COMMUNICATIONS.

Rahway, May 2, 1909.

To the Board of Freholders.

Gentlemen—Accept my sincere thanks for your kind resolutions of sympathy. I assure you they are appreciated.

Yours very truly,
JOHN FARRELL.

On motion of Freholder Cladek received and placed on file.

From Barry Post, No. 27, G. A. R., as follows:

Rahway, May 1, 1909.

Benjamin King, Director Board of Freeholders.

Honorable Sir—Barry Post, No. 27, G. A. R., recommend to the Board of Freeholders our comrade, Alfred T. Crane, senior, for the position of draw tender for the Milton avenue drawbridge. He is an old soldier, a former member of Martin's Sixth N. Y. Battery; has no other occupation; lives within twelve feet of the bridge, and will devote the whole of his time to it.

Hoping our petition will be acted upon by the committee favorably, I remain

Your obedient servant,
DANIEL G. URMSTON,
Adjutant.

This was ordered sent by resolution of Barry Post, No. 27.

On motion of Freeholder Smith received and referred to the Committee on Rahway Drawbridge.

From W. H. Randolph, as follows:

May 4, 1909.

To the Honorable Board of Freeholders.

Gentlemen—This letter is written in the interest of Alfred T. Crane, who is seeking a position as bridge tender at the East Milton avenue drawbridge at Rahway, N. J. Mr. Crane lives within twelve feet of the drawbridge, and in my estimation could give the very best attention to the position should he be fortunate enough to secure it. Mr. Crane has, I understand, the endorsement of some of our best citizens, and also from other good sources as well, which will be presented to you, and I think should have the consideration of your honorable body.

Yours respectfully,
WILLIAM RANDOLPH.

On motion of Freeholder Smith received and referred to the Rahway Drawbridge Committee.

From A. T. Crane as follows:

To the Honorable Board of Chosen Freeholders of Union County.

Gentlemen—At your last meeting on April 5, I had a recommendation for the appointment as bridge tender at the Milton avenue drawbridge, and it was referred to the bridge committee. I think that justice has not been done to me; I now apepal to your most honorable body as I had the endorsements of the leading Republicans of Rahway, both of our Assemblymen, Tillman and Kirstein, also the Republican Club of Rahway passed a resolution endorsing me and instructed the secretary to send to the Director of your honorable body; also the Rahway Boat Club had endorsed me, the department commander, G. A. R. of New Jersey, the city and county committee of Rahway, with the exception of two. Barry Post passed two resolutions endorsing me. I pray that your honorable body as a whole would take some action in the matter as stated. I am an honorably discharged soldier of the Civil War with a good army record and live just fourteen feet form the bridge and can perform all the duties that pertain to the bridge as I have no other employment. I will state further that a number of years ago I was bridge tender of the said bridge and when I first took charge of it one man could not open it; I spent a great deal of time cleaning the cog wheels of the gum that was on them and got it to working very easily and there never had been any complaint against me. I opened the bridge at all hours of the night; the reason why the bridge was taken from me was because the board was changed to Democratic and my place was filled by a Democrat. Now I ask your honorable body to see that justice is done to me.

Respectfully yours,
ARTHUR T. CRANE.

On motion of Freholder Swain received and referred to the Rahway Drawbridge Committee.

The following petition was presented and read:

To the Honorable Board of Freeholders of Union County.

Gentlemen—The undersigned, residents, citizens, property owners and taxpayers of the city of Elizabeth, do most respectfully petition your honorable body to order and cause George W. Sofield to be appointed as the tender of the bridge recently constructed at South First street crossing of the Elizabeth River. In recommending Mr. Sofield your petitioners feel that they are recommending a man who is in every way able and competent to act in the capacity of bridge tender and that he will prove to be efficient in this respect.

Signed by John F. Kenah, Henry H. Ahrens, William Creter and thirty-three others.

On motion of Freeholder Krouse received and referred to the Committee on First Street Bridge.

By Freeholder Jensen as follows:

To the Honorable Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union.

Gentlemen—At the resquest of several property-owners near the county culvert at Bayway, Edgar road, Grier avenue, South Broad street and Maple avenue, I have investigated the matter of filling in a brook running through the property in that section, which brook is known as cow and pasture brook. This is now a dead brook and is not used, and as some of these property-owners wish to build over the course of the brook there would seem to be no reason in my opinion why the property-owners should not be permitted to fill in the brook, and the above-mentioned culverts closed by the Freeholders. For the purpose of further investigation I sugegst the apopintment of a special committee, to include the county adcisor, County Engineer and Mr. Richards of the Board of Health.

Yours respectfully,
CHARLES J. JENSEN,
Freeholder.

Freeholder Smith moved the communication be received and referred to a special committee of three, which was so ordered.

The Director appointed as the committee Freeholders Jensen, Krouse and Martin.

From Freeholder Jensen as follows:

To the Honorable Board of Chosen Freeholders.

Gentlemen—As a member of the Committee on Bridges I have visited the lift bridge at South First street and the man in charge had considerable difficulty in raising same. The bridge is used so little that the bearings and joints become rusted and it takes two and three men a half hour to raise or lower it, and I recommended that electric power be installed so that it can be more easily and promptly handled. Also the sill on one end of the bridge was made of poor lumber and a new one is needed at once. It is also my opinion that the bridge gates are too lightly constructed; the present gates do not serve the purpose intended, are easily blown about by the wind and new and stronger ones should be put up immediately.

Yours respectfully,
CHARLES J. JENSEN,
Freeholder.

On motion of Freholder Krouse received and referred to the Committee on South First Street Bridge.

By Committee on Union Avenue Bridge, New Providence.

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union.

Gentlemen—Your committee appointed to examine the condition of the Union avenue bridge, near Berkeley Heights, New Providence, report having carefully gone over the same and find it in a very dilapidated condition and therefore recommend that a new bridge with concrete abutments and I beam and permanent cover he erected at this point at a cost not to exceed $450.

BRADFORD JONES,
J. N. CADY,
ELSTON DARBY.
Committee.

Freeholder Darby moved that the report be received and recommendation adopted, which was so ordered on roll call by an unanimous vote.

By the Committee on Terrill Culverts.

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union.

Gentleman—Your committee to whom was referred the condition of the culverts on Terrill road, at East Second street, Plainfield, and Fanwood, would report having examined the same in connection with the representatives of the Public Service Corporation and find that the present culverts were constructed either wholly or in part by the street railway company at the time of laying its tracks. The improvement of Terrill road bridge brings more water to this point and the culverts have fallen in and are in need of considerable repair as well as of enlargement.

We therefore recommend that new culverts of substantial construction be built at this point, the cost of which shall be borne by the county and the Public Service Corporation in such proportion as may be found equitable or as may be governed by contracts now existing between the said corporation and the city of Plainfield and the township of Fanwood, made at the time the franchises for the road were granted. The cost of said work in no event to exceed thes um of $550 to the county.

ROSALIND AT RED GATE

By MEREDITH NICHOLSON

Illustrations by RAY WALTERS

"Yes; so it was," replied Miss Pat. Luck was favoring us, and Rosalind was rising to the emergency splendidly. It appeared afterward that her own mother had been painted by the same artist, and she had boldly risked the guess. Sister Margaret and I were frightened into a discussion of the possibilities of aerial navigation, with a vague notion, I think, of keeping the talk in the air, and it sufficed until we had concluded the simple luncheon. I walked beside Miss Pat to the parlor. The sky had cleared, and I broached a drive at once. I had read in the newspapers that a considerable body of regular troops was passing near Annandale on a practice march from Fort Sheridan to a rendezvous at some point south of us.

"Let us go and see the soldiers," I suggested.

"Very well, Larry," she said. "We can make believe they are sent out to do honor to my birthday. You are a thoughtful boy. I can never thank you for all your consideration and kindness. And you will not fail to find Arthur—I am asking you no questions; I'd rather not know where he is. I'm afraid of truth!" She turned her head away quickly—we were seated by ourselves in a corner of the room. "I am afraid, I am afraid to ask!"

"He is well; quite well. I shall have news of him to-night."

She glanced across the room to where Rosalind and Sister Margaret talked quietly together. I felt Miss Pat's hand touch mine, and suddenly there were tears in her eyes.

"I was wrong! I was most unjust in what I said to you of her. She was all tenderness, all gentleness when she came in this morning." She fumbled at her belt and held up a small cluster of the sweet peas that Rosalind had brought from Red Gate.

"I told you so!" I said, trying to laugh off her contrition. "What you said to me is forgotten, Miss Pat."

"And now when everything is settled, if she wants to marry Gillespie, let her do it."

"But she won't! Haven't I told you that Helen shall never marry him?"

I had ordered a buckboard, and it was now announced.

"Don't trouble to go upstairs, Aunt Pat; I will bring your things for you," said Rosalind; and Miss Pat turned upon me with an air of satisfaction and pride, as much as to say: "You see how devoted she is to me!"

I wish to acknowledge here my obligations to Sister Margaret for giving me the benefit of her care and resourcefulness on that difficult day. There was no nice detail that she overlooked, no danger that she did not anticipate. She sat by Miss Pat on the long drive, while Rosalind and I chattered nonsense behind them. We were so fortunate as to strike the first battalion, and saw it go into camp on a bit of open prairie to await the arrival of the artillery that followed. But at no time did I lose sight of the odd business that still lay ahead of me, nor did I remember with any satisfaction how Helen, somewhere across woodland and lake, chafed at the delayed climax of her plot. The girl at my side, lovely and gracious as she was, struck me increasingly as but a tame shadow of that other one, so like and so unlike! I marveled that Miss Pat had not seen it; and in a period of silence on the drive home I think Rosalind must have guessed my thought; for I caught her regarding me with a mischievous smile and she said, as the others rather too generously sought to ignore us:

"You can see now how different I am—how very different!"

When I left them at St. Agatha's with an hour to spare before dinner, Sister Margaret assured me with her eyes that there was nothing to fear.

I was nervously pacing the long terrace when I saw my guests approaching. I told the butler to order dinner at once and went down to meet them. Miss Pat declared that she never felt better; and under the excitement of the hour Sister Margaret's eyes glowed brightly.

As we sat down in the screened corner of the broad terrace, with the first grave approach of twilight in the sky, and the curved trumpet of the young moon hanging in the west, it might have seemed to an onlooker that the gods of chance had oddly ordered our little company. Miss Patricia in white was a picture of serenity, with the smile constant about her lips, happy in her hope for the future. Rosalind, fresh to these surroundings, showed clearly her pleasure in the pretty setting of the scene, and read into it, in bright phrases, the delight of a storybook incident.

"Let me see," she said, reflectively, "just who we are: We are the lady of the castle perilous dining al fresco, with the abbess, who is also a noble lady, come across the fields to sit at meat with her. And you, sir, are a knight full orgulous, feared in many lands, and sworn to the defense of these ladies."

"And you"—and Miss Pat's eyes were beautifully kind and gentle, as she took the cue and turned to Rosalind, "you are the well-beloved daughter of my house, faithful in all service, in all ways self-forgetful and kind, our joy and our pride."

It may have been the spirit of the evening that touched us, or only the light of her countenance and the deep sincerity of her voice; but I knew that tears were bright in all our eyes for a moment. And then Rosalind glanced at the western heavens through the foliage.

"There are the stars, Aunt Pat—brighter than ever to-night for your birthday."

Presently, as the dark gathered about us, the candles were lighted, and their glow shut out the world. To my relief the three women carried the talk alone, leaving me to my own thoughts of Helen and my plans for restoring her to her aunt with no break in the new confidence that Rosalind had inspired. I had so completely yielded myself to this undercurrent of reflection that I was startled to find Miss Pat with the coffee service before her.

"Larry, you are dreaming. How can I remember whether you take sugar?"

Sister Margaret's eyes were upon me reproachfully for my inattention, and my heart-beats quickened as eight strokes of the chapel chime stole lingeringly through the quiet air. I had half-raised my cup when I was startled by a question from Miss Pat—a request innocent enough and spoken, it seemed, utterly without intention.

"Let me see your ring a moment, Helen."

Sister Margaret flashed a glance of inquiry at me, but Rosalind met the situation instantly.

"Certainly, Aunt Pat"—and she slipped the ring from her finger, passed it across the table, and folded her hands quietly upon the white cloth. She did not look at me, but I saw her breath come and go quickly. If the rings were not the same then we were undone. This thought gripped the three of us, and I heard my cup beating a tattoo on the edge of my saucer in the tense silence, while Miss Pat bent close to the candle before her and studied the ring, turning it over slowly. Rosalind half opened her lips to speak, but Sister Margaret's snowy hand clasped the girl's fingers. The little circlet of gold with its beautiful green stone had been to me one of the convincing items of the remarkable resemblance between the cousins; but if there should be some differentiating mark Miss Pat was not so stupid as to overlook it.

Miss Pat put down the ring abruptly, and looked at Rosalind and then smiled quizzically at me.

"You are a clever boy, Larry."

Then, turning to Rosalind, Miss Pat remarked, with the most casual air imaginable:

"Helen pronounces either with the long e. I noticed at luncheon that you say eyether. Where's your father, Rosalind?"

My eyes were turning from her to Rosalind when, on her last word, as though by prearranged signal, far across the water, against the dark shadows of the lake's remoter shore, a rocket's spent ball broke and flung its stars against the night.

I spoke no word, but leaped over the stone balustrade and ran to the boathouse where Gillespie waited.

CHAPTER XXIV.

"With My Hands."

Gillespie was smoking his pipe on the boathouse steps. He had come over from the village in his own launch, which tossed placidly beside mine. Ijima stepped forward promptly with a lantern as I ran out upon the planking of the pier.

"Jump into my launch, Gillespie, and be in a hurry!" and to my relief he obeyed without his usual parley. Ijima cast us off, the engine sputtered a moment, and then the launch got away. I bade Gillespie steer, and when we were free of the pier told him to head for the Tippecanoe.

The handful of stars that had brightened against the sky had been a real shock, and I accused myself in severe terms for having left Arthur Holbrook alone. As we swept into the open Glenarm House stood forth from the encircling wood, marked by the bright lights of the terrace where Miss Pat had, with so much composure and in so few words, made comedy of my attempt to shield Helen. In throwing off my coat my hand touched the envelope containing the forged notes which I had thrust into my pocket before dinner, and the contact sobered me; there was still a chance for me to be of use. But at the thought of what might be occurring at the houseboat on the Tippecanoe I forced the launch's speed to the limit. Gillespie still maintained silence, grimly clenching his empty pipe. He now roused himself and bawled at me:

"Did you ever meet the coroner of this county?"

"No!" I shouted.

"Well, you will—coming down! You will blow up in about three minutes."

I did not slow down until we reached Battle Orchard, where it was necessary to feel our way across the shallow channel. Here I shut off the power and paddled with an oar.

As we floated by the island a lantern flashed at the water's edge and disappeared. But my first errand was at the canoe-maker's; the whereabouts of Helen and the Stiletto were questions that must wait.

We were soon creeping along the margin of the second lake seeking the creek, whose intake quickly lay hold of us.

"We'll land just inside, on the west bank, Gillespie." A moment later we jumped out and secured the launch. I wrapped our lantern in Gillespie's coat, and ran up the bank to the path. At the top I turned and spoke to him.

"You'll have to trust me. I don't know what may be happening here, but surely our interests are the same to-night."

He caught me roughly by the arm.

"If this means any injury to Helen—"

"No! It is for her!" And he followed silently at my heels toward Red Gate.

The voices of two men in loud debate rang out sharply upon us through the open windows of the house-boat as we crept down upon the deck. Then followed the sound of blows, and the rattle of furniture knocked about, and as we reached the door a lamp fell with a crash and the place was dark. We seemed to strike matches at the same instant, and as they blazed upon their sticks we looked down upon Arthur Holbrook, who lay sprawling with his arms outflung on the floor, and over him stood his brother with hands clenched, his face twitching.

"I have killed him—I have killed him!" he muttered several times in a low whisper. "I had to do it. There was no other way."

My blood went cold at the thought that we were too late. Gillespie was fumbling about, striking matches, and I was somewhat reassured by the sound of my own voice as I called him.

"There are candles at the side—make a light, Gillespie."

And soon we were taking account of one another in the soft candlelight.

"I must go," said Henry huskily, looking stupidly down upon his brother, who lay quite still, his head resting on his arm.

"You will stay," I said; and I stood beside him while Gillespie filled a pail at the creek and laved Arthur's wrists and temples with cool water. We worked a quarter of an hour before he gave any signs of life; but when he opened his eyes Henry flung himself down in a chair and mopped his forehead.

"He is not dead," he said, grinning foolishly.

"Where is Helen?" I demanded.

"She's safe," he replied cunningly, nodding his head. "I suppose Pat has sent you to take her back. She may go, if you have brought my money." Cunning and greed, and the marks of drink had made his face repulsive. Gillespie got Arthur to his feet a moment later, and I gave him brandy from a flask in the cupboard. His brother's restoration seemed now to amuse Henry.

"It was a mere love-tap. You're tougher than you look, Arthur. It's the simple life down here in the woods. My own nerves are all gone." He turned to me with the air of dominating the situation. "I'm glad you've come, you and our friend of button fame. Rivals, gentlemen? A friendly rivalry for my daughter's hand flatters the house of Holbrook. Between ourselves I favor you, Mr. Donovan; the button-making business is profitable, but damned vulgar. Now, Helen—"

"That will do!"—and I clapped my hand on his shoulder roughly. "I have business with you. Your sister is ready to settle with you; but she wishes to see Arthur first."

"No—no! She must not see him!" He leaped forward and caught hold of me. "She must not see him!"—and his cowardly fear angered me anew.

"You will do, Mr. Holbrook, very much as I tell you in this matter. I intend that your sister shall see her brother Arthur to-night, and time flies. This last play of yours, this flimsy trick of kidnaping, was sprung at a very unfortunate moment. It has delayed the settlement and done a grave injury to your daughter."

"Helen would have it; it was her idea!"

"If you speak of your daughter again in such a way I will break your neck and throw you into the creek!"

He stared a moment, then laughed aloud.

"So you are the one—are you? I really thought it was Buttons."

"I am the one, Mr. Holbrook. And now I am going to take your brother to your sister. She has asked for him, and she is waiting."

Arthur Holbrook came gravely toward us, and I have never been so struck with pity for a man as I was for him. There was a red circle on his brow where Henry's knuckles had cut, but his eyes showed no anger; they were even kind with the tenderness that lies in the eyes of women who have suffered. He advanced a step nearer his brother and spoke slowly and distinctly.

"I Have Killed Him—I Have Killed Him!"

"You have nothing to fear, Henry. I shall tell her nothing."

"But"—Henry glanced uneasily from Gillespie to me—"Gillespie's notes. They are here among you somewhere. You shall not give them to Pat. If she knew—"

"If she knew you wou'd not get a cent," I said, wishing him to know that I knew.

He whirled upon me hotly.

"You tricked Helen to get them, and now, by God! I want them! I want them!" And he struck at me crazily. I knocked his arm away, but he flung himself upon me, clasping me with his arms. I caught his wrists and held him for a moment. I wished to be done with him and off to Glenarm with Arthur; and he wasted time.

"I have that packet you sent Helen to get—I have it—still unopened! Your secret is as safe with me, Mr. Holbrook, as that other secret of yours with your Italian body-guard."

His face went white, then gray, and he would have fallen if I had not kept hold of him.

"Will you not be decent—reasonable—sane—for an hour, till we can present you as an honorable man to your sister? If you will not, your sailor shall deliver you to the law with his own hands. You delay matters—can't you see that we are your friends, that we are trying to protect you, that we are ready to lie to your sister that we may be rid of you?"

I was beside myself with rage and impatient that time must be wasted on him. I did not hear steps on the deck, or Gillespie's quick warning, and I had begun again, still holding Henry Holbrook close to me with one hand.

"We expect to deceive your sister—we will lie to her—lie to her—lie to her—"

"For God's sake, stop!" cried Arthur Holbrook, clutching my arm.

I flung round and faced Miss Pat and Rosalind. They stood for a moment in the doorway; then Miss Pat advanced slowly toward us where we formed a little semi-circle, and as I dropped Henry's wrists the brothers stood side by side. Arthur took a step forward, half murmuring his sister's name; then he drew back and waited, his head bowed, his hands thrust into the side pockets of his coat. In the dead quiet I heard the babble of the creek outside, and when Miss Pat spoke her voice seemed to steal off and mingle with the subdued murmur of the stream.

"Gentlemen, what is it you wish to lie to me about?"

A brave little smile played about Miss Pat's lips. She stood there in the light of the candles, all in white as I had left her on the terrace of Glenarm, in her lace cap, with only a light shawl about her shoulders. I felt that the situation might yet be saved, and I was about to speak when Henry, with some wild notion of justifying himself, broke out stridently:

"Yes; they meant to lie to you! They plotted against me and hounded me when I wished to see you peaceably and to make amends. They have now charged me with murder; they are ready to swear away my honor, my life. I am glad you are here that you may see for yourself how they are against me."

He broke off a little grandly, as though convinced by his own words.

"Yes; father speaks the truth, as Mr. Donovan can tell you!"

I could have sworn that it was Rosalind who spoke; but there by Rosalind's side in the doorway stood Helen. Her head was lifted, and she faced us all with her figure tense, her eyes blazing. Rosalind drew away a little, and I saw Gillespie touch her hand. It was as though a quicker sense than sight had on the instant undeceived him; but he did not look at Rosalind; his eyes were upon the angry girl who was about to speak again. Miss Pat glanced about, and her eyes rested on me.

"Larry, what were the lies you were going to tell me?" she asked, and smiled again.

"They were about father; he wished to involve him in dishonor. But he shall not, he shall not!" cried Helen.

"Is that true, Larry?" asked Miss Pat.

"I have done the best I could," I replied evasively.

Miss Pat scrutinized us all slowly as though studying our faces for the truth. Then she repeated:

"But if either of my said sons shall have been touched by dishonor through his own act, as honor is accounted, reckoned and valued among men—" and ceased abruptly, looking from Arthur to Henry. "What was the truth about Gillespie?" she asked.

And Arthur would have spoken. I saw the word that would have saved his brother formed upon his lips.

Miss Pat alone seemed unmoved; I saw her hand open and shut at her side as she controlled herself, but her face was calm and her voice was steady when she turned appealingly to the canoe-maker.

"What is the truth, Arthur?" she asked, quietly.

"Why go into this now? Why not let bygones be bygones?"—and for a moment I thought I had checked the swift current. It was Helen I wished to save now, from herself, from the avalanche she seemed doomed to bring down upon her head.

"I will hear what you have to say, Arthur," said Miss Pat; and I knew that there was no arresting the tide. I snatched out the sealed envelope and turned with it to Arthur Holbrook; and he took it into his hands and turned it over quietly, though his hands trembled.

"Tell me the truth, gentlemen!"—and Miss Pat's voice thrilled now with anger.

Plainfield in .... The Olden Days.

Re-printed from The Weekly Constitutionalist

August 4, 1870.

St. Stephen's School, Milburn, N. J., re-opens for the Autumn term on First Tuesday in September. Warden, Rev. W. B. Morrow, Head Master, Mr. Fred W. Woods, Assistant Teacher, Miss Sarah A. Bailey.—This school prepares boys for college or business life and completes the education of girls. In addition to a sound English and Classical training, instruction is given in the Modern Languages—French, German, Spanish and Italian. Send for circular to Rev. W. B. Morrow, Milburn, N. J.

By reference to advertisement in another column it will be seen that ould old friend, J. F. G. Frazer, has taken the agency for the sale of Rods for the New Jersey Lighting Rod Company. This Company guarantee to sell a cheaper and better rod than any other company.—Those in want of a superior rod will do well to call in Mr. Frazer.

We learn that friend Thomas J. Harold, Mosaic Block and Toy Manufacturer at New Providence, N. J. (formerly of the firm of Harold Bros. of this City), had two of his fingers on his right hand cut off by a circular saw last week.

Base Ball.—The Haymaker baseball club of this city made a visit to Fanwood on July 30th, to play a game of ball with the Excelsior baseball club of Fanwood, and defeated them by a score of 30 to 25, after a very exciting game.

Mr. Wm. Hoff would inform the citizens of this City that he will deliver fresh fish to the residences of customers every Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

A number of citizens of Somerset Co. recently held a meeting at Somerville, and resolved to re-organize their Agricultural Society. They propose to hold a fair this fall which "will be no more horserace, but an agricultural display of the products of the soil," an "exhibition of the handiwork of the ladies," and a fine show of the stock of every description in the county.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

An Orator.

Mr. James E. Martine, of New Jersey, is the champion orator of our glorious Union, if we shall eliminate the "Peerless One" from the calculation. Mr. Martine is the personal friend and political follower of Mr. Bryan, and most of his eloquence has been contributed to promote the political fortunes of "the matchless."

It appears that our Jersey Demosthenes has delivered 4,105 stump speeches and was thirteen times a candidate for office—for the legislature four times, for State Senator three times, twice for Congress, once for sheriff, once for mayor, once for council, and once for United States Senator—for all of which he was disastrously defeated. The scurrilous are wont to rail at him and cite him as a horrible example of failure; but the Hon. Martine indigantly denies the slander and points with pride to Horace Greeley and seventeen-lear-locust 1872, when he was triumphantly chosen a member of the city council of the town of Plainfield.

And such is often the fate of one who is diligent to cast pearls before swine. Mr. Bryan himself, who is, perhaps, the one orator, living or dead, who has made more speeches than our Jersey friend, is numbered among the vanquished, and failure is writ against his name. Indeed, history is full of examples to show that oratory is a fatal gift.

The inimitable Spence Dabney, fit companion of Proctor Knott, Tom Ochiltree, Bill Travis, John Allen, and others of that ilk, was a magnificent orator. He was an Apollo for grace and manly port: his voice was grand to roar as the lion and dulcet to coo as the dove. His attitudes and gestures and facial expressions were Garrick, Kean, and Booth combined, his enthusiasm was that of another Rienzi, while his command of language was as limitless as the dictionary.

But Spence sadly admitted that nature had denied him one gift—he was without ideas, and that was what kept him out of Congress. Fortunately, Spence discovered the defect in time, and retired from the stump early in life to become the best reconteur Kentucky, the home of orators, ever produced.—Washington, D. C., Post.

LITERARY

Perhaps the most noticeable feature of the June Woman's Home Companion is the wealth of fiction. There are ten stories in this issue—not heavy, psychological diagnoses of world-worn minds, but breezy stories of love and fun that are suitable to the season. Among the writers in this issue are Edward Everett Hale, Maude Radford Warren, Cyrus Townsend Brady, Marion Hamilton Carter, Mary Hastings Ernestine Winchell, Georgia Wood Pangborn, Frederick M. Smith, Marion Hill, Annie Hamilton Donnell and Rosa Naomi Scott.

The June National Magazine, of Boston, meets the irresistible desire for good stirring fiction, to follow up the good health that comes after the sulphur and molasses of the spring time.

In all the winsomeness of the graduate girl, the National appears on the news stands with one of Blumenthal's covers, redolent of the beauty and passion of early summer tide. The sentiment of the month is toasted in a tribute to the "spirit of Bunker Hill."

The June number of Recreation, now on sale by all newsdealers, is a great, big special vacation number, which decsribes in detail a score or more possible vacations from Maine to Oregon. From cover to cover, this is the most sumptuously illustrated issue which this magazine has ever published. Besides the great mass of valuable vacation information, June Recreation contains a notable article by Ralph D. Paine on famous college athletes who have won prominence as efficient public servants.

I know of one conspicuous example of what may be done by men of inherited fortune. A young man of ample means who did not wish to engage in any business pursuit thoroughly educated himself here and abroad at the universities. He then made himself master of a technical pursuit by the study of forestry abroad. After a year or two of professional work he relinquished it to accept a responsible position in the government, where he is now rendering great and highly appreciated service in working out the best policy for conserving our forests and other natural resources.—From A. Barton Hepburn's "The American Business Man" in the June Century.

The June number of Scribner's Magazine contains many interesting pictures. There are four beautiful full pages in color representing "Days a-Fishing"—Trout, Black Bass, Salmon and Muskallonge. There is also a very elaborate illustrated article on Ingres by Frank Fowler, who considers him one of the very great portrait painters of the world. H. G. Dwight, who was wounded in the recent Revolution in Turkey, has a most entertaining description of "A Turkish Village" where he lives, near Constantinople. From this village he was going by boat to the city to see the fighting when he was hit by a spent bullet.

In the June number of "Success Magazine" Gilson Gardner tells a fable of a price of cheese, a gander and a fox and likens it to a certain phases of the political situation. Charles Samuel Tator, writes of "The Fate of Old Ministers" and Charlotte Perkins Gillman tells how one woman took care of many babies with greater success than tehir own mothers had experienced.

Richard Le Gallenne has never written a more charming conceit than his depiction of the compensations of a poet's life, published in the June Smart Set. Not money, says Mr. Le Gallienne, is the proper pay of a poet, but the communion with the Infinite, the actual living of what some men dream of all their lives, the realization of his mission to translate to men, the messages of the eternal gods. "A tragic, but how lovely and pleasant a calling!"

The Red Book Magazine for June contains, among its numerous splendid short tales, one by William Hamilton Osborne entitled "The Ruling Passion" which is especially worthy of reading. It is ths story of a financier whom Fate simply could not keep from becoming a captain of industry.

"While the wise man is thinking about getting married, the fool has a son born to him," is a Tartar proverb which Prof. W. I. Thomas quotes at the beginning of his interesting article on "Eugenics—the Science of Breeding Men" in the June American Magazine.

THE BATTLE OF THE FUTURE.

The correspondent of the great daily came a little closer. An aide rushed up.

"General," he cried, "the enemy is advancing in force on our left wing!"

The general's frown grew darker, and raising his field glass he peered long and earnestly toward the rear.

"What in Sam Hill is detaining him?" he growled.

"Are you waiting for reinforcements, general?" the correspondent somewhat timidly asked.

"Reenforcements!" thundered the general. "Certainly, not. I'm waiting for the moving picture man, confound him!"

At that moment the runabout bearing the picture machine whirled into position and the battle commenced.—Cleveland Plain Deler.

TO REORGANIZE PARTY

Call Issued for All Loyal Democrats to Meet Wednesday Night.

A STRONG APPEAL IS MADE.

Messrs. Marshall, Beville, McCarthy, Shattle and Ellis Sign the Call.

Planning to rejuvinate local Democracy a call was issued today by prominent members of the party requesting all believers in Jeffersonian principles to gather at the Exempt Firemen's hall on Wednesday night. It is proposed at that time to organize for permanent and effectual work, and all those interested in the supremacy of their party are invited to attend and take an active part.

The call, which is signed by H. W. Marshall, P. J. Reville, John McCarthy, Frank J. Shattle and L. J. Ellis, follows:

The meeting is called for the purpose of effecting a permanent organization of the Democrats and vicinity.

"We appeal to all who desire to see sound Democratic principles prevail to join us in an effort to rehabilitate the Democratic party in these parts. We believe that this can be done if we will strive for it in honest fashion, and let our conduct show to the people that we are not after the spoils of politics, but for popular government in contradistinction to government for the spoilation of the populace, the effect of the policies of the Republican party and the deliberate aim of the leading exponents of its policies; that we stand and work for taxation only for that revenue necessary to an economical administration of the government, as opposed to the Republican party's policy of forcing by taxation every man, woman and child to pay tribute to certain vested interests; that we stand for constitutional government as opposed to "government by construction" according to the caprice of the administration which has characterized all Republican administrations of recent years, and that we stand for personal liberty and home government as opposed to the paternalistic and centralizing tendencies of the Republican party."

FORM AUTOMOBILE CLUB

Dr. F C. Ard Elected President and H. W. Marshall Vice President.

TO PARTICIPATE IN PARADE.

Invitations Sent to All Clubs in State to Join in Charter Day Celebration.

The Painfield Automobile Club was organized at the Park Club last night with nineteen charter members. Ttps were immediately taken to send out invitations to all auto clubs and owners of autos in New Jersey to take part in the parade to be held here, July 6. Much enthusiasm was shown by the autoists in the new organization and it is believed it will be a great success. Efforts will be made to secure a large membership among Plainfield and North Plainfield autoists.

Th se officers were elected: President, Dr. F. C. Ard; vice-president, Harry W. Marshall; treasurer, F. O. Ball; secretary, J. H. Rankin. Committees will be appointed within a short time. The club fixed $5 as the membership fee and it is the opinion that at this reasonable figure a large membership will result.

The new club will figure prominently in the automobile parade to be held in connec ion with the Charter Day celebration.

ROACH VS. PATROLMAN: "COUNT" WAS THIRTY DAYS.

Engaging Patrolman Saffron in a fistic encounter on Park avenue near second street late last night, Victor Roach, of West Second street, showed the results of a scrappy jag to the late pedestrians, after his arrest for jostling a party of women. City Judge Runyon made it "thirty days" at the man's hearing today.

The mill took place on the steps of a near-by bank. Roach, who had considerable liquor on board, had made himself objectionable to a party of women, who, he declared this morning, tried to jostle him off the sidewalk. He reciprocated the alleged attempt more successfully and when the policeman approached, developed a fighting mood. The officer showed himself the better man, after a short set-to, and as victor escorted his prisoner to a cell.

CHARTER DAY REVENUE

More Than $5,000 Has Been Subscribed for Big Demonstration.

MANY NOTABLES ARE INVITED.

Arches and Court of Honor—Carnival to Be a Big Feature—Many Donations Today.

The North Plainfield Council, at a special meeting last night unanimously endorsed a resolution providing that $200 of the borough funds be given as a subscription to the Plainfield-North Plainfield Charter Day celebration, and also provided for a separate subscription of $75 additional to be expended on the borough fire department in pr paration for the big firemen's parade, the feature of the last day of the celebration festivities.

The subscription of $200 is based on the donation by the City Council, and is equally bountiful. The proportion is based on the population, for it is estimated that there are five times as many Plainfielders as there are boroughites. In endorsing the subscription, the borough fathers provided that the dispensation of the fund should be with the approval of Mayor Samuel Townsend, who is joint chairman of the Charter Day citizens' committee with Mayor Fisk.

After a discussion of the part the North Plainfield fire fighters are to take in the firemen's parade, it was decided that some money would be needed to have the department make a representative showing. Accordingly, upon the motion of Councilman J. J. Stahl, chairman of the fire committee, it was voted to devote $75 of the borough funds to "sprucing up" the department, and the money will be expended by the fire committee's approval. Some of it will be used to purchase a new uniform for Fire Chief Haward Woolston, and the balance will be used in "brightening up" the apparatus to be in line, and making some minor repairs which will add to the good appearance of the borough representation.

The borough councilmen also granted a permit to Walter Apgar, a carpenter, for the erection of temporary grandstands on the fireworks grounds on West End avenue for the celebration.

FATHER BOGAN ENJOYS HIS SOJOURN ABROAD

Rev. Bernard M. Bogan, the beloved priest of St. Mary's, who is spending some time abroad to recuperate his health, sends a message to his parishioners through The Daily Press.

Under date of May 31, he writes: "I am charmed with my visit to Gibralter. It is most novel and interesting. I feel very well."

Father Bogan is now at the Eternal City and after the celebration of the American College, of which he is an alumnus, is over, he will make a trip to Switzerland and other parts of the Continent before visiting his native land.

Father Bogan is expected home in September.

"VAGRANTS" IN NEW YORK, BOROUGH BOYS HOME AGAIN

Sent back to their homes in North Plainfi ld by the New York probation officers, George Suydam and Willie James, two boys who "ducked" the borough bluecoats after helping wreck the Applegate barn, were arraigned before Borough Recorder Charles M. Dolliver at the borough court today. The truant pair were picked up by the New York cops Thursday night when they were found sleeping in a doorway down-town, and were turned over to the probation officers as vagrants. Chief Marshal Wiss got in communication with the metropolitan police and secured the boys' release.

The pair, with six other borough boys, were accused of having damaged Applegate's barn, on Stone street. Sentence was suspended on the half dozen at their hearing yesterday morning, but the Recorder took occasion to lecture the vagrant pair when they faced him today. The two culprits were most contrite, of course, and promised to be "good kids" in future. After scoring them heavily for sneaking away to avoid punishment, Mr. Dolliver said he would take them at their word and suspended sentence.

AUTO BUS COMPANY INCORPORATORS MEET.

An enthusiastic meeting was held last night at Duttenhofer's store on Front street at which about twenty subscribers to the stock of the Plainfield Auto Bus Company were present. A discussion as to the kind of vehicle to be used by the new concern resulted in the decision that only new cars of the most modern type pay-as-you-enter variety would be put in service and the number of cars will be increased as the business requires them.

A number of manufacturers have submitted designs and the decision as to the machine to be used and the selection will be left to competent experts in the automobile line. Judge Newcorn prepared the incorporation papers which were unanimously approved by the stockholders.

Another meeting of the stockholders will be held next Friday night at the same place to elect officers and a board of directors who will then decide upon the machines to be purchased. It will require about six weeks to get the cars here after they are ordered.

The points to be covered by the machines of the new company are Plainfield, South Plainfield, Oak Tree and Metuchen.

Today's Cartoon.

As many have suspected, Judge William N. Runyon is responsible for the catchy jingles appearing from day to day beneath the superb cartoons of Plainfield's notables as pictured by The Daily Press cartoonist. As the popular judge is portrayed today, in justice to him we wish to say that the jingle accompanying the sketch is by George O. Stevens, the "Consumer-Rhymster."

TAG DAY NEXT SATURDAY

Three Hundred Workers to Collect Revenue for Baby Camp.

KING'S DAUGHTERS WORK.

Mrs. Anna M. Most to Act as Treasurer—Everybody Will Be Tagged.

The plans for the King's Daughters "Tag Day" next Saturday are developing rapidly, and indications are that it will be a great success. The Plainfield Trust Company has kindly allowed the members of the committee to make its building their headquarters, and Mrs. A. M. Most, the treasurer, with her assistants, will be there all day on the Saturday ready to receive the money as it is brought in by the workers.

There will be over 300 workers, each of whom will carry a package of tags and a box inscribed "Tag Day Box," and those buying tags will place their money in the boxes as fast as the boxes are filled they will be taken to Mrs. Most at the Trust Company building and exchanged for new boxes. People will be tagged at the railroad stations and clubs, in the stores and on the streets in the business section of the city. The work downtown will be done by boys, a number of whom have volunteered to assist their mothers and sisters in the work of tagging everybody in Plainfield. There will also be large tags for houses, and those anxious for the success of Tag Day, you cannot only wear a tag themselves, but put one on their house, automobile, horse and carriage and even your dog!

Tag Days have become very popular all over the country, and deservedly so for this is really the only way by which everyone can have a share in the work of a general charity. At the tag day in Albany, Mrs. Hughes, the wife of the Governor, went aboard the trains at the depot, tagging people for the Albany Hospital.

The King's Daughters camp for sick children will open soon, and will probably care for at least 400 children during the summer. B sides sick children four or five ailing women are usually there, generally women with young babies. Last summer the doctors told the King's Daughters that the lives of a number of children were actually saved by being taken to the camp for a few weeks.

The Day Nursery is the chief dependence of a number of poor women, who but for it would not know where to turn for a safe shelter for their children while they are out working all day. Sometimes there are four or five young babies at th nursery for the day, besides 15 or 20 children from one to five years old.

The city nurse, whose salary is paid by the King's Daughters, is an enthusiastic young woman, whose work is of greatest assistance to the doctors when they are called in to attend some poor person dangerously ill, whose family have no knowledge of nursing themselves, and no money to pay for having it done. Last year the city nurse made over 1,700 vists as against 800 the year before, and if the need goes on increasing, the King's Daughters will either have to employ an additional nurse or let some of the work go.

All who are in sympathy with this work, and realize how much it means to the poor of the city, will be only too willing to pay a good price for a King's Daughters tag on Saturday.

KLEEN, THE HYPNOTIST, IS DUE HERE NEXT WEEK.

Kleen, the Hypnotist, who will appear at the Plainfield theatre next week, is considered the best in his line. This is his first appearance in the east as he has been playing all the princpal houses and cities in the west, including Chicago, St. Louis, Cincinnati. He uses about fifteen subjects and makes them do "everything under the sun." While some of them are playing ball the rest think they are ballooning, sailing, etc. Kleen's performance lasts about an hour and is a laugh all the way through.

Dennis Mullen and Co. is also on the bill, his act which is called "The Janitor" is a sure cure for the blues and is a scream from start to finish. Mullen who has been appearing in New York for the past three weeks is now on his way to the Pacific coast with his act. Palmer and Lewis, the travesty stars, have a great sketch called "Spangles." The act is said to be the best of its kind in vaudeville. Others on the bill are Caite Brothers, expert dancers, and La Petite Lulu, a Parisian dancer.

EQUITABLE ASSESSMENTS

Borough Mayor's Committee to Work With Tax Assessor.

CHARLES. W. M'CUTCHEN HEAD.

Mayor Townsend Expresses His Reason for Action—Plan Is Approved.

To prevent the borough of North Plainfield the necessity of "going down in its own pocket" for funds to meet the State and County tax again this year, Mayor Samuel Townsend has arranged to have a committee of prominent borough property owners confer with Tax Assessor Justus H. Cooley and go over the North Plainfield property valuations in an endeavor to secure an equitable assessment. Because of a reduction in the valuations last year, after the tax rate had been fixed, there was a loss of $1,649.79 to the borough.

The resolution, which was framed by Mayor Townsend, provides for the personnel of this committee as follows: C. W. McCutchen, chairman; W. J. Buttfield, George T. Rogers, John P. Emmons, A. C. Pleydell, W. J. Conroy, Herman Schwed, Robert Clark, Jr., and Louis K. Hyde.

"The taxable valuations of the borough, as made last year," said Mr. Townsend, in explaining the resolution, "showed a marked increase over that of previous years. Afterwards, these valuations were reduced by the amount of $117,842. This reduction was made after the tax rate had been fixed and resulted in the borough being compelled to pay from its general fund, to the State and county, the sum of $1,649.79 more than it would have paid had the reductions been made previous to the fixing of the tax rate.

"With the purpose of guarding against such a contingency for the present year, I have named a committee of citizens and taxpayers to go over the valuations of borough property with a view of securing, if possible, an equitable assessment so that there may be no just cause for complaint.

"The Assessor has expressed his approval of the plan and will be glad to have the advice and assistance of the committee.

"While there is considerable work involved in this undertaking, I have been gratified to find a willingness to co-operate, on the part of those I have selected, which will, I feel certain, be productive of good results.

"If there are citizens of the borough who feel that there is a cause for complaint about their assessments, their course is to go before this committee and the tax assessor and discuss the matter. The committee, I feel sure, will give all such cases careful consideration and cooperate with the property owners for a satisfactory adjustment."

HORSE SHOW'S LAST DAY

FINAL AWARDS ARE MADE.

Hundreds of Out-of-Town People Among Spectators—The Blue Ribbon Winners.

The sixth annual horse show of the Plainfield Riding and Driving Club will close this afternoon with the judging of eighteen classes. The exhibition has been the most successful in its history. When the first-class, 18, for five pairs harness horses were judged at 1:15 this afternoon, there was a large crowd present and it increased rapidly unti' a record-breaking attendance was recorded.

There were three feature events on the card for today. Class 24, single harness horses in competition for the Plainfield Riding and Driving challenge cup, a leg on which is held by Miss Emily H. Bedford's Hildred and also by Sandy Point Farm's Phoebe Watton, Hildred and J. W. Harriman's champion Nala will be brought together in this class.

Another big event will be that for the championship for saddle horses, in which Miss Bedford's, Miss Ann will be one of the chief contestants. Post entries will be received in this event. Then there will be the competition for the Watchung Hunt Club cup, for members of the club. This must be won three times before becoming winner's property. Apple Jack, Grand Slam and Crusher each have won a leg on this cup.

Still another notable event will be that for four-in-hands in which Paul A. Sorg and George Watson have entered. The show will close with the fire department class open entries from New Jersey and is always a pleasing finish to the exhibition.

Five consecutive hours of clear weather contributed largely to the success of the second day's performances at the Riding and Driving Club's park yesterday and a much increased attendance enlivened the afternoon's proceedings. Many well known horse lovers from Pennsylvania, New York and other States were present with their wives and families, all intensely interested in the fortunes of their favorites. The big event of the day was the contest for the "Dr. Selwonk" challenge cup offered by Reginald Vanderbilt, for horses shown in single harness. J. W. Harriman turned the tables on Paul A. Sorg and won with his handsome bay horse "Nala." However Mr. Sorg won three blues to Mr. Harriman's two and he also captured two reds, a yellow and three white ribbons. Among the other winners were Miss Emily H. Bedford, Miss Mabel B. Hooley and Mrs. Sophie D. Gummey and Miss Bernice Holloway.

The first event on the list furnished a pretty contest between Mrs. Sophie D. Gummey's pair, "Babette" and "Babinette," and Tonzo Sauvage's "Grand Duke" and "Lord Nelson," for a cup offered by Louis K. Hyde, which was won by Mrs. Gummey, after a second trial. The second event was almost as close, being practically a duel between Richard Delafield's "Energy" and John T. Spratley's "Laundry Girl," with the blue going to the latter. George D. King's "Little King" was a close third.

The contest in class 7, third on the program, resulted in the disqualification of Paul A. Sorg's "Dignity" and "Respect," which won the Thos. W. Lawson challenge cup on Thursday. The spectators were slightly amazed at this contretempts, but immediately became interested in the pair sent into the ring by Mrs. H. S. Bowen, which though five minutes late in entering the gate won the blue ribbon. George Watson's pair "Lady Suffolk" and "The Laird" captured the red.

In class 29, fifth on the list, Mr. Sorg won the blue and yellow ribbons with "Vanity Fair" and "Tantalize" respectively, while R. P. McGrann, of Lancaster, Pa., caught the red with "Young Mountaineer."

The most attractive event of the day was the "Dr. Selwonk" challenge cup which, as expected, went to Mr. Harriman's "Nala" with Mr. Sorg's roan gelding "Jim Selby," second. Mr. Sorg's other entry in this event won the white ribbon. Only two ribbons were awarded in class 35 for saddle horses, the blue being given to Joseph Larocque's "Somerset" and the red to "Black Jack" owned by Charles Holloway, of Bay Side, N. Y. Mr. Sorg scored again, however, in the next event—class 19, for tandems, by winning the blue with "Tease" and "Vanity Fair." Only three of the teams en-

The annual report of Probation Officer John B. Osbourn, submitted Thursday, shows that seventy-four boys have been under his supervision during the past year and only two have violated their probation. The greatest number were committed for gambling. Mr. Osbourn thinks there should be a law forbidding children under sixteen to be on the streets after a certain hour at night unless accompanied by parent or guardian. He says that many of the crimes and downfalls of both boys and girls are committed when the shades of night have fallen.

Thousands Interested In Public Service

PUBLIC SERVICE, in its weekly talks, has been telling its patrons a great many things about its troubles, its accomplishments and its hopes for the future, but it has had little to say about itself as an organization.

Any man who gives the matter a thought must realize that it takes a pretty big company to provide street car transportation, gas and electric service to 1,750,000 persons spread over eleven counties of the State. Most men, however, are so engrossed in their own affairs these busy days that they have little time to give thought to things which do not directly concern them.

Because of this fact it is doubtful if many patrons of PUBLIC SERVICE realize that there are thousands and thousands of persons financially interested in the company's efforts to give service and develop its business. Some of these thousands have large sums of money invested; others have put their small savings into the stock and securites for which PUBLIC SERVICE stands.

MORE THAN 5,000 STOCKHOLDERS.

All told there are 5,225 stockholders in PUBLIC SERVICE CORPORATION and its underlying companies, every one of whom has a direct personal interest in the company's affairs. And of these 5,225 stockholders the stock books show that 3,550 are residents of New Jersey.

PUBLIC SERVICE, it will be seen, is thoroughly a New Jersey corporation. It obtained its charter from the State, it conducts its business in the State and sixty-eight per cent. of the interested stockholders are residents of the State.

These figures refer to stockholders only. The securities of the underlying companies are even more widely distributed than are the stocks. The total number of bondholders runs well up into the thousands.

WHERE THE SECURITIES ARE.

PUBLIC SERVICE and its underlying securities are held in one way or another by nearly every financial institution in New Jersey. They are the substance of scores of estates; they bespeak the prudence of hundreds of investors and they represent the savings of thousands of the thrifty.

It is very evident from the foregoing facts that PUBLIC SERVICE is not a close corporation, in the sense that only a few persons are vitally concerned in its welfare. On the contrary, the number of those interested is legion.. If you are not personally interested, your neighbor is, perhaps, and in a broad sense the company's interests are closely interwoven with the interests of the people, the municipality and the State.

SUMMIT TO ELIZABETH BY TROLLEY, JUNE 19.

According to Superintendent William H. Swain, of the Morris County Traction Company at Summit, the trolley line between Summit and Elizabeth will be in operation Saturday, June 19. Since March 1 a force of men has been at work every day, including Sundays, excavating and filling for the double tracks from a point just east of Cherry lane, in Union, to Morris avenue, Elizabeth, a distance of about 3,000 feet.

For five weeks a steam shovel, which excavated on an average of 200 yards of earth a day, has been at work. More than 9,000 yards of excavating has been done and 7,000 yards of rock has been removed. Under the Lehigh Valley Railroad bridge a cut averaging sixteen feet has been made, while the average depth has been about nine feet. As the work of building the roadbed has progressed linemen have followed, erecting poles and stringing the trolley wire.

By an arrangement with the Public Service Company, the Morris County Company's cars will be run over the Public Service line from the connecting point of the two lines in Morris avenue, Elizabeth, to the railroad station in that city. The Morris County cars will be run every half hour. Passengers from Summit or Millburn will be transferred from the Summit-Maplewood cars to those running to Elizabeth at the church corner in Springfield.

The fare between Summit and Elizabeth will be fifteen cents. Two cars will be run over the line, a turn-out being used near the Elizabeth Town Water Works in Union. Work on connecting this line of travel ceased in 1907, when the financial depression seriously affected the old Morris County Traction Company.

ANOTHER ROW BECAUSE OF SPRING LAKE FIRE.

The destruction by fire of the "Breakers" Hotel at Spring Lake, Wednesday night, seems to have caused more or less trouble all along the coast, and Belmar joined in the mixup Thursday night, when Mayor Coleman A. Gibb had Fire Chief Mount summoned before Justice of the Peace Milo H. Crego to answer to the charge of taking the fire apparatus out of town limits without permission of the Mayor.

Complaint was made by the Chief Executive of the town, as without one Justice Crego refused to take any action against Chief Mount, and declared yesterday morning that in all probability the matter would be dropped. The night of the Spring Lake fire Chief Mount hurried to the blaze with an engine and a hose cart. He should have had permission from either the Mayor, the chief engineer or the chairman of the apparatus committee.

Mount overlooked the Mayor, however, for Mount is the incumbent of the other three offices, and he had his own permission. This is the second squabble indirectly occasioned by the "Breakers'" fire, two members of the Bradley Beach department being arrested under charges of assault on their chief because he refused to let them take the apparatus to Spring Lake to join in the fire-fighting.

It was declared yesterday by former Senator Oliver H. Brown, who owns ninety per cent. of the stock in the "Breakers" company, that there would be no new hotel erected upon the site of the old one, as far as he was concerned. The hotel was recently refused a license by Judge John E. Foster.

BARRED FROM ISLAND BEACH.

Island Beach, a favorite spot for campers, at the mouth of the Shrewsbury River and a short distance north of Highlands, is no longer to be a public place of recreation. It is owned by the government and is part of the Sandy Hook reservation, although separated from the peninsular by a narrow tributary of the river.

The soldiers at Sandy Hook, acting under orders from the War Department, have been told to keep all persons off the island. It is said that the government has leased the place to a firm of speculators, who expect to lease the island to campers. The lease is for twenty years. For many years the island has been used by summer campers, many of whom went down every season from New York, Jersey City, Newark and other cities. There is good fishing and clamming along the shores and the island is peculiarly adapted for camping.

Colt Causes Man's Injury.

While driving a colt near Whitehouse Thursday afternoon, Benjamin V. Dubois, of Freehold, was thrown from the wagon and his right leg fractured just above the ankle. Mr. Dubois was there on a visit to his daughter, Mrs. George Stillwell, Jr., and after dinner hitched up one of the colts on the farm to give it some exercise. When nearing home from the drive the colt became frightened and dashed to one side of the road, throwing Mr. Dubois from the vehicle. He is about sixty years old. He was brought to Muhlenberg Hospital yesterday morning for treatment.

Plainfield in .... The Olden Days.

Re-printed from The Weekly Constitutionalist

August 25, 1870.

Our hearty thanks are tendered our worthy friend, S. C. Ryder, for his generous present of a fine lot of pears, peaches and corn, which we found awaiting our arrival at our office one morning last week. Our better half pronounced the pears and peaches excellent for preserving.

One day last week the keepers of the Essex County Jail were getting in coal, and carelessly left the gates open and ungarded, which led to where prisoners were confined. Two, Manley King and Henry Smith, intimidated the workmen, walked off and have not been recaptured.

A Newark widow recently found in the coat pocket of her deceased husband a book showing that he had placed in a savings bank of that city some $500, of which she hod no previous knowledge.—As the woman was in very straightened circumstances, the discovery made, proved to be a very agreeable one.

We found in our office this morning a mammoth melon left by our friend, Lewis Dunham, of New Brooklyn. It is an annual habit of his, and we likt it.—The weight of the monster is (or was, as none of our readers will probably see or taste it), 30 lbs. Many thanks, "Daddy."

W. E. Holmes, who formerly kept the "Adriatic" (a name however of the past, as Walker's Market now occupies every inch of the old place), has taken the Jersey Hitel in Courtlandt Street. Any of his friends in Plainfield, passing a few days in New York, would do well to register there, as he is a good landlord as well as a good fellow, and "Don't forget it."

Hon. J. T. Bird has our thanks for sending us a very useful compendium entitled "a Hand Book for Politice for 1870." It is one of the very few papmhlets of its kind, issued by the government, that is good for anything.

The annual parade of the Plainfield Fire Department has been postponed until Thursday, September 15th, by order of the Board.

On a charge of selling cocaine, Mrs. Mary James, an aged negress, was Thursday held under $500 bail by Recorder Stackhouse in Camden.

N. Y. AMUSEMENTS.

E. H. Sothern and Miss Julia Marlowe, Broadway's two greatest stars, appearing in "The Merchant of Venice" this week at the Academy of Music, will be seen at the same popular playhouse, Fourteenth street and Irving place, next week in "Twelfth Night" and in "The Taming of the Shrew." An extra matinee will be given next Friday, "Romeo and Juliet" being the production by special request of those who have already seen the two great players in this Shakespearian performance in the Bard's great tragedy during the present run. There will also be the regular matinees on Wednesday and Saturday at 2 o'clock. The evening performances begin at 8 o'clock. The prices range from twenty-five cents to $1.50.

With "everything new but the ocean," Greater Dreamland, Coney Island's favorite amusement park, has started on its season. Originally a beautiful playground right on the beach of the broad Atlantic, the management has transformed it into a still more enchanting place, with more novelties, more surprises and more features than have ever been known on the Island. From the gateways on Surf avenue to the ocean front, everything is new and Greater Dreamland is now a golden, rainbow city basking in the near-summer sun. From the very start of its season this park has taken a firm and lasting hold upon popularity and prosperity. It's broad avenues, its beach, its promenade, its gaily-hued and bunting-bedecked buildings being crowded every day and night. The largest free show ever given in a park is the pre-eminent feature this season. In a ring over the lagoon, where the boats come shooting from the chutes, a big circus is given twice a day and night, entirely free, and where it can be viewed from tete-a-tete settees and little tables beneath a wistaria shaded arbor. The Dreamland Band, of 80 pieces, gives continuous concerts, while in the new ballroom, the largest dancing space in the world, there is a fine orchestra with well-known soloists. Among the many attractions in Greater Dreamland are Bostock's Arena, with new and startling animal acts; "Creation's Fall of Man," with its wonderfully impressive scenes; the Village of Bontoc Head Hunters, directly from the Philippine Islands. In the chutes, the scent of Mount Blanc, the crossing of "The Great Divide," the streets of Venice, Hell Gate and the Scenic Railway new and sensational rides with lots of fun and surprises are supplied. Sorcho's deep-sea divers, the Electric Dairy Farm, "A Night in Paris," "Wonderland," "The Human Butterfly," "Beautiful Medolia," Blake's Dog and Pony Circus and a host of other attractions are among the multitude of new things at Greater Dreamland. Visitors to the park this year will find an unending tour of new things. The most elaborate changes have been made at a most expensive layout, and the wisdom of the management is shown in the response of Manhattan and its suburbs have made by the crowds they are sending to the city white and golden by the sea.

The battle scene in the Maude Adams performance of "Joan of Arc" in The Stadium of Harvard College, on the night of June 22nd, will, in itself, last from twenty-five minutes to half an hour. Several actual tactical battlefield movements—taken from authoritative war-paintings—will be used as the basis for the conflict between the English and the French troops in the battle scene. Most of these manoeuvers will be taken from the famous paintings of Joan of Arc's victory-at-arms by Moutlet de Monvel. But the idea for one of the most striking tableaux is taken from Meissonier's celebrated canvas, called "1807," where Napoleon is shown, mounted on a horse that stands upon the brow of a hill, with the cavalry charging in the plain before him. Joan of Arc will be similarly represented in the principal moment of the battle scene in The Stadium performance. The brow of the hill will be at the spectators' left rear. And Miss Adams, as Joan, will be seen clearly outlined against the sky, mounted on the traditional white horse, and overlooking the armies in conflict on the plain below.

"HOT DOG MAN" FINED FOR BEATING A BOY

Victor Miller, who is an assistant "hot dog" dispenser at a stand just outside the carnival grounds, had to pay a five-dollar fine at the city court this morning because he mistook twelve-year-old Willie Blunt, a messenger boy, for one of a party of tormentors and "beat him up" as he passed his stand Tuesday night. Blunt, who is about half teh size of Miller, said that as he left the carnival grounds Miller rushat him and struck him a blow with his first, knocking him down. Miller said that he had been plagued by a gang of boys about Blunt's size and told how they had pelted him and the "animal exhibit" with sticks and stones. He said he was pretty mad and when Blunt came along, thought he recognized him as one of his tormentors. Blunt said he hadn't bothered the man at all, but testified that he has a "powerful right."

TRINITY'S CLASSES FETE IS SUCCESSFUL

The two night's fete of the "Willing Workers" and "Loyal Band" classes of Trinity Reformed church Sunday-school at Tier's lake house, came to a close last night and was a financial as well as a social success. Upward of 350 people patronized the affair which assured the members of a goodly increase to the treasury funds. Candy, cake and cream were sold in great quantities.

Music, furnished by the orchestra made up of pupils of Harry W. Weber, of the National School of Music, was hugely enjoyed.

Those who had charge of the candy table were: Mr. Edgar Sheppard and Miss Cora Miller. Mrs. R. V. Kinney, Mrs. H. P. Seader and Mrs. Chauncey F. Colthar had the cake table. Mrs. Lafayette Rosenstiehl, Mrs. O Woolley, Mrs. Hansen, Miss Charlotte Wilson and Mrs. Albert Baker, of the Willing Workers, and Mrs. Wm. J. Trembath, Mrs. G. Ross, Mrs. Chauncey F. Colthar and Mrs. Wm. Wyman, all of the Loyal Band, did much to make the affair a success as did the other members of the two classes who acted as waitresses. Horace J. Martin, Sr., is the teacher of the Willing Workers and Henry P. Seader instructor of the Loyal Band.

tered appeared of the six entries, and in the next event E. C. Rich had a walk-over as he had no opponents to his two entries in class 3 for roadsters.

Class 10 for harness horses, shown before a lady's phaeton, with ladies to drive produced the prettiest contest of the afternoon. It developed into a two-horse affair between Mr. Sorg's "Manhattan," driven by Mrs. Sorg and Mr. McGrann's "Peter Pan" driven by Mrs. McGrann. After a second trial the judges decided in favor of Mr. Sorg's "Manhattan" amid great applause from every part of the grounds. The beautiful gowns worn by the ladies and the fine appointments added to the attractiveness of this exhibition.

Miss Emily H. Bedford's win in class 33 for saddle horses was a most popular one judging by the applause that greeted the placing of the blue ribbon on her handsome mare "Miss Ann." This was another of the contests in which extra trials were necessary and much more than the usual time was consumed in reaching a decision. Rufus L. Patterson's "Durham" was the contender and he was a hard horse to beat.

Class 45, hunters and jumpers, afforded the most excitement of any of the events. Ladies were the riders and the result was a spirited contest ending in a surprise. On form Miss Hooley's "Crusher" looked to have the blue as good as won, but Clarence E. Sherin's "Interpreter" with Mrs. Belle Beach-Bain up, romped away with the prize leaving the red to be won by "Crusher." Miss Bryce, on Thos. J. Feroe's "Altomont" took third and Chas. W. Fish's "Stone Wall" fourth. Miss Hooley's horsemanship evoked admiration and her plucky attempts to coax "Apple Jack" over the bars were applaud d to the echo. When she rode "Crusher" to victory in the final event the enthusiastic audience broke out into cheers. There is no doubt that this was the most deserved applause of the session.

Among those present yesterday afternoon were Mrs. Elleo Sears, Mrs. Richard McGrann, Alexander Brown, Charles Fells, H. D. Halloway and George Willing, all of Philadelphia; Julian Keith, War nton, Va.; Mrs. H. J. Hemans and Miss Katherine Shaw, New York; Mrs. Esther Waterman, Bridgeport, Conn.; John A. Savings and Checking Account

"There are certain persons who can afford to have a savings bank account only, such as the laborer or the artisan. These men pay for the necessities of life—that is, rent, food and clothes with cash. The surplus they put into a savings bank for a rainy day or as a nucleus for a home.

"On the other hand, a clerk, teacher, secretary, salesman or housekeeper, who has to pay out a certain sum of money every month, can easily have a checking account. The fact that a man or woman has a checking account need not shut out the possibility of having a savings-bank account, too. One does not interfere with the other. The savings account is worth while if it only attracts a few dollars each month. Money thus put away works all the time, and is a reserve to fall back upon in case of emergency. There are many well-to-do persons who have big checking accounts who also maintain accounts in savings-banks. Some keep them for their children."—Saturday Evening Post.

TO USE AN OIL ON SOMERSET STREET

North Plainfield, profiting by the experiments of the city street committee, will use an oil dust-killer on Somerset street, and the work of spreading the oil will be begun as soon as a process is decided upon. "Safe and sane" in its policy, the borough will only test the dust killer, using it on Somerset street between Lincoln place and the borough line bridge. If the particular "line" adopted proves satisfactory, it will be used on the principal residence streets of the borough.

The resolution to use such a dust killer was unanimously adopted by the borough fathers at the special meeting held last night. Councilman Waldron, chairman of the street committee, will have the say as to what process is to be used, and will confer with several of the firms dealing in dust killing processes.

Atlantic City councilmen have joined in a movement for the establishment of a detention-room at the city hall, where arrested women and children can be kept until taken before minor courts. A QUEER INTERPRETATION OF BRIDGE LAW.

A worthy boranet was playing a rubber of bridge with three ladies. One of the opponents dealt, but before she had time to make any declaration the baronet's partner declared "No trumps." Then came the question as to what was to be done. None of the party had the vaguest notion on the subject, so Sir James was deputed to look up the rule. He obtained a copy of the "Laws of Bridge," and studied it with great care for some five minutes. Then he shut up the book with an air of conscious triumph, saying:

"You can go on playing, ladies. The law on the subject is quite clear, 'A declaration once made cannot be altered.'" The game was continued on those lines, but it was, to say the least of it, a somewhat pecilar interpretation of the laws.—From "Gossip of the Card Room," in the June Strand Magazine.

Ask High Price for Land.

Property owners effected by shift in the road at Seabright to get rid of two dangerous railroad crossings, and the commissioners appointed by the court to lay out the road and condemn property, failed to agree yesterday on the price. The property owners, thirteen in number, owning 2,000 feet, wanted $20 per foot, or $40,000. H. H. Wainright, counsel for the board, said that he had made one property owners an offer of $4 per foot, which he thought would be a fair price. The commissioners adjourned to Saturday, June 19, at which time testimony will be taken.

TIME IS THE TEST.

The Testimony of Plainfield Stands the Test.

The test of time is what tells the tale. The public soon finds out when misrepresentations are made, and merit alone will stand the test of time.

Plainfield people appreciate merit, any many months ago local citizens publicly endorse Doan's Kidney Pills; they do so still. Would a citizen make the statement which follows unless convinced that the article was just as represented? A cure that lasts is the kind that every sufferer from kidney ills is looking for.

Mrs. J. C. Manchester, 120 Lafayette place, Plainfield, N. J., says: "I was a sufferer from kidney and bladder trouble for a long time. I doctored with physicians but failed to be cured and in 1905 when I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised, I made up my mind to give them a trial. Good results followed their use and my kidneys and bladder were soon restored to a healthy condition. I believe my cure is a permanent one and I will always give Doan's Kidney Pills my endorsement when an opportunity occurs."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.
